Suggestion in England is that the arms program should be carried out with more energy and less profit, and as suggestions go that one has its points.

Whether it means anything or not we do not know, but the report of the Bren gun inquiry is going to be released on Friday, the 13th.

The death of Senator Casgrain in his 83rd year leaves only two members in the Upper Chamber who were named by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. Raoul Dandurand and Hon. Joseph Wilson.

It is hard enough to understand why a driver is allowed to take a car on the road without any insurance. He can damage the car of another driver and then say he has no insurance and no money. And trying to collect from such an individual is likely to result in even greater loss.

Grace Moore, the U.S. singer, on arriving in New York, began talking again about the time she curtsied to the Duchess of Windsor and said she had no apologies to make. We wish this gal would understand that people do not care a hoot whether she curtsied or stood on her head.

Governor Graves of Alabama started a plan in 1927 of allowing convicts to go home for Christmas holidays on the pledge they would return at a given time. First year only one man failed to come back. This year when 603 should have returned there were 23 missing and it looks as though the few who could not be trusted would spoil the favor for the whole prison population.

THE CHINA DISHES

(By A.R.K.)

¶ I went out to my Uncle Jed's and stopped with them to have my tea, and they were glad as how I come and made things pleasant there for me.

¶ And Jed and I we talked a spell, his wife bein' busy all the time, and kitchen smells that come to me told things be farin' pretty fine.

¶ So when we sat down there to eat I felt touched up with modest glee, for she had gone and spread about the Sunday dishes there for me.

¶ That's when I know that I'm well used, a token of respect it be, that on a week-day one should go and use the china set for tea.

¶ There's some what welcomes you offhand and others make you feel at home, and now and then a person has a longing to be left alone.

¶ But out at Uncle Jed's I know the china set is kept on view, it is not used much through the week, nor does it bear its weight of stew.

¶ It's when the minister comes in the china set comes out for tea, that's why I felt quite pleased indeed when it come out to honor me.

The Trouble Is On The Farm

Editor, Examiner:—Sir, despite the fact that the 1938 dividends from our secondary industries reached the high level of $313,000,000 and that revenues from our progressive "mineral" energies during the same twelve months are estimated at record levels of above $400,000,000 — it is still true that, as these words are written approximately 900,000 Canadians are in receipt of "relief" from federal, provincial or municipal authorities!

How and why is this, Mr. Editor?

My own opinion is that, when all is said and done, the key to our prosperity (and to the world, no less) is "down on the farm." When the agricultural industry was moving along "on high," all was well on the urban horizon. Since economic nationalism and fear and suspicion have gripped the trading world, things have not been going well in the rural life of this or any other land. It is in these same years (1930-1938) that "unemployment relief" have become household words.

The trend is too plain to be in doubt. I am not interested in the marketing or sales techniques involved; but I do suggest that the idea of denying appropriate prices — i.e., purchasing power — to agriculture is not a brilliant one?

A writer in the editorial columns of your contemporary, The Ottawa Journal, deals with the milk business in London, England, from this same revenue angle and concludes: "So far as can be ascertained, ninety per cent. of British milk is sold liquid. On the average it costs about 9 1-2d. per gallon to produce and is sold by the producers at 10 1-2d. This means that the farmer makes a penny a gallon profit on his enterprise and labor. But it is sold to the public at 2s. 4d a gallon. So that, somehow, between the milkmaid's pail and the consumer's milk bottle, the price is enchanced by nearly eighteen pence a gallon, or roughly about 180 per cent. It seems a lot. For every 100 lb. of milk the farmer sells, someone exacts from the public about £240."

NO GRUMBLING.

Married 50 years ago at Shoal Lake, Manitoba, in 40-below zero weather, Mrs. Frank Dobbs, now a resident of Winnipeg, advises young brides that the secret of a happy wedded life is merely "no grumbling."

Mrs. Dobbs did not complain when her fiance picked a 40-below day for the wedding; she did not grumble when he had to throw pails of cold water over the log house so that by freezing it would form ice to close the chinks. She put up with discomfort and a primitive way of life, and devoted herself to being a good wife.

Mrs. Dobbs, advice is sound. How many homes have been made dens of misery because a husband and wife formed the habit of nagging? A chronic complainer can do more to wreck a home than one possessed of almost any other fault.

SING SING PRISON.

Sing Sing possesses an excellent school, a well-stocked library, religious teachings for all denominations, and a course of lectures dealing with particular active personal experiences, politics, adventure etc.

Almost 70 per cent of the inmates were newsboys when they were younger.

Only 2 of the more than 600 prisoners released from Sing Sing during a recent year had completed their full terms.

"Sing Sing Follies," is a stage revue presented each year by inmates of the prison. The prisoners even play female parts. Songs and dances comprise most of the entertainment.

The electric chair has claimed the lives of over 375 murderers, including four women, at Sing Sing prison since capital punishment was instituted there 48 years ago.

Musical groups play an integral part of prison life at Sing Sing. The band gives regular concerts and plays at summer reviews and athletic meets. The Bugle Corps plays during the marching in to meals. The Glee Club participates in religious services and gives choral concerts.

The pole vault has been barred from athletic meets by authorities at Sing Sing.

Lewis E. Lawes, internationally famed warden of Sing Sing prison, holds the opinion that music plays a profound part in making criminals into useful citizens. Today Sing Sing has a band of seventy-five, an orchestra of twenty, a bugle corps of twenty-two, and a Glee Club of sixty. Almost two hundred of the prison's inmates engage in musical activities, and two thousand others listen to the music these make. There are two "lifers" in the band; the sentences of the others run from two to twenty-five years.

JOB FOR LONE MAN.

The National Trust are seeking a warden for the Calf of Man, an island property some five miles in circumference, and separated from the Isle of Man by a channel a quarter of a mile across. Though the channel is narrow a strong tide runs, and may in rough weather cut off all communication for days on end. Bounded by cliffs rising to 400 ft. in places, the island has a well built farmhouse and some 60 acres of farmland and further rough grazing. There are also two lighthouses one of which has been turned into a residence.

The problem is to find someone who is prepared to make the island his home, to run the farm for his own needs, to look after the property, to watch the bird and plant life, and to collect landing fees.

On this island sanctuary merlins, peregrines, choughs, ravens, guillemots, kittiwakes, puffins, razorbills, and some 70 other species may be observed.—London Times.

JINGLE BELLS.

THE IDEAL CONDITION for a sleighride is a clear, cold night with a moon shining. Then it is that driving into the distance with bells tinkling on the sleighs and everyone talking at once is the most fun.

We have never heard of a sleighride party without a mouth organ. Invariably some budding musician has brought along his harmonica and he leads the singing which, while it may not be good, is very loud.

Boys and girls together on the sleigh sing and perhaps hold hands when no one is looking. It is a safe wager that a great many romances were started in the box sleigh on such a party. If statistics were available and could possibly be gathered, it would undoubtedly be surprising ow many young farmers, boys and girls, made their mutual plans on a sleighride. There's something about the bells, the good company, the trotting team and, of course, the moon.—Lindsay Post.

THINGS SEEM BAD.

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—In the Voice of the People Column, a writer tells of his experience in not procuring a job in his unemployment experience because of his religion. I assume that this man is a non-Catholic and he may make a few bucks from those opposing Mr. Hepburn and Mr. King who may have learned some weaknesses from the leadership of Bennett and Henry the last two premiers of their opposition.

The two old parties have been equally guilty and both have followers of Christianity and they both seek election the same way. After the strife is over they shake hands and confide all their tricks and the loser "today" is the winner "tomorrow".

Of course the leaders do not know of anything wrong. One, of the United Church pays handsomely to the Church and has Protestant support, as such, and holds or his party committeemen hold out the plums so to speak to their now Protestant electorate. Now the Conservative party with Catholic leadership will throw out plums to the Protestant electorate. Do not worry brother, our turn will come again.

Our ministers of the Gospel, I suppose, claim to be ignorant and prefer to stay out of politics, even the Bible speaks of the benefits from their implication or taking part in governments, but if the Scripture, bearing this out was brought to their attention, it would be found in the teachings of the prophets to Israel (and half of them think the Jews alone are Israel), so we'll bide our time till the second coming of our Lord and he will make the crooked ways straight—May he come soon.

Thanking you,

An Israelite by birth.

THE OLD PEOPLE.

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—May I have space in your paper to talk to that Tenth Concession writer for a while. I would like to get his opinion on the majority of us old people who are already fit to meet God at any time. Do you think some of us are getting a big head over the fact that we have already lived so long and some of us are even taking credit to ourselves for having done so. Often enough on birthdays old people talk a good deal; some say they have not used tobacco and others tell about having not used tea as it is bad for them and all such. Just giving out ideas that look like rules for living a long time.

Do you think God's plan for our lives is governed by either tea or tobacco? I for one do not. And what do you think of some of us old people who are so set in our ways and so bent on having things done as we want them that we make every one around us miserable and give our own children nervous indigestion? We are apt to crab and crank and frown at the least provocation. And are we going to give these people a glimpse of heaven through our self will, though doing things which humiliate them and make them look small and mean to the public. A lot of us are doing just that at the present time.

When we pretend to love the Lord and act that way is it any wonder the children turn and say religion is all bosh. I often think that a theatre-going, card-playing sort of person is more pleasing in the sight of God than a professing Christian who is so wrapped up in himself that every one around must be on edge lest something be done which will rile him up or displease him. I hope us old people will all see how miserable we can make people around us by wanting to have everything our own way.

For Jesus came to do and die
Not just to come and go
And have His way.
And could I be like Him I'll stay
Another eighty years.

• No Patriotism In Munitions

The cost of war; a machinegun costs approximately $640. A large tank costs some $80,000. The price of a bombing plane is $100,000. A 37-mm. field-gun reduces a nation's budget some $1,000; each shell fired costs about $15.

An up-to-date cruiser costs some $11,000,000; an aircraft carrier $19,000,000; a large battleship nearly $30,000,000.

There's profit in war; a bullet costs but a fraction of a penny to manufacture, but sells for three cents or more. Each soldier who stops a bullet has made a few cents for some munitions manufacturer.

During the World War German and French steel makers acted upon an unwritten agreement not to drop bombs upon each other's plants. History is now repeating itself. A new steel corporation has recently been formed with combined French and German capital. The company is making bar steel to be used in France's new fortifications on the Western Front.

There were over 100 billion bullets manufactured during the years 1914-1918 — enough to kill the entire warring population many times over.

England, during Queen Elizabeth's reign, developed a thriving gun-making industry, and did a lively export business. Spain bought many of these guns, including a large part of the cast iron guns of her great Armada with which she attempted to subdue England on the high seas. History repeats itself; according to John Gunther, "Pluck a bullet out of the heart of a British boy shot on the Northwest Frontier, and like as not you will find it of British make."

Bullets of stone were used in 1514. Iron bullets are mentioned in the records as first being used in 1550.

Experiments in Russia have shown that a tank can be dropped by parachute from the air.

• They Heard Of It In Berlin

Here is a story so singular that I had better begin by saying that I am completely satisfied of its authenticity; it concerns a family whose name is known to everyone.

A lady in London recently increased the wages of her Austrian (now, of course, German) maid to "x"shillings a week.

The maid, who had mentioned her rise only to a few friends, was almost immediately informed by the German authorities in London that she would be expected to pay them a tax of "y" shillings a week.

She refused, and was told that in that case it would be taken out of her parents in Vienna.

That is not all. The same lady recently answered her telephone and was told to hold the line for Berlin.

The connection was made and a flood of German followed. The speaker was asked to talk more slowly, whereupon he broke into English, and proceeded.

"You have a German maid in your service called—."

That elicited a denial, which at first was disbelieved.

"I have an Austrian girl", the lady explained, "but not of that name."

"Is that true on your word of honor?"

Indignation at the London end.

"And yet you are such-and-such a number?"

"Yes."

"Then I must be mistaken."

An abrupt ring-off.—London Spectator.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And Jesus returned in the power of the Spirit into Galilee: and there went out a fame of him through all the region round about. . . . And he came to Nazareth, where he had been brought up: and, as his custom was, he went into the synagogue on the sabbath day, and stood up to read. And there was delivered unto him the book of the prophet Esaias. And when he had opened the book, he found the place where it was written, The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to heal the broken-hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised, to preach the acceptable year of the Lord.

And he closed the book, and he gave it again to the minister, and sat down. And the eyes of all them that were in the synagogue were fastened on him. And he began to say unto them, This day is this scripture fulfilled in your ears. —Luke iv, 14, 16-21.

ONLY FLAGS AND FACES.

Fifty Canadian communities and perhaps five million Canadians will have a chance to see Royalty on Parade next summer.

There will be flag waving and fleeting glimpsees; speeches and cornerstones; illuminated addresses ad nauseam.

But what about the real Canada —Canada at work?

Are Their Majesties to be allowed to see nothing but faces and flags?

Are they to see nothing of our world famous mines, our great power and newsprint plants, our automobile and other manufacturing establishments?

Cannot Evade It

The Dominion government announces a new bond issue of $50,000,000 for the Canadian National Railways in two maturities running 2 1-2 and 3 per cent. interest.

It is officially explained that $40,600,000 is for the repayment of temporary loans secured by the C.N.R. from the government and the remainder will be applied to the retirement of funded debt of the company maturing in the near future.

No doubt these bonds will be sold. There is plenty of money in the country, but the buying will be done because the government is guaranteeing both the principal and interest. If they were put out as C.N.R. bonds without a government guarantee they would drag on the market with no takers.

It will cost something to issue and place $50,000,000 of bonds, but this may be more than offset by a saving of interest, although details of that are not given. But when it is all over we remain where we were. We pay off one set of creditors by creating another.

It is already stated from Ottawa that there is certain to be a debate about the Bren machine gun inquiry when the House opens, and there will be more debating on the recent trade agreement with United States, which is already in effect. It would be much better if the members would address themselves to a candid discussion of what we must do about our railways, and it would be advisable if members were to discard what is known as the fear of the railway vote when they approach the question. That fear, it should be explained, is that if unification were brought to pass it would create such a large vote it could elect or defeat a government. Plain truth is it could do no such thing.

As things stand at the moment, and as they have stood for a good many years, there is enough in the railway situation to defeat the country, and that is a greater menace than the defeat of a government.

The question is there waiting for parliament when it opens in a few days and it has been there before. Borrowing money and guaranteeing loans is not the answer; it is merely a gesture of expediency.

Keep On Looking For It

Peterborough like other places welcomes new residents, but it does not like them coming with the avowed though unspoken intention of finding a place on the city relief list.

That question was rather thoroughly discussed at the last meeting of the Relief Committee. In the last four years there has been paid out $595,272 in relief and the city's share has been $215,874.

Last year there was an increase over 1937 of nearly $30,000. Part of that was due to the lack of employment caused by the closing of the Auburn plant, and a good deal of it was accounted for by people who had moved in here from outside points and who had finally qualified for relief here.

The statement was made that our relief bill would be cut in two if it had not been for people from other places landing in Peterborough within recent years. It is charged they have come here because the relief allowance is higher than in some of the smaller communities. Also there is the tendency on the part of some who work at times for low wages to come to the conclusion that work is not worth while and they are better off on relief.

The point of having outsiders restrained from moving to the city was discussed at length. One is inclined to admit it would be a sound enough plan if such restriction were made, but the trouble comes in making it. We actually have no law in this country which prevents an individual or a family from moving from one place to another and we do not interfere with the freedom of movement. If a family living in Vancouver decided to go and take up residence in Halifax they could cross all the provinces in between and no one would stop them. So there is that broad and general principle of freedom of movement to contend with in trying to keep our relief list from growing by the addition of families from outside the city. It may be and probably is a fact that families have in the same period left Peterborough and gone on relief elsewhere.

If the council members can find a way to put a check on the movement they will have done a good service. Residence rules have not worked well in the past, and the general feeling "they won't let us starve" has had its way a good many times in ignoring all such regulations.

Our city has made a remarkably good record in paying for its share of relief each year out of the current tax rate and for that reason it is justifiably annoying to find people who have no claim on the city for support adding themselves to the number for whom provision has to be made. The city representatives who go to talk this over with officials at Queen's Park in Toronto may be assured of a good hearing. We would be pleased to believe there is some cure for the situation, but at the moment we doubt it. The search for the remedy has been urged by other municipalities for several years and so far it has not been found. But that is no reason for abandoning the search.

Where a Man Stands

Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett was guest of honor at a banquet in Central United Church at Calgary at which 450 attended. It was part of the arrangements made for saying farewell to Mr. Bennett before he leaves to reside in England. He went to Calgary in 1897, and Calgary West is the riding he represents at Ottawa. Whether Calgary or Ottawa is more like home to him we do not know, but Calgary has been giving plenty of evidence of regard and kind feeling.

At this church function Mr. Bennett said plainly that after looking over the world as it existed today he could not but feel the church had failed. He did not look forward to the time when there would be mass religion because of acceptance of the message of the church must make its way to the individual mind.

Our former premier referred to himself. His desire had been always to be regarded as a good example to the rising generation. In concluding he used these words:

"Whatever else you may say I want you to feel that my influence is cast on the side of righteousness.'

And that we consider was a good thing for the man to say. It is not to be classed as boasting but as evidence of moral courage in the saying of it. Mr. Bennett came out openly and declared where he stood and where he wanted people to know that he stood. Good plain speaking on a point which a good many people seem anxious enough to avoid. It is well that he spoke as he did before saying good-bye to his friends.

Rich—But In Trouble

There is a belief held too generally that riches bring happiness, but the proof is not easy to furnish. Edward G. Acheson of New York is a millionaire, and he has a son who is now under arrest charged with stealing from his father. We learn that it was only after a session with officials that the father allowed the charge to stand, and it is not difficult to understand that he might have trouble enough coming to a decision.

The son of 24 has an allowance of $200 a month from his father, but Acheson, Sr., says the boy has been losing money on horse races and has been spending too much entertaining women to suppers and a general good time. He needed more money and stole from his father's safe. Now he is in jail on a charge laid by the father.

No happiness there, and it looks as though the father had something to do with spoiling the son. There was nothing particular he had to do to earn the $200 per month which he received; it was an allowance; it would come at the first of the month whether the recipient turned a hand or not. Securing the money called for no effort, no planning, no use of muscle or brain and the young man of 24 would have not the least idea of what it meant to earn $200.

No — the money in that family is bringing no happiness. It is more like a nightmare to the father and it has put the son on the wrong set of rails.

Those Election Funds

The Canadian Press correspondent at Ottawa says the Liberals at their presession caucus are likely to discuss regulations having to do with raising campaign funds. Previous efforts have never advanced far. They have resembled a ball game where the contest was called off on account of darkness or because the ball was lost. And that is where it stands at the moment.

In a general way the average man does not worry much about the campaign fund. If he manages to secure a position at election time and gets paid for it he does not worry much either where the pay comes from. Time was when men used to be glad enough to do what they could on election day and were not paid for it, but that day has gone. Election work is pretty much on a cash basis now and it means the candidate or his committee has to find the money.

As a rule there is what is called the central fund, and there is also the riding fund, and the next rule is that the riding fund seeks to secure all it can from the central fund.

If people are not interested in election funds they ought to be. They ought to know who is putting up the money and if they knew that they could draw intelligent enough conclusions regarding the reasons for the contributions. They could tell whether the generous donation was for the purpose of upholding a long tradition or was regarded as an investment.

The presence of large election funds has not given us better political contests nor could such a thing happen. In United States if a corporation makes a political contribution it is published in the newspapers, telling the amount and the party to which it has been given, and we can think of no good reason why it should not be done that way.

"Stay Where You Are"

A few months ago it was made known that Germany wanted its skilled mechanics living in other nations to come home. It was stated there was work and bread and wages in the fatherland. Occasion was also taken to state there had been years under former regimes in Germany when it had been necessary for people to leave in order to make a living elsewhere, but that time had passed.

The latest report is that the "come home" appeal has been rubbed out, and the order now is "stay where you are." In sending out this second order Berlin makes no effort to disguise the reason for it. The Germans are to remain in whatever country they may be in order "to keep the German racial front intact in their new homelands," and any alteration or change in that rule will be considered equivalent to desertion.

Very pleasant for Germany if the scheme can be made to work, and very unpleasant for the nations in which plans will be made to cause the scheme to become operative. It cannot be claimed the idea is new because this form of Nazi activity has been in progress for some time. We have seen evidence of it in Canada and United States has spent plenty of money and time investigating precisely the same thing.

The Germany of today is taking much for granted if it expects foreign countries are going to sit back and be quiet while German nationals pledged to the support of the Nazi plan in Germany, go ahead with the business of keeping "the German racial front intact." When we accept German people in this new country we have a right to anticipate they will be with us and not against us. If they are not prepared to accept that basis of citizenship then they have no right to come or remain and we have no right to accept them.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Premier Daladier says he will not sacrifice to maintain peace. Brave words of course, but he would have to sacrifice if peace departed.

For the last quarter of 1938 United States railroads carried fewer passengers and secured less revenue from them. Naturally.

Suggestion in England is that the arms program should be carried out with more energy and less profit, and as suggestions go that one has its points.

Whether it means anything or not we do not know, but the report of the Bren gun inquiry is going to be released on Friday, the 13th.

The death of Senator Casgrain in his 83rd year leaves only two members in the Upper Chamber who were named by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. Raoul Dandurand and Hon. Joseph Wilson.

It is hard enough to understand why a driver is allowed to take a car on the road without any insurance. He can damage the car of another driver and then say he has no insurance and no money. And trying to collect from such an individual is likely to result in even greater loss.

Grace Moore, the U.S. singer, on arriving in New York, began talking again about the time she curtsied to the Duchess of Windsor and said she had no apologies to make. We wish this gal would understand that people do not care a hoot whether she curtsied or stood on her head.

Governor Graves of Alabama started a plan in 1927 of allowing convicts to go home for Christmas holidays on the pledge they would return at a given time. First year only one man failed to come back. This year when 603 should have returned there were 23 missing and it looks as though the few who could not be trusted would spoil the favor for the whole prison population.

THE CHINA DISHES

(By A.R.K.)

¶ I went out to my Uncle Jed's and stopped with them to have my tea, and they were glad as how I come and made things pleasant there for me.

¶ And Jed and I we talked a spell, his wife bein' busy all the time, and kitchen smells that come to me told things be farin' pretty fine.

¶ So when we sat down there to eat I felt touched up with modest glee, for she had gone and spread about the Sunday dishes there for me.

¶ That's when I know that I'm well used, a token of respect it be, that on a week-day one should go and use the china set for tea.

¶ There's some what welcomes you offhand and others make you feel at home, and now and then a person has a longing to be left alone.

¶ But out at Uncle Jed's I know the china set is kept on view, it is not used much through the week, nor does it bear its weight of stew.

¶ It's when the minister comes in the china set comes out for tea, that's why I felt quite pleased indeed when it come out to honor me.

The Trouble Is On The Farm

Editor, Examiner:—Sir, despite the fact that the 1938 dividends from our secondary industries reached the high level of $313,000,000 and that revenues from our progressive "mineral" energies during the same twelve months are estimated at record levels of above $400,000,000 — it is still true that, as these words are written approximately 900,000 Canadians are in receipt of "relief" from federal, provincial or municipal authorities!

How and why is this, Mr. Editor?

My own opinion is that, when all is said and done, the key to our prosperity (and to the world, no less) is "down on the farm." When the agricultural industry was moving along "on high," all was well on the urban horizon. Since economic nationalism and fear and suspicion have gripped the trading world, things have not been going well in the rural life of this or any other land. It is in these same years (1930-1938) that "unemployment relief" have become household words.

The trend is too plain to be in doubt. I am not interested in the marketing or sales techniques involved; but I do suggest that the idea of denying appropriate prices — i.e., purchasing power — to agriculture is not a brilliant one?

A writer in the editorial columns of your contemporary, The Ottawa Journal, deals with the milk business in London, England, from this same revenue angle and concludes: "So far as can be ascertained, ninety per cent. of British milk is sold liquid. On the average it costs about 9 1-2d. per gallon to produce and is sold by the producers at 10 1-2d. This means that the farmer makes a penny a gallon profit on his enterprise and labor. But it is sold to the public at 2s. 4d a gallon. So that, somehow, between the milkmaid's pail and the consumer's milk bottle, the price is enchanced by nearly eighteen pence a gallon, or roughly about 180 per cent. It seems a lot. For every 100 lb. of milk the farmer sells, someone exacts from the public about £240."

NO GRUMBLING.

Married 50 years ago at Shoal Lake, Manitoba, in 40-below zero weather, Mrs. Frank Dobbs, now a resident of Winnipeg, advises young brides that the secret of a happy wedded life is merely "no grumbling."

Mrs. Dobbs did not complain when her fiance picked a 40-below day for the wedding; she did not grumble when he had to throw pails of cold water over the log house so that by freezing it would form ice to close the chinks. She put up with discomfort and a primitive way of life, and devoted herself to being a good wife.

Mrs. Dobbs, advice is sound. How many homes have been made dens of misery because a husband and wife formed the habit of nagging? A chronic complainer can do more to wreck a home than one possessed of almost any other fault.

SING SING PRISON.

Sing Sing possesses an excellent school, a well-stocked library, religious teachings for all denominations, and a course of lectures dealing with active personal experiences, politics, adventure etc.

Almost 70 per cent of the inmates were newsboys when they were younger.

Only 2 of the more than 600 prisoners released from Sing Sing during a recent year had completed their full terms.

"Sing Sing Follies," is a stage revue presented each year by inmates of the prison. The prisoners even play female parts. Songs and dances comprise most of the entertainment.

The electric chair has claimed the lives of over 375 murderers, including four women, at Sing Sing prison since capital punishment was instituted there 48 years ago.

Musical groups play an integral part of prison life at Sing Sing. The band gives regular concerts and plays at summer reviews and athletic meets. The Bugle Corps plays during the marching in to meals. The Glee Club participates in religious services and gives choral concerts.

The pole vault has been barred from athletic meets by authorities at Sing Sing.

Lewis E. Lawes, internationally famed warden of Sing Sing prison, holds the opinion that music plays a profound part in making criminals into useful citizens. Today Sing Sing has a band of seventy-five, an orchestra of twenty, a bugle corps of twenty-two, and a Glee Club of sixty. Almost two hundred of the prison's inmates engage in musical activities, and two thousand others listen to the music these make. There are two "lifers" in the band; the sentences of the others run from two to twenty-five years.

JOB FOR LONE MAN.

The National Trust are seeking a warden for the Calf of Man, an island property some five miles in circumference, and separated from the Isle of Man by a channel a quarter of a mile across. Though the channel is narrow a strong tide runs, and may in rough weather cut off all communication for days on end. Bounded by cliffs rising to 400 ft. in places, the island has a well built farmhouse and some 60 acres of farmland and further rough grazing. There are also two lighthouses one of which has been turned into a residence.

The problem is to find someone who is prepared to make the island his home, to run the farm for his own needs, to look after the property, to watch the bird and plant life, and to collect landing fees.

On this island sanctuary merlins, peregrines, choughs, ravens, guillemots, kittiwakes, puffins, razorbills, and some 70 other species may be observed.—London Times.

JINGLE BELLS,

THE IDEAL CONDITION for a sleighride is a clear, cold night with a moon shining. Then it is that driving into the distance with bells tinkling on the sleighs and everyone talking at once is the most fun.

We have never heard of a sleighride party without a mouth organ. Invariably some budding musician has brought along his harmonica and he leads the singing which, while it may not be good, is very loud.

Boys and girls together on the sleigh sing and perhaps hold hands when no one is looking. It is a safe wager that a great many romances were started in the box sleigh on such a party. If statistics were available and could possibly be gathered, it would undoubtedly be surprising how many young farmers, boys and girls, made their mutual plans on a sleighride. There's something about the bells, the good company, the trotting team and, of course, the moon.—Lindsay Post.

Letters To The Editor

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics

THINGS SEEM BAD.

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—In the Voice of the People Column, a writer tells of his experience in not procuring a job in his unemployment experience because of his religion. I assume that this man is a non-Catholic and he may make a few bucks from those opposing Mr. Hepburn and Mr. King who may have learned some weaknesses from the leadership of Bennett and Henry the last two premiers of their opposition.

The two old parties have been equally guilty and both have followers of Christianity and they both seek election the same way. After the strife is over they shake hands and confide all their tricks and the loser "today" is the winner "tomorrow".

Of course the leaders do not know of anything wrong. One, of the United Church pays handsomely to the Church and has Protestant support, as such, and holds or his party committeemen hold out the plums so to speak to their now Protestant electorate. Now the Conservative party with Catholic leadership will throw out plums to the Protestant electorate. Do not worry brother, our turn will come again.

Our ministers of the Gospel, I suppose, claim to be ignorant and prefer to stay out of politics, even the Bible speaks of the benefits from their implication or taking part in governments, but if the Scripture, bearing this out was brought to their attention, it would be found in the teachings of the prophets to Israel (and half of them think the Jews alone are Israel), so we'll bide our time till the second coming of our Lord and he will make the crooked ways straight—May he come soon.

Thanking you,

An Israelite by birth.

THE OLD PEOPLE.

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—May I have space in your paper to talk to that Tenth Concession writer for a while. I would like to get his opinion on the majority of us old people who are already fit to meet God at any time. Do you think some of us are getting a big head over the fact that we have already lived so long and some of us are even taking credit to ourselves for having done so. Often enough on birthdays old people talk a good deal; some say they have not used tobacco and others tell about having not used tea as it is bad for them and all such. Just giving out ideas that look like rules for living a long time.

Do you think God's plan for our lives is governed by either tea or tobacco? I for one do not. And what do you think of some of us old people who are so set in our ways and so bent on having things done as we want them that we make every one around us miserable and give our own children nervous indigestion? We are apt to crab and crank and frown at the least provocation. And are we going to give these people a glimpse of heaven through our self will, though doing things which humiliate them and make them look small and mean to the public. A lot of us are doing just that at the present time.

When we pretend to love the Lord and act that way is it any wonder the children turn and say religion is all bosh. I often think that a theatre-going, card-playing sort of person is more pleasing in the sight of God than a professing Christian who is so wrapped up in himself that every one around must be on edge lest something be done which will rile him up or displease him. I hope us old people will all see how miserable we can make people around us by wanting to have everything our own way.

For Jesus came to do and die
Not just to come and go
And have His way.
And could I be like Him I'll stay
Another eighty years.

• No Patriotism In Munitions

The cost of war; a machinegun costs approximately $640. A large tank costs some $80,000. The price of a bombing plane is $100,000. A 37-mm. field-gun reduces a nation's budget some $1,000; each shell fired costs about $15.

An up-to-date cruiser costs some $11,000,000; an aircraft carrier $19,000,000; a large battleship nearly $30,000,000.

There's profit in war; a bullet costs but a fraction of a penny to manufacture, but sells for three cents or more. Each soldier who stops a bullet has made a few cents for some munitions manufacturer.

During the World War German and French steel makers acted upon an unwritten agreement not to drop bombs upon each other's plants. History is now repeating itself. A new steel corporation has recently been formed with combined French and German capital. The company is making bar steel to be used in France's new fortifications on the Western Front.

England, during Queen Elizabeth's reign, developed a thriving gun-making industry, and did a lively export business. Spain bought many of these guns, including a large part of the cast iron guns of her great Armada with which she attempted to subdue England on the high seas. History repeats itself; according to John Gunther, "Pluck a bullet out of the heart of a British boy shot on the Northwest Frontier, and like as not you will find it of British make."

Bullets of stone were used in 1514. Iron bullets are mentioned in the records as first being used in 1550.

Experiments in Russia have shown that a tank can be dropped by parachute from the air.

• They Heard Of It In Berlin

Here is a story so singular that I had better begin by saying that I am completely satisfied of its authenticity; it concerns a family whose name is known to everyone.

A lady in London recently increased the wages of her Austrian (now, of course, German) maid to "x"shillings a week.

The maid, who had mentioned her rise only to a few friends, was almost immediately informed by the German authorities in London that she would be expected to pay them a tax of "y" shillings a week.

She refused, and was told that in that case it would be taken out of her parents in Vienna.

That is not all. The same lady recently answered her telephone and was told to hold the line for Berlin.

The connection was made and a flood of German followed. The speaker was asked to talk more slowly, whereupon he broke into English, and proceeded.

"You have a German maid in your service called—."

That elicited a denial, which at first was disbelieved.

"I have an Austrian girl", the lady explained, "but not of that name."

"Is that true on your word of honor?"

Indignation at the London end.

"And yet you are such-and-such a number?"

"Yes."

"Then I must be mistaken."

An abrupt ring-off.—London Spectator.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And Jesus returned in the power of the Spirit into Galilee: and there went out a fame of him through all the region round about. . . . And he came to Nazareth, where he had been brought up: and, as his custom was, he went into the synagogue on the sabbath day, and stood up to read. And there was delivered unto him the book of the prophet Esaias. And when he had opened the book, he found the place where it was written, The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to heal the broken-hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised, to preach the acceptable year of the Lord.

And he closed the book, and he gave it again to the minister, and sat down. And the eyes of all them that were in the synagogue were fastened on him. And he began to say unto them, This day is this scripture fulfilled in your ears. —Luke iv, 14, 16-21.

Fifty Canadian communities and perhaps five million Canadians will have a chance to see Royalty on Parade next summer.

There will be flag waving and fleeting glimpsees; speeches and cornerstones; illuminated addresses ad nauseam.

But what about the real Canada —Canada at work?

Are Their Majesties to be allowed to see nothing but faces and flags?

Are they to see nothing of our world famous mines, our great power and newsprint plants, our automobile and other manufacturing establishments?

Ottawa Perks Up For Opening This Thursday

OTTAWA, Jan. 9 (CP)—Ottawa's official life moved to the quickened tempo of an approaching parliamentary session today as final preparations were made for the opening Thursday. Many members already are in Ottawa and scores of others will arrive today and tomorrow to open their offices in readiness for the start of business Thursday.

Cabinet will meet Tuesday and Wednesday when ministers will put the last touches on the speech from the throne, to be read by the Governor General, Lord Tweedsmuir, in the senate chamber Thursday afternoon.

Conservative Leader Manion will meet his 38 followers in caucus for the first time Wednesday, affording him an opportunity to outline to them his plans for the session and his views on the major issues likely to be discussed.

Highlight of the week will be the tabling of the Bren gun royal commission report Friday afternoon. The report is the work of Mr. Justice H. H. Davis of the Supreme Court who for two months probed the contract between the Dominion government and John Inglis Company, Limited, Toronto, for 7,000 Bren light machine guns.

The probe followed criticism of the contract by Lieut.-Col. George Drew, now Ontario Conservative leader in a magazine article.

The pageantry of the opening, introduction of new members, tributes to those who have died since last session and the tabling of many reports and papers will take up the Thursday and Friday sessions and debate on the throne speech will be laid over until Monday. Friday's session is a short one owing to the drawing room that evening.

Manion In Spotlight

Much of the interest in the coming Thursday will centre on Dr. Manion, making his first appearance in the House since he was defeated in the 1935 general election. He was elected leader of the party last July and was elected in the London by-election Nov. 14.

He will take the seat formerly occupied by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, directly across from Prime Minister Mackenzie King. Until Mr. Bennett resigns it is likely the seat next to Dr. Manion will be reserved for him but it is not known whether he will make an appearance in the House.

The former leader is going to England at the end of the month to reside there permanently and while Conservatives are hopeful he will make a farewell appearance in the Commons there has been no indication from Mr. Bennett he will do so.

Interest also will centre on the move of Hon. H. H. Stevens to the Conservative benches. The former cabinet minister, who broke from his party to form the Reconstruction Party and in 1935 was elected as its only representative, returned to his old party prior to the July convention. He is expected to become one of Dr. Manion's chief lieutenants.

While the Government is preparing for a short and business-like session so that parliament may be prorogued before the King and Queen arrive May 15, Conservatives do not believe the work will be completed in time. They expect an adjournment while the royal couple are in Canada and a return to Ottawa for a short time before the expected general election in the fall.

Easy-to-Grow Plants Make Your Home Lovely

You Can Remodel This Plant

Handsome, good-natured dracaena! This fascinating foliage plant takes neglect on the chin, flourishes happily in corners sunshine doesn't reach.

And when your plant grows too tall—starts to shoot toward the ceiling—simply cut it in pieces and make half a dozen new dracaenas from one old one, as sketched:

1. Cut off its head. 2. Repot to make a graceful new plant. 3. Cut stem of old plant in four-inch lengths and lay these just under the surface in a box of sharp sand. Each length sends up a shoot. 4. Cut each shoot from parent stem—leaving a small "heel" attached, then place in small pot to permit roots to grow.

Use cream pottery containers to show off your little plants' beautiful glossy green leaves.

Follow the helpful pointers in our 32-page booklet for success with all kinds of lovely indoor plants—ferns, foliage plants, fragrant bulbs to force for early spring, window-boxes and brackets.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

WHEN Knarf and Hanid found Mary-Ann lying in the corner of the playroom the other afternoon, they could tell at once that she was unhappy about something.

"My mistress doesn't come and play with me any more," she said sadly to the two shadow-children. "I've been lying in this corner for two whole days."

"Oh! Isn't that too bad!" Hanid said. "But I'm sure she doesn't mean to neglect you. She must be busy."

"She hasn't time to play with any of her toys," Knarf said, hoping to cheer up the little rag doll.

But Mary-Ann sighed. "No—she just doesn't care for me any more. And I know why, too."

"Why?"

"Because I can't talk. That's why. She likes the China Doll all right; she can say ma-ma. But I can't say anything at all."

No So Much.

Knarf and Hanid were silent for a moment or two. Finally Knarf said: "Well, that isn't much—I mean being able to say ma-ma. You can do it just as well as the China Doll. Just try it."

"I can't," Mary-Ann said. "I've tried again and again to say it but I can't. I can say it to myself," she added. "I can make the other toys understand me. I can even say it loudly enough for you to hear it. But you're not children. You're only the shadows of the children. The children can't hear me at all. They don't think I'm saying anything." And the little rag doll sighed again.

All at once Knarf thought of a wonderful idea. He slipped away and ran through the house until he found Ferdy, the puppy. "Can you say ma-ma?" he asked.

"Of course," said Ferdy. "I say it all the time."

"She likes the China Doll."

"Then come with me."

Then he found Mirabelle, the kitten. "Can you say ma-ma?"

"I say it better than anything else," Mirabelle answered with a purr.

"Then come with me to the playroom."

Back to Playroom

So he hurried back to the playroom with the puppy and the kitten, and had them hide just behind Mary-Ann's back.

At that very moment Mary-Ann's mistress came into the room. She wasn't going to notice the rag-doll at all. But Knarf gave the signal. And Ferdy went bow-wow, and Mirabelle went me-ow. They really meant ma-ma in the dog and cat languages.

I guess they really must have sounded like ma-ma to the little girl, for she suddenly stopped over and picked up Mary-Ann, hugged her tight and laughed. You can't imagine how happy Mary-Ann felt at that moment."

CHAPTER 45

PART OF Bob Towne's life, indeed the better part of it, consisted of having fun with people, teasing and playing and contriving sundry pranks. It was one secret of his popularity. He never had enemies; he liked everybody, or kept his counsel if he didn't. Even though he had been definitely "off" Peaches Pomeroy this fall, he had maintained open fellowship with her. He would have called it stupid for anyone to go through life snubbing an acquaintance, however good the cause.

"Hi, Peaches, old kid," he had greeted that lady, grinning widely. "I got you where I want you!"

Peaches might have known that meant some sort of teasing. But Peaches was already on edge, for good reason.

For one thing, it was nearly midnight, and he had not spoken to her all this evening until now. That he should eventually come was pleasant. It tickled her vanity. Indeed, it was what she had badly wanted—to be singled out by some handsome man, some hero. And Bob Towne was the football hero of the day, probably of the season. So she returned his greeting with mingled nervousness and pleasure.

"How are you, Bob? You were wonderful this afternoon!"

"Yeah, sure, always am. They're gonna make me governor, then president, or dictator, just because I snagged a lateral pass. But I'm talking about you—say, lemme see your bracelet, Peaches. That pretty diamond one. Will you, hunh?" He waited, grinning in devilment.

Instantly her expression froze. She looked up at him, feeling her heart pounding. Her bracelet!

He might have struck her or jabbed her with a pin—that would have angered and shocked her—but thus to probe painfully into the very secret depths of her soul—!

"W-what?" She almost croaked it, so strained was her throat.

"Lemme see that bracelet you always wear. The one you had on earlier this evening?"

A dozen thoughts streamed through her brain.

Was he joking? What did he know? Did he really know something, or was his interest genuine, and a pure coincidence? Could he possibly have seen her hide the thing in the Davis woman's coat?

Well, there was but one course of action—she'd have to bluff.

"Ha, ha-a-a, you look green with fright, old kid, so I won't haunt you any longer. Here it is. Be more careful with your toys. Some crook might find it next time."

He dropped the bracelet into her lap and was gone. He might have told her more, but three couples had crowded up demanding, noisily that he show them his own version of "The Owl Hop", a specialty dance more florid than the Big Apple. He disappeared in the throng.

Peaches stared at her jewelry in complete desperation.

Not half an hour ago she had concealed it in her enemy's coat, sure that no one was looking. She knew positively that Bob Towne and Sara Sue Davis had never left the dance floor. And yet—here the bracelet was brought to her by debonair Bob Towne himself! How much did he know? What could she do? She couldn't begin to imagine what had happened, and she dared not ask.

Peaches Pomeroy was literally sick with apprehension. She trembled in nervous nausea, had to go to the women's lounge and lie down, hiding her face in abject misery, uncertainty, fear.

In high contrast to Peaches' feelings, however, was the brightness felt this hour by Sara Sue Davis.

The lovely young widow had never in all her life had such an exciting evening. People had been so kind to her, so attentive, so generous with gaiety and fun. End of football season with its tension seemed to be a happy let-down for everybody. The costumes were so gay, the music so entrancing, romance seemed literally to permeate the air.

Romance. Sara Sue dealt in romance, professionally and personally. She had devised a clever way to make a living with it, she who had experienced it herself. True, one big spot in her heart was heavy, for Fate had taken a sardonic slap at her, allowing her to be eminently successful guiding other people's romances while failing utterly to take care of her own. She knew, now, the misery of unrequited love in its worst form. But this particular evening she had determined to keep her sadness hidden even from herself if possible; she would dance and laugh and be gay if she could. It takes strong nerves thus to bury one's inner sadness, and hers was the worse because she could tell it to no one, share it with no sympathetic friend.

It had hurt, at first, to see Peaches. She had seen them dancing early. Her lip had trembled, not in jealousy, but just in pain, until she reminded herself that she must be happy for Thornton's sake. At least he had what he wanted—the Pomeroy girl. If that meant his happiness, then Sara Sue should be happy for him. With that unselfish reasoning, the pretty young widow had tossed her head back and set out to be gay.

Many a friend had been willing, anxious, to help her in that. Among them were Don Romero, Bob Towne and T. J. Sanders, her escort. These three had competed hardest for dances with her. The formal program that T. J. had arranged began to be broken during the evening. People cut in ad lib. There was much gaiety about it. It is better always when a collegiate ball goes its own way, not too cut and dried, but just impromptu. Nobody cared what happened. Sara Sue must have changed partners a hundred times, often not getting more than six or eight steps before some other admirer would break in.

"I'm going to handcuff you to me," Bob Towne threatened once, when another football man took her away. She smiled her appreciation.

Insofar as she could, she favored the man who had brought her, T. J. Sara Sue never was one to be a butterfly about men, accepting all favors everywhere. She felt that as T. J. had honored her by asking her for this date, he should have whatever major courtesies she had to bestow. Men appreciate this consideration in women more perhaps, than any other one thing, even though they are happy to have their girls sought after by other men.

"You are just naturally a gentleman, Sara Sue!" T. J. declared, enthusiastically, when she had helped him dodge another man trying to cut in. "A scholar and a gentleman."

"I suppose you mean a lady." She squeezed his arm.

"I suppose so. Anyhow, you're swell, kid. Say, I—Oh, Lord!"

They danced on together, smoothly, happily. He had been very good to her. She had been very good to him. That intangible something of mutual respect existed between them. T. J. felt it tonight more than ever, and it—together with the general atmosphere of color and happiness and song—caused him to reach a decision.

Acting on delightful impulse, T. J. led Sara Sue across the hall into an alcove, around behind some massed vines and flowers and other decorations where there was a bench in a private spot.

"Sit down," he ordered, gently. "I've got something I must say."

"What is it, T. J.? Plotting something?"

"I shall waste no words, my darling, Sara Sue. I have been plotting this for weeks! I am helpless before you. I want you more than anything else I ever wanted in all my life. I want to marry you. I love you with every ounce of my being. I—I honestly don't know how to say it, how to say how deeply I feel. Just—just that I love you, is all. And want you to marry me. Will you, Sara Sue?"

He couldn't have said it more impressively if he had rehearsed a thousand times. He spoke ever so tenderly. His eyes had a misty yearning. He held one of her hands in his own, sitting on the bench near her, looking intently into her face.

It was so perfect, so utterly fine, that it verily startled her. T. J. was like that. Impulsive, capable, sure. He had never faltered in his wooing of her. He had been aggressive from the first day. He had set out to get something, and now he had brought matters to a showdown.

"Oh—T. J.!"

Sara Sue murmured it. She had to swallow hard. Emotion had seized her. "Oh, T. J., You—" She looked pleadingly at him.

"I'll do anything for you, Sara Sue. Anything in God's world. I am not good enough—nobody is good enough for you! But I—I'll devote my life to trying. Honest I will. I love you so; love you so!"

Love you so!

The moment was sacred, exalting, divine.

Agonizing Eczema (Salt Rheum)

No rest, day or night, for those afflicted with that awful skin disease, eczema, or salt rheum as it is commonly called.

The intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night, or when the affected part is exposed to strong heat, or hot water, are almost unbearable, and relief is gladly welcomed.

To get rid of eczema it is necessary to have the blood cleansed by the use of a thoroughly reliable blood medicine such as Burdock Blood Bitters which during the past 60 years has met with great success in relieving such diseases by its blood cleansing and purifying properties.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, January 10

A very lively and interesting day is forecast from the ruling lunar directions. While there is decided promise of advancement, promotion or the preferment or friendly support of superiors, employers or others in influential positions, particularly in the launching of new projects, there also are menaces from treachery, subtlety or fraudulent machinations. It is strongly advised that extraordinary care be taken with contracts, documents and all writings.

Those whose birthday it is are in line for promotion, favors, the solid support of employers, superiors and those in power, who may contribute to the launching of meritorious new projects. But there are omens of trickery, fraud and undercover manipulations that are sinister and dangerous. Be specially cautious with all writings, documents and contracts, which should be referred to dependable attorneys.

A child born on this day may be very active, enterprising and have constructive ideas. It should enlist support from superiors or large interests. It may, however, lean to the "clever," smooth or easiest way, resorting to strategem or epediency when it serves.

First Recollections Of Roseneath Subject For Institute Roll Call

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Jan. 9.—The roll call "My first recollection of Roseneath" at the regular meeting of the Women's Institute held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. Turner was most interesting. One member, at present a resident of the community, visited Roseneath for the first time 17 years ago, and always remembered it as the little village on the hill. But the recollections were not always pleasant, one member said her first knowledge of the village centered around a pair of buttoned shoes, for when she and her mother reached home, she, a small child of course, pulled a button off her shoe and placed it in her nostril, so a doctor had to be visited to remove the button.

Another member remembers first seeing the village when she visited a doctor also, she to have a tooth extracted. She screamed of course, and this amused the doctor's son. She never forgave him.

Another feature included two reports, one of the area convention held at Belleville, presented by Mrs. S. Waller and the second, a report of the "Milky Way" project. The latter was presented by Miss Ruby Blodgett, who outlined the essential part milk plays in the diet.

Sewing Course.

During the business session it was announced a sewing course would be held from January 30 to February. Miss Collins from the department will instruct the class.

Mrs. J. W. Pacey had charge of a brief program which featured a piano solo by Mrs. S. Thackeray, readings by Mrs. Pacey, Mrs. Edgar Carew and Mrs. Earl Thackeray and a contest. Votes of thanks were tendered the hostess, also Mrs. S. Waller and Miss Ruby Blodgett for their reports. At the close the hostess served refreshments.

Winter Sports Worth Millions Canadian Resorts Busier Than At Any Time In History

By JAMES MONTAGNES

Canada's winter sport centres are busier this winter than at any time in their history. More winter sport centres are operating. The interest taken by the northern half of the United States and all of Canada in skiing and ice skating is reflected in the growth of winter sport centres which formerly catered only to the spectator tourists, but to-day exist principally for the participating winter sport enthusiasts.

Plenty of snow in the areas of the larger Canadian cities near the International boundary is bringing a large influx of American winter sport fans. Inns which are usually open only in the summer tourist season are open this winter for the season. Towns which are primarily summer tourist towns in the northern lakelands are staging winter carnivals to which special trains and buses bring thousands of skiers. In the Laurentian mountains, near Montreal ski planes are landing regularly with skiers from United States. This winter sports season this year will add materially to swelling Canada's annual $300,000,000 tourist industry.

There are numerous dog derbies to be held in such varied places as Quebec; Huntsville, Ontario; The Pas, Manitoba; Banff, Alberta; and at many northern mining camps where trappers, prospectors, miners and mounted police of the districts will compete.

Skiing is estimated to bring to Ontario winter resorts about 15 per cent. of the total attendance from the United States. Most of the ski resorts are within a few hours of Toronto, from where week-end ski trains lead to ski resorts at Dagmar, Huntsville, Bracebridge, Peterboro, Midland, Collingwood and other small towns. Ottawa and Montreal are also centres from which many American skiers set out to try their wings of wood on the rolling slopes of the Gatineau and Laurentian mountains. Ottawa, incidentally, is a city which practically lives on skis in winter. The ski trains out of both these cities lead to French-Canadian Quebec, with many parish churches where skiers go to have their skis blessed by the priest, and special ski services are held in brightly decorated village churches.

Small Towns Kept Busy.

Outdoor sports develop big appetites and the little towns which in the past were practically closed down for the winter, are doing a thriving business in supplying hot meals to skiers this winter. Farms on ski runs have profited also, for skiers stop for a meal or to buy food to cook their own meal on the trail. The small towns have profited also in clearing ski trails of underbrush, building ski jumps, getting ski cabins on club and private property into shape for the season.

Although skiing is the main wintre sport to-day, snowshoes are still seen on the trails near the big cities, and not just on the trap lines in the far north. There is considerable tobogganing, curling, iceboating, and at some of the fashionable resorts bob-sled runs have been built.

While definite figures are difficult to obtain on so complicated a subject as tourist travel for winter sports, it is the opinion of transportation officials that there is a definite upward trend in the amount of travel to winter resorts and that there is an increase in the number of United States citizens who cross the border for winter sports in Canada.

Wedding Eve Murder Brings 3 Arrests

MARYSVILLE, O., Jan. 9—(AP).—Three men living near the abandoned quarry that yielded Clark S. Hayes' weighted body the day after he was to have been married were held for questioning tday.

The men were lodged in jail here soon after prosecutor William J. Porter predicted a "break" in the mysterious "wedding eve" slaying of the 28-year-old grocery employee of nearby Summersville.

Hayes disappeared while on a store assignment Tuesday night, the eve of his contemplated wedding to Miss Loletha Morrow, 26.

His delivery truck was found near the quarry with a large stone on the cab floor. When his body was discovered in 22 feet of water Thursday by a diver, a bruise was found on his head. A hole chopped in the ice led to the quarry search.

Coroner J. M. Foster returned a verdict of murder by drowning and said an autopsy showed that Hayes was alive, but probably unconscious, when slipped into the ice-locked pit with a stone laden milk can wired to him.

Clues were few and the apparent absence of a motive for the slaying puzzled authorities.

United Church Moderator Urges Hearers To Remain Steadfast

The Right Reverend John W. Woodside, M.A., D.D. of Ottawa, Moderator of the United Church of Canada, was special preacher at Trinity United Church Sunday when the 65th anniversary was observed, urged the audience to be steadfast in their faith during these troublous times when madmen are seeking the destruction of the world.

St. Andrew's church withdrew their Sunday night service and the congregation joined with Trinity Church in the anniversary services, Rev. Dr. E. W. Young occupying a seat alongside Rev. George S. Easton of Trinity and the guest preacher.

Tendered Warm Welcome

In introducing the Moderator, Mr. Easton tendered him a warm welcome on behalf of the congregations from both churches and remarked that the clergymen of the United Church were happy because the General Synod had seen fit to choose the Moderator from among the "working ministers" of the church.

Dr. Woodside voiced happiness over the arrangement which saw the two congregations joining up for the anniversary observance, and said it was an expression of goodwill, a much needed virtue in the world today. His text was "But beloved, be not ignorant of this one thing, that one day with the Lord is one thousand years and a thousand years but a day."

He said that in the early days the Christians were sorely perplexed by the apparent inactivity of God. They thought he would come among them again in bodily form and defeat his enemies thus re-establishing His kingdom upon the earth. "It seemed often that God had forgotten them, and mockers arose to chide the Christians when God failed to defeat the forces of evil. Between the raillery of the mockers and their own disappointment they were in a bad way."

Similar Position Today

"We find ourselves in a simliar position today. Many ask why God doesn't intervene. They see thousands of innocent women and children killed by bombs, and madmen threatening the world with destruction. Why does not God set things right is the question asked. We know little of the unfolding plans of the Eternal God. To Him a day is a thousand years or a thousand years but a day. God moves leisurely, only man who has but a brief span on this earth is in a hurry.

Long before God came men and women were living and dying as they are today and hoping for a Saviour to redeem them. When we look at all the cruelty, chaos and bloodshed in the world we begin to think God's kingdom is as far away as ever, but while we remember that God works slowly we must also remember that he had done in a stroke fast as lightning what could not be done in a thousand years.

The early Christians wondered why God did not come in His power and smite Nero and the other dictators of early times, the same as we are wondering today. We must have faith, and I urge you to be steadfast for your labor is not in vain."

Special music and singing for the occasion was arranged by the organist, Miss Mabel Clarry, A.T.C.M. and a feature of the musical part of the service was the singing of a chorus of six young women.

He started to rise and the man who had spoken said: "Damn you, Windsor," and fired point-blank.

A sister of Windsor, Mrs. Edward Warner, clutched her baby and her screams mingled with those of Mrs. McDermott as Windsor fell. The killer, the relatives told police, grabbed Windsor as he cried for a doctor, half-dragged him across the floor and kicked him in the face and ribs.

Jewelry valued at $3,000 was taken from Windsor as he lay dying, together with more than $40 in cash. The four men, keeping handkerchiefs clasped to their faces part of the time, left the house after herding the women and their husbands upstairs, along with a friend of Windsor, Miss Lorraine Bromell.

The men were reported to have demanded: "Where's the bag?" before they left the house. They were believed to have left without "the bag," which was supposed by police to contain either some of Windsor's jewelry or takings from one of his business enterprises.

Chief Constable D. C. Draper, who took immediate charge of the case, quickly dismissed the likelihood that Windsor was shot spontaneously in the midst of a robbery.

Planned In Cold Blood

"There is strong evidence to indicate that this brutal murder was planned deliberately and in cold blood."

Attorney-General Gordon Conant, hearing that the city had offered a substantial reward, volunteered the province's backing.

"The details of this affair have not yet reached me," he said. "But if any evidence of Vendetta or gang reprisal should be disclosed, the province will take under immediate consideration the advisability of supplementing the reward which the city of Toronto is offering for capture of the murderer or murderers.

"There is no place in Toronto or the province for gang warfare, whether it is sponsored here or directed from the States. Every resource and power at the command of the government, I can assure you, will be pitted against it to stamp it out."

(The Globe and Mail said the four men who walked into Windsor's home were "thought by police to have been Italian gangsters from Detroit."

(The newspaper declared Windsor died "because he refused to pay $25 a week to a 'protective association' which had approached him about three weeks ago, according to the statement made last night by detectives by one of the dead man's 'commission men' in the bookmaking business.")

Funeral service for Windsor will be held Wednesday at St. Monica's Church, with burial in Mount Hope Cemetery.

All the men sought for the killing were of dark complexion. The alleged killer was five feet, eight inches tall, according to descriptions given police, and weighed about 150 pounds. Persons in the Windsor home said the decayed teeth were his most striking characteristic.

Another member of the quartet was six feet tall, another five feet 10 inches and the last five feet six or seven inches. They wore dark hats and overcoats and were between the ages of 25 and 30, Windsor's relatives believed.

Girl's Slayer Dies With Grin On Face

CANON CITY, Colo., Jan. 9 (AP). —Almost dutifully, Joe Arridy, a 23-year-old slayer with a six-year-old mind, sat grinning in the Colorado Prison gas chamber, then opened his mouth and took three deep gulps of poison gas that quickly snuffed out his life.

Arridy, convicted of the axe-slaying and ravishing of a school girl, was pronounced dead last night, 6¼ minutes after the gas was released in the windowed, chimneyed chamber on a rocky slope behind the prison. The execution had been postponed nine times.

The condemned man smiled blankly as he walked to the gas chamber between Warden Roy Best and the prison chaplain.

"I want to play the harp like the padre told me," Arridy told Best, when the warden asked if he still wanted to "raise chickens in heaven."

Best, who gave Arridy the toys that kept him happy during his more than 18 months in a death cell, patted the condemned man's arm while he was blindfolded and strapped in the death chair. Then Best stepped out while Father Schaller leaned forward and said, "Good-bye, Joe."

"Give my train to Agnes," Arridy said during the death walk. He had promised the toy, a Christmas gift from the warden, to Angelo Agnes, Denver negro convicted of wife slaying.

Democracy Must Be Organized Ready To Fight

"Democracy must be organized and ready to fight for its survival, its existence," declared Rabbi Sachs of Toronto in an eloquent address on the subject "The Art of Harmonizing in the Midst of a Discordant World," at the Men's Forum of the George Street United church Sunday afternoon. His large audience included many local Jewish residents and a large number of ladies.

Rabbi Sachs urged tolerance, based on difference, with no attempt to force everybody into the same mould, as the best method in which people in their own communities might harmonize with one another, pointing out that the British Empire furnished the world with the best example of how people of different races, languages and religions could live together in peace and harmony under one flag.

Introduced by R. J. Goring, vice-president of the Forum, Rabbi Sachs launched out into his subject by asking the question "Where is the discord?" the answer to which he said was very simple.

From year to year and from century to century, the speaker pointed out, the world had been going on endeavoring to build up a true civilization, the very foundation of which was one little commandment, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor." Love was the primary note in all civilized religion, friendship, loyalty, kindness, belief in giving a square deal, fair wages and loyalty to one's employer.

Doctrine of Hatred

Recently, however, discord had been introduced into the fine symphony of civilization and certain powerful nations were promulgating the doctrine of "Hate thy neighbor." The doctrine of hatred was spreading in central and eastern Europe, and it expressed itself in fascist—and Nazism came from the same ideology as fascism—philosophy, in a belief in the absolute sovereignty of the national state.

"Fascism," said the speaker, "says that the nation and the state are the same thing, that the state can do no wrong and is always right and all human interests are evaluated by their contribution to the state."

Certain conclusions, Rabbi Sachs continued, necessarily followed out of the fascist philosophy. In the first place since Fascism regarded the state as the highest social concept, it could recognize no loyalty to humanity in general. Fascist nations recognized no authority not of their making or coinciding with their interests.

Fascism Militaristic

Secondly fascism implied militarism and fascist leaders believed that war was not only a legitimate but a commendable expression of national will. The nation was necessarily a fighting unit and children from their infancy were brought up to fit into that unit. Third fascism was intolerant of anything that might have the effect of dividing the nation into classes. In this connection Rabbi Sachs pointed out that there was very little difference between fascism and communism, declaring that there was not a breath of democracy either in fascism or communism.

Again fascism insisted upon a uniform religion and uniform education. There was no freedom of speech o rthought. "People in Germany," said the speaker, "are afraid to think because they might talk in their sleep and find themselves in a concentration camp."

"Wherever fascism goes," said Rabbi Sachs, "hatred is inevitable and wherever there is hatred there is also evil."

Discussing the ways in which the problem of trying to harmonize in the present world could be attacked, the speaker said that the experts had led us down and there was no use leaving the problem to them, nor was anything to be gained by sitting down and saying that everything was going to be all right.

Britain Preparing

That used to be the old British way, he said, but Britain was no longer content to muddle through. She was arming and she was right to arm for when mad dogs were running loose it was well for people to carry sticks with them when they walked abroad.

"I am not a militarist," said Rabbi Sachs. "I was in the last war and that is why I am opposed to war. But I believe in armaments and the more the better under the circumstances. When there are mad nations at large, the stronger the democracies are the better chance they will have to survive."

The speaker closed his address with an eloquent plea for tolerance and understanding among right-thinking people, as offering the most effective plan of harmonizing, urging that people should remember they came from one source, God, and had one destiny, service for humanity. Nothing was to be gained by trying to put everyone through the same mould, Rabbi Sachs declared, adding tolerance based on differences was the way out.

During the discussion period that followed the speaker said that Hitler had used the feeling against the Jews as a lever to raise himself to power. In two or three years when there would be no more Jews left in Germany to blame when things went wrong, Rabbi Sachs predicted, that Hitler's next victims would be the Catholics of Germany.

Jacob Low moved the vote of thanks to the speaker for his instructive address.

C. H. Elliott, who presided, announced that next Sunday the speaker would be W. G. Robertson, general manager of the Ontario Motor League.

Fire Threatens Stoney Creek

GETS TEN DAYS

Thomas Cleary, a veteran in police court circles, pleaded guilty before Magistrate Langley today to begging on Queen street and was given ten days in jail. He asked for an adjournment for a few days but Magistrate Langley remarked that the accused did not seem to be in very good shape and he would be better off with a short time in jail.

A GOOD RECORD

Springville United Sunday School has been setting up quite an attendance record. In 1937, no fewer than 27 members had a mark of attending 52 Sundays in the year and last year there were 25 with a perfect record, two more who had missed only one Sunday and another six who had bee nabsent but twice. This is out of an average attendance of 70. Honor shields are presented to all who attend 50 Sundays and there is a special shield for the 51-Sunday pupils and the highest honors for the perfect-attendance group.

TAKEN TO LAKEFIELD

The mystery of the injured man on the Lakefield Road early Saturday morning was solved when it was discovered that the man, a resident of Lakefield, had been taken to that village by the motorist who found him on the side of the road. He had been walking home from Peterborough to Lakefield and Traffic Officers Broughton and McClure who investigated the circumstances are satisfied there was no automobile involved in the affair and that the man had slipped while walking and struck his head on the icy road. He was not seriously hurt.

"SACRAMENT"

"Sacrament" was the subject of the lesson-sermon for First Church of Christ Church, Peterborough, on Sunday. The Golden Text was, "The bread of God is he which cometh down from heaven, and giveth life unto the world." (John 6:33). Selections from the Bible included the following from Revelation 3:20, "Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me." Correlative citations from the Christian Science textbook, included the following from page 131: "Jesus once said 'I thank Thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that Thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them unto babes: even so, Father, for so it seemed good in Thy sight.' As aforetime, the spirit of Christ, which taketh away the ceremonies and doctrines of men, is not accepted until the hearts of men are made ready for it."

Marked Interest Is Being Shown In Biographies, Report Of Librarian DelaFosse Reveals

Unsettled world conditions and the grave crises of the past year in many parts of Europe and the East is believed responsible for the fact that local people have shown a marked interest in biographies, and the lives of great men in the world today. This fact is revealed in the annual report of the Peterborough Public Library where circulation figures show 3,425 biography books were taken out in 1937 and in 1938 there were 4,100.

Books on travel placed second in the increase column, there being 3,139 in 1937 and last year 3,675. This too is believed to result from the unsettled conditions in many parts of the world, as newspaper accounts have incited the curiosity of many who took the trouble to learn more about the peoples and countries where upheavals were taking place. In this department too, it is believed that many unemployed adults whiled away the hours reading of far away lands and pleasure spots which they desire to visit but will never be able to do so. The annual report draws attention to the fact that the type of reading matter which has shown the increases is the most valuable from an educational point of view.

Fiction, the department which is used the most showed a slight increase. In 1937 64,416 volumes of fiction were borrowed and in 1938, 66,066 books were taken out. There were 435 men and 433 women who took out borrower's cards as new members in 1938.

Well Patronized

The reading room was well patronized throughout the year, and the men, many of them ordinary laborers, chose a high type of reading matter and appeared to be keenly interested in politics, world affairs and sociology.

Excellent work has been done in the Juvenile department where the demand was great because of a change in the school curriculum which called for a greater amount of supplementary reading. Since last year a new entrance has been made at the north side of the building for the children and this relieved considerable congestion at the main entrance.

During the year 2,127 books have been acquired for the library, an advance of 583 books over the previous year, 1,359 for the adult department and 768 for the juvenile. The rush of work caused by the change in the school curriculum has caused the staffs of both the adult and juvenile departments to be busy at routine book handling with the result that cataloguing of reference work has been neglected somewhat, and there is the possibility that extra help may be needed if the people continue to take advantage of the facilities offered by the library to the same extent as in 1938.

Elected Chairman

Frank Hickey has been named chairman of the Library Board for the current year, taking the place of W. C. Ackerman who directed the Board in '38. Other members of the Board are: W. G Morrow, Dr. H. R. H. Kenner, A. Mowat, L. D. W. Magie, A. E. Borland, Emmett F. Sheehy and W. C. Ackerman. Mayor James Hamilton is an ex-officio member. F. M. DelaFosse is secretary-treasurer and librarian.

Members of the Board voiced commendation of the fine work done during the year by the staff and the able direction and supervision of F. M. DelaFosse.

Canton Plant Ruined

HONG KONG, Jan. 9.— (AP).—Japanese planes bombed Shekki, south of Canton, to-day and destroyed an electric light plant. Twelve workmen were killed.

Weichow Island, 35 miles south of Pakhoi, in the Gulf of Tongking, was reported occupied by Japanese marines after three cruisers and an aircraft carrier concentrated near the island.

With The Boy Scouts

At St. Andrew's.

The cubs witnessed two pleasing ceremonies when two sixers were invested and three new chums taken into the great brotherhood of scouting.

Kenneth Nichols, Jack Braund and George MacKay having won their points and passed their tests were invested as tenderpads to take the jungle trail with the pack and sit at the council rock.

Then followed another fitting ceremony when David Johnson and Douglas Morrison with due ritual took the responsibility of leading other boys as sixers.

Mothers of the group are cordially invited to attend a meeting of the St. Andrew's Mother's Auxiliary at the home of Mrs. Morrison at 3 p.m. on the afternoon of Tuesday, January 10.

At All Saints'.

Last Friday's meeting was one of those after-holiday affairs where everyone wants to let off steam, so the meeting was just a series of lively games. The Scouter was absent owing to work.

Next week the Beaver patrol will be on duty. The meeting being called for 7.15 sharp.

The cubs are asked to turn out in full numbers, as there will be a pleasant surprise in store for them. Please come early.

Each member of the rover crew is requested to bring along pieces of firewood on Wednesday as the stock has run out. Gordon White is responsible for the kindling wood.

Bill Coleman Memorial Trophy.

A special meeting of the Bill Coleman Memorial Trophy committee has awarded that trophy to the All Saints' pack for the past year. There was a certain lack of co-operation on part of the cub leaders in the fact that not one report received from any pack on the past year's activities. Mr. Hope, the maker and donor of the totem pole expressed his disappointment.

The new committee of Messrs B. Ottowell, Lyburn and Lloyd Richards, will be popping up at the pack meetings any day to study points for the award next year. According to the various reports received during the past year, St. George's, Sacred Heart and St. Andrew's should receive honorable mention for they have done some good work.

And St. John's pack are 100 per cent. so far as newspaper reports are concerned—having failed only twice to send in the news write-up.

Scouters' Club.

A meeting of the scouters' club is called for Thursday, January 12, at 8 p.m. in the association headquarters.

President George Brooks has several ideas to put before us. The scouters' club is the only medium through which officers can get to know each other thoroughly. So let us reserve Thursday night for George and his gang.

Attention All Group Committees.

Plans have been drawn up to hold a joint meeting of all group committees' members, scout officers, local association and district officers—to be held in the Paragon Hall on the evening of Thursday, January 26, at 7.45 o'clock.

Behind this is the aim to give committeemen a thorough understanding of their responsibilities and duties and to discuss fully the relationship between the committee, scout officers and sponsoring bodies. A great need of understanding is felt along this line, and those men who have accepted a position on any group committee will find it an evening well spent. Refreshments will be served afterward and come prepared to give your conconstructive criticism.

With St. John's.

The rover crew will hold their business meeting on Tuesday, at which all new suggestions will be put forward. Last week a good turn out was an hand.

The cub pack were honored by a visit from the St. Paul's pack, and a large turnout was on hand to welcome the visitors. "Cock Fight" "Light Relay" and "Hop Squat" were among the games played.

An impressive ceremony witnessed the appointment of Roland Dore as sixer of the Black Wolves, to fill the vacancy caused by Bill Lech, who recently went to the troop through a going-up ceremony.

Sixer Stewart Sage was appointed senior sixer of the pack.

The pack hockey teams are to be chosen next Friday, so that any St. John's cub desiring to be placed on a team must be on hand to see that his name is placed on the list.

This is the third season the packs have formed a league, and we wish them the best of luck and good hunting.

Bill Lech was accepted into the scout troop at a fitting going-up ceremony—leaving the pack as sixer of the Black.

At camp-fire, Jack Marshall, who was with the scouts in Oshawa, was appointed to patrol leader of the Eagle patrol. T.L. Ken Brown continued his P.T. exercises.

At the Sacred Heart.

The cub pack are moving forward after a little setback, and good Christmas and New Year parties were enjoyed, the parents taking part in the former.

Akela spoke to the boys on New Year's work with a hope that the pack would do its part for the betterment of cubbing in Peterborough during 1939.

Paul O'Dette was recently accepted into the movement when he was invested as a tenderpad.

The pack are forming a hockey team and hope to enjoy a game or two with some other pack team during the winter. Mr. Gilman, a father of one of the cubs, has kindly consented to take charge of these teams.—The Skipper.

Team Of Siberian Huskies

Frisco and Jiggs, seen here with their owner, Frank Millard, Cameron Street, are believed to be the only Siberian huskies in Southern Ontario. Used in the far north in dog teams, the animals are strong to an extreme, more intelligent than most dogs. Between them they eat about forty or fifty pounds of meat a week. (Examiner Staff Photo.)

Two Siberian Huskies Are Owned By Frank Millard, Cameron Street

Two natives of the far north have made Peterborough their home and are liking it well, particularly during the past few weeks when the thermometer has recorded weather such as they used to know.

They are two Siberian huskies named Frisco and Jiggs, and are owned by Frank Millard, Cameron street. He has had them since they were three months old, when they were shipped by plane and train from the Woman Lake area, two hundred miles north of Sioux Lookout. The dogs are now a year and a half old, are seemingly content with this "tropical" area.

Of a hardy breed, the dogs are sturdy sons of a mother who was lead dog on a team that used to draw the mail between Jackson Manion and Hudson Patricia mines. Full-grown now each weighs close to a hundred pounds. Between them they eat between forty and fifty pounds of meat each week. Their owner has had little difficulty in training them to draw a sled and they too kto harness almost as thought they had been used to it. Frank Millard believes them to be the only dogs of their kind in southern Ontario.

Fourteen-Year-Old Girl Steals $20 Then Indulges In Great Spending Orgy

The story of a spending orgy indulged in by a fourteen-year-old girl and some of her young friends after she had stolen a purse containing $20 in money from a local doctor's office Saturday afternoon, was told in juvenile court this morning after the girl had pleaded guilty to the theft of the purse and money which were the property of Miss Bernice Hall and were stolen from the office of Dr. Buchanan.

After taking the purse from a window the girl had removed the money from it and then tossed the purse itself on to the roof of a garage at the rear of the Coronation Apartments. Then she had met some of her girl friends and constituted herself as the hostess of a party, the itinerary of which included meals and refreshments at several restaurants, a shopping expedition in which stockings, ski trousers and other articles were purchased and wound up with a taxi home. The ski garb was taken by the girl to a branch post office and mailed to her home with a note inside about being "better late than never," the idea being to deceive her parents into believing the trousers were a belated Christmas gift.

When the spending picnic was finally interrupted by the arrest of the girls Saturday night, half the stolen money was gone.

In juvenile court today Miss Rachel Young, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, told the magistrate that the girl had been involved in several other cases of theft, including a bicycle, light bulbs and several purses, but this was the first time she had been charged in court with an offence.

The girl was allowed to go on suspended sentence, after a stern warning from the magistrate, one of the conditions being that she is not to go out at night except with the consent of her parents.

MORE ABOUT—

ation of Peterborough from which he has received the honor of its presidency. He also expressed the sincere wishes of the great number of the citizens who were intensely interested in the affairs of the council, although its members might not realize at time the extent of the people's interest. Rev. Mr. Parr congratulated the council upon its work of last year, and upon the many evidences it had given that it had at heart the highest and best interests of the city. The fact that the record of the council commended itself to the citizens was demonstrated at the polls a week ago. Rev. Mr. Parr said he knew of no city that was more kindly disposed toward its people who found themselves in need than was Peterborough, and this attitude had been steadily reflected through the council's administration of such matters.

Six words and their connected ideas were recommended to the new council by Rev. Mr. Parr as touchstones of success in 1939. These words were,—thought, study, decision, action, ideals and work. He discussed each of them briefly, and said in conclusion that the dominant desire of the council of 1939 would be to improve conditions in Peterborough for its working people, to raise homes to a higher level of happiness and the people living in concord with one another. "That is the ideal which with the city council we all will strive and pray for."

Adjutant Warrander followed with prayer, and the council proceeded to its reorganization in preparation for the first regular meeting of the year tonight.

Applause For Dutton

The council paid passing tributes to its chairmen of last year on the successful supervision of their departments, Wilson with the Board of Works; Juby with Fire, Water and Light; Stocker with the Parks; Gordon of the Legal; Cotton, finance; Glover with the manufacturers, and finally a round of applause at Alderman Dutton's acceptance again of the Relief committee.

Alderman Stocker remarked that he wouldn't take it for $5,000.

"No one is anxious to take it," Ald. Dutton said, "but it has to be done. I have not worried a great deal about it, providing the work is done acceptably. So far as criticism is concerned, while it is levelled at me I know all the members of the council are willing to bear their share."

"A little more publicity like we had the other night, and the citizens generally will get some idea of what some cases are like and what the relief committee has to put up with," Alderman Stocker said.

Alderman Bradburn said he was reluctant about assuming the Legal Committee after the fine job Alderman Gordon had made of it last year. Alderman Gordon said he was prepared to give the chairman every assistance, but he wished to be relieved of the chairmanship. His name was added to the Parks Committee when Alderman Stocker said "Alderman Gordon shows more respect for the parks than any other lawyer in the city."

Only two citizens were present this morning in the public gallery of the council chamber. They were W. H. Bradburn, a former mayor, and Vincent Stewart.

W. B. Deyell Dies At Frobisher In 59th Year

FROBISHER, Sask., Jan. 9. — Wellington Burgess Deyell, long and respected resident of Frobisher, died recently. Although deceased had been in failing health for some considerable time, it was not expected that death was so near, and as a consequence the news came as quite a shock to the community where he has resided for over thirty years.

Born in Peterborough, Ont., in the year 1880, son of Sarah Burgess and Samuel Deyell, in the year 1900 he decided to go west and settled in Frobisher community, where he has been a prosperous farmer ever since; he took a keen intreest in raising high-grade horses and cattle and he has many times won awards for his exhibits at the various exhibitions in this province and a few times at Brandon; deceased was very retiring in nature, but was a keen student of events and followed farming research with deep interest; not given to any public activities, he, nevertheless, watched the best interest of his country and community and supported every movement for the improvement of farm life. Stricken several years ago with cancer, he has suffered quite a lot, but did so cheerfully; he sought all medical skill in an effort to secure a cure, but this was not possible. He is survived by his wife and four of a family, two of whom were born to his first wife who died in March, 1916. These are Viola at Russell, Man., and Jack at home; and Betty and Bob, also at home; he leaves two sisters, Mrs. Arthur Franks of Omemee, Ont., and Miss Eliza Deyell of Peterborough, Ont., also two brothers, Sam at Peterborough, Ont., and Fred of Frobisher, Sask.

The funeral was held in the United Church, Frobisher, where a large number of friends and neighbors gathered to pay their last respects to the memory of a real fine citizen. The extremely severe weather which gripped the Prairies made it impossible for many to attend the funeral from surrounding towns. The service was deeply impressive and conducted by Rev. W. H. Colter. Interment followed in Frobisher Cemetery. We wish to associate ourselves with the host of friends who have expressed sincere condolences with the bereaved ones in their hour of sorrow.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. John Ewan, Alf Hannah, Bill Beaton, George Ward, Tom Walls, and Alexander McLagan.

"A light is from our household gone,
A voice we loved is still;
A vacant place is in our home
Which none can ever fill."

Man Fined $100 For Giving Liquor To Indian

It was an unlucky thing for two Curve Lake Indians and a local resident that Corp. T. J. Woods of the R.C.M.P. happened to drop into town on Saturday afternoon. As a result of his visit Charles White of Peterborough pleaded guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning to illegally supplying liquor to Samuel Taylor, Jr., an Indian, the charge being laid under the Indian Act, and was fined $100 and $3.90 costs, the alternative being two months in jail.

Taylor pleaded guilty to illegal possession of liquor, contrary to the Indian Act, and he was fined $25 and $3.90 costs or a month's imprisonment.

Alex. Knott, also of Curve Lake, was charged under the Indian Act with being drunk on Brock Street and asked for a week's adjournment. He was granted the request when Corp. Woods had no objection to offer.

The Mountie Corporal happened to be in the neighborhood of the wine store when he saw White come out of the place and join forces with Taylor. He followed the pair several blocks on Aylmer Street and after they had entered a wood yard he followed them inside and placed them under arrest. Several drinks had been taken out of one quart bottle of wine when Corporal Woods arrived on the scene and Taylor had a full quart shoved down inside his trousers.

Amost at the same time Corporal Woods had noticed Alex. Knott and his appearance aroused his suspicions. The city police had also had a complaint about the same man and he was arrested by Corporal Woods and Officer Wm. Piercey and brought into the police station.

White and Taylor were arraigned Saturday afternoon before Gordon Puffer, J.P. and remanded until this morning.

Driver Is Pinned Within His Car

Although his automobile turned turtle in the ditch and he was so tightly imprisoned in the capsized machine that pliers had to be used to extricate him G. E. Church of Toronto was fortunate enough to escape without injury when his machine slid off the road on highway No. 7 two miles east of here on Saturday. Church, who was alone, was passing another car driven by J. Fife of Norwood when he got too far over on his side of the highway and his automobile went into the ditch and turned over.

Fife went to his rescue and had to use pliers to open a door and let the other driver out of his capsized machine. The Church car was damaged considerably but the driver was uninjured.

Floating Bridge Is Well Advertised

Chemong's floating bridge is advertising this district all over the continent it would seem and recently an excellent photograph of the structure appeared in a number of United States newspapers. Mrs. C. Wilson, 202 King George street has received a copy of the Louisville Courier-Journal from a friend in Louisville with whom she has been corresponding for 12 years and it contains a three-column picture of the Chemong bridge with the heading "Here's the Longest Floating Bridge" and the following description: "Probably the longest floating bridge in North America stretches across Chemong Lake. The nearly mile-long span is anchored every hundred feet with chains and large boulders. The driving surface is just a few inches above the water and stout railing lines each edge from shore to shore. Bays are built out from the sides to enable cars to pass in safety."

FULL GALLERY SEES SCRAPS AT SENIOR CITY CAGE OPENERS

Hecla, Quakers, Dominions Win Basketball Tilts

A one-point upset of St. Paul's by Dominions and a 24-20 up-hill victory of Quakers over St. John's highlighted Saturday night's opening of the Senior City Basketball League before a crowded gallery at the Y.M.C.A. Hecla ran away with the first game against C.G.E., but the crowd was on their feet from then on as Dominions came back strong in final quarter to beat St. Paul's, and Quakers had to do the same thing to win over St. John's in the stretch. It was rough basketball, players being banished with four fouls, and Joe Jackafby and Les Ascott chased for fighting in the last game. Little Jim Thorburn of a losing St. Paul's team was the big scorer of the night dropping in 25 of his team's 37 points while Ward of Quakers and Sedgewick of Hecla each had 13.

Hecla piled up a big lead of 14 points in the first half of their game with C.G.E. and then coasted through a low scoring second half to win easily 28-10. C.G.E., minus several players never did get started and Hecla grabbed the lead early and hung onto it to the end in what was somewhat of a slow game. It was rough and hard all the way with numerous fouls being called and Holmes and Archibald being banished. Sedgewick and Dougherty sparked the victors with Cameron and Holmes leading C.G.E.

The teams:

C.G.E., 10—Centre, Holmes (7); forwards, Edmonson (2), Hunter (1); guards, Cameron, Broadley; sub, Archibald.

Hecla, 28—Centre, Moorhead (6); forwards, West, Dougherty (8); guards, Sedgewick (13), Turner (1).

Exciting Tilt

Dominions and St. Paul's, who hooked up in the second game, put on the most exciting battle of the night as Dominions won by a nose 38-37. St. Paul's had a 19-10 lead at the half and looked to be winning going away but Dominions came back strongly and the score went to 24-all. From there in, the lead zig-zagged back and forth and with three minutes to play St. Paul's again were leading 37-34 only to have Dominions score twice in the few remaining seconds to win as the crowd was on its feet yelling. The winners had no individual scoring stars with the points being spread evenly through the lineup. Grose, Rennie, Wolstenholme, Weese and Dundas were standouts with Csumrick notching 8 points in the last half rally. Thorburn and McArthur shone.

The teams:

St. Paul's, 37—Centre, McArthur (6); forwards, Thorburn (25), Gemmel (2); guards, Marsh, Pulkinghorn (4); subs, White, McIntyre.

Dominion's 38—Centre- Wolstenholme (4); forwards, Holmes, Weese (7); guards, Grose (2), Rennie (3); subs., Hammel (6), Csumrick (8), Dundas (8), Hunter.

Lively Third

St. John's took an early 6-point lead over Quakers in the final game and were still ahead 13-6 at the half, but in the third quarter Quakers came back strongly and won out. St. John's lost both regular guards, Ascott for fighting and Dyer with four fouls and big Joe Jackafby, one of the Quaker stars was also banished for fighting. Quaker's pulled up with the losers in the third quarter and passed them early in the final period and their lead was never destroyed from there in. Walter Ward was the scoring hero for the winners in their last half drive, laying away 11 points with Gunsolus, Kingdon and Thomas also prominent. Gillespie starred for the losers and Dyer notched 5 points before being evicted.

The teams:

Quakers, 24 — Centre, Jackafby (2); forwards, Ward (13), Thomas; guards, Gunsolus (2), Patterson (2); subs, Kingdon (3), Galley (2), Ellis, Ash.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

It seems that Toronto Stockyards are slated to tackle the Petes about 8.30 or so in the Brock St. aroma—we mean arena—tonight. The "aroma" is Java Joe's word and he also told us Saturday that the Orfuns were "on the brink of an abscess," but that's quite by the way and of course has nothing to do with the aroma of the Stockyards' squad, the boys from Toronto no doubt shedding that healthy cow odor en route in a chill breeze. The Stockyards are said to be strong—no, no, not the beefy type of strong — and they smack their rivals around with gay abandon and bouncing bodychecks. After all, ya can't get to the top of the Mercantile League (often known as the Blood & Thunder circuit) without a certain amount of zest for your work. These babies, we hear, have lots of zest.

* * * * * *

Bugs Baer is one of the witty writers across the line, though he writes more politics than sports. He said Saturday: "There is also a budgetary sixth sense known as balancing. It's a bit too psychic for the lads with their heads in the trough and one ear out for a telephone call." Well, we pulled the beak out of a schooner and cocked an ear to the phone and got the Stockyards' lineup. It includes: Ginger Hall, Don Rae, Bunky Lukasik, Clary Goldsmith, Jack Cordick, Evan Rennie, Bill Love, Bill Barney, Chick Webster, Mally Phillips, Jim Good, Norm Walker, M. Ezeard, Ed Zulauf, Gord Diplock and Jim McKelvie. The team is good and the Petes, who are rounding into real shape now, will be at full strength. It oughta be a real scrap and rates a crowd. The Toronto outfit said they'd be on time and bring all the boys along.

South Craves Hockey

Jack Maunder, ex-Lindsay scribe who now earns his beans and bologna with the Sudbury Star, writes that the Southern States are getting hot for hockey and will go for this game big within a coupla years. Already Florida has a loop — and we know that as two Peterborough pucksists are in it—and several Texas cities as well as New Orleans (pronounced N'Awlins, if you hail from the cotton belt) and Atlanta, Georgia, where Ty Cobb was born to baseball, are making inquiries about operating puck leagues on artificial ice. They have summer heat there in winter time as a rule in the daytime, with cool nights, so it is tough on Canuck players to turn in a real game, but after all the fans dunno what real hockey is and it's a swell future for a lotta local and other Canadian kids just learning the game. The U.S. is definitely getting puck conscious, and we wondered how long ere they'd get wise to this speedy sport.

* * * * * *

Bun Morganson in the Tely writes: "For many seasons Peterborough was a stronghold in Senior O.H.A. hockey. But lack of accommodation and a small rink forced this city to step aside as the senior hockey parade went on its way. Peterborough is too good of a sports town to remain in the dark as far as senior hockey is concerned. Percy Bond, past president of the O.H.A. and now leader of the Central Ontario Branch of the A.A.U. of C. and lifetime booster for Peterborough, is leading the fight to get a new rink and the return of senior hockey in the Liftlock City." We are glad to hear this, though we must confess we didn't know Percy Bond or anyone else was leading any fight for the arena, which we boost from time to time in the paper—and which will come in time, even if our whiskers get in the way of our tomato soup the supper before opening night!

Rugged Cage Frays

Quite a gang of rooters at the "Y" Saturday eye as Hecla, Dominions and Quakers won their opening Senior City Cage Loop games. A fist fight and a flock of penalties sparked the program along. Rugged play in basketball should be stopped, that is if the authorities want the fan interest to die and the players to forget to show up for games! The cage sport was a pretty pansy affair as originated by Mr. Naismith, and he oughta be ashamed—calling for a penalty every time a gee brushed against another. But it's a good speedy and exciting sport if they forget to blow the whistle every two minutes — and the City Loop should enjoy a good season. The refereeing of Doc Worton and Curly Krug—who played a lot of rugby here the l ast several games—was of the okay variety. The bounce-'em basketball boys ought to pack 'em in during the winter.

* * * * * *

Quinte scribe says of Friday's joust: "The Petes did not spare the rod once the Redmen assumed a first-period lead. Coach Buckland's gang moved five up early in the second and kept play very much in the Belleville zone from that point, but the courageous Redmen battled to the last and really made things tough for the Petes. Good hockey was out of the question and the puck carriers were forced to revert to golfing methods when in position to bang away at the rival goalie. It was open season on incoming forwards last night. The defencemen had their day as the ice condition slowed forwards up so the hard-hitting defencemen could hit them, and there were more than the usual number of spills and thrills. St. Louis, Bentley, McNulty and Crowe had a field day, picking their spots and handing out heavy bruising bodychecks."

Death Of A Star

We were shocked this morning to hear of the death of Shiner Johnston over the week-end, a heart attack striking him down suddenly. It will come as a blow to local and district sports fans and to many around the Central Ontario League circuit and in Toronto. Shiner was a star ball player in his day in Toronto, Peterborough and Belleville, playing most of his ball here. A clever, classy infielder (generally at third base) he was a dangerous hitter in the clutches. He managed the club here, also, and was long a C.O.B.L. umpire. Not only that but Shiner was connected for a time with the Petes' puckists as trainer and was a keen hockey fan—never missing a game here and often motoring to Toronto or Oshawa to witness a contest. He played good golf and was keen on hunting and fishing.

* * * * * *

It is rather hard to realize that Shiner is gone. He was at Friday's junior puck tilt here and as lively and interested as ever. A clean-living athlete (who never took a drink), Shiner finished a long and starry career on the diamond only a few years ago. He was popular with the boys in baseball and hockey—yet a real battler on the field. We recall him playing a grand game in Riverside in the days of Swanston, Heckman, the Mills brothers, Dainty, Gallagher, et al—when we wore short pants. And we worked with him as scorer when he managed the newer Petes of three years ago. We counted Shiner not only as a good news source but a grand baseball veteran and a good friend.

Football Is Violent And Complex Sport With Sex Appeal, Says French Scribes

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
Central Press Canadian Correspondent

PARIS, Jan. 9.—"It certainly has sex appeal."

This topped the rather bizarre comment of the sports writers after the first exhibition of American football ever seen in France.

More than 25,000 packed the Parc-des-Princes stadium to see two teams of American all-stars brought over by Jim Crowley of Fordham University stage their spectacular mud battle.

For the most part, the spectators were speechless with astonishment, at the start. For the first few minutes after the kick-off, they were the quietest French crowd I ever saw. It was uncanny.

But when they began to get hang of the game, the Gallic customers became loudly enthusiastic. The running of Victor Fusia, ex-Manhattan star, was especially acclaimed. After the game, minor riots broke out as arguments arose as to whether the game, after all, was not too "slow."

Not understanding the strategy of the game, many of the fans found the huddles between plays unbearably irksome. (Editor's note: Who doesn't?)

Nevertheless, football found enough favor here to lead to the creation of a French conference.

The American colony split its sides reading the comment of the French sports writers.

"Very exciting," the headlines stated, and "too slow," "full of sex appeal," "barbaric game," "nothing to it," "violent and complex sport."

Writing in Le Jour, Monsieur Charles Maigret said:

"It is a sort of debate between teams, as well as a furious combat, like two herds of buffalo resolved to exterminate themselves."

That much, he said, the French had already known from the newsreels.

"But what we didn't know is that this work of mastadons is as minutely regulated as that of the ballet girls at the opera."

He concluded that of all games played with a ball, "le rugby Americain is that which demands the greatest discipline," and that if French athletes hope to play they will "have to submit themselves to a long and ferocious period of training."

M. Maigret thus got in a lick for the policy of the paper which is always yelling for discipline in France.

M. Eduard Bardon admitted in Petit Parisien that "the agility and rapidity of the reflexes of the players seduced me," but "at first glance, I must conclude that whereas rugby is a game of high civilization, American football is a barbaric game."

Jean Remy of Le Soir, said he would oppose introduction of football in France, whose youth, "already reduced in number, cannot afford the luxury of leaving behind it dead and injured."

HOW TO SKI

By FRITZ LOOSLI
Instructor Toronto Ski Club

Fritz Loosli demonstrates the proper high speed running position. A strong downpull binding is necessary for this position.

HIGH SPEED RUNNING AND TEMPO TURN

High speed running and tempo turn is a timed or gauged turn, while the telemark, the stem and to certain extent the christiania are steered turns. There are many variations of the tempo turn, but they are all performed by balance and weight shifting rather than by force. The common principle is the smooth flow of movement which results in a high speed turn with little or no loss of speed. To the average skier or beginner it all seems to be a stem, pure, or parallel christiania, but to the one who executes such urns, it is a gliding feeling which greatly increases the pleasure of skiing. Being a turn that is felt, makes it hard to explain or describe.

Downpull Binding Required.

To begin, a strong downpull binding is required, preferably a cable binding because of its elasticity. For those who cannot afford a downpull binding, a strip of inner tube one inch wide and a foot long fastened to the ankle and at the back of the skis behind the heel will provide a downpull satisfactory to increase the forward lean (VORLAGE) necessary for the first attempts at the tempo.

Dick Durrance, the outstanding American slalom and downhill runner, used a similar downpull attachment of years in preference to the Amstutz spring.

The first attempt in high speed running should be straight running downhill in a slope of no less than 20 degrees. Stand fairly erect and press the knees forward until the heel begins to lift off the skis; try to hold that position until you reach the bottom of the hill; to avoid a fall forward, release slightly that forward lean when reaching the flat. If a strong downpull cable binding is available the forward lean may be exaggerated to the point that the nose almost touches the front of the skis, although this exaggerated forward lean is never used in practical running or racing, it is a good exercise to get the feel and confidence in running in an extreme vorlage.

Practise Bending Ankles.

The heels should be kept on the skis, but the weight of the body should rest on the balls of the feet. Bending the ankles should be practised daily to get as much dipping of the knees as possible without raising the heels off the floor. Ladies should practise this even more than men, because of the stiffness of their ankles, due to wearing high heel shoes. It is preferable to have a more erect position with the hips pressed forward, rather than a body lean with hips hanging back. The hands slightly forward, not stretched, but hanging freely somewhat above the knees. The rings of the poles are not dragged on the snow, they are a few inches above the snow, and the poles pointing slightly to the side, rather than straight back. When the shoulders swing from one turn to another, the pole follows the same motion.

The arms and shoulders are held firm but not tense, shoulders slightly hunched.

Syracuse Stars Grab 2 Wins Over Weekend

(By the Canadian Press.)

In days not so long ago to talk of the class of the International-American hockey league meant to talk of the Syracuse Stars for the farm club of Toronto Maple Leafs had just finished winning two straight league championships. And now, after lean times last year and part of this season the Stars seem to be hitting again.

The club picked up two victories during the week-end to mark up the best showing for the period of any team in the league. They trounced Pittsburgh Hornets 3-0 Sunday and Springfield Indians 4-2 Saturday to climb only four points away from the second place Hershey Bears in the western grouping.

The pace-setting club, Cleveland Barons, played a 2-2 tie with New Haven Eagles last night and defeated Philadelphia Ramblers 5-2 Saturday.

In the other week-end games Providence Reds topped Springfield 3-2 Sunday and the Bears handed the Hornets the first of two week-end setbacks when they topped the Pittsburgh team 4-1 Saurday night.

RUGBY JUDICIARY

MANCHESTER—(CP).—A conference of representatives of the Rugby League Council and Lancashire and Yorkshire county committees agreed as to the usefulness of a "judiciary committee" to deal with players' offences. Definite proposals will be discussed later.

What will you be doing—ONE YEAR FROM TODAY

THREE hundred and sixty-five days from now—what?

Will you still be struggling along in the same old job at the same old salary—worried about the future—never able to make both ends meet?

One year from today will you still be putting off your start toward success—thrilled with ambition one moment and stone cold the next—delaying, hoping, fiddling away the precious hours that will never come again? Don't do it, man—don't do it.

There is no greater tragedy in the world than that of a man who stays in a rut all his life, when with just a little effort he could advance.

Make up your mind today that you're going to train yourself to do some one thing well. Choose your occupation from the list below, and get the full story of what I.C.S. can do for you.

PARSONS REGISTERS TWO GOALS TO BLANK BOSTON BRUINS

Leafs Blank Vaunted Bruins By 2-0 Then Let Hawks Take Them 1-0; Rangers Smack Americans 5-2

By Jack Calder
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Now that the first huzzahs for Master Frankie Brimsek have rolled over the hill, it's time to look around and see which National Hockey League goaltenders are rivalling Boston Bruins' prodigy in the rough racket of warding off rubber bullets.

They turned the calcium glare on Brimsek when he came in to replace Tiny Thompson after the Bruin veteran was sold to Detroit. And there was nothing wrong in calling 23-year-old Frankie a sensation when he scored two sequences of three shutouts. That is goaltending in the full sense.

But all the while another 23-year-old boy, who came up to the big league two years ago and had to ride a rockier road at the start was doing a bit of a job for Toronto Maple Leafs. Not many folks will give you an argument if you say the Boston defence affords a more consistent protection than Toronto's.

So it was something of a surprise to some of the 13,881 souls at Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday when the Leafs spilled the League-leading Bruins 2-0, with Turk Broda's goal-tending playing a principal part. It was Broda's sixth shutout of the season, tying himself in that respect with Brimsek for the league leadership.

Between them, the Boston poker-face and the burly Toronto backstop have amassed half the league's total of 23 shutouts—but the picture doesn't end with them. Along came Mike Karakas last night, poking his thin face right in with his fifth shutout as the Black Hawks defeated the Leafs and Broda 1-0 at Chicago.

Just a notch back, with four whitewashings, is Davie Kerr of the Rangers, who wasn't in shutout form last night but was good enough to help the Blueshirts to a 5-2 win over their intra-New York foes, the Americans, at Madison Square Garden. Only two others have recorded no-goal performances. Claude Bourque had one while replacing Wilf Cude with Montreal Canadiens and Thompson the other after joining Detroit.

Leafs Now Fifth.

Broda's work on Saturday night, combined with the neat attacking of George Parsons, lifted the Leafs into fourth position. They dropped right back to fifth and the Hawks regained the fourth rung last night. Rangers advanced to within three points of Boston, while Detroit kept its two-point margin over the last-place Canadiens by tying them 1-1 at Montreal.

Parsons delighted the biggest crowd of the Toronto season by spanking home Murphy Chamberlain's rebound late in the second period. He got the other Leaf goal with six minutes to play, speeding a clean shot past Brimsek after shaking loose two Boston defenders. The sting left the Bruin attack three minutes from the finish when big Eddie Shore was given a match misconduct penalty for shooting the puck at Referee Norm Lamport.

Bill Thoms, a Leaf until he was traded for Doc Romnes recently, upset the Toronto team at Chicago by scoring with the aid of Bob Gracie and Mush March in the first period. Karakas and Broda were stern masters of the situation after that, in spite of aggressive tactics that brought a flood of 17 penalties.

Americans, with Eddie Wiseman and Art Chapman from their four-man hospital list back in the line-up, held Rangers even most of the way. Rangers scored through Dutch Hiller in the first period, but Americans came back with Art Jackson's goal. After a scoreless second chapter, Alex. Shibicky and George Allen gave Rangers a 3-1 lead and Joe Jerwa's goal was Americans' last bid as Clint Smith and Bryant Hextall tallied again for the Patrick clan.

Charlie Conacher might have broken up the Montreal game in overtime, but the Detroit right winger-man's iced shot skimmed inches wide with Wilf Cude out of goal. Cyd Howe gave the Red Wings a second-period lead, but Armand Mondou tied it up in five minutes.

Remember When—

Paul Berlenbach, former world's light heavyweight boxing champion who earned more than $500,000 in pre-depression days, started a wrestling career at New York five years ago tonight for milk and rent money. He was a preliminary "boy" and got $150 for 11 minutes.

Ferraro Chosen O.R.F.U's Best; Wins Oil Cup

TORONTO, Jan. 9—(CP).—The Imperial oil trophy awarded last year to Ormond Beach, giant backfielder of Sarnia Imperials who was killed last summer in an explosion, passed today into the steady hands of Johnny Ferraro, Montreal Nationas' ace, as the Ontario Rugby Football Union performer best combining ability and sportsmanship during the 1938 season.

Announcement of the award was made here last night by John DeGruchy, union president, following a vote of the league executive. The halfback and flying wing took the coveted award in his first season with an O.R.F.U. team.

Critics said that Nationals finished in a first-place tie with Sarnia Imperials in the season just passed, largely through the fine running and leadership of the smooth-working Ferraro. Sarnia defeated Nationals in the league playoffs to advance into the Canadian playdowns.

An American—as was Beach—Ferraro came to Canada in 1934 from Cornell University at Ithaca, N.Y., as playing coach of Hamilton Tigers of the interprovincial union. He had captained the Cornell team and under his guidance Tigers won the Big Four title but were defeated in the Canadian playdowns by Sarnia.

Ferraro, a sturdy type of athlete who also stars in basketball and baseball, joined Montreal's Big Four team as playing coach and quarterback in 1936. He held the position until last fall when he joined Nationals along with many other players of the Big Four club.

McGill University Skiers Capture Honors At Big Meet

For the first time in 18 years the Harding Trophy, emblematic of team victory in the annual college men's ski meet held at Lake Placid, N.Y., was won by a Canadian university when students of McGill emulated their brethren of the gridiron and took the championship. Here is the team that nosed out Dartmouth, 499.8 points to 458.9. LEFT to RIGHT, F. C. Moore, W. Tait, Doug. Mann, H. Findlay, Bob Johannsen, Chris Mamen and W. Thompson, coach. Outstanding on the team was Johannsen, who easily took the award in the jumps, although the longest leap of the meet was recorded by his teammate, Chris. Mamen. The latter also took combined honors for the cross-country and jump.

Lewis Shapes Up Fast For Try At Heavy Title

By Sid Feder
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

SUMMIT, N.J., Jan. 9—(AP).—'Way back when John Henry Lewis was a little shaver around Phoenix, Ariz., his father handed him a theory which he expects will win him the world heavyweight championship from Joe Louis Jan. 25.

"John Henry," pappy advised, "if you want to get somewhere fighting, always hold your hands up, throw punches and keep the seat of your pants off the floor."

That's just the plan John Henry figures on using again the Brown Bomber when they tangle in Madison Square Garden.

Although he isn't talking much about it, John Henry's training sessions here at Madame Bey's camp in the Jersey hills indicate he is going to fire right-hand shots at Joe.

It's a neat punch, too, when it works, that Lewis right hand. He snaps it straight off his shoulder with an overhand delivery. He is giving his spar mates large doses of that blow daily.

John Henry is confident he can whip jolting Joe. He is expecting the fight to go the distance, with Mr. Louis from Detroit abdicating in favor of Mr. Lewis from Phoenix when the 15 rounds are over. Lewis is so confident, in fact, that he has about decided to give up the light-heavyweight championship (he's recognized everywhere but in New York) for keeps.

"What's the use of having two titles?" he says. "One's enough for anybody. And the heavyweight one is enough for me."

Sopwith, Vanderbilt To Meet Again In 12-Metre British Regatta

LONDON, Jan. 9—(CP-Havas).—Old yachting rivals, T. O. M. Sopwith, British challenger, and Harold S. Vanderbilt, successful United States defender of the America's cup on three occasions, are to meet again this year, but in British waters, it was announced today.

They will compete with 12-metre yachts during Royal regattas. So far British and American "12's" have not raced together, but this summer a fleet of American yachts of this class will challenge a British fleet.

Among the challengers is Vanderbilt, who is bringing to Great Britain a 12-metre yacht built by Olin Stephens, co-designer of the Ranger, which defeated T. O. M. Sopwith's Endeavor II in the 1937 America's cup race.

Sopwith is having a new boat built to meet the American challenge. He has commissioned Charles E. Nicholson, British yacht designer who designed the Endeavor II, to draw up plans.

Other owners anxious that British boats will successfully withstand trans-Atlantic American opposition are Sir William Burton and Hugh Goodson who have ordered new craft for the season.

Stockyards Here For Puck Game

Toronto Stockyards and the Petes tangle here tonight (Monday) at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. rink in a senior exhibition hockey game. It will be the second home appearance of Coach Frank Buckland's local seniors this season, the Petes having defeated Toronto Telegram of the T.H.L. a week ago. The Stockyards are leading the West Toronto Mercantile League now and are reported to be rugged and full of fight — most mercantile squads playing a bumping brand of the puck sport. The Petes are rapidly rounding into shape and should dish up a rousing scrap also in this affair tonight, and it promises to be a crowd pleaser all the way. The game deserves a good crowd of fans.

The Petes' lineup will include McNabb or Harding in goal, Crowe, McNulty and Gray on defence, and such forwards as Starr, Kingdon, Tompkins, Creighton, Gardner, Coughlin, McDougall and possibly Nicholls. The Toronto team is: Goal, Ginger Hall; defence, Don Rae, Bunky Lukasik, Clary Goldsmith, Jack Cordick, Evan Rennie; centre, Bill Love; wings, Bill Barney, Mally Phillips; subs, Chick Webster, Jimmy Good, Norm Walker, Murray Ezeard, Ed Zulauf, Gord Diplock, Jim McKelvie. The Toronto squad has promised to bring a full team and to be here on time for this tussle.

Col. Thompson Noted Sport Taken By Death

OTTAWA, Jan. 9—(CP).—Tribute to the outstanding sportsmanship of Lieut.-Col. Walter G. Thompson, Hamilton dentist who died yesterday, was paid today by Ottawans who knew him in the days when he led Hamilton Tigers teams against Rough Riders in gridiron battles.

Harvey Pulford, who played when Col. Thompson managed Hamilton teams or lead them as president, called him "probably the most ardent football fan I ever met."

Dave McCann, a star for Ottawa 20 years ago and manager of Ottawa Dominion championship teams in 1925 and 1926, called Colonel Thompson "a wonderful supporter, the sort of chap who never wanted more than an even break—in fact, wouldn't take it."

In his column today Walter Gilhooly, Ottawa Journal sports editor, relates an incident which exemplifies Colonel Thompson's sportsmanship.

Gilhooly, then a player with Toronto Argonauts but on the injured list, was named timer for a game with Tigers. "It was a close game and in the fourth quarter Argos were a couple of points up," he writes.

"Split the Difference,"

"We were so excited that we would forget to start or stop the watch and, when the Colonel would enquire how many minutes we had to go, more often than not we'd be away behind them. But he never insisted that his timing was correct. He would politely suggest that the difference should be split and we were glad to agree.

"The game was closing out and Tigers were pushing Argos all over the field. Dr. Smirle Lawson had a sizeable wager on Argos and he kept coming to the timer's bench inquiring how many minutes and seconds were left to play. The time was dragging for Smirle and on this trip he said: 'Don't let Thompson put anything over you Gil.'

"Before we could answer the Colonel stood up and handed me his watch.

"'You keep the time the rest of the way Gilhooly,' he said. Then turning to Lawson: 'Listen, Lawson, if you think I tried to put anything over on this young fellow or anyone else, come on in under the grand stand and I'll knock your block off.'

"Whereupon as one doctor and gentleman to another Lawson apologized and the incident was forgotten."

Shiner Johnston, Widely Known Baseball Player, Dies Suddenly

One of Peterborough's best known figures in athletics was taken away suddenly over the week-end when death called Shiner Johnston with unexpected suddenness last night. Just off the playing field a few years ago, Johnston was a comparatively young man when a heart attack cut short his career.

Shiner—few people knew him as Percy—made a name for himself on baseball diamonds in Toronto, Belleville and Peterborough and was known for his ball ability pretty well throughout Ontario. He started off as a kid with the old Midland League here back in 1906 and then played a number of seasons in senior ranks in Toronto, serving long periods for Beaches and Eatons of that city. He returned again to Peterborough and performed in the Petes' infield in dozens of hectic Central Ontario League contests.

Played In Belleville Uniform.

For a season, Johnston performed in a Belleville uniform, working at that time in Stirling and turning out with the Petes' old diamond rivals. Three years ago, he managed the Petes in the C.O.B.L. and injected himself a few times into the lineup in a pinch role to put a period to a long and honorable playing career in his beloved baseball. Of only medium size, Shiner Johnston was noted for his fighting qualities in a game as much as for his thorough knowledge of the sport. He was a fine infielder and a dangerous hitter in a tight spot. Johnston was a popular player all his life with teammates and rivals alike. He was a well-known umpire, also.

Though baseball was his big love, Shiner was an ardent golfer in recent years, a hunter and fisher, and a keen hockey follower. He acted as O.H.A. trainer for the Petes for two seasons and never missed an O.H.A. game of any sort in Peterborough for some years. Johnston lived a clean athlete's life and never touched liquor in any form.

He was born in Toronto, the son of Mrs. Margaret Johnston and the late T. H. Johnston. Predeceased by his wife, Elsie Mahaffy, Mr. Johnston leaves his mother, two brothers, A. T. Johnston of this city, and Frank Johnston of Cleveland; and four sisters, Mrs. Charles Padden, Mrs. J. B. Trimble, Mrs. Dr. McKinnon and Miss Mabel Johnston, all of Toronto.

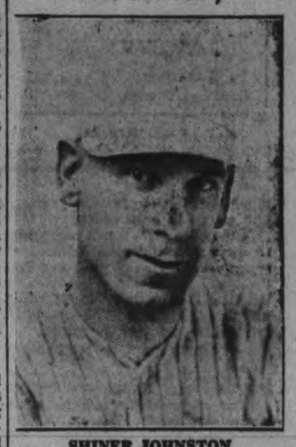
Dies Suddenly



SHINER JOHNSTON

Wel-known former baseball star and umpire in the C.O.B.L., Shiner Johnston of Peterborough died suddenly last night of a heart ailment, his death coming as a shock to sports fans of the city and district He was player, manager and umpire here.

McGill And U. Of T. Corner Title

NEW YORK, Jan. 9—(CP).—With the International - Intercollegiate hockey league only a few days old, McGill University and the University of Toronto shaped up today as main contenders for the league title McGill has held since formation of the league three years ago.

On the basis of their week-end play, the other six teams in the league might well put their championship aspirations back in moth balls and think about 1940.

The Redmen from McGill, fresh from Thursday night's 7-0 win over Princeton Tigers, put on a three-goal, third-period scoring spree Saturday night for a 5-2 victory against Yale University while the Toronto Blues ran rough-shod over Harvard to win 11-1.

In other week-end matches Queen's University defeated Dartmouth Indians 1-0 and the University of Montreal lost to Princeton 6-3 as the Tigers put on a four-goal scoring thrust in the last 10 minutes of play.

IN MEMORIAM

EVANS.—In loving memory of our daughter, Bella, who passed away January 8, 1935.
When evening shades are falling
And we sit in quiet alone;
To our heart there comes a longing:
If she only could come home.
Friends may think we have forgotten
When at times they see us smile,
But they little know the heartache
Our smiles hide all the while.
—Ever remembered by Mother and Dad.

EVANS. — In loving memory of sister, Bella Evans, who passed away January 8, 1935.
Her faint last wish we should like to have heard,
And breathed in her ear one last parting word;
Only those who have lost are able to tell
The pain of the heart in not saying farewell.
—Ever remembered by Rene, Jim, Betty and Jimmy, 609 Payne Avenue.

CARD OF THANKS

Not a Call Home

MONTREAL, Jan. 9. — (CP).—Paolo Simone, Italian consul for Eastern Canada, said last night Italy's repatriation call was not a "summons" to Italians abroad to return to their native land.

A central commission had been created in Rome to study requests of citizens abroad who wished to return to their homeland, he said.

Italian citizens living abroad could take advantage of the chance to return home, or remain where they were, just as they wished. The announcement from Italy was in no way an "order" or "summons" to return home, he added.

Economic Pinch By Major Powers Seen Sure Way Of Taming Hitler

By Dewitt Mackenzie
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—(AP). —We were in mid-Atlantic, returning home from visiting the worried capitals of Europe, when the wireless brought us a flash from President Roosevelt's message to the United States' Congress, chastising the dictatorships and, in the minds of many observers, indicating how they might be brought to terms by the democracies without war.

Shortly we got another flash from London saying that people there were "electrified" by Mr. Roosevelt's message. Some were inclined to interpret it as giving hope that if it came to a show-down the United States might side with France and Great Britain against the Totalitarian States. That is what the Anglo-French combination anxiously wants to believe, and they grasp eagerly at anything tending to substantiate that idea.

It wasn't until arrival in New York that the text of Mr. Roosevelt's communication was available. It then seemed apparent that the President had set down a conclusion which the Euorpean democracies have just reached reluctantly but which their harassed governments haven't yet seen fit to place before their publics.

"A war which threatened to envelop the world in flames has been averted, but it has become increasingly clear that peace is not assured," said the President.

Many in the old world now feel that despite Munich and the other attempts to attain tranquility "peace has not been assured."

Mr. Roosevelt's message comes at a turning point in the attitude of the European democracies toward Germany and Italy — mainly Germany.

More Than One Way

When Mr. Roosevelt said that "war is not the only means of commanding a decent respect for the opinions of mankind," a good many observers on both sides of the Atlantic assumed Mr. Roosevelt was talkinb about the application of economic sanctions. Whether he was or not, I know that Anglo-French statesmen a little prior to my sailing for America were toying with that very point, having also arrived at the conclusion that there is more than one way to skin a cat.

Here is the way things stood at that time:—

The matter may be simplified by stating at the outset that virtually the entire issue revolves about the dominating figure of Chancellor Hitler. If you want to know the fate of the old world you have first to determine the future of this man who, since his triumph in the Czecho-Slovak, stands astride Europe like a colossus.

Within very recent days some of the leaders of European democracy have reached the conclusion that Hitler must be opposed more forcefully.

This decision has been hastened probably by what they feel to be the revulsion of their publics with the results of the Munich settlement, and subsequent activities of the Rome-Berlin axis.

Their first reaction to Munich was one of rejoicing that fathers and sons and brothers need not die on the battlefield. Since then, however, there has been a marked change of feeling.

The extent of the turnover in opinion may be seen in the fact that it reputedly includes even Prime Minister Chamberlain, so I understand from sources which I do not question.

Sticking To Her Plans

Some statesmen of the democracies now say that, having tried everything they know in the way of moral suasion, they are prepared to admit Hitler will not respond to any influence which will divert him one inch from the program he laid down long ago for the fatherland.

So the answer to that, they say, must be in a stiffening of attitude.

Barring war, a method for bringing this about is named as political or economic actions, or both.

The greatest danger which the Nazi government faces at this moment is that the admittedly strained economic situation in Germany. Observers say that should anything happen to make the position so bad the general public would be pinched, the consequences obviously would present fresh difficulties for the government.

That, of course, is where the idea of applying economic sanctions to Germany comes in. Most experts agree that if Britain, France and the United States should by any chance decide to combine economically against Germany, they could create a wholly nasty position for the Reich.

Anyway, many leading lights in the European democracies are toying with the thought of employing economic pressure, among other things.

Just As Well Off

ASTORIA, Ore., Jan. 9.—(AP).—An anti-gambling law and a Federal ocurt order disposed of the pinball machines in Sven Longberg's tavern, but facilities still are available for such of his customers as are annoyed by the jangling of surplus coins in their jeans. On the counter in the position formerly occupied by the marble contraption Longberg placed a beer mug bearing this inscription: "Drop your nickles in this cup. You will be as well off as before."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

START BY UNBLOCKING

WHEN YOU HOLD two touching honors of your partner's suit, your best lead against a No trump game is of course the top one. But if you have a trebleton containing two non-touching honors, the small card is recommended in most of the out-of-date bridge books. Experience has proved convincingly to some the unsoundness of this, as it frequently results in blocking the suit. Your best lead in such a case is the middle card of the trebleton, to unblock later on, holding your highest card to kill off a stopper and your lowest as an entry to your partner's hand.

	♠ Q 8 7 4 3 ♥ J 10 3 ♦ Q 6 4 3 ♣ A
♠ 9 2 ♥ Q 7 2 ♦ A 10 ♣ Q J 9 7 6 5	N W E S	♠ K 10 5 ♥ A 5 4 ♦ J 9 8 5 ♣ K 10 4
	♠ A J 6 ♥ K 9 8 6 ♦ K 7 2 ♣ 8 3 2

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

After two passes, North opened the bidding on this deal with 1-Spade. East made a thinnish double, West responding with two clubs. East then bid 2-Diamonds, West 3-Clubs and East 3-No trump, which South doubled.

As per "the book," South led his spade 6. It drew the 9, Q and K, and the declarer immediately led a club to North's A. A spade return was won by the J. South also cashed the A and then, straining to put his partner in the lead, offered the heart 6. When the dummy's Q won this, declarer ran five clubs, a diamond and another heart, making game.

Had South led his spade J, declarer's goose would have been cooked. If East held up, the suit would have been established before North's club A was gone. If East took the first trick, then South's ace would have accounted for the second spade round and the 6 would have furnished an exit to North's Q.

Of course, even after the original lead of the spade 6, South could have set the contract by returning diamonds instead of hearts, but the correct original lead would not have necessitated his figuring that out.

Two Boys Drown

ST. CASIMIR, Que., Jan. 9. — (CP). — Two boys were drowned to-day when one crashed through the ice of the Riviere Ste. Anne and the second was dragged in while trying to rescue him with an outstretched hockey stick.

Aurele Sauvageau, 10, son of Eddy Sauvageau, broke through the ice first while skating on the river, which courses through this Portneuf County village. Adrien Dusablon, 11, gave his life trying to save his companion.

Potatoes Firm At $1.35 Bag On The Market

Turkeys and geese had vanished from the market Saturday like Christmas guests from the old home down on the farm. Earlier in the morning there might have been an odd big bird or two, but if there was one left at 11.30 o'clock it must have been burrowed behind some basket, because visibility along the aisles was as clear and unobstructed as in the wide open places.

George Mullen of Smith told the Examiner he had combed the boards upstairs for a goose at about that hour, and came down again empty handed. And the only turkeys that were mentioned were two hanging up in Fred Tuggey's garage, the last of his Yuletide purchased of five turkeys and two chickens. That may sound like a big order, but when he was laying in the stock Mr. Tuggey mentioned to the Examiner that he had had a fairly busy year working for farmers, and one good turn deserved another, in other words he felt like spending some of the money he had made with the people who had engaged him. It seems he added that if everybody would try to give the farmers a square deal there soon wouldn't be an agricultural problem.

Potato Prices Up

The only bit of news on Saturday's market was an advance in the price of potatoes. Some of them were pushing up to the $1.35 a bag mark for the first time this season. The common price was $1.25 for Green Mountains, Dooleys, Cobblers, but J. T. Johnston from the Bailieboro neighborhood said White Stars were breaking local ground at $1.35, and the market was firm.

Another grower renewed his assertion that he was going to remain a spectator of potato sales until the price reached $2 a bag; not until then would he begin to bring his stock into the market. And he said he mightn't have to wait much longer because the wholesale price in Toronto last week was around $1.75. This same chap has been holding off since the fall, and with same purpose, and he hasn't weakened yet. He believes there is a basic scarcity of potatoes in the country, and all that is needed is a little patience waiting until this shortage catches up on the price. Then, he says, he is going to get at least $2 for every bag he might have been selling for the last three months at 75 cents to $1.15.

Slim Attendance

The market didn't look like the same place in which the Christmas crowds thronged. It lacked sparkle, and those soggy shavings on the steps leading up the wide stairs didn't help matters. The poultry show was over Thursday night, leaving plenty of time until Saturday morning to sweep the stairs clear of the shavings that soaked up water and mud, and looked just like what you'd expect of it. Doubtless it was not unsanitary, but the dirty appearance of it was enough to turn food-buying people away from the approach to the market hall. That market as a community centre should be one of the cleanest places in Peterborough, and the entrance and the stairs, and all the rest of it. It should rate with the bright stores and their entrances; but it was a long way off that standard Saturday.

The attendance seemed to be about 60 per cent of the normal Saturday, on both sides of the counters.

"A lot of people are broke for a couple of weeks after Christmas, and there's no use worrying about today's market," said Mrs. Tires of North Monaghan. "People are all spent out this week, but they'll start picking up by next Saturday. You know you can't eat your cake and have it, too."

"Where are all the farmers?" the Examiner asked here and there, and it seems some of them anticipated a post-holiday slump and stayed at home.

That is what R. R. Dixon of Otonabee suggested. A few of them might have been kept home by roads, but in Otonabee township every last side line was open by Friday night at 11 p.m. when the township work was completed by Ambrose Dorris and his men.

At any rate it was an off market, and even most of the regular men who play ring-around-rosie with the box stove were missing. The weather was so mild they didn't need a heat radiance; and if the women wanted to get a look at the stoves they had a fine chance Saturday because the men weren't clustered around them.

Vitamins of Apples

Here's a little boost for apples, seeing the market was away under par, for apples and health. It amplifies the old Devonshire rhyme: "Ate an apfel avore gwain to bed Makes the doctor beg his bread."

Apples are a commodity; they are not proprietary; os a little plug for the industry may get by. A writer in a recent issue of Collier's quotes an interview with Dr. Ira A. Manville, associate professor of medicine, and director of the nutritional laboratory at the University of Oregon Medical School, Portland. And this is the final paragraph of the fairly long article.

"The doctor's main find, he says, is that apples are rich in the uronic acids, which are lacking in most of civilization's diets. They are the acids that counteract toxic poisons that occur in many foodstuffs in minute quantities and that are inhaled in the bad atmosphere of industrial cities. Aside from that, he finds apples, rich in phosporus and calcium, which the body needs more than any of the 13 minerals found in the human system, and plentifully supplied with vitamin A, which is the enemy of colds. In worth-while quantities apples contain vitamin B, which is good for the nerves, vitamin C, which is the one that keeps bones and teeth sound, vitamin G which promotes digestion and growth."

And here's a bit more. "For full measure the doctor finds in apples, both the iron which helps the blood, and pectin which aids digestion. And if you don't think this means something to you, he suggests that you study vital statistics which show that the average Washington boy, who grows up eating apples, has a life expectancy two years longer than the average American boy."

And if all that applies to apples why not to cider, too Why buy California and Florida citrus juices if Peterborough apple juice is all that Pacific coast doctor affirms?

Eggs 20c to 35c

Eggs were plentiful Saturday, ranging from 20 cents the dozen to 35 cents. The top price was quoted by Vincent Crebar of Beaverbrook Poultry Farm who offers them in cartons of one dozen, and he says they possess some special merit because of their consistent diet of "Layena".

Butter ranged from 21 to 25 cents with most of the business going at 23 and 24 cents. Chickens were 20 cents a pound.

H. R. Gill quoted the following prices for fresh meat: Pork 14 and 16 cents; beef, 10 and 12 cents; lamb, 18 and 20 cents; mutton, 12 cents.

George Mullen's prices were: Beef 11 and 13 cents; pork 13 and 15 cents and also 14 and 16 cents; lamb 15 and 18 cents.

Apple prices were: N. Moncrief, McIntosh Reds 45c a pk., Snows and Talmans, 40 cents; Baxters 30c.

V. Boundy, Cobourg—Spies 35c a peck.

Honey, two pounds for 25 cents. Parsnips and carrots 50c a bushel; turnips three for 10c or 50 cents a bushel; cabbage 5c or seven heads for 25c.

Warsaw W.M.S. Holds Initial Meeting

(Examiner Correspondence.)

It was announced that more names for the autographed quilt are needed, and those who wanted the missionary monthly are asked to give in their names.

The new president, Mrs. George Taylor, was welcomed to the chair. The group leaders are Mrs. George Taylor, Mrs. Robert Moore, Mrs. Thomas Cooper and Mrs. David Miller. Mrs. Stewart Clysdale was appointed delegate to the Presbyterial.

Zion School Pupils Present Concert

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 9—The last of the Christmas entertainments was held in the Zion school on Thursday evening, under the direction of the teacher, Miss Gladys Williamson, parents and friends gathering in the nicely-decorated room until practically every seat was occupied.

The chair was taken by Merton Thexton, and the program opened with the singing of "O Canada," followed by an exercise, "A Mystery," those taking part including: Marjorie Hubbeard, Lorne and Jack Horner, Wilma Hubbeard, Velma Thexton, Dorothy Coulter, and Ethelda Hubbeard. Lorne Horner and Wilma Hubbeard sang "We're Scared," and the school joined in the chorus, "In a Little Dutch Kindergarten."

Recitations by Gertie and Lorne Horner, led up to the Butterfly drill in costume, those who participated being, Marjorie and Ethelda Hubbeard, Velma Thexton, Dorothy Coulter, and Wilma Hubbeard. The "Christmas Fairies" was a pretty song, and after a recitation by Master Gerald Hubbeard, and a trio, "Away in Judea," four of the pupils presented a dialogue, "To Make a Merry Christmas"; Jack and Lorne Horner, Velma Thexton and Wilma Hubbeard. "Christmas Comes to School," and "Seasonable Resolutions," were attractive exercises, showing training, and as there are but seven pupils in the entire school, it meant all had to participate in practically every number outside individual selections.

Wilma Hubbeard sang, "Santa Claus," and Earl and Ethelda Hubbeard acted out "A Narrow Escape"; little Mae Hubbeard's recitation was well received, and following the chorus, "Saint Nicholas is Coming," Jack Horner contributed a recitation and "The True Christmas" was given by Helen Thexton, Velma Thexton, Dorothy Coulter and the three Hubbeard pupils. "Deck the Halls" was an appropriate chorus, and the Highland Fling was cleverly danced by Wilma, Ethelda and Marjorie Hubbeard, and Dorothy Coulter, a two part chorus preceding the final number, "At Parting."

The National Anthem brought to a close an enjoyable entertainment, and the highlight for the younger folk was reached with the distribution of gifts from the lovely tree, every pupil, the teacher and others being remembered.

Quebec Provincials To Learn Jiu Jitsu

MONTREAL, Jan. 9 — (CP). — Quebec's khaki-clad provincial police officers are following the example set by those of the United States' federal bureau of investigation.

It was announced today by Commissioner Col. P. A. Piuze that members of the force will be given instruction in jiu-jitsu, military and physical drill, swimming, operation and maintenance of gas weapons, revolver shooting and first aid. A special school will be established for the officers in the isolated regions of Quebec's northern mining district of Abitibi, according to present plans.

Col. Piuze, former warden of St. Vincent De Paul penitentiary, has been reorganizing the force for more than a year. Only a couple of days ago he announced that his assistant, Col. Edmond Roche would go to Washington to study police methods at F.B.I. headquarters.

"Family Pride Vital To Nation"—Drew

GUELPH, Ont., Jan. 9—(CP).—The only thing that can destroy Canadians is lack of faith in themselves, Colonel George Drew, leader of the Ontario Conservative party, said here Friday at a banquet in honor of his recent elevation to the party's chieftainship.

"The life of the Canadian pioneers was not easy," Col. Drew said. "They stood on their own feet and were proud of their achievements. That family pride, no matter what the work may be is vital to a healthy nation."

Col. Drew did not mention his coming entry into the Ontario Legislature, or in what constituency he would run. It was thought the Conservative leader would announce early next week in what riding he would seek election. Premier Mitchell Hepburn, leader of the province's Liberal party, has promised he will not be opposed by a government candidate.

"And at a time when it is so necessary that all of us hold high the torch of democracy, we must remember that the living flame of freedom comes from the spirit we find in the home, the church and the school."

Other speakers were Guelph-born Edward Johnson, director of New York's Metropolitan Opera and father-in-law of Col. Drew, and Hon. Frank Hughes, former Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada.

They are the children of two nephews of Mr. Harper, who died before he executed his will.

Mr. Justice Middleton states that Mr. Harper left the residue to 12 nieces and nephews in equal parts. The two nephews, father of the children in question, were not included, although they were mentioned in a previous will.

TWEED, Jan. 9.—Alleged to have threatened Kaladar residents when refused alms, a transient, who police say is Oscar Archimbault, was arrested near the village of Kaladar on Friday by Chief J. C. Hayes of Tweed. Later Archimbault appeared before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd at Northbrook, on a charge of vagrancy and was sentenced to serve 15 days in the common jail. On Saturday Archimbault was taken to the Ontario Hospital at Kingston by Provincial Constable W. E. Smith for mental examination.

Archimbault is said to have sought alms from the owners of the Kaladar service station. When refused his request, Archimbault further said to have threatened the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Read, who reported the incident to Chief Hayes.

Day Suggests Licensing Bookmakers

Be Lesser Of 2 Evils Says Mayor, End Racketeers

TORONTO, Jan. 10.— (CP).— Mayor Day to-day expressed favor of having a limited number of licensed bookmakers in Toronto. He was commenting on the hint of Mayor Telford of Vancouver that bookmakers might be licensed in that city.

"It's a matter of accepting the lesser of two evils," said Mayor Day. "That we have scores of bookmakers in the city is quite well known. Despite the utmost diligence on the part of the police it seems impossible to stamp them out. We haven't any power to license them but the Attorney-General might study the whole matter.

"It seems to me it would be better to have a small number of licensed premises rather than the large number of bookmakers at present operating with runners in stores, factories, financial houses, and every other place.

"There would be considerable revenue, but of course, this is of secondary importance. What we have to do is to clean up the racketeers."

Mayor Day said the police commission would meet to-day to discuss the murder of James Windsor, bookmaker, slain Saturady.

Attack Is Made On Third Woman

The degenerate who attacked two women on Park Street on Saturday night was heard from again on Monday evening when a young girl was seized near the corner of Perry and Park Streets and released again when she screamed for help.

The technique of the assailant was similar in this case to that used in the other two assaults, and the description given corresponds closely with that given by the other two women attacked.

Something approaching a reign of terror exists in the district where the three assaults took place, and on Monday night few women ventured to go out on the street without male escorts.

Coogan Auction Spirited Affair

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Jan. 10 (AP)—Into the early hours today, cracking auctioneers' hammers signalled the disposition of furnishings from the home into which Jackie Coogan, child star of silent films, took his bride, blond and beautiful Betty Grable, 14 months ago.

Financial troubles separated the Coogans New Year's Day. Both denied that a divorce was in the offing, yet friends wondered if the auction might not presage such a step.

Few screen notables were in the overflow crowd estimated by Auctioneer Ben Seewack at between 1,500 and 2,000. Bidding was spirited. Seewack said numerous friends of the young actor had indicated they hoped to purchase other articles to be offered at nightly sales until Thursday.

Miliza Korjus, the film singer, was one of the largest buyers. Writer Eddie Moran numbered one of the three grand pianos among his selections. Charles Trowbridge, character actor, bid in a chair.

Neither Coogan nor Miss Grable attended the initial auction. Miss Grable is living with her mother.

Fooling a Robber

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 10.—(AP).—S. F. Stone, filling station attendant, was confronted by two bandits who ordered him to go to the cash register and "hand over the money."

"I won't," Stone replied. "If you're going to rob, you'll have to take it yourself."

"Get in the wash room, then," a bandit snapped.

Stone did, locking the door behind him. All the station's receipts were in his pocket.

Madam X Misses Court, On Excuse She's Ill, Cadi Issues Warrant "Just To Be Sure"

TORONTO, Jan. 10.— (CP).— Toronto's mysterious Madame X, Marguerite Eta Botas, failed to appear in court to-day to face charges of personation at the polls during last week's municipal elections. A warrant for her arrest was immediately ordered issued by the magistrate.

The name of the woman, whose identity baffled police for two days after they arrested her, was called three times without eliciting response.

Immediately after her counsel, M. W. Kellerman, appeared and announced he had certificates from two doctors testifying she was too ill to appear in court.

"We'll execute the warrant," Magistrate Forsythe declared. "If she's not in a fit condition bail can be continued."

8 Million For Danny Dodge's Widow 3 Now To Start Settlement

PONTIAC, Mich., Jan. 10 (AP).— Annie Laurine Dodge, youthful Canadian widow of Danial G. Dodge, ventually will receive approximately $8,000,000 as her share of her husband's estate under terms of a settlement announced today.

The former Gore Bay, Ont., telephone operator will receive $3,000,000 within the next year as the widow's share of Dodge's immediate estate. The remaining $9,000,000 of the immediate estate will go to Dodge's mother, Mrs. Mathilda R. Wilson.

Mrs. Dodge also is to receive, under the settlement, half of Daniel Dodge's share of a $40,000,000 trust fund established in the will of John F. Dodge, automobile manufacturer, for the benefit of his four children. Daniel Dodges share of the trust fund, $10,000,000, would be payable after the death of all of the elder Dodge's children.

The settlement was effected after an all-day conference yesterday between Paul Oren, attorney for Mrs. Dodge, and counsel for Mrs. Wilson. It was announced today in Oakland County Probate Court, as a hearing was about to open on Daniel Dodge's will.

Oren agreed to withdraw a petition for reopening of Mrs. Wilson's guardianship of her son.

Been Getting $5,000 Monthly.

Mrs. Dodge has been receiving $5,000 a month as a widow's allowance pending the outcome of the litigation.

Daniel Dodge died August 13, after a dynamite explosion at his Manitoulin Island summer lodge where he and his bride of 11 days were spending their honeymoon.

The settlement was approved by Probate Judge Arthur A. Moore.

Neither Mrs. Dodge nor Mrs. Wilson was in court.

Mrs. Dodge is residing with relatives in Windsor, Ont.

Young Dodge's estate consisted of $1,500,000 in bank deposits and $10,500,000 held for him by the Detroit Trust Company, as co-trustee under the will of the elder Dodge. The total of $12,000,000 is to be divided between Mrs. Dodge and her mother-in-law under the terms of the

Granddaughters See Jesse James Ride Again But Suspect Grandpa's History Juggled

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 10.—(AP).—Four granddaughters of Jesse James, the Missouri outlaw, saw him ride across a movie screen last night, guns blazing and posses in pursuit.

When they left the theatre after a two-hour preview, they were shaking their heads. "It may be entertainment, but it isn't' Jesse James," they said.

Frances James, a Los Angeles bank executive, was credited by 20th Century-Fox Studio with assisting in assembling historical data for the $2,000,000 color picture of her grandsire's bank-robbing career.

"I don't know what happened to the history part of it," said Frances. "It seemed to me the story was fiction from beginning to end.

"Of course, Tyrone Power as Jesse James, and the other actors did fine, but about the only connection it had with fact was that there once was a man named James and he did ride a horse."

Clothing Of Pulpwood To Give Ontario Large New Industry

Winnipeg, Jan. 10 (CP)

CLOTHING made from pulpwood will supply northwestern Ontario with a large new industry soon, Hon. Peter Heenan, Ontario Minister of Lands and Forests, said yesterday upon his arrival here to visit a son.

"The manufacture of sulphite (preparation made from pulpwood) is going to be the biggest thing in northwestern Ontario in the near future," he predicted.

"During 1937, the United States imported 15,000,000 tons of sulphite from European countries. We ought to be able to get a good share of that market."

Mr. Heenan said he had several neckties made from the sulphite preparation.

Max Schmeling's Wife Jailed

PARIS, Jan. 10 (CP-Havas). — The Paris newspaper Ce Soir, today reported Anny Ondra, film actress wife of Max Schmeling, had been arrested on charges of attempting to smuggle currency out of Germany and possibly of espionage.

The boxer's wife, the newspaper reported, decided to leave the Reich and planned to get part of her fortune beyond the border.

"She was about to cross the frontier on the pretext she was making a private trip to Prague when a Black Shirt guard arrested her," the newspaper reported.

Schmeling, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, is under police surveillance pending further developments in the affair, Ce Soir added.

The newspaper reported the arrest was a vengeful move on the part of Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels, since the actress belonged to a faction hostile to Goebbels and assertedly informed Chancellor Hitler of the Minister's friendship with the beautiful actress, Lida Barova. It was rumored recently that Goebbels had been severely beaten by friends of the husband of the actress.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Jan. 10. — (AP).—R. P. Beasley, president of a shoe company which liquidated a decade ago, has just received a postcard mailed 22 years ago by a merchant in West's Mill, N.C. It read, "Please have your salesman come to see me about Feb. 20, 1917."

Two Men Killed As Truck, Car Collide In Fog

LINDSAY, Jan. 10—(Special).—A young father, Albert Young, and a 90-year-old Indian, Richard Cornelius, were killed yesterday morning when the light car in which they were riding crashed head-on into a heavy transport truck in a dense fog.

The fatal collision occurred on the county road, two miles west of Sunderland. Young was driving the car which collided with the truck driven by Samuel Ray of Sunderland. Another passenger in the car was John Tindall, 30. All lived in Brock township.

Young and Tindall were thrown from the front seat of the car, while the aged Indian was pinned in the rear seat. When Mrs. W. T. Bagshaw and her son, in front of whose farm house the accident occurred, arrived at the scene, Young and Cornelius were dead, apparently having been killed instantly. Tindall was lying on the road moaning.

Glen Bagshaw ran to his home and phoned Dr. Oliver at Sunderland, who had the injured man rushed to the Ross Memorial Hospital at Lindsay.

Young, a trustee of Valentyne School section, had driven his two children to school and was proceeding to Sunderland, where he was to meet three other trustees. The four were then to proceed to Toronto, where they were going to purchase a piano for the school. Shortly after leaving the children at the school Young caught up to Tindall and Cornelius on the road. They were on their way to Sunderland, where they were going to catch a bus for Lindsay.

Young picked up the two men; they had only proceeded a few hundred yards when a truck loomed up in the fog. According to Tindall, before Young had a chance to turn out of the way, the two vehicles had crashed. That is the last Tindall remembered, until he found himself in an ambulance on his way to Lindsay.

An inquest will be held.

TORONTO, Jan. 10 (CP).—Toronto police have fingerprints of James Windsor's slayers, it was indicated today.

This revelation came when Toronto detectives sent to Hamilton for photographs and fingerprint cards of more than 150 men with police records. As photographs and fingerprint classifications are separate, there was no need for requesting the latter unless police here had prints to compare them with, it was admitted.

Motorcycle Officer Sunderland of the Toronto police raced to Hamilton shortly before midnight in a police car and picked up a package containing about 150 pictures and fingerprint cards. William Pinch, of the Hamilton identification bureau, spent three hours segregating pictures and fingerprints, which today are being examined by Toronto detectives.

The search extended today to Detroit. Toronto police telephoned descriptions of the four men to Detroit police and a search is being conducted by the Detroit homicide squad. No names of suspects were given by the Toronto police to Detroit.

Checking on Italians

It was also learned that police at Windsor have been asked to send, by special delivery, photographs and fingerprints of Italian convicts in their files. The Windsor police have one of the most up-to-date filing systems in Canada, their books containing thousands of photographs obtained through cooperation with the Detroit identification bureau.

The slayers of Windsor did not wear gloves, it was said, and there were several places they could have left prints. One of them snatched the cradle telephone in the hall and ripped the cord from the box. In leaving the house, two of them, it was established, touched the door. One opened it as two others followed him. The fourth stayed back, herding Windsor's sisters and their husbands, and Lorraine Bronell, upstairs. Then he closed the door.

Detective Oliver Dorland, fingerprint expert of the Toronto department, examined the telephone and then had it taken to police headquarters.

Police believed Windsor was shot for a vengeance, but for what reason police have not learned. A report that Windsor had refused to pay $25 a week "protection" demanded by gangsters under threats to blow up his barbeque was still being investigated.

Drug Peddlers War?

Police also investigated what they said was a war between two groups of Toronto drug peddlers in connection with the death of Windsor. The druge investigation was started after witnesses of Windsor's death said the killers appeared to be "hopped up."

It was reported the leader of the drug traffic had a falling-out with an aide and it was suggested the pair had declared war over control of illicit drug trade in Toronto and that Windsor had inadvertently become involved.

Council Hopes To Speed Sale Of Vacant Lots

Sale of vacant lots owned by the city is to be accelerated by the aid of realty agents. Business in this department was fairly brisk last year, but it was merely the ordinary demand of persons looking for property on which to build homes for themselves. Alderman McCannan proposed at last night's meeting of the Council that realtors be offered a commission in the expectation that they "may pep up" the sale of lots that have come into the possession of the city.

The scale of fees is $5 on a lot that sell for $50, $10 on a $100 lot, and $15 on other lots that bring $200 or more. This schedule of rates is less than the usual commissions.

Citizens can still follow the customary course of calling at the City Hall to look over the list of available properties, with their locations and prices. Others may shop around with the assistance of a real estate man who may point out some of the city lots and sell them. And that is where he gets his commission for promoting the sale of city property.

"We have nearly 700 vacant lots on streets that are provided with sewer and water services," Alderman McCannan said. "They have the advantage of being in the city, and as I see it we should be doing everything we can to sell them. If we put lists of these lots in the real estate offices we may succeed in speeding up sales."

Discussion of the idea by Aldermen Gordon, Glover, and other members resulted in a revision of the schedule with slight changes and ultimately approval of the schedule of commissions set out in detail above.

2 Plots On King Carol Are Denied, But Guards Bolstered

Bucharest, Rumania, Jan. 10. TWO ABORTIVE PLOTS to kill King Carol were reported here today, bringing a strong official denial but also official admission that special police measures have been taken and a number of persons arrested.

An explosion in a suburban house Saturday was interpreted by the public as part of a plot to kill Carol. It was also reported persistently that last Friday, a few hours before the ceremony held to celebrate the feast of the epiphany, an officer and a group of young supporters were arrested for planning an attempt to assassinate the sovereign.

TORONTO, Jan. 10.—(CP).—Two armed men held up and robbed the Canadian Railway News Company in the Union Station here to-day, escaping with about $200.

Handkerchiefs masking their faces, the bandits forced Nelson Triller, operator in the office, to open a safe containing overnight receipts. Triller was forced to lie upon the floor as the men fled.

The hold-up occurred shortly after Triller opened the office. The operator said one man held a revolver against his back while he opened the safe. As the men left, they scooped up a small amount of change from the cash register.

The office was held up last June 27 when two men, operating in the manner of to-day's hold-up, escaped with $400.

The company's safe has been broken into six times in addition to the two hold-ups.

Sentence Lengthened

PARIS, Jan. 10.— (AP).— The Paris Court of Appeals to-day increased from four to six months' imprisonment the police court sentence against Abraham Grynszpan, uncle of the confessed slayer of the German diplomat, Ernst Von Rath.

It was Von Rath's death, Nov. 9, that touched off the November wave of anti-Jewish violence in Germany.

Abraham Grynszpan was convicted of hiding his 17-year-old nephew, a Polish Jew, in his home after the youth had been ordered to leave France as an undesirable alien. The uncle said the boy was ill and maintained that the right of asylum should have allowed him to stay in France. The appeals court rejected that the police court had not been sufficiently severe,

Britain Working On Basis War Is Near

LONDON, Jan. 10 (CP)—"We are working on the assumption there is a risk of war within a comparatively short time," Sir John Anderson, Lord Privy Seal who is in charge of civilian defence, declared upon his return from a vacation in Switzerland.

Sir John told newspapermen upon his arrival last night that hastily drawn up plans adopted during the September crisis were being abandoned in favor of more effective measures. He reported considerable progress had been made.

He said the assumption of risk of war did not mean that "we expect war." The government was concentrating its efforts upon the protection of civilians against the double air raid danger of shrapnel and fire, rather than on the construction of deep underground shelters, he said.

"People write as if we ought to aim at making war safe," Sir John added. "My opinion is that you cannot make war safe for the civilian. There is only one way of making civilization safe, and that is by the avoidance of war.

"Our aim should be, if there is war, to emerge from it with the least possible hurt, but to emerge victorious."

He struck back at those critics who urge establishment of a compulsory national register of manpower, instead of the voluntary project the government has started. A compulsory register would serve only as statistics, and would not accelerate recruiting, he said, unless it were complemented by a plan for compulsory service.

He said the strength of men needed for civilian defence purposes had been almost completely recruited. The campaign would be continued to fill the ranks and to provide a reserve.

Supplementary fire brigades to fight conflagrations started by aerial bombs would be fully equipped by the end of 1939, he said. This involved apparatus for 21,000 fire-fighting units. It had not been expected this would be possible before 1941.

Holiday May 20

OTTAWA, Jan. 10—(CP).—A proclamation was published today in the Canada Gazette fixing May 20 as the date on which the birthday of King George is to be officially celebrated in the Dominion this year. It will be a statutory holiday.

Since King George's accession to the throne, his birthday has been celebrated in Canada on June 9, although the actual date of his birthday is Dec. 14.

However the date moved to May 20 this year so that it will be celebrated while the King and Queen are in Ottawa during their tour of Canada.

Chamberlain Off To See Mussolini

Italy Admits She Seeks His Aid To Get French Territory

LONDON, Jan. 10 — (C.P.). — Prime Minister Chamberlain left for Rome to-day to discover the 1939 aims of the Rome-Berlin-Tokyo triangle.

Armed with his famous gold-knobbed umbrella, the Prime Minister boarded the Gold Arrow express for Paris at 11 a.m. (6 a.m. EST). A group of jobless who had gathered to see him off greeted him with shouts of "Appease the Unemployed —Not Mussolini."

The Associated Press said Mr. Chamberlain carried with him a last-minute report of French Ambassador Charles Corbin which expressed fears that Germany's new fleet of "minnow submarines" is being built mainly to hamper French-British shipping in the Western Mediterranean.

About 500 persons crowded into Downing Street when Mr. Chamberlain left his official residence. Another crowd jammed the platform at Victoria Station where a group of unemployed paraded with a black coffin.

The French Ambassador met the Prime Minister and his Foreign Secretary, Viscount Halifax, at the station. Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Halifax were expected to hear more about French fears for the safety of their trade routes when they stop for tea with Premier Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet in Paris this afternoon.

Il Duce As a Friend.

It is a known theory of the Prime Minister that if he can make a personal friend out of Mussolini he will be able to hold a restraining hand on the activities of the anti-Comintern triangle—Italy, Germany, and Japan. After 1939 Mr. Chamberlain hopes the success of Britain's vast rearmament program will be sufficient to restrain them.

But last minute reports swung the spotlight away from Italian cries for a share of the French Mediterranean Empire to the immediate prospect of an insurgent victory in Spain. Official reports here disclosed Franco had not been able to

Drew To Contest Simcoe Seat

MIDLAND, Ont., Jan. 10—(CP).—Unless unexpected opposition arises, Lieut.-Col. George A. Drew, K.C., leader of the Ontario Conservative party, will enter the Legislature as representatives of the riding in which he has passed several summer vacations.

In statements issued jointly last night, William Finlayson, K.C., announced his intention to resign as Conservative member for Simcoe East and Col. Drew announced he would seek Mr. Finlayson's seat in a by-election. The statements followed a meeting of the riding executive attended by Mr. Finlayson and Col. Drew, who have long been firm friends.

After Col. Drew's election as party leader last month, Premier Hepburn said the Liberal government would not oppose him in a by-election, facilitating his entry to full leadership There appeared little likelihood a third-party or independent candidate would run in Simcoe East, where straight two-party fights are traditional.

The by-election will be held in time to permit Mr. Drew to enter the House in March, when the legislature will open on the return of Premier Hepburn from his trip to Australia.

At Toronto last night acting Premier H. C. Nixon gave another indication of the government's willingness to co-operate, with the statemen: "As soon as Mr. Finlayson's resignation is received by the clerk of the House, the government will

Rumbling Sky Brings Sequel To Mars Scare Sets Brooklyn Gaping, Even The Police

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP) — The "case of the big noise"—a recurrent rumbling from the skies that startled hundreds of Flatbush residents—left Brooklyn police with an unsolved mystery today.

Still remembering the Orson Welles broadcast of a dramatized invasion of the earth by men from Mars, the Brooklynites crowded into streets and listened to the strange roaring emerging from a cloudy sky at irregular intervals from 10:45 to 11.30 o'clock last night.

Scores phoned police, and squad cars cruised about checking reports of explosions and earthquakes.

Mystified, police reported to headquarters that the sound apparently had been confined to a relatively quiet residential area and that they had investigated and discarded rumors that it had been caused by:—

(a) A roller skating rink; (b) an earthquake; (c) a blast; (d) an airplane; (e) a windstorm; (f) an amateur radio operator; (g) a lion in the Brooklyn Prospect Park Zoo; (h) a tidal wave; (i) the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Scientists at Fordham University said no earth shock or explosion had registered on the seismograph there. The weather bureau said there had been no thunder.

A young girl said the noise sounded like "surf dashing against a rockbound shore."

Ontario Mayors All Out For Lower Taxes

(By the Canadian Press.)

Ontario municipalities, 1939 inaugurals past, planned to-day for such optimistic programme as possible tax reductions, building schedules and decrease of debt.

Elected representatives pledged faithful service to their communities as they met for the first time yesterday. Some mayors admitted there was little chance of tax reductions while others hoped consequent meetings would be able to cut municipal rates.

In a caustic address at the Belleville city council's first meeting, Mayor Jamieson Bone condemned certain phases of Dominion and Provincial governments. A central figure at many Ontario Mayors' Association meetings, he asked council to set up a "new magna charta of Canadian Liberty" by disregarding certain government restrictions on civic financing.

Relief For Property Owners.

Mayor Bone challenged council to "take over the government of the city of Belleville ourselves," dip into its sinking fund surplus and enter other avenues, regardless of existing restraining provincial legislations, to relieve property owners from taxation.

He suggested that the Public Utilities Commission be asked to raise its rates, turning over the difference in revenue to the city, "without asking the Ontario government's permission." He proposed a city-manager form of government to co-ordinate effort.

The mayor said that candidates for office in the Federal and Provincial governments are "nobody but farmers, lawyers and doctors, and local ones at that."

He placed rising costs of secondary school education on the Ontario Federation of Secondary School Teachers, and called the Federation "one of the worst cancers eating at the vitals of this fair country."

At Hespeler, Ald Chris. Frome threatened to resign when council refused his request that he be made chairma nof the Board of Works. He refused a membership on the board but was persuaded to resume his seat when he made to leave the council chamber.

The Tax Sales.

In a plea for lower taxation in 1939, Mayor H. J. MacEwan of Goderich said that 1938 tax sale receipts were "humiliating and disappointing." He said that "no one wants to buy property, even if it is give nto him for nothing," and that "people are afraid of the mounting taxes and this is the main reason why we have so little building."

Mayor Robert Bieth reported a reduction of $20.44 in Preston's per capita debt from 1935 to 1938. The per capita debt now totals $66.76. The mayor urged continuance of Preston's "pay-as-you-go" policy.

Mayor James Hamilton of Peterborough made a plea for assistance in reducing relief costs this year. He predicted a lower tax rate for 1939. At Owen Sound, Mayor Alan Stewart said he held little hope of a decrease in taxes for 1939.

A recommendation that council endeavor to produce a tax rate of 42 pay for supplies received from Italy and necessarily will be indebted to Mussolini when the war ends. The same reports indicated Germany has been quietly gaining control of many important Spanish industries.

Despite the Anglo-Italian agreement in which Italy disclaimed any intention of trying to change the Mediterranean status quo, some informed quarters in London are convinced Germany and Italy intend to establish permanent air and naval bases in the Balearic Islands. Once this is done, British and French military experts admit, the whole Allied strategy for a European war would have to be altered.

Italy Wants His Help

ROME, Jan. 10.— (AP)— Italy made it clear today that she would try to enlist the support of Prime Minister Chamberlain in her campaign to get concessions from France.

Despite efforts of France to keep the French-Italian dispute off the agenda, the Fascist press indicated it expected this to be the main topic of conversations starting tomorrow between Mr. Chamberlain and Premier Mussolini.

Newspapers stressed what they called France's "head-in-the-sand policy" offered a difficulty to the conferees, but in the main took a hopeful view of the outcome.

Il Popolo Di Roma reported that London, regarding Mr. Chamberlain and Mussolini as "two men who understand each other" was optimistic.

The newspaper added that the British were concerned—both in their own interest and in the interest of general peace—in the "condensation and crystallization of all French egoisms which have provoked the Mediterranean tension."

La Tribuna said that if Mr. Chamberlain learns of Italian demands and intentions during his visit here he would be expected to "clear the way of obstacles" by putting in a good word with France.

"And if such work is not mediation," La Tribuna added, "another name will have to be found to describe it better." This appeared to be a reference to assertions of both the British and French that Mr. Chamberlain would not attempt to mediate the French-Italian dispute.

Among the subjects mentioned by the press as likely to be introduced by Mussolini were cession of the French port of Djibouti, on the Gulf of Aden, to Italy and the question of giving Italy a share in the Suez Canal.

No Grants to Italy

PARIS, Jan. 10—(AP).—An agreement between France and Great Britain to reject any Italian territorial demands for a share in the French empire was announced to the French cabinet today by foreign minister Georges Bonnet.

Following a cabinet meeting at the Elysee palace, shortly before prime Minister Chamberlain and foreign secretary Halifax were to reach Paris on their way to Rome, it was disclosed Bonnet told his colleagues he had received assurance of "the complete accord of the London cabinet with the French point of view."

This, Bonnet said, had been conveyed to him last night by Sir Eric Phipps, British ambassador to France. Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Halifax, enroute to conferences with Premier Mussolini, arranged to "take tea" with Bonnet and Daladier here late today.

Bonnet told the cabinet meeting of sending a note to London declaring France could yield no land to meet Fascist claims and that France was yet too great a power to bow to the intervention of other states in the dispute. He then gave the ministers the British reply. The cabinet gave unanimous approval to the foreign minister's action.

Unions To Fight 'Strike Control'

DETROIT, Jan. 10 (CP)—Unions linked with the Congress of Industrial Organizations in Michigan will fight against Governor Frank Fitzgerald's plan for controlling strikes in Michigan. Adolph Germer, president of the state C.I.O. council, announced plans for opposition.

Germer said the council opposed unauthorized sit-down strikes as much as Gov. Fitzgerald, but opposed Fitzgerald's plans for "legislative repression" of unions. He termed the proposals as "absurd."

The statement, in part, follows:

While Gov. Fitzgerald grants labor right to strike, he at once places that right in a strait-jacket," Germer asserted in a statement.

Gov. Fitzgerald recommended legislation to outlaw sit-down strikes, to require a 10-day notice to strike, abolition of mass picketing and other measures.

"The message is just about what we expected," Germer's statement continued.

"The governor obviously is unmindful of the vast economic and social changes that have taken place, particularly during the last quarter century.

"What the governor overlooked was that during all the past restriction on the inalienable rights of labor gave birth to labor organizations and accentuated their growth, in other words, labor unions grew as the result of persecution."

Southwest Soaked As Storm Kills Three

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 10—(AP).—Much-needed rain and snow soaked the southwestern United States wheat belt today but the joy of farmers was tempered by the death and destruction wrought by accompanying high winds in Texas and a near-blizzard in New Mexico.

Three persons died in the storms, a score were injured and Dallas counted $100,000 damage. Agriculturalists said, however, the value of the beneficial moisture would far exceed the property losses.

In New Mexico Lieut. Wallace Nau was killed when his army plane, surrounded by fog and whirling snow, crashed into a mesa yesterday.

In Texas two deaths were attributed to a 66-mile gale at Dallas. More than a dozen persons were injured by windblown debris there and at Cisco.

20 In Village Escape Bush Fire Scourge

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 10—(CP-Havas). — Twenty residents of the mining village of Erica escaped death to-day when bush fires raging throughout Victoria destroyed most of the buildings there.

Two forest rangers in the Toolangi district were trapped and burned to death by the flames which spread through the dry bush country with alarming rapidity. Authorities said an unprecedented heat wave from which Victoria has been suffering fo rseveral weeks was responsible for the fires.

The village of Erica was isolated and the 20 residents saved their lives by taking shelter in numerous caves in the surrounding hills. Several mills and nearly all the private home in Erica were destroyed.

At the seaside resort of Dromana, 40 miles from Melbourne, damage was estimated at $250,000. At Melbourn the temperature registered 109.6 yesterday.

settlement, ¼ to the widow and ¾ to Mrs. Wilson.

The possibility remains of some litigation over ownership of the $10,500,000 item, which consists of accumulated and unexpanded income from Daniel Dodge's share of his father's $40,000,000 trust fund.

Attorneys for the three surviving children of the elder Dodge, Mrs. Winnifred Seyburn, Mrs. Isabel Sloane and Mrs. Frances Johnston, has contended that, under the trust fund instrument drafted by the elder Dodge, this sum belongs to them.

That contest may come before a Wayne county (Detroit) court for settlement. When Glenn Gillespie, of Pontiac, special administrator of Daniel Dodge's estate, asks the trust fund to turn over to him the $10,500,000 the Trust Company is expected to ask the Wayne County Circuit Court for an interpretation of the trust fund and for instructions.

The trust fund instrument provided that each of the four children should receive during his or her lifetime an equal share of the income from the $40,000,000 fund. As each child died, the instrument provided, his share of the income was to be divided among the surviving children. The $40,000,000 was to be held intact as long as any of the children lived, but was to be divided among their heirs when the trust was terminated, one quarter to each set of heirs.

Under the settlement announced to-day, Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Dodge become sole heirs of Daniel Dodge and each is entitled to receive $5,000,000 when the $40,000,000 trust fund is divided.

Harold N. Carr Favors Training Camps

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 10 — Claiming that he was "very much impressed" by the suggestion of the Canadian Corps Association to establish training camps for young men throughout Canada, H. N. Carr, M.P.P. indicated it was one of the ways of solving the great unemployment problem. Members of the town and township council were guests at Monday's Rotary luncheon at which Northumberland's representative at Queen's Park gave a thoughtful address on the present conditions and current problems. In his opening remarks the speaker reminded his listeners that he was speaking as an individual member of the Rotary Club and not as a politician and that nothing he should say should be construed from a partisan or political point of view.

"We have been living under depressed conditions for eight or nine years and although I believe conditions are improving they are not improving fast enough."

"We may all deplore the rise to power of the Hitlers and the Mussolinis, but I do not believe that the people of Italy or Germany have any more desire for dictatorship that we have in Canada, but after the war the people were disillusioned, discouraged, dissatisfied, hungry and in many cases homeless so that they were only too ready to follow any leader who would promise them better living conditions.

"I fear that we are rapidly coming to that condition in this country" prophesied the speaker. "Young men who are unemployed, hungry and homeless and the married men with families and small children who are hungry and need clothes are easy prey to the communist agitator or to any other agitator who promises them better things. There are many of these agitators aggressively at work in this country. There is a reason for these autocratic leaders", claimed the speaker again referring to the European situation. In his book "Our Battle" which he wrote in answer to Hitler's "Mein Kampf" Hendrick Von Loon declares that "Autocracy is invariably the result of bad democracy". The day will come when the people of these nationalized countries will arise under a new leader with the cry, "Give us freedom or give us death."

In the light of recent developments and with both unemployment and the need for the defense of Canada facing us why not couple these two conditions and solve them both to a very great extent.

In Training Camps.

In referring to the Canadian Corp Association's suggestion to establish training camps throughout Canada, he said, "I think the idea is admirable. To institute these camps, under military discipline of course, because in no other way can large bodies of men be controlled and educated. But in these camps, and I would say that they should not be too large, but many camps, men could be trained along vocational lines while receiving army pay, food and lodging. Let the enlistment be voluntary and for comparatively short periods and teach them along mechanical lines, say machinists for one example. After a course of training these men would then be fitted to enter industrial pursuits when opportunity offers, or in case of emergency would be available to manufacture shells armaments and so forth.

Canada would in this way be assisting Britain to a greater extent than by sending a few thousand untrained men over seas. Others could be trained in bridge building, forestry and many other vocations that would equip them to be utilized either in peaceful occupations or in defense of the country. The Corps also suggests that the enlistment of any man be cancelled if and when he has permanent employment offered to him. I feel sure that many young men would welcome and gladly accept this opportunity for economic security.

"Opponents will say, but look how much it will cost. Where will we get the money. Well, in times of war we do not count the cost. We provide the money and we are at war right now with unemployment and if we do not do something we are going to be licked. I have always been most conservative when inflation or tampering with our monetary system has been suggested, but when I see the distress that is prevalent, the men sleeping in police stations and hostels and begging from door to door under conditions which are ruining their morale and forcing them into crime—not because they are criminally minded but because they are discouraged and hungry I am inclined to modify my views. It may be that I can sympathize with these people more be cause I know from first hand experience", recalled the speaker who then reviewed the plight of the single unemployed youth who can't get work because he is single and can't get relief because he is single. "Let us have inflation or change our monetary system in whatever way is necessary to put these men to work. I have always feared the outcome of inflation, of seeing many disasters ahead, but if we must choose between ruining the young manhood and young womanhood of our country and ruining our financial system then I say let us take the lesser risk and protect our people and the calibre of citizens yet unborn.

"If a government under our present system cannot accomplish these things, then for Heaven's sake let us get together in coalition union government or "what have you" so that we can continue to grow in our fair Canada with at least a modicum of democracy.

Retiring W.A. President Honored

At the meeting of the W.A. Evening Branch of St. John's church on Monday, members were addressed during the devotional period by Rev. W. Robertson, who spoke inspiringly on the subject of "Faith."

Miss Agnes Stout, president, presided at the business period. It was announced that the society had increased its membership from 19 to 36 members over an eight-year period. A comprehensive annual report was presented by the secretary, and monies paid in amounting to the sum of $129.30 was reported by the treasurer. The Dorcas report showed $31.60 for quilts made and sold and for knitted woollen garments. Two bales were sent out valued at $53.34. A hearty vote of thanks for the splendid work done by this committee was made by the convener, Mrs. G. Downer. Letters of appreciation from the recipients of the bales were read; money was voted to Mrs. J. Bell for the flower fund.

Following the mission study period taken by Mrs. J. Collis, Mrs. M. Montgomery, vice-president, took the chair in the absence of the new president, Mrs. G. Downer. A happy event at this time was the presentation of a crystal lamp to the retiring president, Miss A. Stout, as a token of the members' esteem and their appreciation of her untiring loyalty and work in the interest of the branch. The presentation was made by Mrs. Leslie Groombridge, and regret was expressed that Miss Stout felt it impossible to continue in office for another year. In a few brief words Miss Stout acknowledged the honor paid her, and asked that the same whole-hearted support be given her successor.

Announcement was made that three quilts were ready to be quilted. Mrs. M. Montgomery closed the meeting with the Members' Prayer and benediction. Tea was later served by Miss E. Clementi.

Bridal Couple Will Reside In Kingston

Calla lilies adorned the altar and wide satin bows of white ribbon tied the guest pews at a lovely wedding ceremony which took place at nine o'clock Monday morning, January 9, in the Church of the Sacred Heart, when Miss Mary Velma Dennie, Reg. N., of Kingston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Dennie, 159 Albertus street, became the bride of Mr. Michael John Maloney, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Maloney of Elginburg.

Rev. J. J. O'Brien officiated, assisted during the nuptial mass by two altar boys, Lorne O'Brien and Billie Condon, cousins of the bride. Wedding music was played by Mr. J. Armstrong, and Miss Alice Collins sang "Ave Marie," "Ah Whence to Me the Bliss," ond "Sweet Lady of Perpetual Help."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely model of castle blue magic hour crepe, with corsage of red roses, and small veiled hat in a cerise shade. She was attended by Miss Eileen Enright of Long Beach, New York, wearing a navy ensemble trimmed with cerise, and corsage of red roses.

Mr. Wilfred Callahan of Kingston was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Lorne Rennie and Mr. Elmer Hickey, brother and cousin of the bride.

A wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents for forty-three guests, Mrs Dennie, mother of the bride, receiving in a black gown trimmed with touches of white, and corsage of pink carnations. White narcissus, large potted ferns and white wedding bells were used to deck the house, and the table was centred with the three-tiered wedding cake and adorned with tall pink tapers in silver holders.

For travelling the bride wore a black seal coat over an Oxford grey frock of rabbit's hair jersey trimmed with chartreuse, and black accessories. Following a motor trip to Toronto and Buffalo, returning via Montreal, Mr. and Mrs. Maloney will reside in Kingston.

Don't Hoard Discarded Clothes And Furniture In Your Attic; There Are Plenty Of Worthy People Who Need It Badly And Will Welcome The Gift

DEAR MISS DIX—I know a woman 87 years of age. She is an old maid and lives by herself. Is very well off financially, but she goes shabby as a beggar. She has some rich relatives who live in a distant city and who continually send her trunks full of the most wonderful clothes—gowns and hats and shoes and cloaks of the most elegant kind that have never been worn more than once or twice. This old woman, who cannot wear the clothes herself, never gives so much as even a piece of ribbon away. She stores them in her house, where she has rooms full of boxes that have never been unpacked. Don't you think this wicked when there are so many poor needing clothes and so many young girls just dying for a party dress that they haven't the money to buy?

E. V. H.

ANSWER:

Indeed, I do. I doubt if there is any worse sin that any one can commit than to hoard away things that are useless to oneself and that are so badly needed by those about one. A long time ago I wrote an article that I called "The Crime of the Attic" in which I pictured a woman who had led, as she thought, an exemplary Christian life, dying and going up before the Judgment Bar.

"Does any one accuse this woman of any crime?" asked the Great Judge, and then to the woman's horror there rose up before her all of the contents of her attic, and they challenged her right to admission into Heaven. There were the overcoats, the suits of clothes, the dresses eaten into rags by the moths, while by her door every day went men and women shivering with cold. There were the piles of shoes mildewed and rotten, while shoeless feet trod the icy pavements.

There was the old stuffed chair falling to pieces now, but that would have made some invalid much more comfortable for so many years. There was the shabby spring mattress that would have been soft for her laundress to sleep on instead of the hard bed that was all she could afford. There was the party dress that would have made some girl so happy. And the toys that hadn't been played with for twenty years that would have been such a joy to children who never had a plaything that they did not contrive out of a tin can and a string. And so it went through all the things that filled the attic and that the woman had hoarded through her lifetime.

The moral of that story still holds good. I believe that we should divide what we have, right now and here, with the needy, and that we should not keep a single garment, nor a stick of furniture, nor anything that could add to the comfort and well-being of others that we do not actually need ourselves.

And do it now. Don't wait until the clothes are old-fashioned and useless and the furniture is ready to fall to pieces from neglect. Do it today.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—Christmas nearly runs me crazy, and the reason for it is that my husband is wild about mechanical toys. For about six weeks before the "blessed season" all I hear is about trains and switches and tracks. And, after Christmas, come with me to what my husband and our 14-year-old son call the "hobby room." Immediately on opening the door there is a sign reading "BONEHEAD, WATCH WHERE YOU PUT YOUR FEET." Once past this sign you see a railroad system all set and ready to go, with lights flashing, whistles blowing, signals changing, and out from a tunnel comes a streamlined train outfit worth somewhere around $100. We are middle-aged people. My husband one of the best. Our home comfortable and cozy. Everything I say about it goes, except about toy trains. Don't you think it is time my husband cut out that sort of pastime? Honestly, I don't know whether he or son is the biggest boy. NOT SELFISH.

ANSWER:

Why, lady, instead of objecting to your husband spending his evenings with his boy monkeying with a toy railroad, you ought to be down on your knees thanking God that he is so innocently employed instead of playing around with a baby doll at some night club. Every man ought to have a hobby. It takes his mind off of his business and gives him a chance to relax and think of something else except the drive of life. And, if he can find amusement in playing with mechanical toys, his wife is in great luck, for that is just about the least expensive fad in which he can indulge.

If your husband was spending all of his money on stamps or etchings or silver or old china or butterflies—I knew one man who couldn't be trusted to pay the rent because he would spend the money on buying a butterfly—why, you might get peeved. But, anyway, don't conclude that your husband is in his dotage because he wants to play with toy trains. Half the men we know have the same mania.

And when you deplore your husband's boyishness, think what a wonderful thing it is that he can be a boy with his own boy and thus establish a bond between them that will enable him always to be his son's best friend and counselor. Not many boys ever go wrong if they had a father who played with them.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am one of those accursed women who have no attraction for men, and as I think marriage is the only happiness in life for women rather than be an old maid, I am thinking of committing suicide. Don't you think that suicide would be justifiable in my case? LOUISE.

ANSWER:

Not at all. The world is full of a number of things besides men and marriage and, if you will just give up husband-hunting as not your game and concentrate on some other occupation, you will find that there are plenty of amusements left.

Unmarried women are only unhappy so long as they are trying to marry. Once they give it up they are among the cheeriest and most contented of people, with a lot less to worry over than most of their married sisters. Anyway, don't be in a hurry about committing suicide, because just around the corner Mr. Right may be coming your way.

Home and School Association News

CENTRAL SCHOOL

The January meeting of Central Home and School Association was held in the kindergarten room of the school on Monday evening with a splendid attendance of mothers present. In the absence of the president, Mrs. J. H. Quirt, the vice-president, Mrs. Poulson, occupied the chair. The meeting opened with the singing of "O Canada" and the Lord's Paryer repeated in unison. The secretary's report was given by Mrs. O. Callander, and the treasurer's report by Mrs. Wilfred Boorman, in the absence of Mrs. L. Raper.

The attendance picture was awarded to Miss Esplen's room with six members present.

Each member present pledged herself to make a dollar towards the finances of the association before the end of the year.

Mrs. Payne of the social committee reported that Miss Stout's room received candy as a reward for the largest paper collection.

Mrs. N. Stanger, the council representative, brought a request from the council that members take note of the radio talks by Ernest Macmillan at 6.15 on January the 19th, 23rd and 24th.

The chairman made reference to the study group, which is making good progress. The teachers are the leaders, and each teacher speaks for his or her own grade, and explains the new curriculum. Much interest is being shown, and parents are heartily welcome to attend the next meeting on Tuesday evening, January 17, at 7.30 p.m. in the kindergarten room.

Mr. Bolton expressed appreciation for the gift of money, which the association gave the school towards the purchase of a piano. The speaker also mentioned that "Education Week" would be observed, starting on February 5, and asked for any suggestions which the association could make to help in this observation.

It was decided to hold "Open School" at which afternoon tea would be served in the afternoon, and a "Fathers' Night" program in the evening of Friday, February 10. The meeting voted to donate $5.00 towards the milk fund of the school.

Miss Z. Kearney, city nurse for communicable diseases, gave an instructive article, explaining the different phases of her work and dealing with valuable health information.

A short musical program was contributed by Mrs. A. H. Radford, who sang "The Crown of the Year" and by Miss E. B. Fowler, who sang "Love's Old Sweet Song."

The meeting closed with the National Anthem. Mrs. Radford was piano accompanist for the evening. After the meeting dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Honor and Mrs. Payne, social conveners, and their assistants.

MAY'S SCHOOL

The Monday night meeting of May's Home and School Association took the form of a supper meeting for the members, with supper served by Mrs. A. Lee, social convener, and her committee. A pleasant social hour of bingo and a brief, humorous skit by two of the members entitled "See's All and Knows Nothing," with a draw from a basket for Christmas gifts, was enjoyed prior to the business meeting.

The Lord's Prayer repeated in unison and the adopted hymn "Blest Be the Tie that Binds" opened the business period. Mrs. W. H. Wheeler, president, extended to the members her well-wishes for a very profitable New Year, which were still carried out in a lovely and sacred poem "Another Year Is Dawning." In conclusion, Mrs. Wheeler mentioned the thoughts and prayers that are behind Christmas cards if people would but take time to analyze them. She used as an illustration the last verse of "Away In a Manger" as a very fitting New Year's resolution and prayer. "Be near me, Lord Jesus, I ask thee to stay, Close by me for ever and love me, I pray. Bless all the dear children in Thy tender care, and fit us for heaven to live with Thee there."

A discussion took place regarding the Founder's Day program, which will be held on the evening of February 13 with the anticipation of a very well-planned program. An outline of the talk presented Monday afternoon at the Women's Hospital Auxiliary meeting in Knox United Church by Dr. G. S. Cameron on the subject of Cancer was given by a member who had attended.

WEDDINGS

Fraser—Munro

BANCROFT, Jan. 10.—Our Lady of Mercy R.C. church, Bancroft, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Saturday morning at nine o'clock when Nita Catherine, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Munro of Bancroft became the bride of James Tredwell Fraser of Montreal.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. J. Kennedy and the wedding music was played by Miss Loretta O'Brien, while Misses Eleanor and Helen Munro sang

The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a white beaded evening bag, to the best man, cigarettes.

Cancer Research Has Yielded Valuable Returns

Speaking on "The Findings of the Cancer Research Bureau," Dr. G. Stewart Cameron addressed a large audience of Hospital Women Auxiliary members at Knox United Church on Monday afternoon. Dr. Cameron, who is chairman for Ontario of the Canadian Society for the Control of Cancer, outlined the purpose of this society, explaining that it was formed in an attempt to bring about a change in a gloomy picture which is yearly robbing Canada of thousands of valuable citizens through cancer, and is sponsored by the Canadian Medical Association with the endorsement of the Trustees of The King George V Silver Jubilee Cancer Fund for Canada.

Indicating the reproduction, growth and function of the cells whose wisely controlled action is necessary to the proper and healthy maintenance of our bodies, Dr. Cameron explained that it is when cancer invasion disruots this wise control that the orderly growth and functioning of the cell is completely changed, and the new cancer cell directs its energies toward the destruction of life. The reasons why this orderly control of the cell has been disturbed is in a general way the problem that confronts the workers in the many laboratories throughout the world devoted to special research in cancer.

Although members of the medical profession have as yet been unable to name the specific cause of cancer, a great deal of information about the disease has been learned as a result of intensive research, and this knowledge enables them to treat successfully the early cases, to retard the advance, and to prevent its development among those who are informed about the present day viewpoint.

That a great responsibility rests with the general public was pointed out in Dr Cameron's concluding remarks, in which he urged frequent health examinations and prompt investigation of any abnormal growths or abnormal experiences in general health. In making this appeal, he said, "It is the desire of those most interested in this work to avoid arousing fear, particularly mass fear. It is our desire to appeal to the reason of the people, to present the facts so far as we know them and trust to the sane consideration of those facts. I believe the hope for the future lies in the persistent efforts of our research workers in both the laboratory and the clinical fields. May I express the belief that you, a group of trained students, will assist in disseminating such information as we have among your friends so that a more intelligent and a more hopeful outlook may prevail among the public at large."

A wish for a happy New Year was expressed to the members by Mrs. J. Wharry, president, who spoke briefly of the need for a new hospital wing and the modernizing of the old one. "In making 1939 a Hospital Year," Mrs. Wharry said, "it is our part to let the rest of the public know just how much the hospital will mean to the city of Peterborough."

Sincere appreciation of the baskets of fruit, radios loaned for Christmas music and other assistance during the holiday season was voiced by Mrs. E. M. Leeson of Nicholls Hospital. Greetings from the trustees of the Hospital Board were brought by Mr. E. F Mason.

Reports were given for the Samaritan Cupboard by Mrs. N. Warrander; Visiting, Mrs. J. Comstock; Life Members, Mrs. I. Lillico; Membership Campaign, Mrs. V. Morphet; Sewing, Mrs. J. Detcher.

A vote of thanks to the speaker and to Rev. V. E. R Zufelt for allowing the Auxiliary the use of the church was moved by Mrs. Jacob Low.

By Way Of Suggestion

Often enough there are letters forwarded to the City Council protesting against the way in which trucks project out into the road on George Street South in front of Canada Packers. Truth is the trucks as they stand there at times are much in the way, and if there was a collision as a result it might cause trouble enough to fix responsibility.

The Examiner does not believe that Canada Packers prefer to have trucks standing as they do on the road there. The company would probably remedy the condition quickly enough if it could be done. But the plant is well out to the street line. It is cut off on the north by the C.P.R. tracks, and on the east by the river.

Canada Packers has done much to eliminate cause for complaint regarding the odors which come from all packing plants; it is a good industry for Peterborough; people who are engaged there are fairly treated. Apart from that the packing house is the reason why a great many farmers from a wide area come to Peterborough at all seasons of the year. We cannot think of any place which is a greater asset that way.

The Examiner believes there is a better way of dealing with the projecting truck problem on the street there than complaining about it. We believe it would be good business for the proper committee from the City Council to confer with Canada Packers and see if there is not some way in which the condition can be remedied. The one thing which the locality itself suggests is a street widening project on the west side of George Street opposite the plant. From Dalhousie Street to Rink Street on the west side of George Street there are but four property owners, the C.P.R., Canada Packers, the Chamberlen estate and the city of Peterborough itself. South of the C.P.R. siding into the plant of the Canada Packers is a lot of 60 feet frontage owned by the packing plant; then 325 feet frontage owned by the Chamberlen estate, and the city is owner of the block between Townsend and Rink Streets.

If George Street were widened it would do away with the present trouble and it would be a good move to take up the old street railway tracks at the same time, something which should have been done long ago. The Examiner believes when an industry has a problem which is not readily solved it is good business on the part of City Council to see if assistance can be brought to the solution. We say that on the general principle that one way in which to attract new industries is to make it plain enough that we have not lost interest in those which are already located in our city.

Asking a Plain Question

Announcement is made that work will start immediately on the road between Buckhorn and Bobcaygeon under a scheme financed by the Provincial and Federal governments for the purpose of giving employment at a time of year when it is needed. It is probably a continuation of the scheme which started with the building of the road from Burleigh Falls to Buckhorn via the old Oregon Trail.

While this is acceptable as winter work and a betterment of existing roads, it does not solve the question of that unfinished road between Apsley and Bancroft and until it is completed in full the work which has been done already is serving very little purpose. There has been a great piece of road building done from Bancroft out to Paudash Lake, but that in itself will not tempt traffic to cover the old road from there to Apsley. That road has been fooled with and surveyed so long ago that the original cuttings have started to grow in again.

It is possible to get into the Bancroft area from the Ottawa Valley or from Belleville, but not from Peterborough and that is a road in which this city is particularly interested. With its completion it would make a link which would join us with the Ottawa Valley and another which would make a logical entrance to Algonquin Park. Those in search of summer homes are constantly pressing farther north, and Paudash Lake alone has a frontage of some ninety miles. The completion of the Apsley-Bancroft road is one of the biggest uncompleted tasks in this district. It is a logical road to put in shape, and yet it lags and waits. It is quite in order to ask why such a policy should be persistently followed.

It Cost Three Lives

Only a few days ago there were four members of a family living happily on a farm in Caradoc township in Middlesex —Olaf Paulson, his wife and two little daughters, Carmel 5 and Shirley 3. Today the husband is left and the others are dead.

Mrs. Paulson tried to hurry the fire in the stove by using coal oil; the fire looked so dull it appeared as though it might have gone out. When the coal oil was applied there was so much fire that mother and children were enveloped in it.

One might hesitate to try and point a lesson where such a tragedy has taken place, but actually it seems the right time to talk of it. The number of lives which have been claimed by the coal oil can being called upon to supplement the efforts of the fire in the kitchen range or the heater would make a staggering total and the list has been growing for years.

We have no doubt Mrs. Paulson had done the same thing before and nothing serious had happened. She probably found the fire responded quickly and she may have been convinced it was the right way to hurry things along.

The tragedy which happened in that farm home in Caradoc can happen elsewhere if the practice of using the coal oil can to hurry the fire along is followed. If you are in the habit of doing it we suggest the wise thing is to stop right now.

Another Railway Problem

During the days when Italy was invading Ethiopia we heard much of the French-owned railway which ran from Addis Ababa to Djibouti. Possibly most of us had never before heard anything about this particular railway line. It was the one way to reach the seaport on the Gulf of Aden.

Italy controls Ethiopia now, but does not own the railway, and Italy and France are not on good terms. Nor have they been for some time.

We may consider we have a railway problem in Canada due to the competition from trucks, buses and passenger cars. And we have. But the French owners of the railway in Ethiopia have a worse nut to crack.

Italy made no attempt to take the railway, but started at once on the business of making roads leading from Addis Ababa to Djibouti, and now they have formidable fleets of trucks in operation. The railway used to carry 400 tons of freight per day, while now the business registers 30 tons. The Italian system is to notify shippers and passengers to patronize the trucks and the French railway can do nothing to drum up business. And what can France do about it? Not a thing.

After 22 Years

Tom Mooney, held in a California prison for 22 years, is at liberty now. On July 22, 1916, there was a Preparedness Day parade in San Francisco, during which a bomb exploded which killed ten persons and injured sixteen. Mooney was arrested and convicted of having set off the bomb.

Now he has been unconditionally pardoned, and if he is innocent today then he was innocent on the 22nd day of July, 1916, and he has been innocent ever since.

Looks fine enough on the face of it to have Tom Mooney pardoned after more than 22 years in prison, but that an innocent man should have been held that long is not so fine.

There was one piece of evidence in this case which was never explained away. It was a photograph taken from the roof of a hotel on the day of the parade, and in it were Tom Mooney and his wife looking down on the parade. There was a clock in the picture on an adjoining building and it showed the hour, so according to that picture Mooney was actually blocks away from where the fatal bombing took place. In the ordinary case it would have looked like the perfect alibi. Contention was for years that there was such a cry for action on the part of the police that it became necessary to pin the crime on some person, and Mooney was known to be somewhat of an agitator and the finger was pointed at him. Much of the evidence produced at the time was afterward found to be perjured. It ranks as one of the strangest cases in history of recent years, and if the official view now is that Mooney was innocent it leaves unanswered the old question: "Who threw that bomb?"

They Start Too Late

Four men walked into a home in Toronto, found James Windsor, 46 years of age, sitting at the kitchen table with a number of relatives, including several women and children. One of the intruders who had a revolver in his hand when he entered the home, shot Windsor, took a ring said to be worth $2,500 off his finger, and then the four departed. Windsor died in half an hour.

The police describe it as gang war, and the supposition is that Windsor, a law-breaker himself, had been making money and at the same time refused to purchase "protection" from other groups of law-breakers. It is said he was urged to pay $25 per week for this protection, protection in such a case meaning that as far as other mugs and outlaws were concerned he was to be left alone and allowed to attend to his law-breaking unmolested.

When such a killing takes place there is always a degree of interest and activity. Talk starts with the offering of a suitable reward for the capture or identification of the killer. There is also the making of official statements saying that this sort of thing has no place in Ontario or Canada and must be stamped out at once. The killing itself is evidence that we have what might be termed the second stage of gangland tactics in our province. That is, the primary stage consists of the law-breakers themselves, and the second stage is the existence of the smaller and more desperate group who live by preying on the first set.

The second set would not come into existence unless the first set had been successful. There have been some statements made already in connection with this Toronto affair which merit attention. James Windsor, the dead man, also owned a dance hall and eating place well out on Yonge Street North, but he had turned the operation of that place over to his son, and reports are that although there was occasional trouble there no liquor had ever been found on the place. Police had searched it several times, and spotters had sought to make purchases without success.

Chief Constable Roy Riseborough of North York says when application was made for a dance license by James Windsor he was informed the regulations were strict and it was necessary to check up on the applicant. The Chief's statement is this:

"I told him it was said he was in the bootlegging and bookie racket and if that was the case he couldn't get a license. Windsor admitted he was, but said the place was his son's and that he hadn't anything to do with it. I told him to let his son make an application."

And right there something looks decidedly loose. The police chief in York knew James Windsor was in the bootlegging and bookie racket, and he had probably secured that information when checking up on him with Toronto police. When police know a man is in that sort of business right then is the time to crack down and stop him. Stop him short and effectively. Just why a man should be allowed to continue breaking law once he admits he is doing so is something which authorities could concentrate upon more effectively than offering rewards after a cold-blooded murder has been done. Leaving gangsters to punish gangsters is not the way things ought to be done in this country.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Move is made in Toronto to reduce the personnel of the Board of Education by one-half, and of course the half which is to be reduced will object.

If those Hungarian and Czech soldiers at present engaged in border warfare had any regard for the feelings of the rest of the world they would face toward home and mind their own business.

Man who swam across the Detroit river the other day explained he gained his strength by eating lots of garlic, and we are rather inclined toward the belief the man was telling the truth.

William Lyon Mackenzie King was married in Toronto, but the bridegroom was a nephew of our Prime Minister. However that is coming fairly close for our bachelor Prime Minister.

Sir Charles Ross, inventor of the Ross rifle, has been granted a divorce from his wife. And there were plenty of Canadian soldiers in the World War who were not at all annoyed when they were divorced from their Ross rifles.

Sir James Jeans, English scientist, says there is no difference in the sound if a piano key is struck with an umbrella or the finger of a Paderewski. Perhaps that is so but we have always had a preference for leaving umbrellas out in the hall.

Ottawa reports there may be more questioning of the Bren gun contract after the official report has been received. It might be well to consider first what the report is going to cost us before talking of extending the questioning.

CIVILIZED!

¶ The nations building battleships, to send great shells on deadly trips, are larger than before; and they can stand far out at sea, and scatter cities flat can be, that grew upon the shore.

¶ A nation started building one, that carried then an awful gun, of greater power and size; if they could only shoot it straight, 'twould carry messages of hate, a death shot from the skies.

¶ Next nation heard about the gun, then started on a larger one, 'twould smash up twenty homes; and people had to pay the bill, they scraped their pocket and the till, spent sixty thousand bones.

¶ And then they took to bombing planes, to scatter gas and lead and flames, they built them larger still; and brainy men worked night and day, to try and find a faster way, to mutilate and kill.

¶ And submarines both long and sleek, they put them 'neath the waves to sneak, so they could hit and run; another chap called forth in glee, that folk should hasten forth and see, he'd made a newer gun.

¶ And thus we live and thus we strive, and thus we try to keep alive, and guards the things most prized; yet we contend with phrase and word, with sounding adjective and verb—that we are civilized.

Full Ten Years Of Deficits

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S budget message fills in with ten-digit figures the philosophy of deficit financing enunciated in his annual message to Congress. This rationalization of red figures was more fully elucidated a week ago by Chairman Eccles of the Fedral Reserve. Mr. Roosevelt prettifies it as "national investment for prosperity." But it adds up to a decade of deficits, $3,000,000,000 for the next fiscal year and a total public debt of nearly $45,000,000,000 by 1940.

And this time there is no promise of a balanced budget; only a hope that by continued Federal spending the lack of private spending can be made up until business so revives that there will be an $80,000,000,000 national income. On that level there is hope of balance. Now it should be recognized says Christian Science Monitor, that sound economists support the theory that Federal credit can usefully keep up the flow of investment while private enterprise is afraid to take hold. They believe the last recession was primarily due to too rapid shutting off of Federal spending.

But after a decade of deficits two fundamental facts make this theory a very dangerous basis for national policy. First is the fact that full-fledged business recovery requires confidence which will lead to long-term investment of private capital. As Mr. Roosevelt said last year, "No Government can conscript co-operation." And so long as investors fear that government competition,, government-tolerated labor disorders, government-devised tax burdens, government-controlled political spending and government-fostered public distrust of business are going to make profits small and doubtful, the pump of recovery will not be primed.

It is true that some investors need to realize that there will never be a return to the "good old days" when the lid was off for unconscionable exploitation. But there have been increasing evidences, particularly since the last election, that many business men have a new social outlook and are ready to go a long ways on their side. In fairness, it should be said that Mr. Roosevelt also has shown a disposition to end the baiting of business. And his willingness to see some "polishing" of recent legislation which disturbs business men gives hope for better co-operation than at any time in the last six years.

But business confidence and co-operation will not be won after a decade of deficits, and with the unemployment problem still unsolved, by giving pleasanter names to big debt increases. It would be better to face the second fact which undermines the Eccles-Roosevelt theory—the fact that these deficits are rooted in political causes. They are made up of grants to various pressure groups which no government and no party dares to defy. And they are manufactured by logrolling. Nearly every one of these groups would like to stop the spending for other groups —but it consents in order to get its own share.

Relief, farm subsidies, pensions—all these can be supported by arguments of necessity. But the amount of them is open to political pressures. And there is the difficulty about economy. The Roosevelt Administration might not be able to stop the spending. But it could take the lead in checking it, instead of rationalizing it.

SHUN AYLMER.

One wonders what has become of the transients whom in former winters were kept over night and fed in Aylmer. From January first to May first last year, an average of six transients each night slept in the band hall and were given one or two free meals at the town's expense. Last spring the council wisely passed a motion to discontinue relief to transients, and evidently the word was quickly passed around among them, for so far this fall and winter, not a transient has stopped in Aylmer, or has been entertained at the expense of the ratepayers. We understand, however, that St. Thomas and Tillsonburg, are getting plenty of them.

The sooner all towns and cities in Ontario follow Aylmer's example, the sooner governments will be forced to do something definite about the transient problem. These transients should be looked after in concentration camps or forced to remain in the municipality where they spend the summer.—Aylmer Express.

SIGH FOR RED FLANNELS.

——We suppose it would be pretty hard to find a suit of red flannel underwear in Saskatchewan. Which may be too bad, revealing as it must that the pioneer days are passing. There was a fine bit of dash and color to a suit of red underwear, especially when it swung on the line in the backyard. When we saw such a suit flung to the breeze or snapping and crackling with the thermometer 35 below we knew that there were real sturdy men abroad, the type that make a country, that can stand hardship, the sort that can go through a night camped in the river bottom with the temperature 40 below, the kind of people that will stand up against anything fate and fortune may produce.

They had to be that kind of people to wear red flannel underwear spiked liked a cactus.

We doubt if it is possible but it would be consoling to know that somewhere a suit of red flannel still stabs the Saskatchewan landscape into light and color, say at Buffalo Horn, Lonesome Butte, Skull Creek or in the remote fastnesses of the Lost Horse Hills.—Regina Leader-Post.

Using That Word "Racket"

By A.R.K.

THE WORD "racket" has been so much used that to a good many readers it may mean nothing much. Perhaps they regard it as an expression to cover everything which looks shady. I admit entertaining some such feeling myself and considered that New York was a right enough place to find out what the word meant. And the proper place in New York would of course be at police headquarters.

That was several years ago at which time F. C. Birchall was managing editor of the New York Times, and he is now chief of the staff of European correspondents of the same paper. A call on him resulted in my being placed under the wing of one of police reporters of the Times whose office was in a dingy little building just across the street from the police headquarters. Mr. Birchall who was very much of an Englishman was most generous with the time of his staff for he told his reporter to stay with me until I told him I had seen enough and under no circumstances was I to be allowed to spend any money.

I found that with F. C. Birchall's card in my pocket the door was open almost any place. I wanted to see a good many things, the armored cars, the Tombs, the line-up in the morning and all such.

A 24-HOUR CATCH

The line-up takes place at 9 in the morning and all those who have been arrested in the previous 24 hours are paraded across a platform at the end of a room which would seat perhaps 300. Back of the run-way at the front is a scale built in feet and inches and the arrested appear one at a time before a loud speaker and spot-light. The prosecutor stands a few feet off and also uses a loud speaker. Looking at a few notes made on that occasion there were 78 that day and it was explained to me that was rather light.

Those who have reason to believe they might identify any person are admitted and a number of policemen are present as well so they can have a look at the spectacle. The same question in almost every case: "Ever been in trouble before?" And always the same answer in the negative. After which the prosecutor would proceed with the reading of the previous known record which might include anything from arson to homicide and out on patrol. They were a tough looking lot, men and women. How many of them were being held I do not know although most of them were released after attending the line up.

THE WORD RACKET

A good many times that same word "racket" was used, and after the line-up was over I had opportunity to ask questions of an inspector in the office of Inspector Sullivan. That was the first thing I wanted to know—whether the word racket was overdone and whether it actually represented something with which the police had to deal.

The answer to my question was as frank as anything could be: "You ask what a racket is and if it is something real. I can tell you at the start it is so real that we cannot keep up with it and we cannot yet cope with it."

"Could you tell me in a plain way just what it is?" I suggested.

"Yes, I can do that without any trouble at all. Take your own case as an example. You are here in New York looking around and perhaps you have been in the laundry business, and decide this is a big place where many people would be sending out their washing. You make a survey of the city and find a location where you are not too far from a number of apartment houses or office buildings and you put in your equipment and get ready to go ahead. You have a man out looking for business and you secure some trucks for making delivery and engage some competent people to work for you. Everything looks all right and you make a start and come to the conclusion that everything is going to be all right."

THEN THINGS HAPPEN

"After you have been in business for a few weeks you have a visitor come to call on you. He is a friendly chap and a good talker and informs you he is a representative of the Laundry Protective Association. Perhaps you think it is a trade organization and would like to join, but he finally informs you that your fees will be $5,000 a year and you tell him you are not in that class. He regrets that you do not see your way clear to join but leaves a card and suggests that if things do not go right it might be advisable to call him up and he will be pleased to look into the case.

"Perhaps in a week or so one of your trucks fails to turn up. It may be you will find there is some peculiar substance getting into your soap that is spoiling a good deal of your wash. There are plenty of things which can happen in this city. You do what you can to find out where the trouble is and probably you come here and ask us to help. We will do all we can but I admit it is a hard thing to try and trace a laundry truck and harder still to find a load which has been reported missing and it might puzzle a good man from the outside to find out just when and how some foreign stuff entered your supply of soap.

"The result is your trouble keeps on growing worse and you are actually losing money and trade and it looks as though your investment is going to go by the boards. You are fighting some unseen force that is working against you 24 hours a day.

"Then you think of the man who called on you several months ago. I would not be surprised," continued the inspector, "if he came to call on you again about this time and asked if you were getting along all right or if you had decided to join the Protective Association. When you meet with this gentleman the second time you might suspect he knew all about your trouble and so he does but you have no proof of anything against him and neither have we. He does not do any of the nasty work himself. He just manages, he hires others to do the work of terrorizing you and pays them.

"You realize by now that if there is no change for the better you are going to lose everything and the chances are you are ready enough to sign on with the Protective Association and pay your fees even if you have to mortgage your holdings to do so.

"After that is done you find there is no more interference with your delivery trucks; they are safe to come and go at all hours and in all sections There is nothing more of a ruinous sort found in your washing equipment, and you are at liberty to go on and do what you intended in the first place—that is to run a laundry business in New York City, but you have paid $5,000 for the privilege of being left alone.

ENORMOUS SUMS

"And is this racket business common in many lines of business?" I asked.

"So common that we actually do not know how much money is paid out in this city every year for protection. Yes, the racket is a real thing."

Of course that interview is several years old and there have been a number of well-directed efforts at racket busting and some of them are credited with considerable success.

It was explained to me at that time that with the money coming in to these various so-called Protective Associations it was possible to engage a number of rather clever lawyers who attended to all business when trouble came and the racketeers found themselves in tight corners. They knew all the loop-holes in the law and were well paid.

The word "racket" has drifted across the border into this country. It was used a few days ago in connection with the shooting of a bootlegger in Toronto. It is not an imaginary or a vague phrase, but actually represents a menace which is hard enough to fight because it stays under cover and is not readily driven out into the open.

• Covering The Whole News Field

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

On the day before Christmas the Peterborough Examiner carried 260 items about people coming and going for the holiday. That sort of thing, and the publishing of correspondence from surrounding districts, is the distinct field of the local paper which a metropolitan daily cannot invade, and goes to emphasize the desirability of having a local as well as a metropolitan paper in the home.—Toronto Star.

Complimentary references like the above are always appreciated by "local" newspapers, which do give an exclusive service of a personal nature to the people in the localities which they serve.

The Times-Journal, on the day before Christmas, carried approximately the same number of holiday personal news items as the Peterborough paper and most of the other small city dailies in the province did likewise.

It is a mistake to infer, however, that these papers, while looking so well after the local field, neglect the outside world and leave the general news to the metropolitan papers.

Practically every daily newspaper in Ontario has access to the news gathered and distributed by The Canadian Press.

The same service (a duplicate, as a matter of fact) is given to the small city dailies as to the dailies in the large centres and not a few of them take full advantage of this and other services, with the result that they are giving their readers a more complete world news service than some of the papers published in metropolitan centres, and are giving complete local coverage to boot.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

And when the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place. . . . And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance. . . .

Now when this was noised abroad, the multitude came together, and were confounded, because that every man heard them speak in his own language. . . . And they were all amazed, and were in doubt, saying one to another, What meaneth this? Others mocking said, These men are full of new wine.

But Peter, standing up with the eleven, lifted up his voice, and said unto them, Ye men of Judaea, and all ye that dwell at Jerusalem, be this known unto you, and hearken to my words; for these are not drunken, as ye suppose, seeing it is but the third hour of the day. But this is that which was spoken by the prophet Joel; And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams: and on my servants and on my handmaidens I will pour out in those days of my Spirit; and they shall prophesy. . . .

And it shall come to pass, that whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved.—Acts ii, 1, 2, 4, 6, 12-18, 21.

ONE CITY'S SUICIDES.

As a pendant to the topic of New Year's resolutions, it might be noted that there were twenty-seven suicides in the city over the week-end. For suicide, too, is a resolution, a final commentary, the ultimate criticism of those who do not commit suicide.

Nevertheless, this news is not quite so disquieting as some commentators have tried to make it seem. Twenty-seven suicides mean twenty-seven individual tragedies; but twenty-seven over a long week-end—a week-end when everybody pauses to ask himself, "Where have I got so far, and where am I going?"—is not so many in a community of this size. To get what the scientists would call the controls for the experiment, it ought to be simultaneously recorded that seven million people in New York City thought things over on New Year's Eve and didn't feel like committing suicide.—New York Times.

IN TWENTY WORDS.

——In Mexico, where the government owns the telegraph system, President Cardenas has set aside a daily "complaint hour", during which citizens may send free 20-word messages of complaint to the government.

This struck us, at first, as an excellent idea. On second thought, however, we have decided not to advocate anything of the kind for this country. In the first place, what American citizen could put his complaints into 20 words? In the second, who would read all those telegrams?

And in the third, if a vast new bureau were created in Washington to read and file the complaints that would only be one more thing for citizens to complain about.

"Oh, no," said Mary. "The neighbors might think he does!"

Atrocity Tales Baseless Say War Heads

LONDON, Jan. 10 (CP)– The war office today denounced "baseless allegations by persons and organizations unfriendly to this country" in regard to British military activities in Palestine.

The denunciation was prompted by German press charges and by stories of alleged atrocities in the holy land which have been circulated throughout Arab countries.

In a statement the war office outlined the position of the British army in Palestine and also the Arab rebel position and declared certain necessary activities had been "twisted by propagandists to appear as atrocities."

The Arab rebels, who number between 1,000 and 1,500, the statement said, seek at all times to avoid open conflict with British troops. Consequently drastic methods were necessary.

The methods, it said, consisted mainly of throwing cordons around villages and searching for known rebels, shooting anyone previously warned who attempts to escape, marching men off for identification, blowing up houses singly or enmasse where rebel activities are concentrated, and imposing strict curfews.

"A number of such cordon breakers have been shot during the searches," the statement said, "and it is probable that such cases form the basis for propaganda that Arab prisoners are shot in cold blood and reported as 'killed while attempting to escape.'"

Grand Mufti The Leader

The statement said that the Arab rebels were divided into bands with a general policy more or less directed by the exiled Grand Mufti of Jerusalem and the Arab higher committee.

Within Palestine, however, the leaders were practically independent in their own areas. It named the two principal leaders as Abdul Rahim El Haj Mahomed, titular commander-in-chief, and Aref Abdul Razzik, who "are on such bad terms that on more than one occasion open hostilities almost broke out between them."

It said Abdul Rahim is a more honest and genuine patriot than the majority of the rebels. He "dislikes intensely the campaign of assassination and intimidation waged against all moderate Arabs who might oppose the Mufti's policy."

Abdul Razzik was described as "entirely unprincipled he has achieved his present position by a career of utter ruthlessness."

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

"Look! There's Humpty-Dumpty sitting on the wall," Hanid said to her brother Knarf.

The two shadow-children were walking down the King's Road to Mother Gooseland. Suddenly they came upon their old friend, perched on top of the stone wall. He was shaped exactly like an egg, you know. He was wearing a bright red muffler around his neck (which was right about where his feet began so that it was hard to tell whether the muffler was for his neck or was for keeping his feet warm). He greeted the two shadows pleasantly as they approached.

"Fine morning, isn't it?" he said.

"Ah, yes—it's a lovely morning," Hanid agreed. "But—er—" she started to say.

"But what? Speak up, child!" said Humpty-Dumpty.

"Hanid's afraid you might — you might—" Knarf said. But he couldn't finish either.

Humpty-Dumpty began to laugh. He shook from side to side. The two shadows looked at him in alarm. They were afraid he was going to fall off the wall at that moment."

"Oh! I know what you mean," he said at last after he stopped laughing. "You're afraid I might fall off this wall, aren't you?"

"Yes."

"And you're afraid that if I do fall off, I'll break into little pieces, just like an egg."

"Yes."

"And all the king's soldiers and all the king's men—" said Humpty-Dumpty.

"—won't be able to put you together again!" broke in the two shadows.

"You're afraid I might fall off."

"Well," said their friend on the wall, "you needn't have any more fears about that. I may fall off the wall—in fact, I'm quite sure that I will. But I won't break into little pieces any more. Oh, no! That will never happen again. I've had something done which will make that impossible."

"You have? What have you done?" they asked excitedly.

Humpty-Dumpty began roaring with laughter again. "Oh! the simplest thing in the world. I don't know why I never thought of it before. Do you know what I had done? I had myself hard-boiled!"

And he roared louder and louder, and shook harder and harder and didn't worry at all any more about falling off the wall. Aren't you glad?

ROMANCE INC.

BY OREN ARNOLD

CHAPTER 46

A THOUGHTFUL man can face danger.

He can, and frequently does, defy death itself and think little of it. He can face death threatening himself, and he can even face it threatening members of his family, and rationalize it as something inevitable and not necessarily terrifying.

But no man, especially no thoughtful and honest man, can ever anticipate the shattering damage to his soul that comes when a woman he loves refuses his offer of marriage. Something in this is utterly devastating. It is worse than death's sorrow because nothing—not even Time—at the moment holds any promise of surcease. Man's emotions can sink no lower than to hear a beloved sweetheart say "No.".

Sara Sue Davis did not love T. J. Sanders, and had the extremely difficult task of telling him so.

His proposal had been vaguely expected "sometime" in the future, for she was astute enough to know that he was sincerely attracted to her. And just as vaguely had she planned to do something about it before he actually came to the point, as she had adroitly sidetracked Worthington Gurley and made him infinitely happy. But she had simply procrastinated in trying to be rid of T. J.

"—and so, T. J., don't you see it now?" She was speaking ever so gently. "It is sweet of you to want me; I shall never forget the honor you have paid me. I think you are find, really fine. You are still young, and you will go far in business, and somewhere else—with some girl whom you may not even know yet—you will find a happiness greater than you could find with me, and—"

"—oh, but you will! I know it. You have just enjoyed friendship with me, and somehow imagine you love me. Perhaps you really do love me, at the moment, T. J. I almost wish that I loved you back! But — we cannot control those things. Can we? Can we, T. J.? They're done for us, not by us. I do not love you that way. I respect you. I hope to keep your friendship always. But T. J.—"

She paused to look into his eyes, shaking her head slowly, with tragic finality. The young sporting goods salesman, who liked to imagine that he was a stern man, had to swallow hard to avoid an emotional breakdown.

He had been holding one of her hands, and he slowly released it now. He looked away from her, a picture of abject misery. His shoulders sagged, and he seemed tired, infinitely sad. Finally he spoke, almost in a whisper.

"There's someone else. Isn't there, Sara Sue?"

She nodded. Tears had begemmed her own eyes now.

"It all right . . . all right," he declared, bravely. "Luck to . . . you both."

Without another word he arose and left her alone. He went onto the dance floor looking hastily here and there.

"Seen Bob Towne?" he asked people.

Everybody had, but not in the last few minutes. He might be there or there, or over there. He goes everywhere, you know. He was teasing three freshman girls a minute ago. He was doing the Owl Hop. He was talking to Peaches Pomeroy. He was bedeviling one of the Mexican boys. He was talking to the orchestra leader. He was dancing with Frances Bowen. He was dancing with Marcia Gurley. He was—

But T. J. couldn't see him at the moment. He moved on and on, looking.

When T. J. left her, Sara Sue had welcomed the chance for a few minutes alone. She even went back behind some of the decorations, near an open dark window, where she could regain her composure before going back to the dance. She was crying softly, but she did not cry long. She wanted to think for a bit, calmly. She could still hear the dance music and the gaiety in the big ballroom, but it did not distrub her, and she was glad of the chance to rest briefly alone.

"I hope I didn't hurt him," she mused. "I never thought he'd ask me tonight. I wish—I wish I could talk to Thornton."

She smiled wanly at her own thoughts then. Strange, indeed, that she should have so romantic a propsal from one man she didn't want, and have none at all from the one she did want. She, Sara Sue Davis, who was supposed to be very attractive and who, people said, could have any man on the Rice campus. She had heard the talk about herself, inevitably. It had been flattering talk. Now, though, the situation became one of sardonic laughter; Fate again was playing tricks. Her chin trembled at the poignancy of it, and Sara Sue had to cry again.

It helps a great deal to cry. "Don't cry, little girl, don't cry," is age old and foolish advice. Let the little girl cry, be she eight or 80, for no other release is quite so comforting for a woman.

In five minutes Sara Sue felt better. Not that the deep pain in her heart was gone—no! Her love for Thornton Holgate was etched there forever, she knew. And would have to stay buried there in secrecy, always. But she could be superficially at ease now. She sought a light, and with lipstick and rouge and powder erased the outward evidence of stress. She took a deep breath or two at the window, and regained her traditional poise. She felt now that she could go calmly on through the remainder of the dance, then do whatever private "thinking" she felt inclined to when she was at home in there, too!

"Sara Sue! It was T. J., back again. "Here is, Bob. Come on—in here where it's private."

He was leading Bob Towne, who was frankly curious. The intently serious expression on Sanders' face had told him this was no part of the evening's general gaiety and fun.

"What's it all about?" Bob was repeating.

"Listen and I'll tell you," T. J. began then. "I wanted you and Sara Sue both to hear. First, Bob, I want to congratulate you. You win, my friend."

He stuck out a hand which Bob automatically shook, but— "Win what "

"Win Sara Sue, I—I—well, the truth is, Towne, I'm licked. It's no secret that we've both been courting her. I did everything I could, and I—well, we understand each other thoroughly now. I know where I get off. And I want both of you to know that there's no hard feelings. I wanted to tell you both. You have a swell girl. Congratulations again."

Bob and Sara Sue were too startled to speak, so T. J. went on.

"And another thing, Towne—I had planned to do this in student assembly next week. My boss said it was the proper place. Of course, we'll do it officially there, too, but this is more important now. I can announce now that you have been awarded the Columbian Sporting Goods prize. It won't be the thousand dollars we announced at first, but I imagine it'll be enough for a short honeymoon, anyway. Matter of fact—" T. J. forced a friendly grin at them—"it will be more. The Columbian officials agreed a month ago to raise it to fifteen hundred, if our sales passed a certain quota in the southwest this fall. The sales went higher. They figure your endorsement of our line is worth more than the thousand. So you get five hundred bucks extra. I hope you buy Sara Sue something extra-special with it. Well, good luck."

With just that abruptness he turned and went away.

Bob and Sara Sue hadn't had a chance to interrupt him, to thank him, to say anything at all. Astonishment controlled them until he was out of sight and out of hearing.

"Well, I'll be dog-goned da—" Bob almost swore, in his recovering. Suddenly the realization of it all swept over him. His face brightened. He turned to Sara Sue —"Did you hear him? Did you?"

Sara Sue swallowed.

"Fifteen hundred, Sara Sue! And—say, you turned him down? He proposed, and you turned him down? Say—oh, gee! Honey, it's wonderful—ee-YOW!"

Probably Bob Towne will holler loudly, or yodel or give a rebel yell if and when Saint Peter beckons him to enter the Golden Gates. No other way can such an ebullient young man express elation.

He grabbed her by both arms and began dancing a jig with her, trying to kiss her at the same time.

"Stop it, Bob!" she demanded. "Stop it, I tell you, and listen to me!"

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, January 11.

There are auguries of sudden and rather drastic movements on this day, according to the lunar aspects. Properly organized and put into execution, this activity may bring unexpected or unusual advantages of profound and lasting duration. It might apply to the personal and cultural rather than business life, as the social, domestic and emotional or higher proclivities are under pleasant stimuli. However, there may be some depressing situation to hamper or nullify very happy prospects. There are signs of much celebration or jollification.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a very active year, in which matters will move at an unusually high tempo. Sudden and drastic moves may be spurred by either social, domestic or emotional urges, with the young and romantic particularly stirred. Nevertheless, there may be a setback, loss or disappointment to cast a shadow on a rather festive occasion.

A child born on this day may have a very deep, studious but aggressive nature. While it may be potent and resourceful in a practical way, it may also have artistic, cultural and possibly metaphysical talents.

New Reeve Asks Lakefield Institute To Cooperate On Welfare

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 10 — Gordon Scriver, Lakefield's newly-appointed reeve, addressed the January meeting of the Lakefield branch of the Women's Institute which was held on Wednesday last in the council chamber of the Memorial Hall, and asked for the co-operation of the Institute in the welfare work of the village.

Mrs. Stanley Higgins, president of the branch, occupied the chair. The report of the Christmas cheer committee was received, and showed 30 cards, 13 boxes of fruit, nuts and candy, and three booklets sent out. Donations of money, fruit and candy were a great help to the committee in their work the report stated.

An invitation to hold the February meeting of the Institute at the home of Mrs. Robert Bullock was accepted.

The secretary reported that word had been received that Dick, the Amateur Gardener, would be able to come to Lakefield during the second week of March.

Plans were made for the annual visit of Institute members to the Old People's Home. The date was set for Thursday, January 12, the members to meet at the Memorial Hall at 2 p.m.

In response to the roll call each member exhibited the oldest issue of a ladies' magazine availabe to her. The oldest copy was brought by Mrs. W. E. Gillman. It was printed in 1895.

Mrs. William Gillman then gave her second report from the Local Leaders' training class, recently held in Peterborough. She spoke on the "Care of Clothing, dealing particularly with laundering." She discussed the relative merits of different kinds of soaps, bleaches and bluing and then showed how a woollen garment which has been shrink by careless washing may be brought back to original size. The proper way of pressing trousers was demonstrated.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

As whalers preparing to go to the Antarctic were testing their harpoon guns off Windhoek, South Africa, a school of large fish appeared, causing a panic among the natives, who thought that submarines were attacking the coast.

Organized Plot On Women's Part To Totally Suppress Men Folk On Wedding Day, Rotary Told

What might easily have been the high light of a social season which fairly sparkled with interesting events of the most brilliant nature took place today when John Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jones of Peterborough became the bridegroom of Miss Elizabeth Smith at high noon. The ceremony took place at the home of the groom's parents and a large and fashionable group attended.

Mr. Jones was attended by Mr. Brown as best man. As the groom approached the altar, he was the cynosure of all eyes. Blushing prettily he replied to the questions of the clergyman in low but firm tones.

He was charmingly clad in a three piece ensemble, consisting of coat, vest and pants. The coat of dark material, was draped about his shoulders and tastefully gathered under the arms. A very pretty story was current among the guests that the coat was the same worn by his father and grandfather on their wedding days. Mr. Jones does not deny the truth of this sentimental touch. The tails of the coat were quite long—in fact long enough to give the effect of a slight train. The shiny appearance of the garment was not what the guests supposed, that is caused by excessive wear and age, but was really the lustrous finish which was put on the material in those days. The sleeves were worn short, showing about an inch and a half of pure white linen cuff which added a smart touch of color. The vest was cut sleeveless and met in the front. It was gracefully fashioned with pockets and held together at the back with strap and buckle. A unique effect was obtained by the arrangement of the buttons in one straight line, ending in a V-shape cut at the bottom. Conspicuous on the front of the vest was the groom's favorite pieces of jewellry a Rotary service club pin, and from the upper left hand pocket was suspended a large Westclox watch the bride's gift to the groom, which flashed and gave the needed touch of brilliance to a costume in perfect taste and harmony.

What He Wore

The groom's trousers were of dark worsted and were suspended from the waist in a straight line to the floor. The severe simplicity of the garment was relieved by the right pantalet which was caught up about four inches by a Boston garter worn underneath, revealing just the artistic glimpse of brown holeproof above the genuine leather shoes laced with strings of the same color. The laces being rather long were tied around the ankle and knotted in a neat Cupid's bow which gave it a rather French chic effect.

Beneath the vest the groom wore blue galluses, attached fore and aft to the pants and passing in a graceful curve over each shoulder. This pretty and useful part of the costume would have passed unnoticed had not the groom muffed the ring when the groomsman passed it to him. When he stooped to recover the errant circlet, the delicate blue of the galluses were prettily revealed.

His neck was encircled with a collar characterized by a delicate pearl tint of old fashioned celluloid and around the collar a cravat was loosely knotted, exposing a collar button of bright metal. The cravat extended up and under the left ear with that studied carelessness which makes for supreme artistry in dress.

Mr. Brown's costume was essentially like the groom's and as the two stood at the altar a hush of admiration enveloped the audience at the complete and wonderful harmony of their raiment. Actually you could hardly have told one from the other had it not been for a patch of black court plaster worn by the groom over a nick in his chin made by a safety razor. Neither Mr. Jones nor Mr. Brown wore a hat during the wedding ceremony.

As Miss Elizabeth Smith led the groom from the altar, it was noticed that she wore the conventional veil and orange blossoms.

On their return from a honeymoon abroad, the happy couple will move in and live on the groom's parents.

Way Should Be Written

This is the way wedding accounts should appear in the daily newspaper according to Bart Sproule, manager of the firm of Collet-Sproule Limited, Toronto, guest speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon on Monday who declared the men should club together and form an association for the protection of feeble-minded young men, who are headed for matrimony and two Rotarians, Ross Dobbin and Ross Hood, yelled approval.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Fred Reed who said Mr. Sproule would attempt to expose the marriage racket but warned the men that he should not be taken too seriously. The speech was perhaps the most humorous ever given to the Rotary Club and the speaker with a straight face and a pleasant drawl gave the impression that he was serious about the whole thing which only added to the merriment.

First he read an account of a wedding as they appear in the average newspaper and pointed out that the bride dominated the picture from start to finish.

"It seems to me this is a definitely organized plot on the part of the women to totally suppress the identity, personality and appearance of the men. I must warn you that unless immediate and drastic action is taken to curb these publicity seeking women that the men will lose their freedom, their individuality and the liberty guaranteed them under the British North America Act.

"Didn't you notice the fiendishness of the plot when you read the account of a marriage, the groom's name is only mentioned once and yet he is supposed to supply summer cottages, automobiles, fur coats, silk dresses and a million other things. Why did he not get at least honorable mention? What did he wear? Why he might have come in shorts for all that was said about him in the write-up.

"And did you notice the bride was attended by a guard of honor composed of eight Canadian Girls In Training. A stalwart body guard to make sure the bewildered bridegroom would not renig when it came to signing the register. Did you ever try to make a married man sign anything, he just won't do it, the signing of the register is indelibly impressed on his mind.

They stick the register in front of his nose, push a pen in his hand and say "Sign." What can the harassed man do, he takes one look at the eight husky dames in the guard of honor and gives in.

I'm not an amateur, I'm speaking from experience. It is a frame-up and something should be done about it. I've been told many a bright young man has been lured into the church on the pretense that he had been invited to a flower show and they had him in front of the clergyman before he knew what was going on.

At the conclusion of his barrage of criticism against the husband seeking women, Mr. Sproule read the wedding story as listed above and sat down while the Rotarians doubled up with laughter.

Ross Dobbin, extended the thanks of the club to the speaker and said he was willing to act as secretary of the association mentioned if his bachelor colleague Ross Hood would be president. But he felt that the marriage racket was one that had been going on too long and was so well organized he figured it could not be interferred with.

pass an order-in-council issuing the writ for the by-election."

A Fight Would Be Close

Resignation of Mr. Finlayson, a minister of lands and forests in Conservative administrations from 1926 to 1934, will open to Col. Drew a riding which in other circumstances might produce a close fight for a candidate from outside its bounds.

Mr. Finlayson was defeated in the general election of 1934 by Garnet Edward Tanner, Liberal, by a majority of 9,327 to 6,993. In the general election of 1937 Mr. Finlayson defeated Mr. Tanner by only 6,606 to 7,503.

But Col. Drew's position as Conservative leader was combined with the fact that he has been, as he termed it, "pretty closely associated with this riding." He has summered on the shore of Georgian Bay within the riding often and most of Simcoe East is within 100 miles of Toronto, where Col. Drew lives.

In stepping aside, Mr. Finlayson did not close the way to his own return to the legislature at the next general election. The executive did not make a decision regarding subsequent elections, he said, expressing hope that his "opportunity for service is not over."

Col. Drew, a former mayor of Guelph, ran in his home constituency, Wellington South, as an independent Conservative in the 1937 general election, and was defeated by Dr. James H. King, Liberal.

Italian Protest Peeves France

PARIS, Jan. 10 — (AP). — The The Foreign Ministry announced today that Italy had protested to France against an alleged anti-Fascist demonstration during Premier Daladier's tour of Tunisia.

The protest heightened Franch-Italian tension on the eve of Prime Minister Chamberlain's calls on Paris and Rome in pursuit of his policy of European appeasement.

Made to the French Resident-General at Tunis, the protest charged that while Daladier was visiting Tunis on January 3 demonstrators tore down and burned an Italian flag.

A Foreign Ministry official said preliminary information indicated an Italan flag hanging over a Tunis tailor shop was taken down by a crowd, but that the incident seemed so unimportant the tailor himself had not complained to police.

Fourth Session Of 18th Parliament Opens Thursday

The fourth session of the 18th parliament, to be opened by the Governor-General on January 12, will find the Conservative party with a new leader at the helm, Dr. R. J. Manion, shown ABOVE with Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Lively Debates Will Feature Coming Session Of Parliament

By LLOYD ROBERTS
Central Press Canadian Writer

OTTAWA, Jan. 10.—The fourth session of the eighteenth parliament of Canada opens on January 12 with the traditional bang and all the colorful fixings that cling from the "brave" days of medievalism and aristocratic rule, while winter winds and heaped barricades of snow maintained the Canadian realism.

A new session like a new year is always associated with renewed zest and hopefulness, no matter what the fate of its predecessors. Optimism, seeking evidence for the faith that is in it, finds several crumbs of comfort not only in the Speech from the Throne but in annual reports of government ministers, in a possible 1939 election and in a certain arrival of the King and Queen of Canada. All these prefigure more activity, more spending, less of the laissez-faire policy that can only be popular when everybody is content with his lot.

Throne Speech

During the past year the King government has labored for practical purposes and the Throne Speech has put less strain upon the imagination of its compilers than is sometimes the case. At the top of the list stands the renewed and remodelled trade treaty with the United States with its more generous concessions to the western farmer, the maritime fisherman and even to the manufacturer. Canada's trade balance has been extremely favorable in recent years, thanks largely to the Ottawa agreements of United States treaty of 1936, but the Bennett regime and the first Canada is still buying more than it is selling where its next-door neighbor is concerned. The new agreement may tend to rectify this. The Speech will probably refer to a matter close to the Liberal heart, namely, unemployment insurance, and promise legislation of a purely federal nature despite provincial opposition on constitutional grounds. There may also be references to revisions to the Customs Act and the Grain and Wheat Board Acts, to additional expenditures for national defence, to setting up of a penitentiary commission, and to international affairs with words of approbation for the Munich conference. And one may expect a whole paragraph dedicated to the significance of the Dominion's first visit of royalty. Of course, mention will be made to the breaking of the drought and the "bountiful" wheat crops, and to a substantial improvement in the employment situation due to the many ably administered relief measures.

Last Session Before Election?

Parliament opened and the Drawing Room and other official functions out of the way, the commoners will get down to business with exceptional alertness. This may be the last session before a general election and it behooves each and everyone to impress his constituents with the value of his services. So the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne may be allowed full scope of oratorical repetition, while members yawn, crowd the lobbies or hold secret caucuses for finding ways and means of discomfitting their enemies. The government, of course, has no concern for political plotting from without. Since assuming power it has been actually embarrassed with a plethora of riches, necessitating a large bloc of perfectly good Liberals crossing the House to sit with the Tories. Recent by-elections have further increased the preponderance over the combined opposition, the Liberals having now 180 of the 245 seats, and leaving the Conservatives with but 38, but the 27 remaining seats being divided between Social Credit, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation and Agnes Macphail, lone representative of the Ontario Farmers' party. No, one's worst foes are those of one's own household and a house divided against itself cannot stand. Mr. King recalls with forebodings, and Dr. Manion with uncharitable zeal. It is this schism in the ranks, fathered by Premier Hepburn and only temporarily patched up, that is quickening the sluggish Conservative blood and stimulating the crusading ardor of Socialist and Social Crediter to renewed deeds of valor. And then, of course, there are always those free-trade and money-reform insurgents among the Liberal back benches who, even though they continue to vote with their leader, help him to feel a politician's lot is not a happy one.

Manion Awaited With Interest.

Dr. Manion's first speech will be awaited with keenest interest. Although a familiar figure in the House as member and several times a minister, his stature as a leader is still a matter of speculation. It is known that there is a large floating vote about the country only waiting to be cast for a safe, sane and dynamic administration, one that will tackle social, financial and constitutional problems without fear and without favor. It is safe to prognosticate that if Dr. Manion fails to capture this vote the minority groups will come back to the House with greatly augmented forces. Mr. King appears confident that his new opponent will fail to please. John Blackmore, Social Credit leader, and J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader, appear to be in the same frame of mind. So all three are content. The latter two however see in it their golden opportunity to make hay while the old party suns are under a cloud while the first cannot conceive of the Canadian people so far forgetting "the fine old traditions of the Liberal party" as to put a third party into its well-polished chair.

Some Lively Controversy.

A major subject for debate will be the new trade treaty signed at Washington on November 17. There can be little criticism of the fold under which in the last three years, the exports of merchandise of Canadian produce to the United States increased $306,000,000 to $423,000,000, while our exports of merchandise from the United States rose from $304,000,000 to $437,000,000. The question of Canadian manufacture of British planes and munitions, with special references to the Bren gun inquiry, may start some lively controversy. The middle west members who are anxious to see Canada with the United States get on with the deepening and damming of the St. Lawrence waterway will demand to know how long Mr. Hepburn is going to be allowed to block the waterway's progress. International relations bulked large in last season's pubic discussions and they should bulk large in this. Members, and especially French members, are still jumpy over last September's narrow escape from war and Mr. King may be asked some embarrassing questions as to how close Canada came to the abyss, with condemnation whichever way he explains it. J. S. Woodsworth are several other members are persistently demanding the declaration of a fixed foreign policy for Canada, which Mr. King has no intention of making. If there is anywhere that circumstances alter cases it is surely in the matter of international affairs. All he asks is that pacifist and imperialists alike condone his increasing expenditures on defence measures, interpreting them any way they please.

The report of the royal commission on Dominion-provincial relations is expected to be tabled toward the close of the session. The commission has already completed its investigation and is now preparing a series of voluminous reports covering every major current Canadian problem, including unemployment relief. It was given the task of finding a new formula of financial relationship between Dominion and provinces which will enable the several governmental bodies in Canada to meet the new responsibilities and new services which at the present time are expected of the state. The commission, of course, is a fact-finding body and the Dominion has promised, when the report is tabled, it will summon a meeting of the provinces. Before that happens, however, there will probably be a good deal of noise about it in the House.

The hardiest of all perennials, Canadian National Railway debt, will have to be threshed out once again, with the amalgamationists and the co-operatives wrestling for honors. A far brighter picture can be produced by Mr. Howe, minister of transport, on the successful launching of the Trans-Canada Airways with regular air connections with the Far North. Norman Rogers, minister of labor, will also have good news in the training and placing of unemployed youths in gainful occupations and the carrying out of various back-to-the-land movements. Altogether, the sessional scenes, viewed against a world back-drop, wil impress the public once again with the plain fact that democracy possess advantages far exceeding those of any other political system and that this Dominion of ours is a healthy and happy place in which to live.

If parliament does not conclude its business before May 15, it will adjourn until after the royal family leave our shores on June 15th, and hold another brief session, proroguing probably for the battle of the polls.

OBITUARY

MRS. THOMAS JACKSON, SR.
(Examiner Correspondence.)

COE HILL, Jan. 10.—The death occurred early Tuesday evening of Mrs. Thomas Jackson, Sr., formerly, Alice Ferguson, after a lingering illness of over two years. Mrs. Jackson took great interest both in the Sunday School and services of the United Church when able to attend. She was born at Queensboro on July 12, 1868 and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. Ferguson of Coe Hill. She married Thomas Jackson Sr. of Gilmour Settlement some 45 years ago. Three sons and one daughter blessed them.

Mrs. Jackson was one of Coe Hill's longest living residents and could recall days when Coe Hill did not exist. Although she has been confined to her bed for over two years she always had a smile for everybody who entered the door. She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, one daughter, Alice, at home, and two sons Arthur of Trenton and Thomas, Jr., of North Bay. Also one sister, Mrs. John Buchett of Madoc and three brothers, Wm. Ferguson, Coe Hill; Samuel Ferguson, Bethel; Alex Ferguson, Peterborough. One son Wm. Jackson predeceased her 20 years ago. He served overseas in the 159th Battalion, returning home some three months before death.

Floral tributes were many and beautiful. The funeral took place on Thursday afternoon in the United Church, following a short service, the cortege proceeded to the Salem cemetery where interment took place in the family plot. Mr. W. R. Buchanan officiated.

The pallbearers were Leo H. Gordon, Chas. Muffit, Tobias Sexsmith, Daniel Muffett, Chas. McCormack, Douglas Watt.

Ontario Mayors

mills, two less than 1938, was made at St. Catharines by Mayor Charles Daley. He charged that real estate taxation had killed public confidence in home ownership, caused collapse of the building trade and contributed to unemployment.

Ex-Mayor W. J. Wilson said he was most interested in establishing more industries in his town of Gananoque and was willing to allow any industry which would locate here the two floors of a business block he owns. Rent would be free, he said.

Mayor Sliter urged necessity of keeping down the tax rate of Gananoque. In his address he paid tribute to James Karr, 83-year-old councillor starting his 29th year of municipal service.

Town Planning.

At Cornwall, Mayor John Phillips urged immediate appointment of a committee on town planning. Dr. Phillips said that waste space in the city, due to oversized blocks, could be converted into sites for at least 500 new dwellings. He said relief costs were a major factor in the running of a municipality.

Possible decrease in the 1939 tax rate were seen at the Port Hope and Hastings inaugurals. Reeve L. E. Kelly of Hastings said town officials could expect no salary increases this year.

Esquesing Township council estimated the township will spend $18,000 for road construction and maintenance. A bylaw was passed authorizing the borrowing of $50,000 to meet current expenses.

A lacrosse-playing alderman was missing at the Orillia Town Council inaugural. Only seven councillors were in attendance because Bill Curran, chairman of the reception committee, is playing for the Los Angeles Terriers in the newly-organized Pacific Coast Lacrosse League. Curran was sworn in two days before he was elected to a second term.

Unjust Levies To Go

Mayor Ralph Day urged in his inaugural address before Toronto City Council removal of unjust levies against civic taxpayers. He said many taxpayers voted to protest existing tax burdens.

David Hay, 28-year-old mayor of Listowel, told council the town would embark on a public works program to begin with replacement of sidewalks. Chatham city council decided to operate under the committee system. Five committees will operate this year. Mayor Zink urged council to consider inauguration of a monthly payment of taxes to reduce tax arrears.

Deputy-reeve A. Irwin charged at the Whitby town council session that there was a lack of co-ordination between provincial, county and municipal police.

At Lindsay, John O'Reilly, former mayor and member of town council more than 35 years, suggested the province take over the costs of education, hospitalization and policing the province. Col. I. Moore, another former mayor, said he believed the provincial government should be abolished.

Reeve Lorne Weber of Waterloo township criticized milk pasteurization zoning in Waterloo county. He said he would attempt to obtain a "more equitable pasteurization zone."

Kingston township council was told that Councillors W. E. Cordukes and Percy Wright, who are also members of the township school board, were eligible to act on both boards. Eligibility of the men to serve on two bodies had been questioned. Both men took the oath of office.

BUILDING BETTER CITIZENS

Russia reports that over 5,000,000 young men and women and children have passed the government tests for all-round physicial development.

Library Board Asks Council For $13,200

The Public Library Board set the municipal pace in submitting to the Council last night its estimates for this year amounting to $14,264, of which $13,200 has to be supplied from the city treasurer. This application was referred to the Finance Committee, and as the Council adopted the new plan of preparing the civic budget a month earlier than usual, paving the way for the collection of the first instalment of taxes in June instead of July as in the past. Mayor Hamilton urged other boards and commissions who obtain their funds through the Council to send in their estimates before the end of January, if possible.

In the meantime the Board of Education receives interim monthly grants of $15,000 for January and February, and Separate School Board $2,000 a month.

Library Trustee.

Dr. H. R. H. Kenner was reappointed to the Public Library Board as one of the city's representatives, on Alderman Stocker's motion, seconded by Alderman Dutton; and J. D. Fitzpatrick, an alderman of recent years, was retained as one of the city's two representatives on the board of trustees of the Almira Grover Foley estate fund.

Fire Loss $13,697.90.

Chief Gimblett reported the fire loss for December at $13,697.90, of which $1,383.71 was damage to buildings and $12,314.19 represented loss on their contents. In his report Chief Gimblett urged that both rear and front entrances to basements be required in the centre of the city to afford easy access in the event of fire. Mayor Hamilton said a suggestion had been made that trap doors in the floors at the front and rear might be an adequate aid to firemen, but the idea was not pursued last night. It will likely receive the early attention of Alderman McIntyre's committee.

The Council passed a resolution expressing its thanks to Chief Gimblett and the members of the Fire Department for the good work they had done in preparing and distributing hundreds of toys among children of the city, and thereby helping to make Christmas happier for them.

Compliment to Department.

W. J. Scott, K.C., Fire Marshal, wrote the Council calling attention to accomplishment of Chief Gimblett and his men in having won honorable mention in fire prevention efforts in Ontario cities in the population brackets from 10,000 to 25,000. They were recognized by the international committee judging the standing of fire departments in the United States and Canada.

Rotary's Invitation.

Alderman Dutton conveyed an invitation to the Council to be the guests of the Rotary Club at their meeting next Monday at which A. E. Smith, Hydro-Electric Commissioner, and a former Mayor, will be the speaker.

The Council's thanks were extended to Rev. M. C. Parr and Major Warrander for their leadership in the offices with which the inaugural meeting was begun on Monday morning.

Radio Application.

T. J. Carley, on behalf of J. G. Hawkins of Lindsay and A. R. Woods of 576 Aylmer Street, asked for the Council support to their application for permission to operate a broadcasting station in Peterborough. Endorsation was given on Alderman Stocker's motion, seconded by Alderman Gordon.

Skin Beauty WAS IMPORTANT 3000 YEARS AGO

Even above beauty of feature and form, women of ancient Egypt prized beauty of the skin. And ceaselessly they searched for some recipe, some formula to preserve it. Spices, resins, earth . . . nothing was disregarded in their efforts to find a way to keep their skin soft, white and lovely.

At last someone, probably a woman wiser than the others, carefully mixed the costly oils of Olive and Palm. Strangely enough, this blend cleansed the skin, soothed it, kept it soft, yet firm, lovely and youthful.

And from that day to this, nothing has been found that is finer, more soothing for your skin than these same gentle oils of Olive and Palm. That is why they are used in the making of Palmolive. But today of course, in this famous soap these precious oils are blended with scientific carefulness. The new improved Palmolive cannot irritate the most sensitive skin. Dr. Dafoe uses only Palmolive for the little Dionne Quins.

COMMITTEE NAMED.

Mayor Hamilton and Alderman Dutton were instructed by the council last night to attend a conference with the Hon Eric Cross, Minister of Municipal Affairs, in Toronto on Thursday, at which a Peterborough resolution is one item on the agenda to be considered.

The council had proposed that the question of residence and domicile of persons moving into a municipality be determined by the requirement that such persons be gainfully employed twelve months before they could qualify for hospitalization and such advantages.

The Ontario Municipal Association struck out the clause "gainfully employed," and on Thursday the point is to be argued before the Minister.

Tax Payments Due Earlier

"The man who owns the little red house," as W. H. Buller used to refer to the average citizen for whom, he used to content, tax leviers should have a little extra sympathy, is reminded that his taxes fall due one month earlier this year, the first instalment on June 9, the second August 9, and the third on the ninth of October, instead of in July, September and November.

Mayor Hamilton explained Monday night that the city would save $1,200 a year in bank interest by this change which was adopted without any opposition.

The council moved forward the inevitable dates, but would not have issued any special warning to the man in the little red house, advising him that he had better lay up his tax money ahead of the usual time, and for two reasons, not one.

The second reason is that penalties for neglecting to call at S. A. Couper's office on the prescribed days have been increased from the 3-2-1 per cent to 4, 3 and 2 per cent; that is 4 per cent on the first instalment, three on the second and two on the third.

VOL. LXXXI, No. 7 — PETERBOROUGH, TUESDAY, JANUARY 10, 1939 — PRICE THREE CENTS

Youth Is Given Ten Months On Breaking Count

Ten months determinate and two months indeterminate in the Ontario Reformatory was the sentence imposed in police court this morning by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., upon Thomas Madill, 19, after he had registered a conviction against the youth on a charge of breaking and entering the shoe store of P. J. Hickey, Hunter street, with intent to commit theft.

"That will let you out in time for next Christmas," the magistrate told Madill.

On another charge against the prisoner of having stolen an overcoat and hat from J. E. Hickey, Magistrate Langley dismissed the case after hearing the crown evidence, remarking that although there was very grave suspicion, the crown had not gone quite far enough to justify a conviction.

W. J. Arthur Fair appeared for Madill while Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

Judgment in the breaking and entering charge had been deferred and in announcing his decision Magistrate Langley stated that the whole case hinged on the matter of identification.

Reviewing the evidence and stressing the testimony in regard to the coat that had been found at the scene of the break-in the magistrate said that the evidence clearly traced the coat to the accused.

"All the circumstances in the case," he said, "are consistent with the men seen in the store by Constable Rogers as having been the accused and are inconsistent with any other explanation. On the whole evidence I find the accused guilty and there will be a conviction."

Mr. Fair urged that the accused be given a jail sentence instead of being sent to the reformatory but Magistrate Langley ruled otherwise and made the penalty ten months determinate and an additional two months indeterminate in the reformatory.

Theft Charge Heard

James E. Hickey was the first witness against Madill in the charge against him of stealing an overcoat and hat. Hickey told of going to Rye's pavilion on the night of December 1 and leaving his overcoat and hat there while he danced. When he went to go home the overcoat and hat were missing. There had been a white handkerchief in the pocket.

Witness said that he had seen Thomas Madill there that night and he had been wearing a dark blue windbreaker and dark trousers. Herman McGregor testified to seeing Madill come into Rye's pavilion on the night of December 1, wearing a windbreaker and blue trousers. There was a Conservative party going on, the witness said.

"The previous witness said it was a Liberal meeting," said Crown Attorney McElderry.

"No, it was a Conservative affair."

"Possibly a Liberal-Conservative party," suggested the crown attorney smilingly

John Grose, employed in the booth and check room at Rye's, testified that he had seen Madill several times that evening wearing a windbreaker. About 25 minutes to one he had seen the accused leaving the place and he was then wearing an overcoat with a white handkerchief in the breast pocket.

Arnold Beattie testified to finding Hickey's coat and hat in a small cement building at the rear of Beattie's transport place on Reid street on the morning of December 2 and to notifying the police and Detective Sergeant W. E. Meagher told of recovering the stolen articles there. The cement building was only twenty-five yards away from the home of Thomas Madill.

That concluded the crown case and no evidence was called by the defence, Magistrated Langley then announced a dismissal on the ground that the evidence did not go far enough to justify a conviction.

Action Of Council Of United Counties Described As Admission Of Weakness

George Hooton of Cavan, former Warden of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham, told the Examiner today that if he had been at Cobourg in November he would have opposed the resolution appointing two members in an advisory capacity to the schools committee for three and two years respectively.

"That was an admission of weakness in the council," Mr. Hooton said. "I understand why it was done, so that new members would have the advantage of the advice of these two experienced members on school matters. Grant that school affairs have become involved; that is all the more reason why a councillor should exert himself and find out what it is all about.

"The fact is that too many members of the council are quite satisfied to stand by and let others bear the burden of the work, as in this school matter. If a man becomes a reeve he should be able to stand on his own feet, and not have to call in ex-members of the County Council if they run into snags. It sounds like the appointment of so many commissions by the Federal and Provincial governments, something I never could endorse. Men are elected by the people to do certain things, and they should do it, not hire somebody else to do it. If they call in the two advisers that is an unnecessary expense.

"But, the main point is that every member of the council should be able and willing to do his share of the work of administering the counties' affairs. I know what they do. They let a couple of the members do all the work on schools, and of course the attitude of a lot of them is that they don't know how the school figures should be worked out. Well, appointing two advisers who don't have to be members of the council is just a prop for those who don't want to get down to work, and I am strongly opposed to it. I think it is a step in the wrong direction."

Bookie Killed Reminiscent of the gangster rule of Chicago, a gangland execution squad shot and kicked James Windsor, LEFT, to death after invading his Toronto home with drawn revolvers. Windsor, a well-known Toronto bookmaker and operator of a 10-cent dance hall and barbecue, was shot and beaten to death before the eyes of his two sisters and his 18-year-old friend, Lorraine Bronell, RIGHT, by four men, who, after shooting him in the stomach, kicked him about the head and stripped him of valuable jewelry he was wearing.

22 Years In Prison Leave No Mark On Mooney Except, He Suspects, Food Ruined Stomach

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 10 (A P)—Twenty-two years of imprisonment left no mark on Tom Mooney, he said today, unless prison food wrecked his stomach.

"I have kept pace with the world," the 56-year-old labor leader said. "Mentally and spiritually I have developed about the same as I would have outside.

"Whether I would have the same physical disorders if I hadn't been in prison is problematical. I don't believe I would."

Those close to Mooney agreed with his own evaluation of his own development. They laughed at suggestions the labor movement had changed so much Mooney was left far behind during the years he was imprisoned for the 1916 San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing.

"He is probably the best informed man in the United States on the labor movement, perhaps in the world at large," said George Davis, Mooney's attorney and companion since he was pardoned Saturday.

"Labor leaders and prominent persons from all over the world came to visit Mooney while he was in prison. They came with the concentrated essence of something to say. Mooney is a really bright man and he took advantage of it."

Sunday Observance Statement Being Drawn Up By Ministers

The Peterborough Ministerial Association will shortly present a "positive statement" on Sabbath observance, in view of the discussion prevailing in Ontario at present. A committee was drawn up at yesterday's association meeting and consists of Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr of St. Paul's Presbyterian church, Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist church, and Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt of Knox United church.

Rev. Mr. Brain was the speaker for the day and took as his subject the life of the spirit. There are three main ways, he said, in which relations with the eternal are estimated. First, by a profound sense of security. God is the ground work of the soul. The realization of God is the very heart of the religious consciousness. St. Augustine speaks about the eye of the soul. A vision of God comes to those who seek it earnestly.

Secondly: the intimate communion of person with person. Even modern liberalism has come to see the value of personal contact. The Unitarian talks about a presence that is personal. This is an inadequate interpretation of religious experience, but it shows the ultimate need of personal friendship.

Following these two the spiritual life is marked by an inflowing of power, a lifting up of the soul to higher levels of life. Isaiah, Paul, Augustine felt the dynamic of the spirit in their lives.

Are Not Separate

These three men are not separate, he said, but interpenetrate one another. The new birth is closely associated with man's discovery of God. There are the divine and human sides, contemplation and action are blended in the religious life. The early Methodists felt impelled to do good, as well as to be good. Heaven is the manifestation of the eternal in our lives, where we work and will in the spirit of love.

Our spiritual life cannot adequately express itself in industrial pursuit, or feverish social activity. A man must go into the silence before he can hear God speak. Worship is the supreme act of man's life.

Mr. Brain was heartily thanked for his able and intensely devotional treatment of a great theme by Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, Rev. R. D. Wright, Rev. C. C. Boyter and Rev. Dr. E. W. Young.

Dr. Barr was congratulated on the publication of his second book, "Torchbearers of Recovery" and Rev. Dr. Young was appointed to review the book in the pages of the Examiner.

The members were urged to support the united laymen's meeting which is being held in the Y.M.C.A. next Monday.

Rev. M. C. Parr, president, was in the chair, and Rev. F. W. Craik, secretary, directed the business. The following were present: Rev. Dr. E. W. Young, Rev. F. G. MacTavish, Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt, Rev. Canon J. D. Paterson, Rev T. H. Floyd, Rev. E. W. Rowland, Rev. H. Wilkinson, Rev. M. C. Parr, Rev. F. W. Craik, Rev. R. T. P. Brain, Rev. J. M. Young, Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe, Rev. R. D Wright, Rev. Dr. A. T. Barr, Rev. C. C. Boyter, Major Neil Warrander.

McLean of Lindsay, are among those expected from that section of the Kawarthas, G. K. Fraser of Burleigh Falls and Walter Fowlds of Hastings, F. L. Erskine of Lakefield, Ronald Currie of Haliburton, Dr. Crowe of Minden and others. Roy Bottum of Bobcaygeon, will preside. It was planned to have dinner at Locust Lodge, but Mrs. Edgar is in Toronto with her son, who recently underwent an operation for appendicitis, and the popular house is temporarily closed.

Sharp Declines Registered In Price Of Hogs

Hogs on the Peterborough market declined sharply this morning from $8.90 live weight delivered to $8.25 a hundred pounds, and from $11.90 dressed weight to $11 a hundred, one of the most severe drops in many months.

"Hogs during Christmas and New Year's climbed in price, on account of short runs, to a point where they were far out of line with the export and American markets," explained Graham Eastwood of Canada Packers, Ltd. As a consequence United States pork has started to be shipped across the border and the Canadian price must come down to meet that competition, he said.

In regard to the export market, he said that hogs purchased now and sold a month from now in England, must be purchased with an eye on the price forecast. That forecast intimates that hogs will sell for about seven and a half cents around the middle of February and consequently the hog price that has been offered is too high, he said. Exchange, too, is a factor in the price of export hogs. Its unfavorable position at the present time is something that works against the producer and the buyer.

Winter Flying Is Assured Citizens

Peterborough aviation enthusiasts are ensured of winter flying this year. The Peterborough Air Service on Lake Chemong has just announced its instruction plane has been completely overhauled and placed on skis for winter use.

Fred F. Beskett, an experienced flying instructor from Western Canada, is now in charge of the airport and has already started to instruct students. Many of the old-timers are going back to the base because they like the idea of flying a plane on skis. Instructor Beskett has high hopes for aviation in this district, said he was amazed at the number of students who took instruction during the past summer. Lake Chemong is an ideal location for a flying school, in his opinion, and he believes that the base will become a fraternizing place for a majority of Peterborough's youth.

The Rambling REPORTERS

FIGHT TURNS TO BEATING.

What might have been a good dog fight and wasn't, was terminated by the appearance of one of the dog owners. At noon hour, a Great Dane, and a Police dog let out a few unfriendly growls at each other. Just when the fight was to start the owner of the Great Dane, a woman, appeared on the scene. She collared her dog and led him away, then administered a beating to him, much to the surprise of the small crowd which had gathered.—D.A.K.

POOR SERVICE

The Toronto postal employees would be well advised to take a leaf from the book of the local organization in the matter of service, in the opinion of Jack Smith. He posted a letter to an old friend on Queen street in Toronto at Christmas and the letter was returned with the notation "not known." The letter was addressed to the man's business address and when Smith's partner, Harold Freeman, visited Toronto at New Year's he took the letter and delivered it personally having no difficulty finding the address.—McG.

SNAKE COMES OUT.

An over-curious gartner snake, who came up for a spell from his winter quarters, to see just what this mild weather was all about, met his fate this morning. Garnet Windsor, River road, brought his victim into The Examiner office as a first class unusual sight in winter months. He wanted to know just what do snakes do in winter. Best answer is that they hibernate in the ground or in rock piles. In the West, according to F. J. A. Morris, stone piles harboring fifty or a hundred of them, have been upturned. Apparently they often congregate in large numbers for the winter season.—P.

NOT SO GRACEFUL.

The career of a future Sonia Henie or a Pavlova on skates came to a decided standstill on Sunday afternoon. A young girl who lives in the West End of the city was trying out her new skates on a bit of ice in front of her house, finally attempting one of those long graceful glides that she had seen executed so successfully on the screen. With her arms extended gracefully from her sides, and one leg stretched out behind, as if to complete an arabasque, a person passing might have commented "She'll go a long way." But she didn't. There was a bare spot in the ice with a bit of concrete sticking through. Last seen she was making her way to her house, nursing a badly bruised knee, elbow and various parts of the anatomy.—D.A.K.

No Love Is Lost For Peterborough

George Flaherty, of Kinmount, who put up such a battle in police court a short time ago against a conviction on a drunk charge, was back before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., this morning, and this time he faced a second offender charge.

When the charge was read to him and he was asked to plead, Flaherty remarked, "I'll plead guilty to drinking."

"You will have to plead to the charge as it is here," replied Magistrate Langley.

"I will plead guilty, then."

"You will plead guilty; you mean you do plead guilty?" queried the court, and Flaherty replied in the affirmative.

He also admitted a previous conviction on December 28, and as a second offender he was fined $50 and $4.50 costs or a month in jail.

Flaherty wanted to know why the policeman who had arrested him had struck him, but was informed that the court was not concerned with that, whereupon the Kinmounter observed that he was through with Peterborough.

"I don't think Peterborough will mourn very much," said the magistrate.

"And I won't mourn Peterborough, either," retorted Flaherty.

Disregarding Signals Of Two Monitors Woman Driver Scatters Children

The police received several complaints Monday about the conduct of a woman driver who it is alleged drove through a number of kindergarten school children at the intersection of George and Murray streets, ignoring the signals of the two monitors in charge of the children.

The incident was first reported by two eye witnesses and later by Principal Bolton of Central School.

The custom is to have the smaller children at Central escorted across George and Water streets by bigger pupils and this practice was being followed Monday when the car with the woman driver approached. The boys in charge raised their hands in signal for her to stop but according to eye-witnesses of the affair, she paid no attention and drove right over the intersection. Some of the smaller youngsters would have been hit, it is said, if they had not been pulled out of the way by the bigger children.

Find Youth Shot In Bush At Blackwater

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Jan. 10.—A tragic accident occurred near Blackwater Monday when a young man named J. Purvis was shot in the stomach. The circumstances surrounding the accident are of a mysterious nature. The young man was in the habit of going to the woods with his rifle on hunting trips, and when he had not returned home, a search was instituted. He was found in an unconscious condition with a gaping wound in his stomach. Little hope is held for his recovery.

Speaks On Empire Games.

Lawrence G. O'Connor, the well known Canadian athlete, and son of His Honor Judge O'Connor, of Cobourg, was the guest speaker at the local Rotary luncheon Monday. He gave an interesting address on his trip to Australia to attend the British Empire Games.

More Economy.

The inaugural meeting of the town council was held Monday. Mayor Claxton stressing the need for the strictest economy during the coming year. He referred to the acuteness of the local unemployed situation. The present system of handling relief added a direct burden on property owners, he claimed and felt that some other manner of handling and administering relief should be found that would not be a direct charge on real estate.

A Liquor Tangle.

At a meeting of the police court yesterday Magistrate Gee reserved judgment in the case of a Peterborough young man charged with illegal possession of liquor. The session was featured by verbal duel between County Crown Attorney Anderson and W. J. Fair, defence counsel, of Peterborough. The accused contended that he had been convicted of the same offense on a previous occasion, and had sent the fine and court costs to Provincial Constable Adair, who had laid the information. The officer in cross-examination admitted that the accused had appeared in court and he had discussed the penalty and undertook to look after the matter. He told the accused the fine would be fifty dollars and costs, but refused to admit that he informed the accused that the case had been disposed of. He phoned the accused later to return to Lindsay as there was some doubt in the mind of some one that there had been no conviction. The accused, the officer stated, appeared on December 9 and signed a statement that he had pleaded guilty to the charge and had paid a fine. The officer further stated that he gave the accused the money back, explaining that it would be necessary for him to appear before the magistrate. Constable Adair admitted that he had no authority to take the fine.

County Crown Attorney Anderson said theer was only one person who could convict or acquit, and that was the magistrate. He could not delegate this authority to any one lese. Mr. Fair, counsel for the accused, claimed that a case cannot be resummoned. If he appears and the case is not called, the case is in default. There should have been an adjournment. Counsel for the accused informed the court that if there was a conviction, he would appeal it to the Supreme Court.

Indian Arrested Twice In 2 Days

Alex Knott of Curve Lake who was arrested on Saturday by Corp. T. J. Woods, R.C.M.P., and Officer W. Piercey on a drunk charge and who was granted an adjournment when he appeared in court Monday morning because he said that he had some business to attend to, found himself back in the prisoner's dock in the police court this morning facing another drunk charge and this time he pleaded guilty and added that he had nothing more to say.

Magistrate Langley imposed a fine of $10 and 75 cents costs with the alternative of ten days in jail.

Brooks Ellis was also charged with drunkenness and pleaded guilty.

"This man was the cause of Alex Knott's downfall yesterday," Chief Newhall told the court. "Corp. Woods will be here next week and may want to lay a charge against him under the Indian Act."

Ellis was fined $10 and $4.50 costs with the alternative of ten days in jail.

It is beginning to dawn upon Bible critics that making the word of the ministry superior to the word of God is regarded by the people as a grave danger as well as a futility. It is either God or man—which? The Rev. Dr. Barr's advertised course of sermons upon the value of Christianity to mankind must clear up these pretensions of the ministry if they are to reach the real point at issue. Is it any wonder people are suspicious as well as disappointed?

LAKEFIELD LEGIONNAIRES DROP PUCK DECISION IN OAKWOOD

Trenton Boys Beaten 7-2 In Campbellford

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 10 — Campbellford won their second home game by defeating Trenton 7 to 2 on soft ice here last night. Although Trenton is conceded to have one of the strongest teams in the Trent Valley League having retained a number of veteran players, the locals stepped into the lead halfway through the first period when they got the opening goal. At the end of the first the score was 3-1 and they added three more in the second and one in the third, while the visitors got their first in the opening frame and their only other counter after 14 minutes of the third period had slipped by and the locals were leading 7-1.

It was during the first period that the fans saw the best hockey of the evening with the ice in fairly good shape, but as the second period opened players began having trouble keeping the puck from rolling as the ice became sticky, slowing up the game considerably.

The Campbellford attacking line of Atkinson, Blake and Phillips was a threat to the Trenton defence and though they succeeded in getting through time after time Steenburg did excellent work in the net, saving the visitors from have a more lop sided score. Blake led in points for the locals getting three goals and one assist. Phillips scored once and got three assists while Robinson, who forms the main part of Campbellford's second line, got two assists and gave a performance that was only equalled by Blake and Phillips.

Lacrosse Loop In California

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10—(CP).—Box lacrosse, the game that seasonally draws tens of thousands through the turnstiles in Canada, made its California debut here Sunday as Hollywood Terriers defeated Canucks 19-12, inaugurating the newly-formed Pacific coast lacrosse Association's schedule.

A score of Canadians—including some of the Dominion's top-ranking players—introduced to some 4,000 fans a game still further streamlined from the seven-man Canadian game which replaced the old 12-a-side field lineup.

A Suspension

All Canadian players are under a two-year suspension doled out by the Canadian Lacrosse Association which had ruled against permitting the exodus of boxla exponents from the Dominion. But the players expect to return after completing a three-month schedule and start a similar professional circuit in British Columbia.

With slightly smaller floor space here than they were accustomed to at home, the players switched to a six-man lineup, reduced the Canadian 15-minute quarters to 12 minutes each, and eliminated faceoffs each time a goal was scored.

Shipwreck Kelly, former members of the triple-crowned Canadian champion Orillia Terriers, set the scoring pace in the opener as he sniped six goals.

Lakefield Curlers Fidget For Ice

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 10—The weatherman is playing havoc with skating and curling activities in this community. Although the hockey ice held out long enough to give the local O.H.A. squadron a chance to show their heels to the visiting Lindsay team here on Friday evening, the sheet was much too soft for the usual Saturday night skating program.

Curling games had to be postponed as early as Thursday last, on account of poor ice conditions, and the ladies' open bonspiel which got underway on Tuesday, Jan. 3, has been held up since Thursday, with only a few games in the schedule played off.

Play in the regular men's schedule will commence as soon as ice conditions improve.

Wins O.R.F.U. Award

Tribute to a great player and a leading comeback in the Canadian sport sphere was paid Johnny Ferraro, ABOVE, flashy halfhalfback with Montreal Nationals in the Ontario Rugby Football Union, when he was recipient of the Imperial Oil award, which annually goes to the player best combining playing ability and sportsmanship in Canada's oldest grid organization. With Ferraro as the spearhead, the Nationals went undefeated until the last game of the schedule and finished in a tie for top place in the loop in their first season.

Varsity Laces Dartmouth By 5-2 Score

HANOVER, N.H., Jan. 10 (CP)—The University of Toronto Blues, coached by "Ace" Bailey, last night scored their second victory of the International-Intercollegiate hockey season by downing Dartmouth Indians, 5-2.

Victory placed Toronto in a tie, with the undefeated McGill University squad, which defeated Princeton and Yale and remained idle last night.

The Blues' previous victory of the 1939 season was an 11-1 trouneing handed Harvard last Thursday night.

Dartmouth Indians provided much tougher opposition for Ace Bailey's men than the Crimson outfit did, but at the same time the Blues showed marked superiority.

The Canadians scored two goals in the first period with a single reply from Dartmouth. In the second period the teams battled evenly at one goal apiece and in the last frame the Blues blanked the Indians 2-0.

The defeat was Dartmouth's second successive loss, Queen's University having defeated the Indians 1-0 in Thursday night's league opener.

Big Six Chances Are Looking Slim

(Sarnia Observer)

There is much to commend the Big Six idea. The O.R.F.U. heads will naturally oppose a venture that will cut their revenue out and the Big Four, aside from Toronto Argonauts, would welcome the inclusion of such new and blue gridiron blood as Sarnia and Balmy Beach. But so long as Toronto has to support three senior teams and Argonauts have the necessary power to keep Balmy Beach out of their Big Four orbit the Big Six will keep right on popping up and being batted down again.

Peterborough gridiron officials had wind of the Big Six idea last year. The Liftlockers were worrying about being left out in the cold when Sarnia played there last fall. The Orange Horde have designs on the O.R.F.U. title but they did not feel safe in going out into the football hunting grounds to snare senior players if they were to be left holding the bag next fall with a senior team and forced back into the Lakeside Loop with Lindsay, Trenton and Cobourg. The latest Montreal story will not add much incentive to strengthening the Petes for next season.

With Bummer Stirling in the grandstand and no replacements in sight right now the Sarnia entry into the Big Six might not be as acceptable as it was. There are hints making the rounds that Art Massucci has several stars lined up to take the place of departing regulars. But until the newcomers are out there wearing the 1939 regalia nothing is sure. The only certain thing right now is that much delayed rebuilding must bedone between now and the opening of the 1939 football season.

By CEC. PERDUE

It may be a bit early to chatter about lacrosse, but surely a mere mention of the gutted-stick game is permissable. While the Petes would like very much to hop into senior "A" ranks in the O.L.A. next year, they do not expect to be able to handle the job. On account of they have lost several of their good senior "B" scrappers and the "B" group next year is gonna be tougher than a marine with a four-hitch record on a bender. The chances are, we gather from discussing it with a few of the ossifers, that the Petes will try to bolster enough to protect their title next year and stick with the senior "B" rating—and personally we think that's the best idea for a year or two. The Petes do pretty well financially in their present setup and have a lotta fun, with few headaches. And they'd get plenty of sore noggins and not much more dough if they stepped up a peg.

* * * * * * *

The Petes' senior exhibition game with Toronto Stockyards here last night was called off, owing to wet ground. The ice was softer than the oil spread by a high-pressure salesman, but we didn't hear about the postponement until after one in the p.m. So it wasn't announced on the sports page yesterday. It may seem funny to some but the sports pages will not wait for any man, woman or hockey club—it goes around noon, the last one, we mean. Even if we gotta plug up a few holes in it with farm news. So these late notices are regarded in the sports department much as you would look upon a striped pussy cat—just something to avoid!

A Peasoup Fog, Eh?

Jim Ellis sends us a paper from Miami about the Orange Bowl grid game and it is an interesting sheet. Packed full of sports — and those babies in the U.S. talk football half the year and baseball the other part. We noted one item in the paper where a hockey game between Coral Gables and Miami Clippers—which Ellis and Magee play on—was called off recently early in the first frame owing to fog. Yessir, owing to fog! It rose in clouds and the players couldn't see halfway down the ice and the fans couldn't see halfway across. Those who were crocked saw as much as usual! The boys tried opening doors and windows, as well as waving blankets around, but it was no go and the darn' thing was postponed. They plan to instal big fans now.

* * * * * * *

At this time of year, we might mention that we do not pan puck referees unless they are worse than usual. They have to smell to the high heavens before we'll put 'em on the press griddle. Later on, okay, but not so early in the season. On account of they have to make a living, too, and we have learned that bad writeups in the paper condemn a referee in the eyes of the O.H.A. A few years ago a gee handled a local game—and he still referees sometimes here during the winter—and we figured he was bad. So did th Petes and all the puck executive, as well as many fans. We panned him plenty. Saw him some time later and he said to us: "Let me thank you for that writeup; it put me out of hockey refereeing for the rest of the season." We hadn't meant any harm, just a criticism, but learned a lesson right there. So they'll have to be bad before we knock 'em early this year.

Nix On The Big Six

Sarnia scribe doesn't think Argos will stand for Beaches of Toronto ever being in the same grid loop with them. And he writes: "Peterboro' officials had wind of the Big Six idea last year, and were worried about being left out in the cold when Sarnia played there last fall. The Orange Horde have designs on the O.R.F.U. title but they did not feel safe in going out into the football hunting grounds to snare senior players if they were to be left holding the bag next fall with a senior team and forced back into the Lakeshore Loop with Lindsay, Trenton and Cobourg. The latest Montreal story will not add much incentive to strengthening the Petes for next season." Nossuh, Red, it doesn't sound too optimistic.

Mild weather is playing havoc with hockey in natural ice towns, like in Peterbordough. Our junior Colts are slated to play in Cobourg this p.m. but we wouldn't be surprised if it's called off through the day. And our Colts and Monarchs will meet tomorrow (Wednesday) night in the Brock St. rink, provided there is ice and also provided the Colts do not play this eve in Cobourg. The Colts won't play two tilts on succeeding nights, but one or both of these melees might well be rained out. A Colts-Monarchs' fray ought to be interesting as there is much rivalry between the local junior camps and they'll be playing for keeps when they clash. Something more definite on it tomorrow for sure—but no use now saying the game will be on, with the weather so mild. Nothing new on Oshawa's rumored entry into the junior grouping.

Looking Things Over

Some big shots in town are quietly working on plans whereby Peterborough might have an artificial ice arena next year. Nothing at all definite as yet, and it may do a floppo, but they're checking over all angles and possibilities. Such as how much dough might be raised locally, by former residents' subscriptions, and through Government grants. The idea being that such an arena might be built in the Exhibition Grounds and in conjunction with the local Exhibition Board's buildings. We will cross our fingers and hope for the best while this thorough checkup is going on—as hockey in this city and district needs artificial ice just like a drowning man needs artificial respiration. Yeah, in great big gobs!

Lakefield Legionnaires got the hatchet on the neck last p.m. in Oakwood, a 12-3 whittling job being done in an O.H.A. intermediate "B" affair. A frenzied fray on mushy ice, and the score is no indication of the play at all, we're informed. Lakefield held the Oakwood huskies to 2-1 scores in the first and third frames but the dynamite exploded in the middle chukker. Oakwood scored eight goals then, four when two Legionnaires rested in durance vile, and four more while one Lakefield lad was located in the sin bin. And if that isn't tough luck for any team, it'll do till a real jinx comes along. But Mucker Legros' stalwarts say they can and will lick Oakwood again, but meantime they gotta meet a good squad Monday in Lakefield when the Sutton outfit makes its bow.

Course On Marriage

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Staid Harvard University is willing to provide a course on marriage guidance for its undergraduates—but they mustn't expect mention of "necking" and "petting." The students know more about this phase than the instructors, said Dr. Petirim Sorokin, head of the university's sociology department. Dr. Sorokin conditioned his approval by insisting that the course "must keep away from the physical aspects of marriage, for then it belongs to the medical school."

25 Horses Perish As Racing Stable Burns

AMSTERDAM, N.Y., Jan. 10.—(AP). — Twenty-five thoroughbred horses owned by John Sanford, millionaire sportsman, were destroyed last night in a fire that razed the main racing stable of the Hurricane Breeding Farm with a total loss estimated at $200,000.

Among the horses which were hopelessly trapped in the flaming barn and were burned to death were Supply House, one of the best steeplechase horses in the United States; Pharsalia and Sun Port, purchased last year at a reported sum of $15,000.

Hollie Hughes, trainer of the Sanford Stable, who estimated the loss, said the fire apparently started in the upper section of the main racing stable, and believed the cause was defective wiring.

None of the horses could be liberated when the blaze was first discovered.

The blaze had gained too great headway before the Amsterdam Fire Department, which brought all available equipment, arrived on the scene.

The barn, approximately 150 feet long, contained 28 stalls.

Sun Port, six-year-old son of Sun Briar, was purchased from Willis Sharpe Kilmer of Binghampton, N.Y., last fall. He won four of five stakes in the fall meeting at Narragansett Park. Both Pharsalia and Supply House raced at Saratoga Springs, Narragansett and other eastern tracks.

Golden Meadow Escapes

Trainer Hughes said Golden Meadow, considered one of the best steeplechasers in N. America, was housed in another barn and escaped death. He explained he was unable to determine the names of the other horses destroyed until today.

John Sanford was reported to be in Florida. His stable, which races in the name of the Sanford Stud Farm, was founded in the 1880's by his father, the late John Sanford, carpet manufacturer, of Amsterdam.

Sanford stable's heyday was at the turn of the century, when horses sporting the Sanford colors were practically invincible on the United States turf.

The Sanford Stakes, run as a memorial to the late John Sanford, has been one of the leading 2-year-old events at Saratoga since 1913. The stakes is principally famous for its 1919 running, which marked the only defeat suffered by the great Man o' War, who yielded to Harry Payne Whitney's Upset.

MUSSING UP THE MAPLES

Sherm Rowe and Gord Fallon of the Post Office League topped the list of five-pin hitters at Duffus' last night, Rowe levelling off .717 pins for his three games and Fallon sandwiching in a 314 single to total 711.

Miss Hardy of Warne's Jewellers took the ladies' high score for the evening with a 545 count for three, her last game going for 242. The Quaker Oats and Western Clock Companies each supplied six girls' teams. In the two-game workout for both groups, Miss Eva McIlmoyle of the Quakers was high with 398, while for the Westclox Miss I. Vivash had 376. Good singles were chalked up by Miss Snowden 225, Miss Lee 201 and Miss Alexander 200.

Deanard topped off the Westclox Men's League with 688, with nine others shooting over the 600 mark. Starr 647, Hayden 646, Gatfield 642, Caccavella 635, Evans 626, Joe Watson, 619, Murray 617, and Watson 600.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., Jan. 9—

The difficulty in demonstrating a tempo turn is due to the fact that half the weight shifting and shoulder swing is done before the turn has begun its arc on the snow. Knees are locked or kept close together at the start of the turn but the ski and ankle are fairly apart. The weight already is practically entirely transferred to the ski which will be on the lower part of the hill, right ski for a left turn and left ski for a right turn; the inner shoulder reaching forward and the outer one swinging forward as the turn progresses. The head looking into the arc of the turn and slightly downward. The turn should result from shoulder weave rather than side kicking or jerk of the heels.

Turn Starts With Slight Stem.

Although not visible to the eye the turn is started with a slight Stem or Open Christiania. When the body has started the cork screw motion, beginning with the head and ending at the heels, the inner ski is shifted forward, edging the skis just enough to hold the turn without skiddng.

The body farly erect at the beginning of the turn will take a lower forward crouch trying to minimize the pressure on the skis. When trying the turn on hard snow, the skis will perhaps start to bounce, this occurs when the skis are edged too sharply.

The common mistake made, is to have marked forward lean at the beginning of the turn rather than at end, this gives a harsh ungraceful ending to the attempted tempo turn.

Do Not Rush the Turn

The first attempts at the Tempo should be made on a long radius turn, trying to make a track without any skidding showing. Do not rush the turn, if you have difficulty in getting the turn started exaggerate slightly the Stem or Open Christiania or slide the inner ski forward a little sooner; never add a heel pressure or side kick when the turn is in progress this will brake the arc of the turn and take away the smooth rhythm of your body. Once a perfect co-ordination of muscles and skis is attained, sharper turns may be attempted.

When skiing on deep snow a high speed turn is easier executed if started from an Open Christiania rather than slight Stem. The weight of the snow makes it difficult to get the stemming ski into position. It is necessary also to slide the inner ski forward more than in packed hard snow. The more the weight is carried on the outer ski the less it will be necessary to lean inward to hold the turn, which means very little loss of speed.

Fight Experts Believe Conn Errs In Retackling Fred Apostoli

By Gayle Talbot
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Much as they admired Billy Conn's fighting in his local debut against Fred Apostoli last Friday night, many critics think the Pittsburgher made a mistake in signing right back for a 15-round return engagement with the Coast slugger Feb. 10.

Frankly, they are of the opinion that Apostoli, though again conceding some 10 pounds, will be able to wear Conn down over the longer route and beat his ears off toward the finish. Apostoli was carrying the battle to his 21-year-old rival in the closing rounds the other night, slugging away steadily while Conn was fighting only in eye-catching spurts.

The pair signed what is known as a light-heavyweight contract for the return, which means they may weigh up to 175 pounds as far as the state athletic commission is concerned. However, Conn again has made a "gentleman's agreement" to scale 168, "give or take a pound." Apostoli is a natural 160-pounder.

The consensus seems to be that Conn, having made such a sensational Madison Square Garden debut with a unanimous decision over Apostoli, should pitch immediately into the lightheavyweights and leave Apostoli alone.

Apostoli is a good man to dodge the second time, as such scrappers as Glen Lee and Young Corbett III can testify. Lee gave the former bellhop a close brush in their first meeting here, but when he tried it again he was lucky to escape with his life. Corbett beat Apostoli on the coast, but when he came east to demonstrate his technique Freddie knocked him out.

Armstrong Testing His Crown Tonight

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10 (AP). — There seems to be some dissension on the issue at stake, but one thing seems certain—Hammerin' Henry Armstrong and Baby Arizmendi will maul each other around for 10 rounds or less tonight, and if the affair is anything like their four previous encounters, no one will be disappointed in the amount of action provided.

The bout is billed as a world's welterweight championship contest, with Armstrong defending the crown he won from Barney Ross last summer.

California Athletic Commission solemnly sanctioned it as a title go, but the New York Boxing Commission just as solemnly sent regrets. Apparently the picture of two legitimate lightweights fighting for the 147-pound championship strained the credulity of that sagacious body.

Penalty Toll Is Costly For Visitors

Oakwood defeated Lakefield Legionnaires by a 12-3 score last evening in Oakwood in an O.H.A. intermediate "B" scheduled contest on heavy ice. It was a wild and woolly fray most of the route with heaps of action and the score no indication of the play Lakefield had throughout. Aside from the score sheet, it was a tight tussle.

Penalties in a torrid second stanza put the Legionnaires back of the black ball as Oakwood outscored them 8-1, four goals coming with two of the visitors in the penalty box and four coming with one Lakefield occupant of the sin cell. One of the goals was presented to the home squad when Blewett threw his stick to prevent a counter—the latter also drawing a trip to the cooler for the toss, his second of the period. Sabatino drew a major this heat for butt-ending.

Close in First

The count was 2-1 for Oakwood in the first, and they only had a 2-1 edge in the third, the big second-frame debacle being the difference. The Legros squad left the ice convinced they could still take Oakwood on a good sheet of ice and given an even break in penalties. They play Sutton in Lakefield next Monday evening in their second home scheduled match.

Chittick tallied the lone Legionnaires' marker in the first period last night, with Beatty and Heather scoring for the homesters. In the big second, Blewett notched one for Lakefield while Weaver and Heather fattened their averages with three counters apiece for Oakwood as Rich and Wickett got one each. Blewett scored in the third for the visiting outfit, and Weaver and Miller parked the disk in the twine for the victors. The teams:

Lakefield: Goal, Junkin; defence, Stabler and Whitton; centre, Chittick; wings, Blewett and Jewell; alternates, Pearson, Sabatino, O'Leary, Burton and Chappell.

Oakwood: Goal, Fletcher; defence, Wickett and Johnston; centre, Heather; wings, Rich and Kearns; alternates, De Shane, Hood, Munro and Miller.

Mungo's Salary Cut $10,000 —And He Kicks

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.— (AP). — Van Lingle Mungo and Brooklyn Dodgers have officially launched pre-season baseball ranygazoo hereabout with their annual declaration of war. The cause of course is Mungo's honorarium for the 1939 season. He thinks it's too small. The Dodgers think it's just right.

Ever since Mungo came up with the Dodgers they have had trouble signing him and sometimes the trouble didn't end there. In the past he has enlivened the baseball scene by (a) socking a teammate, (b) socking an opposing player, (c) pulling a snoot at the club owners, (d) leaving the team flat for a journey home and a gander at the crops.

No one except a few hardened souls who frequent Ebbets Field believe Van Mungo is as great a pitcher as he thinks he is, but he is a relief after the serious, young-business-man attitued of the Yankee and Giant players.

General Manager Leland Stanford Macphail is in the opposite corner for Mungo in this latest baseball brawl. He sent Mungo a contract for $5,000, a cut of $10,000 from last year's hire. Yesterday Mungo bounced it back.

"I'm going to set right here in Pageland (S.C.) 'till I get a better contract," bellowed Van Lingle.

"That's the only contract he'll get. He'll take it if he knows what's good for him," countered MacPhail.

Remember When—

The baseball world was startled 11 years ago today when New York Giants traded Rogers Hornsby, one of the game's greatest batters, to Boston Braves for Catcher Frank Hogan and Outfielder Jimmy Welch. Giant officials said the move was "in the best interests of the club." Hornsby became the National League's batting champion for the seventh time that year.

MADOC OUTFIT HANDS COMBINES THIRD DEFEAT OF SEASON

Micmacs Take Combines By 5 to 3 For Third Straight Drubbing In Wild Battle At Norwood Arena

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 10. — The Madoc Micmacs handed the Norwood Combines their third setback of the present Trent Valley Hockey League schedule at the Norwood Arena last evening, when the latter, playing their first game on home ice were defeated by a 5 to 3 score.

The ice was much too soft for good hockey, but despite this the teams succeeded in producing a game pleasing to the spectators, with the odd fight thrown in for good measure. The tension in fact became so great at one moment during the last period that Constable Baker and Provincial Traffic Officer J. H. Hatch were summoned to the ice, and a woman spectator fainted in the crowd. Nothing serious, however, resulted and the fracas was settled without much difficulty.

Madoc's kid line, composed of Leonard, Loveless, and Reynolds recruited from the Marmora Juniors, held the spotlight during the night's play, with their brilliant passing attacks and stick-handling. Loveless, left winger on this line, was individual star of the evening, with three goals to his credit.

Gordon Puffer, centering the line composed of Pepper Rogers, Chuck Puffer and himself, figured in all Norwood's goals, scoring two and assisting his brother in notching the other.

Penalties were prevalent during the match, fourteen minors being handed out altogether by Referees Ennis and Johnson, five to Norwood and nine to the visitors.

The Combines went into the lead for the only time during the game, six minutes after the play had started in the first stanza, when G. Puffer, brought the puck out of a scramble behind the Madoc nets and slid the rubber behind Hollingsworth for the first counter of the evening.

Loveless got the equalizer seven minutes later on a combination play with Leonard and Reynolds, after the Combines had failed to enlarge their margin with a one-man advantage, when Hallstone went off for tripping Hagerman.

First Penalty Shot Fails.

First penalty shot here this season was unsuccessfully tried by Hall of Madoc, when Referee Ennis awarded the visitors a free try at the Norwood cage, when W. Rogers, a forward, dropped to his knees in front of the Combines' goal to make a save.

The Micmacs went into the lead when Loveless scored his second of the evening, Reynolds slipping him the puck during a scramble near the Norwood net. This ended the scoring for the initial session. G. Puffer and Akey got the gate towards the end of this period, when the latter boarded him and Puffer came up swinging.

Akey made it three to one for Madoc shortly after the start of the second frame, and the Micmacs kept the Norwood team pretty well bottled up in their own defence area. Pepper Rogers finally broke away, however, and G. Puffer, trailing behind, clicked on the rebound from the former's shot. What might have been the tying score, by Hagerman, was called back on a close offside.

Again with a man advantage, when Hallstone received a penalty for tripping Hagerman, the Combines failed to score. Back to full strength, Hall, Micmacs' starry defenceman, notched the most brilliant goal of the game, stick-handling through the entire Norwood team, to draw out Beavis and carefully deposit the rubber in the twine. Hall almost duplicated his feat a few seconds later, missing the top of the open net by bare inches.

Going into the last stanza two goals down, the Combines pressed hard, Chuck Puffer finally notching their third counter, with G. Puffer getting the assist. The boys began to rough it a bit, penalties being handed out to Rogers, Webb, Hayworth, and O'Neill, and play became wide open. Loveless practically sewed it up for the visitors, breaking away with every Combine up the ice, coasting in on the Norwood goal, Beavis not having a chance on the shot.

It was at this point in the game that N. Rogers and Hallstone swung a few blows, which eventually brought the police officers to the scene. Penalties being given to the two offenders, the game continued and the Combines, although trying desperately to even the count, failed to add to their scoring column.

The teams:

Madoc — Goal, Hollingsworth; defence, O'Neill, Hall; centre, Alexander; wings, Hayworth, Akey; alternates, Hallstone, Leonard, Reynolds, Loveless.

Norwood — Goal, Beavis; defence, Ibey, Webb; centre, G. Puffer; wings, C. Puffer, N. Rogers; alternates, Hagerman, McMullen, W. Rogers, Rathwell.

New Black Hawk Bosses Look Things Over

Carl Voss (LEFT) and Paul Thompson, do some masterminding. Just a short time ago players under Bill Stewart of the Black Hawks, the two veteran N.H.L. stars now are co-managers (or something closely resembling it) with Major McLaughlin's quick-change outfit, after the summary dismissal of the "miracle man" of last spring. Voss has been out of the game with injuries since the season got under way, but Thompson, high-scoring forward with the team for the past six years, and more recently assistant to Bill the Deposed, will continue to patrol left wing while he looks after the destinies of his low-flying Hawks.

Donegal Laces Trent By 5-2

HAVELOCK, Jan. 10—Playing a double-header at the Norwood arena last evening, Donegal and Trent River of the East Peterborough Rural League, lined up following the Micmacs-Combines contest, the Donegal: Goal, B. Loughead; defence, Trent River team by a 5-2 score.

Play was decidedly clean, no penalties being given in the first, only one in the second, and three in the last. Soft ice definitely hindered the lighter and speedier Trent River squad, and with fast ice the two squads would be a close match.

The teams:

Donegal—C. Loughead. fence, McGee, Baker; centre, A. Stark; wings, B. Buck, Stevenson; alternates, C. Stevenson, A. Pierce, B. Bedore, C. Loughead, Joyce.

Trent River: Goal, C. Alley; defecene, VanVolkenburg, Jay Brown; centre, F. McLaughlin; wings, W. McLaughlin, Jim Brown; alternates, C. Chaplin, Jack Brown, R. Alley.

Summary:

First Period

Donegal—C. Loughead.
Trent River—Jay Brown.
Donegal—B. Bedore.
No penalties.

Second Period

Donegal—Pearce.
Donegal—Bedore.
Trent River—VanVolkenburg.
Penalty—C. Loughead.

Third Period

Penalties—C. Loughead (2), Jim Brown.

Tweed Trounces Stirling In 7-2 Tangle

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Jan. 10—Playing inspired hockey the Tweed Blues went to town on their old rivals from Stirling at the local arena on Monday evening and trounced them 7 to 2. It was the best exhibition of hockey in the local arena in several years, with both teams out after their first points of the season. Although the ice was soft, it did not stop the speed of the players who turned it on in all three periods.

Stirling tallied the first counter of the game shortly after the opening period with Reid netting the goal. However, the blues came back and notched three counters, with Courneyea tallying the first, W. Leal and T. Tummon the second and third counters for the home forces.

Reeves in goal saved several sure goals being scored against the Blues, when he stopped a barrage of shots on the corner of the nets.

Still going at full speed, both teams notched a counter apiece in the second canto, with Meraw taking a pass from Wager to increase the lead to three goals, only to have Armstrong take a pass from Reid to cut the margin down to two goals, when the Stirling player landed the second and what proved to be the last goal of the visitors. W. Leal went to the box for a tripping act in this canto. Both teams missed splendid scoring opportunities in the second period, with the Blues missing well laid down passes, which were missed.

Blues Hold Them Down

With the Stirling players in high mettle in the last period, they attempted to cut down the margin and go into the lead, but were unsuccesful as the Blues tallied three more counters. Meraw took a pass from Wager in the corner to slip the first counter of the last period behind Fox, while Corneyea notched the last two counters, the first on a pass from Provost and the last one on a solo rush. Meraw and Ward were thumbed to the box for slashing.

As a result of the game, Tweed climbed out of the cellar for the first time this season, being the first win in three games. The Tweed boys played inspired hockey all the way through, and had the passing attacks working smoothly. Courneyea with three goals of the game was the standout, while Meraw netted two of the home forces counters. Reeves in goal played a steady game and the two goals netted against him were well earned. The Stirling boys were slightly disorganized, and were unable to get their plays working, being kept more or less on the defensive. With the addition of Tip Tummon and B. Stevens to the lineup the Tweed Blues were considerably strengthened defensively.

The teams:

Tweed: Goal, Reeves; defence, J. Tummon, B. Stevens; centre, Courneyea; wings, Meraw, Provost; subs, H. Leal, W. Leal, Wager, E. Tummon.

Stirling: Goal, Fox; defence, Ward, Jones; centre, Morton; wings, Armstrong, Reid subs, Potter, Kerr, Butler.

Summary:

First Period

Stirling—Reid.
Tweed—Courneyea, Provost, W. Leal
Tweed—W. Leal, Meraw.
Tweed—J. Tummon.
No penalties.

Second Period

Tweed—Meraw, Wager.
Stirling—Armstrong, Reid.
Penalties—W. Leal.

Third Period

Tweed—Meraw, Wager.

IN MEMORIAM

EVANS.—In loving memory of my dear wife Bella, who died January 10, 1935.

O happy hours we once enjoyed
How sweet their memory still.
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.

—Ever remembered by your loving husband, Albert.

EVANS.—In loving memory of a dear daughter-in-law Bella, who died January 10, 1935.

Oh what would I give to clasp your hand,
Your dear, kind face to see;
Your loving smile, your welcome voice
That meant so much to me.
No one knows the silent heartache,
Only those who have such can tell
Of the grief that is borne in silence
For the one we loved so well.

—oMther, Father and Family.

CAMPBELLFORD

Tax Rate Cut Of Two Mills Is Forecast

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 10.—In his address to the council at their inaugural meeting held here Monday Mayor F. F. Long congratulated the members on their return to office by acclamation. It was the first time since he had been taking part in civic affairs that the entire council had been returned to office by acclamation. "Taxes," declared the mayor, "are of prime importance and for that reason I would suggest that we should endeavour to strike our tax rate this month. Although we do not know as yet whether or not there will be a subsidy from the provincial government again this year there is some indication that the federal government will take a greater part in providing work for the unemployed and also assume a greater share in the cost of relief. Our debenture payments of $33,802.00 in 1939 will be unchanged from the amount paid in 1938.

"Although we have not a $5,000 overdraft to start the year with we must also remember that it will not be possible to collect so much in tax arrears as in preceding years." Nor will there be any tax sale in 1939 assured the Mayor. "I think the council should pass a resolution urging the government to pave at least one of the connecting links in this town. There is some talk of an increase in the gasoline tax and since Campbellford has not had its share of road improvements in the past it is time we were making our desire for better roads known.

It is unlikely that the school board will have any extraordinary expenditure this year but it is generally known that a central heating plant will have to be installed for the two public schools at an early date. Present indications are however that the system now in use will be good for another year." It is quite possible that the council will be able to reduce the tax rate two mills, forecast the mayor.

Old Home Week

Referring again to the matter of an old home week during the year he declared that it was particularly fitting at this time since it would also mark the fiftieth anniversary of public ownership of the electric power plant.

During the brief period of worship which preceeded the opening of the meeting Rev. B. Simpson Black of St. Andrew's church reminded the council to "see that your creed finds expression in deed.

Members of the standing committee were then appointed by the mayor and these in turn chose the members of their committee as follows with the first named in each case being chairman.

Legal Committee: Reeve C. H. Calver, Councillors P. H. MacMillan and N. A. McColl.

Relief Committee: Deputy Reeve P. M. Locke, Councillors MacMillan and A. E. Burgiss.

Finance Committee: Councillors N. A. McColl, J. R. Battisby, and Fire, Water and Light: Councillors H. Donald, J. R. Battisby, and Deputy Reeve Locke.

Road and Bridge Committee: Councillor P. H. MacMillian, Reeve C. H. Calver, and Councillors Donald and Burgiss.

Police Committee: Councillors J. R. Battisby, N. A. McColl, H. Donald.

Town Property: Councillor Dorie, Reeve Calver and Councillor Donald.

Industrial Committee: Councillors Burgiss, Donald and Deputy Reeve Locke.

Hospitalization: Reeve Calver, the mayor and Councillor MacMillan.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

NERVE THAT SHRINKS

NOTHING WHICH A kibitzer can witness is quite so disappointing as to see someone set out boldly and with high courage, then at the crucial moment lose his nerve and give up the fight. Everybody would rather watch the bidder who gets up plenty high in his contracts than the one who ploddingly stays always well within the bounds of safety. But that kind of bidder should equip himself with similar fortitude to carry through the play valorously.

	♠ A Q 10 6 2 ♥ 9 4 3 ♦ K 6 ♣ A Q J

(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable.)

West having opened with 1-Heart on this deal, South showed his general strength by doubling. After West overcalled with 2-Hearts, South bid 2-Spades and West 3-Hearts in an effort to block exchange of further information between his opponents. This only caused the venturesome South to bid 3-Spades, whereupon North went to 4-Spades after all that strength-showing. East doubled and South, more bold than before, redoubled.

West cashed three heart tricks, then switched to his diamond queen, which South won. Followed then the trump K, J, A, Q and 10, then the marked diamond 10 finesse and the diamond A. With just two tricks to go, South saw he was home if the club finesse would work. If, however, West had bared the K and held a diamond as his other card, the only way to prevent a set of two would be to come up with the A. Then there was the chance, in fact likelihood, that East had the guarded K, since he had shown nothing yet for his double but five small trumps.

After leading dummy's club 10, East playing the 9, South decided he must make sure of not going down an extra 600 points, so played the A. As a consequence, he was down 400 instead of making the contract—a total swing of 1580 points.

Farmer Builds Own Stone House From Rocks He Gathered In Vicinity Of His Property

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Jan. 10.—Travelling eastward from Havelock to Marmora on No. 7 Highway on the north side of the road and but a few yards from the rock cut made by the McNamara Company, the leisurely traveller sights an imposing stone villa beautifully situated and from which a very fine vista is obtainable. This is the home of William Aunger and it is entirely, even to design, of his own creation. Three years ago, living in the old home in the western end of the 400 acres of property inherited from his father, the late John Laskey Aunger, this man of fine physique decided on the construction of the new home. For two years he toiled at his task selecting large stones and even cobble stones to fit into his scheme, with the only importation of stone being marble from Bancroft for the verandah.

A year ago, with his wife and two young daughters, he took up residence and gradually added to the interior fixtures. Thus in course of time will be finished one of the most interesting residences in Central Ontario. Asked how he obtained the design of his residence, he remarked that it was a collection of ideas obtained from keen observation of other residences.

"To some extent I have copied the Burmese," he said. "The placing of glass in the stucco is a Burmese custom." Mr. Aunger explained that he had spent a few years working at the Burma Copper and Zinc Mines for a British mining company. The prospect to go to Burma opened up to him when he was employed by the Sunnyside Mining and Milling Company of Eureka, Colorado.. Prior to this, Mr. Aunger had been employed by the Miami Copper Company in Arizona, and earlier in life by the San Francisco Foundation Company.

A good part of his life has thus been spent in construction work or mining. Thus it comes about that he has travelled approximately 52,000 miles and has fallen short of encircling the globe by the distance between Hong Kong and Rangoon. "I reached Hong King as the farthest point as I travelled west and I ended my travels in the eastward direction as I reached Rangoon," he stated in explanation. En route to Rangoon he landed at Cairo, Egypt, and visited the pyramids, but did not set foot on the Holy Land.

Cause of Curiosity.

Two stones embedded in the walls flanking the steps which lead to the front door occasion curiosity still to the builder and admirers of the house. One was discovered by Mr. Aunger's father and the other was unearthed from a mound on the property in more recent years by Mr. Aunger. The stones are of pear shape and appear to be of the sandstone type. Though one is somewhat larger than the other, both show the same kind of tracings which gives rise to the opinion that they may be hieroglyphics wrought by the Indians who roamed this part of the province. Tales have been handed down to the older agriculturists of this district that the Indians favored Marmora for habitation in bygone years, and it is definitely known that they had a burial ground within the confines of the present Protestant Cemetery. Another interesting find made by Mr. Aunger on his property close to the rock cut last fall was some ossified moss. It was the first time he had seen any on his property though seeing it elsewhere, and so it is now an exhibit in his museum. Specimens of minerals and rocks gathered by Mr. Aunger chiefly make up his interesting collection, but two brass objects quickly attract the eye. They are caps which did duty on the old locomotive which was the pride of Blairton when that village boomed. Then it was that John Laskey Aunger was superintendent of the Blairton Iron Mines, and so these brass caps to-day are a prized possession of his son.

Blast Blows Stove Through Wall As Tenant Watches

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 10 (CP)

A GAS STOVE explosion from an undetermined origin rocked the main street business section here today and hurled a coal stove through the rear wall of the building owned by Mrs. Sarah A. Lewis. Mrs. Szarvus, tenant of the apartment in which the explosion occurred, was knocked down while standing in the hallway of her home.

If she had been in the room she would have been blown to pieces, Fire Chief J. Shapton said. The gas stove was demolished. The woman said she heard a hissing sound followed by a sharp explosion.

Cavan Societies Report Progress

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAVAN, Jan. 10—Mrs. R. Robertson was hostess on Thursday afternoon fo rthe joint meeting of the Cavan W.A. and W.M.S.

Mrs. J. C. Swain, past president, conducted the devotional period, choosing part of the first chapter of John as the scripture lesson. The devotional leaflet emphasized the fact, that, just as God was in the beginning, so is He now, at the beginning of another year, always present to help.

Mrs. D. J. Hunter, the new president of the W.A., presided for the first session. With her at the table were Mrs. M. McCullough, the financial secretary, and Mrs. R. Syer, recording secretary.

Reports of the different officers were received. The treasurer's showed a balace of $38.33.

The corresponding secretary read a letter of appreciation from the board of managers for a generous contribution from the W.A. towards the financing of the church.

It was decided to have a pot luck supper in the church on the evening of July 11, at 6 p.m., the congregational meeting to be held afterward.

Mesdames Hunter and Carley were appointed to make arrangements for the supper. The president announced that the roll call for the year would be a verse of a hymn or poem or an item of church news. It was decided to ask the pastor, the Rev. J. R. Trumpour, to invite the Presbytery to hold their May meeting in Cavan church.

Mrs. Snider read the first chapter of the book, "Streams in the Desert." Mrs. Staples read a poem for the New Year.

Mrs. Kennedy contributed a solo. The Mispah benediction closed the W.A. session.

W.M.S. Meets.

Mrs. Richard Matchett presided for the W.M.S. meeting.

Mrs. Matchett, in assuming her new position, spoke a few words, emphasizing the importance of the work. Its aim is "the world for Christ," the motto, "Not by might nor by power, but by my Spirit saith the Lord", and the watch-word, "Whatsoever He saith unto you, do it."

The treasurer reported $65 sent to the W.M.S. Presbytery. Mrs. Perrin offered to make a top for the quilt for the W.M.S. bale, and also give the quilt bat. Mrs. R. Syer gave an interesting synopsis of the third chapter of the Study Book, "Reaching Out."

Mrs. J. G. Matchett and Mrs. D. J. Hunter read interesting articles on India and China, the latter written by a missionary in the war zone.

Mrs. J. R. Trumpour and Mrs. J. C. Swain were appointed delegates to the convention of the W.M.S. Presbytery in Peterborough. Mrs. Robertson was appointed secretary for Literature and the Missionary Monthly; Mrs. D. J. Hunter for Christian Stewardship and Finance.

The president requested that the roll call for February should be "a resolution taken from scripture."

The hostess served candy at the close of the meeting, and a social half-hour was enjoyed.

Police Raid Bares U.S.-Canadian Opium Ring

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10—(AP).—The National Advisory Committee for U.S. aeronautics warned the United States Congress today that "feverish" expansion of military and commercial air fleets by foreign nations was a challenge to America's aviation.

The committee, which does research in the science of flying, recommended setting up a laboratory to experiment with airplane structures.

"It is not only a good policy from a financial standpoint," its annual report said, "but also vital from the standpoint of national defence, that American aircraft have a performance equal or superior to that of a potential enemy.

"Mere numbers of aircraft, however, are not in themselves sufficient for an adequate modern air force. It is of even greater importance that the aircraft be of the most effective design."

The committee said "the crisis in Europe in the fall of 1938 brought forcibly to world-wide attention the overshadowing influence of air power in international affairs." It showed for the first time, members said, how a nation with superior air strength can dominate or at least throw fear into the hearts of a civilian population.

The committee urged that factory production of American planes be stepped up, that more funds be appropriated for aeronautical research, that both military and naval air forces be increased, and that experiments be continued with lighter-than-air craft.

Increased use of private aircraft is highly desirable, it said, adding that if properly encouraged, civil aviation should prove in time to be as "revolutionary in the lives of the people as the automobile."

Nazi Sub Fleet Aimed To Blockade Britain

LONDON, Jan. 10—(CP-Havas)—Germany is creating means for blockading Britain," the diplomatic correspondent of the Manchester Guardian (Liberal) wrote to-day.

"The view taken by many observers here and widely shared in so-called high quarters," the correspondent said, "is that the expansion of the German submarine fleet is not only a direct menace to this country but intended to be such; that it not only perfects the German war machine but perfects it, above all, against the British Commonwealth.

"By virtue of her alliances with Italy and Japan and her hold over Nationalist (insurgent) Spain, Germany, while making herself immune from blockade (as she is doing by establishing a self-sufficient economy of an expanding territorial basis), is also creating the means of blockading Great Britain."

Benny To Answer Smuggling Charge

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 — (AP). — Jack Benny flew toward New York to-day in a hurried trip to appear before the Federal Grand Jury investigating jewellery smuggling.

Boarding an airliner at Glendale, Calif., last night, the screen and radio comedian declined to discuss the case.

"I'm going back to find what it's all about," he said.

Federal authorities also remained silent. The Daily News said Benny would be questioned to-morrow by the Grand Jury concerning the purchase of $1,200 in jewellery for his wife, Mary Livingston.

Benny is the latest of several Hollywood and New York notables called before the Grand Jury during its lengthy investigation, centered around the arrest of Albert Chaperau, suave international figure and self-styled Nicaraguan consular attache.

Government investigators charged that letters found in Chaperau's possession indicated he had acted as agent in the sale of smuggled finery to many well-known persons. Chaperau, described by Federal agents as an ex-convict, is accused of using diplomatic immunity to smuggle jewellery and clothing from Europe.

During the inquiry George Burns, another screen and radio comedian, pleaded guilty to possession of smuggled goods—$5,000 in jewels which he said he bought as a gift for Gracie Allen, his wife and radio partner. Mrs. Elma Lauer, wife of a New York Supreme Court Judge, also admitted conspiring with Chaperau to evade payment of customs duties on several trunks of Parisian clothing.

She and Burns will be sentenced at completion of Chaperau's trial, during which they are expected to appear as witnesses.

Given Only Few Months To Live Scot Soldier Hikes 31,300 Miles In Five Years

VICTORIA, Jan. 10 (CP)—Doctors told Sergeant Jack Scott five years ago he had only a few months to live but today the Scottish soldier is in Victoria after a 31-300-mile hike over three continents.

Wearing kilts, a tam-o'-shanter and socks he knitted himself, the 55-year-old gas victim of the Great War walks 20 miles a day with a 60-pound pack on his sturdy back.

His travels have carried him through most of Europe and Africa, back to Scotland and then across the Atlantic to start a North American tour now more than half completed after 6,300 miles.

Sergeant Scott, who served at the front with the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders and the South African Scottish, will leave here Wednesday for Vancouver. He plans to cross Canada and board a trans-Atlantic steamer in the Maritimes.

Coster Gun Deal Collapse Details Bared

NEW YORK, Jan. 10—(CP).—F. Donald Coster-Musica, the ex-convict who became president of McKesson and Robbins, incorporated, and held the esteem of Wall Street for a dozen years, used the alias of "Mueller" in trying to negotiate for the sale of 2,000,000 rifles to a warring nation, it was disclosed today in a preliminary report to the United States bureau of investigation.

The report was submitted to Irving Kaufman, assistant United States attorney in charge of the McKesson and Robbins investigation.

The rifles were Lee-Enfields, owned by the United States government, and the plan was to sell them, together with some two billion cartridges from the United government's surplus stores, to China or another foreign power.

The attempts to negotiate a deal, however, fell through in July, 1937, the report said, when the government put the rifles and ammunition in reserve.

Ben Simon, arrested last month on a charge of violating the securities and exchange act in connection with the McKesson and Robbins situation, was named in the report as having been approached by an unidentified individual who allegedly told him the co-operation of a high class firm was essential to the successful conclusion of any sale.

Simon, the report said, communicated with Coster-Musica who came to New York from his home in Fairfield, Conn., and met representatives of potential buyers, using the name of "Mueller."

Coster-Musica committed suicide Dec. 16 in Fairfield after preliminary investigations into the shortage of $18,000,000 in the corporation's crude drug inventories disclosed him as the central figure in a huge swindle in 1913 and as a "William Johnson" who had worked as a spy-hunter during the world war.

Liner Afire At Sea With 286 Aboard

LONDON, Jan. 10 — (AP). — Lloyds reported to-day that the liner Rimutaka, with 286 passengers on board and a fire raging in number three hold, changed her course in the Southern Pacific and steamed toward the United States steamship Yomachichi as a precautionary measure.

The Rimutaka, formerly a P. and O. vessel, left Panama on December 24 for London and Auckland, New Zealand, and was sailing for the first time under charter to the New Zealand Shipping Company.

A message from the captain gave the Rimutaka's position as 32.16 south latitude and 164.32 west longitude, and her speed as 14 knots. Firemen were reported to have the fire under control. The Yomachichi was said to be about 300 miles away.

Wells Admits Lyons Right In Censure

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 10—(CP-Havas)—H. G. Wells last night ironically retorted to Prime Minister Joseph Lyons' censure of the novelist's disparaging remarks about Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini of Italy.

At a dinner of the P E N Club here, the novelist, pointing out that freedom of speech was a cardinal principle of the club, declared: "I insist on freedom for Mr. Lyons to express his opinion. He was perfectly right in saying that my remarks were in the worst possible taste."

The novelist in an interview last week told newspapermen that "Hitler is certifiable as a lunatic and Mussolini is a fantastic renegade from social democracy."

Mr. Lyons made a statement deploring the fact that Mr. Wells had made uncomplimentary remarks about leaders of nations and expressing the wish the author would use his "undoubted gifts for international understanding instead of misunderstanding."

Plough Factory Swept By Fire

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y., Jan. 10—(AP)—Firemen turned to dynamite today in an effort to stop a raging fire that destroyed 15 of 18 buildings in the former Moline Plough Company plant here.

After announcing the fire was "under control," Fire Chief Chris Noll of Poughkeepsie ordered walls of burned buildings dynamited to keep the fire from spreading to nearby factories.

The Moline plant, all but one building of which was unoccupied, was composed of wooden structures two to three stories high and situated along the Hudson River waterfront a half mile from Poughkeepsie's business section.

Fight Is Renewed To Save Doomed Girl

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 — (CP). — Eight-year-old Dorothy Lewis reentered New York Memorial Hospital to-day for a continuation of the irradiation treatment that may save her from a sentence of death from thigh cancer unless the father permits a leg amputation.

Once suspended when the treatment seemed in vain, the X-ray applications were to be continued following report of the girl's doctors that "there seemed some temporary improvement."

Previously the physician said Dorothy would die in a year unless he amputated, but William Lewis, the child's father, said, "I would rather have my daughter die on both feet than live without them."

Meanwhile, Lewis expressed interest in the offer of Dr. Arthur Hendrick of Toronto to treat Dorothy with a colloidal solution he has used in cases he believes similar to that of the New York child.

Lewis asked that the Toronto surgeon send medical reports on the other cases for study by the girl's physician. If there was a similarity between these cases and Dorothy's, X-ray plates would be rushed to Dr. Hendrick for study.

"If there seemed a chance of success I would move heaven and earth to take my little girl to Dr. Hendrick," the father said.

However, Lewis, a park employee, pointed out the death of his wife six months ago had drained his finances and added "right now I'm broke."

Pioneer Suffragist Uneasy Over Future

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 — (AP). — Celebrating her 80th birthday, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, militant pioneer suffragist and pacifiest, looked at the future today and indulged in a bit of uncharacteristic pessimism.

"The world outlook is dark," she said. "I have never been anything but an optimist and I hate to confess gloom now that I am 80—but the truth is I feel downcast about affairs in Europe and Asia.

"I believe the peace movement is further from success than was the suffrage movement when I entered it. And it probably will be accompanied by more excitement."

Despite her four-score years, Mrs. Catt maintains a lively interest in current events. She is an avid newspaper reader and keeps up a voluminous international correspondence with fellow workers in women's rights and peace movements.

J. R. MacNicol New Tory Caucus Head

Bennett Alone Absent As 38 Members Welcome Manion

OTTAWA, Jan. 11 (CP).—John R. MacNicol member of parliament for Toronto-Davenport, was chosen permanent caucus chairman by Conservative members of the House of Commons at the first caucus here today under Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, new party leader.

Selection of Mr. MacNicol, joint chairman of the national committee, was approved unanimously by the 38 Conservative members who attended the caucus.

Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, at present in Western Canada, was the only member not present.

Dr. Manion was given an enthusiastic reception as new leader by the caucus. Hon. H. H. Stevens, attending his first caucus since his return to Conservative ranks, was given a "very cordial greeting" when he addressed the gathering, according to a press statement issued at adjournment.

Karl Homuth, newly elected member for Waterloo South, also was given an "enthusiastic welcome."

After a luncheon at which the members were guests of their new leader, the caucus reassembled to continue discussion of organization of sessional work.

Benny Indicted As Smuggler

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP). — Albert Chaperau, ex-convict and foreign film broker, pleaded guilty to-day to an indictment charging him and Comedian Jack Benny with smuggling $2,131 worth of jewelry into New York last Oct. 7.

Benny flew back to Hollywood after pleading not guilty yesterday to the same indictment and saying: "I am utterly amazed that I should be accused in the Chaperau matter." He said he thought that in order to be indicted it was necessary to be guilty of "some criminal intent."

The 44-year-old radio and movie star was the latest of several New York and Hollywood figures brought into the inquiry by their association with Albert Chaperau, ex-convict, international adventurer and foreign film broker.

Chaperau—accused of conspiring to smuggle in trunkloads of valuable "trinkets" for prominent acquaintances—George Burns of the Burns and Allen radio team, and Mrs. Elma Lauer, wife of a New York judge, also have been indicted.

Burns and Mrs. Lauer pleaded guilty to smuggling and Chapreau was convicted after Judge Murray Hulbert branded as fraudulent his contention that he was a commercial attache for Nicaragua and therefore entitled to diplomatic immunity.

Shaken By Court Action

Benny, one of the most highly paid entertainment artists in the United States, flew from the west coast to testify voluntarily before the grand jury and appeared shaken indignant after his indictment yesterday.

The cigar in his mouth—a comic trade mark—dropped perceptibly despite the cheers of scores of autography hunters as he walked to Judge Hulbert's courtroom.

A few moments afterward the gray-haired comedian pleaded innocent to charges of smuggling, concealing and transporting $2,131 worth of jewelry which investigators said was intended as a present for his wife, Mary Livingston.

Benny was released under $1,000 bail after he had been photographed and fingerprinted. He will be tried Jan. 24. The charges carry a maximum penalty of six years in prison and a $15,000 fine if he is convicted on all three counts.

After issuing a statement expressing amazement that he had been indicted Benny left by plane last night for Hollywood.

Coming 4 Days May Bring War In Spring

LONDON, Jan. 11—(AP).—The next few weeks, perhaps the next four days, may determine whether there is justification for predictions attributed to United States diplomats that war may break out in the spring.

So engrossed was Europe in Prime Minister Chamberlain's arrival in Rome to-day for four days of conversations with Premier Mussolini that scant public attention was given to testimony of Ambassadors Joseph Kennedy and William Bullit before the Congressional military committees in Washington.

Officials of various governments carefully digested avaiable Washington reports of the testimony by the United States ambassadors to Great Britain and France. They did not comment, however.

German ambitions for domination of the Ukraine and Italian agitation for colonial concessions from France generally are regarded as potential destroyesr of peace. The Chamberlain-Mussolini talks may decide the turn these potential dangers may take.

London hopes the Prime Minister can persuade France and Italy to be friends again—a situation which might enable Great Britain and France eventually to drive a wedge in the Rome-Berlin axis.

Berlin observers assert Chancellor Hitler has already consulted Poland about his plans to bring the Ukraine under German domination. Unconfirmed but frequent rumors have flown about London that the Fuehrer plans a "surprise in the Spring."

Il Duce Greets Chamberlain With Broad Smile Hiding Demands On France

Fascist Heads Insist Premier Must Hear Italian Claims For Territory And Steer Off Deal To End Spanish War

ROME, Jan. 11 (AP).—Prime Minister Chamberlain came to Rome today to talk European appeasement with Premier Mussolini, who is known to intend to talk about his colonial claims on France.

Mussolini and his son-in-law, Foreign Minister Galeazzo Ciano, met Mr. Chamberlain and his Foreign Secretary, Viscount Halifax, at the railway station when they arrived at 4.17 p.m. (10.17 a.m. E.S.T.)

As Il Duce, smiling broadly, stepped forward to shake Mr. Chamberlain's hand a military band played "God Save the King!" and followed this with Italian and Fascist party anthems.

A military guard of honor snapped to attention, presented arms and was reviewed by the Prime Minister and his host.

The station was draped with British and Italian colors. Attending Mussolini were high government and party officials, including Achille Starace, secretary-general of the Fascist party, and General Luigi Russo, chief of staff of the Fascist militia.

Claims To Be Made

Before the Britons' arrival an authoritative spokesman sounded a warning they would be expected to hear Italy's claims on France, that there must be no deal for ending the Spanish civil war and that Germany and Italy stood steadfast together.

Virginio Gayda, who frequently expresses the Italian official view, wrote in Il Giornale D'Italia that every chief of government who intends to pursue a policy of European co-operation should show "a clear understanding and calm and timely appraisal of the needs, interests and rights" of Italy and Germany.

British and Italian flags hung from windows and public buildings in honor of the visitors. Mr. Chamberlain seemed moved by the warmth of Il Duce's reception.

Mussolini and Ciano were clad in gray-green uniforms of the Fascist militia. Il Duce conducted Mr. Chamberlain over a red carpet to a special stand of honor on a platform, where they stood while Italian dignitaries and about 1,000 members of the British colony in Rome cheered.

Guests and hosts left the station through ranks of Il Duce's bodyguard, composed of towering blackshirts with death's head insignia on their caps, to signify they have sworn to die if necessary in protecting their chief. A fleet of automobiles carried the party through streets lined by troops and cheering Italians to the Villa Madama, the government's guest house.

Seek Prairie M.P. Ideas On Key To Wheat Worry

By Frank Flaherty
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

OTTAWA, Jan. 11 (CP)—Views of Prairie members of parliament will be sought before a meeting of the wheat committee of the cabinet is held early in parliamentary session opening tomorrow to decide certain administrative questions regarding the fixed price for wheat and what amendments, if any, should be made to the Canadian wheat board act.

The wheat problem, a live one in parliament for many years, is expected to be prominent during debates this session and while in former years Western members have been the ones principaly concerned, representatives of other parts of the country are likely to join the discussion.

Deliberations of the international wheat conference now meeting in London will be followed with interest and the results of the conference may be awaited before any important decisions are made by the Canadian cabinet.

Unless wheat prices move upward in the next few months the government is faced with a large bill to meet the deficit of the Canadian wheat board for the crop year 1938-39 by reason of the fixed price.

20 Cent A Bushel Bonus

The board has purchased the wheat grown on the prairies at prices equivalent to 80 cents a bushel for No. 1 Northern at Fort William and is selling it at prevailing world prices. Thus the fixed price amounts to a bonus of around 20 cents a bushel to Western farmers.

If the government is to continue bonusing wheat production the suggestion has been advanced by some Westerners that the bonus should be on an acreage rather than a bushel basis. Dr. Thomas Donnelly (Lib. Wood Mountain) is one of the critics of the present system and has said it results in help being given where it is least needed—to the farmers who have wheat to sell—while farmers who have little or no wheat for sale by reason of crop failure, get little or nothing.

In government circles it is felt the 80-cent fixed price can be justified for this year on the basis of putting money into Western Canada after a long period of either poor prices or poor crops. Whether the fixed price could be justified as a permanent fixture is another matter.

Moscow To New York Air Service Planned

HELSINKI, Finland, Jan. 11 (CP). —A newspaper, the "Hufvud-Stadsbladet," has published a report Soviet authorities have decided to inaugurate regular Moscow-New York Polar air service.

Three giant airplanes, the paper states, are being specially constructed for the purpose, powered with three 1,000 horse-power motors each. Each will be capable of carrying 42 passengers and a crew of six.

The new machines will be ready for service by May, 1939, and will make several trial flights to the United States before the service has begun, according to the report.

The Paris Exhibition planetarium brought only $3,900 at auction.

A Big Turtle

Reputed to be the biggest turtle in the world, this leather-back sea turtle, 7 feet 4 inches long and weighing over 1,100 pounds, is shown as it was exhibited at the Cabrilla Beach Marine Museum. Although a Galapagos turtle, the sea monster was caught in local waters. Several Galapagos land turtles are shown alongside the sea turtle for comparison. With the turtle is Dr. William L. Lloyd, museum curator.

Control Board Deadlocks On Naming Vice

TORONTO, Jan. 11 (CP).—The appointment of a vice-chairman of Board of Control and president of City Council was laid over by the Board of Control today at the board's first meeting of the year when Mayor Day failed to get a motion.

"We'll leave the matter over," the Mayor declared as the four members of the board remained silent and failed to nominate.

As the Mayor opened the question by saying he was open for a motion, there followed a pause. All four controllers sat with their heads down, scratching at scratch paper with pens and pencils.

"I'm open for a motion," the Mayor repeated.

Controller Fred Hamilton laughed, and the Mayor smiled.

"Put the names in a hat, we let a tender by drawing the name once," Con. Hamilton observed.

"Let the whole board be nominated and we'll vote on each one," Con. Fred Conboy said.

"Then they'll still be tied," Con. Hamilton returned.

Again a pause followed as the controllers continued to scratch with their eyes glued on the scratch pads.

Mayor Day decided finally to leave the matter over.

Car Thief Misses Turn, Pedestrian Loses Leg As Driver Flees Leaving Him Pinned

NEWMARKET, Ont., Jan. 11—(CP).—William Spence, 35, pinned to the wall of a building last night by a runaway automobile whose driver immediately fled, had his left leg amputated to-day.

Police were seeking the motorist who walked from the scene of the accident leaving Spence behind the wreckage with both feet badly crushed. They said the car was stolen in Toronto.

The victim's right leg was placed in a cast. Doctor's said he would be in the hospital many months.

Spence was walking with his wife when the automobile came from a side street and instead of turning spend straight for the sidewalk. The victim jumped, but the car caught him squarely against the wall. As bystanders rushed to extricate him the driver ran away.

Later Newmarket police picked up three East Toronto youths and held them on a nominal vagrancy charge.

Moscow Knocks Idea Of Spring War For Ukraine—"Hitler Too Weak"

MOSCOW, Jan. 11 (AP).—Moscow commentators discounted today any predictions of a war next spring over the Ukraine.

Chancellor Hitler is regarded in Moscow as too weak to attack the Ukraine, a constituents republic of Soviet Russia, since the view here is that such an attack would automatically involve him in a war for which he still is far from prepared.

This expression of opinion came when Soviet circles were keenly interested in getting further details of statements before United States Congressional military committees by Joseph Kennedy, Ambassador to Great Britain, and William Bullitt, Ambassador to France.

(A committee member said the diplomats declared developments in Europe indicate war might begin next spring. The member quoted Mr. Kennedy as saying the conflict might start by German invasion of the Ukraine or Italian seizure of Tunisia from France).

In Soviety circles where Hitler and Germany are regarded as relatively weak, the theory is advanced that British and French ruling groups would seek to satisfy Nazi demands with further concessions in Western Europe and, for similar reasons, try to placate Premier Mussolini, perhaps at the expense of Spain.

Bush Fires Kill 20 In Australia

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 11. —(CP).—Brush fires which have caused 20 known deaths during the past three days continued to rage over wide areas in Southern Australia to-day, leaving the fate of scores in doubt.

The flames swept over 20 square miles in the Rubicon Valley in 30 minutes despite efforts of a thousand fire-fighters to check them. Property damage during the three days is estimated at $1,500,000.

Temperatures of more than 100 degrees were registered here for the fifth successive day.

The government appealed for aid for victims of the fire. In addition to two forest rangers trapped and burned to death two days ago, other victims include seven persons found dead in a roadway at Narbethong, 12 bodies discovered in the Rubicon Valley, and seven persons who collapsed and died from heat in Melbourne and vicinity.

The seven bodies found near Narbethong were five men, a woman and a child. They were believed to have died from suffocation after they abandoned their automobile and atetmpted to flee from the onrushing flames on foot.

Plan To Spend $45,000 On Buckhorn Road

Alex L. Elliott, M.P.P., commented today on the Examiner's editorial suggestion that the funds appropriated for the completion of the Buckhorn-Bobcaygeon Road might have had a broader effect if the money had been applied to the remaining construction work that has to be done on the Apsley-Bancroft road.

"This riding is assured of the early completion of the road north and east of Apsley," Mr. Elliott said. "The contract has been let for this job, and the work will be begun in the spring. It is entirely under the control of the Ontario Department of Highways, and there need be no worry about this link being undertaken early this year.

On the other hand, the work that is about to be started on the road north of Buckhorn, connecting with Bobcaygeon, has been made possible as the result of a joint program by the Dominion and Provincial Governments as a means of relieving present unemployment. This Buckhorn-Bobcaygeon contract is the only one that has been let in southern Ontario under this arrangement. The next nearest one is at North Bay, the rest of the money appropriated by the two governments is being spent in Northern Ontario.

Sudbury Girl Shot Dead; Gunman Held

Cafe Owner Suspected After Love Tiff Fatal To Waitress

SUDBURY, Ont., Jan. 11—(CP).—James Scott, sanitary inspector of the nearby village of Garson, was praised by police today for his aid in effecting the capture of John Ungurian, charged with the murder of an 18-year-old former waitress.

Ungurian was arrested in Garson, 12 miles distant, an hour after Alice Kroitor, until recently employed in Ungurian's restaurant, was shot and killed in the home of friends here last night. Two bullets from a revolver were fired into the girl's heart.

Ungurian was not asked to plead when he appeared in police court today. He was remanded until Jan. 19 for priliminary hearing. As the charge was read, Ungurian sagged and said: "I not keel it."

Waiting With Revolver

Police said the arrest was made after Scott, awaiting the arrival of police reinforcements, engaged Ungurian in conversation as the 38-year-old restaurateur was sheltered behind a stalled taxi-cab, a revolver held over his arm. Scott assisted a towing-truck driver in removing the taxi, enabling the officers to approach the spot where Ungurian was standing.

Chief Constable O. Miron of Garson, who with two other officers made the arrest, said he and Scott went to the home of Ungurian's wife after receiving news of the Sudbury slaying to warn her. Fifty feet from Mrs. Ungurian's home was a stalled taxi-cab.

After Heavier Gun

The chief said he had to return to headquarters for a revolver of heavier calibre than the .25-calibre automatic he carried and left Scott at the scene to watch the taxi. The sanitary inspector learned a towing truck was on the way so "I ran around a block to head it off." He told the truck driver to go "right up to the taxi, and we both got out like we meant business in getting the car out of the hole."

Scott said he then engaged Ungurian in conversation where he had taken shelter behind the taxi-cab. "I saw him pull the gun out of his right pocket," Scott related. "He had a handkerchief around the butt. I knew what would happen if that policemen stepped out of Chief Miron's car. From behind that taxi Ungurian could have got them all."

Scott said he stepped along side the towing truck as the returning police car approached and waved the chief to a stop. Then the truck pulled the taxi from the hole which left Ungurian exposed. He surrendered without a battle.

Visits His Daughter

It was learned that between the time the taxi that had brought him from Sudbury became stalled and the police car first arived on the scene, Ungurian visited the home where his enstranged wife has lived for the past six years with a daughter, Olga. Mrs. Ungurian was not near at hand and her husband, after talking to his daughter, returned to the cab.

Miss Kroitor came to Sudbury a month ago from Yorkton, Sask.

Coster Records Discovered

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP). — Discovery of F. Donald Coster-Musica's personal correspondence, records and two ledger books hidden in a small wooden shed near the McKesson and Robbins Drug Company plant in Fairfield, Conn., was announced to-day by Gregory Noonan, Acting United States Attorney.

The documents and ledgers, Noonan said, would enable government investigators to get a whole picture of the manner in which the late ex-convict, who became president of the Drug Corporation, managed its affairs since 1920.

Coster-Musica vanished from New York shortly after 1920, emerging several years later as F. Donald Coster, head of Girard and Company, a Mount Vernon, N.Y., hair tonic firm, which he later merged with McKesson and Robbins.

French Officer To Die For Selling Out To Blond's Wiles

Toulon, France, Jan. 11 (AP)

A MODERN DRAMA of espionage, involving a blond agent with green eyes and a young naval officer eager to become rich, resulted in a sentence of death before a firing squad for Ensign Marc Aubert, 25.

The penalty was ordered by a naval court yesterday.

Aubert's accomplice, Jeane Marie Morel, whom he described as his "postmistress," received three years in prison.

Aubert was declared in high naval circles to have written directly to an unidentified foreign power, offering information in return for money.

FOR SPEEDIER DIVORCE

To bring divorce within the reach of everybody and to make it speedier and cheaper, Northern Ireland is revising its complicated laws dealing with the subject.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11—(AP).—A grand jury was called into session to-day to probe strange happenings aboard the three-masted schooner Metha Nelson—"a real hell ship"—on her cruise to the South Pacific for sharks and buried treasure.

Expected to testify during the inquiry were Marino Bello, stepfather of the late Jean Harlow and director of the expedition; Evelyn Husby Bello, the nurse he married three days after the voyage started last September; Countess Dorothy Di Frasso, Hollywood heiress, and Richard Gulley, familiar figure in Hollywood and cousin of Anthony Eden, former British Foreign Minister.

Captain R. B. Hoffman and members of the crew likewise were ordered to appear.

The jury's inquiry will centre around the arrest of Charles Segal, Hollywood sportsman, and Abraham Kapelner, who left the ship in November at San Jose de Guatemala but were arrested here by federal agents on mutiny charges. They accused the German captain of Jewish persecution.

There were hints of strange tales to come as the vessel limped into port yesterday.

Plenty To Tell.

"It was one hell of a cruise, on a real hell ship," was the way Bill Ellis, a member of the crew expressed it. "Believe me, I've got plenty to tell that jury."

Hoffman denied demanding the arrest of Kapellner, saying he wired the American Consul at San Jose because Kapellner "became mentally disarranged during the cruise," and "I wanted to put him ashore."

The captain disclosed that a search for buried treasure on Cocos Island was the chief object of the cruise, although Bello had announced it was a shark hunting expedition when it started.

Hoffman said with disgust: 'All we found were a lot of picks and shovels left by other treasure hunters."

Double Shooting Orphans Four

GLACE BAY, N.S., Jan. 11 (CP) —Four small children were left orphans today after a double tragedy in the small cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Butts in this Cape Breton colliery town resulted in the death of the parents from shotgun wounds.

Butts, a 37-year-old miner died in hospital early today, a few hours after the death of his wife. Mrs. Butts died when gun shot from the same weapon penetrated her breast.

The four children, the oldest 14, were cared for by relatives. Two of them had been witnesses to the tragedy. Dorothy, six, and Hazel, three, were in their mother's bedroom at the time. The other two, Mildred, 14, and Ida, 12, were in another part of the house.

Police discovered the tragedy when they respoded to a telephone call from a child. They said a childish voice had shouted over headquarters telephone, "Come quick, papa is shooting mama."

When they reached the miner's home they found the mother, who expected to give birth to another child soon, dead in the bedroom. The father lay on the floor, his body barring the entrance to the dinning room.

Leopard Puts Devonshire Seaside In Arms As It Mauls Keeper And Escapes To Woods

PAIGNTON, England, July 11 (CP)—Residents of this seaside town in Devonshire peered cautiously outside their homes today because a 200-pound leopard is at large.

Many hurried home yesterday after a warning was flashed on movie screens and by radio that the full grown male leopard had escaped from a private zoo at nearby Primley after severly mauling Jack Hawkins, his 67-year-old keeper, who was feeding him.

While civilians, police and special constables armed with rifles combed the wooded countryside, a squad of territorials reported at the local drill hall in readiness to join the hunt.

Each searcher was supplied with a rifle and 10 rounds of ammunition. Worried fathers armed with sticks escorted their children to school and everyone venturing near the outskirts of the town carried some kind of improvised weapon.

Peeved Eels' Volts Light Bulbs, Run Motor When Scientists Try Chin-Tickling

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (CP)—Electric eels, wiggly denizens of the ocean which destroy enemies by releasing powerful charges of electricity, have plenty of other tricks.

In a series of experiments last night before the New York Zoological Society two electric eels from South America had their power harnessed and ran an electric motor, lighted electric bulbs, made wierd noises over a loudspeaker and registered their voltage on an oscillograph.

The experiments were conducted by Christopher Coates of the New York Aquarium and Dr. Richard Cox of New York University.

To harness their power, Coates attached two flexible metal bands around the eels' bodies and Dr. Cox attached contact wires from the bands to the various apparati, Coates then outraged the fish with some chin tickling and they released sufficient electricity for their allotted chores.

Loyalists Driven From Famed Mountain Pass

HENDAYE, France, Jan. 11—(AP)—Spanish government troops were reported today to be retiring from the historic Catalonian town of Montblanch, mountain pass obstacle to the insurgents' advance on the Mediterranean port of Tarragona.

Montblanch, only 18 miles from Tarragona, was said to be besieged on three sides with all the roads around the little town of 4,600 population either in insurgent control or under fire.

Twenty-five miles of the southwest additional columns of General Franco's fighters had driven to within 12 miles of the Catalonian coast in the vicinity of Falset, threatening to trap government forces in the sector between Falset and Tortosa.

At least four insurgent columns were reported converging on Montblanch, which blocks the main highway southward to Tarragona. They laid down a heavy artillery barrage on the town itself as infantry shock troops fought their way through the outlying districts.

Franco's Navarrese troops occupied Espiuga De Francoll, three miles west of Montblanch, while another force gained a foothold on the Tarragona highway south of Montblanch yesterday.

LISTOWEL, Ont., Jan. 11—(CP).—Six weeks old Betty Lugdig, who weighed only one pound, 13 ounces, when she was born Nov. 30, is gaining weight steadily, officials of Listowel Memorial Hospital said today. Betty now weighs two pounds.

The baby has been kept in an incubator in a super-heated room. "We haven't had any trouble with her at all," said Hospital Superintendent Ann Macmillan. "But with premature babies like this we have to be very careful, so Betty is staying in her incubator."

Hydro Voltage Low In Hastings

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 11.—The matter of low voltage in various sections of the village was brought up by Howard G. Fairman at the regular session of hydro commission here Tuesday evening. The linesman was instructed to obtain, if possible, a voltage tester to ascertain what extent the voltage is down.

A. J. McKenty interviewed the committee and said he was dissatisfied with the amounts he had been charged on his monthly bills. Despire a meter test and inspection the amounts had risen to a point where he felt they were almost prohibitive, he said. A check up on kilowatt hours used revealed in some cases amounts more than three times as great as the same month a year previous. Dr. W. E. Wilson, chairman, instructed the linesman to have an inspector look over the wiring at Mr. McKenty's store as it was the opinion of the commission the metre was correct.

Testing Meters.

E. M. Hess was re-appointed linesman for the current year at the usual salary. The commission for the past year or more have been sending consumers' metres away to be tested and it was learned that only fifteen remain untested. When this work is complete the meters may stand for five years before another test is necessary.

On a motion of H. Fairman and Reeve Kelley, four 35 foot poles will be purchased. Dr. Wilson was appointed to deal with this mater.

On a motion of H. Fairman and Reeve Kelley, Dr. W. E. Wilson was re-appointed to the position of chairman.

Link Windsor Case And Bookie Holdup

TORONTO, Jan. 11 — (CP). — Funeral services will be held today for James Windsor as police continue their attempts to solve the murder of the 47-year-old bookmaker. He was shot to death Saturday night by one of four gunmen who invaded his home. Five persons saw the shooting.

A new indication the killing was linked with recent outbreaks of gang warfare was given by a bookmaker who was robbed of $1,500 a few nights before the murder. The bookmaker told police descriptions of Windsor's killers fitted those of men who robbed him.

One witness to the slaying told police the killer, "a small, swarthy man with decayed teeth," appeared to have been under the influence of a narcotic. From another source it was learned Windsor recehtly refused a demand for "protection" fees for the barbecue stand he owned at suburban Lansing.

Open Up Lumber Operations

The only reason this road was included in this winter's program is because it is extensively used in lumbering operations, particularly in Peterborough county, by companies located in Peterborough and Lindsay. The contract is for $45,000, and as the Apsley road has already been assumed for construction, it is obvious that this section of the province would not have received the benefit of the expenditure of $45,000 in the district this winter if the work on the Buckhorn-Bobcaygeon Road had not been approved. If the Dominion government had been induced to allow this money to be employed to do work for which the province is already committed it would mean that the value of this appropriation of $45,000 would be lost to Peterborough county. It will be expended on the elimination of hills and bad twists and generally to improve the grade in the road where it is greatly needed. Considerable work has been done previously on this road, and in that section the grade is in good shape.

Johnston Bros. Limited of Brantford have the contract and by the terms of their agreement with the province they are entitled to select their own key men. Other than the staff of key men, they must hire all labour through the Employment Bureau Office at Peterborough. No one can obtain a job without registering with the Employment Office and obtaining a 1939 card. The Employment Officer is instructed to select 50 p.c. of the labour from men on relief in municipalities. The contractor is also bound by this provision that 50 p.c. of the men must be taken from the relief rolls.

Reliefees Must Register.

The officials of the municipalities should see that all men on relief are registered at the Employment Bureau at Peterborough and have 1939 cards. It might be well for the Reeves of the various municipalities to see the Employment Officer in order that he might be consulted as to the individual cases in each municipality.

Johnston Bros. are moving their camps from a point on Highway No. 36. It is predicted that they will be taking on men in about ten days through the Employment Office.

The sum of $45,000 has been appropriated for this work and it is designed to eliminate the hills and bad twists on this road and to generally improve the grade in the bad places. Considerable of the grade on this road is in good shape now.

Mr. Elliott said that another advantage from this work is that it is centrally located in the county and is easily reached from the city.

with their aides straight from Paris conference with Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet—at which British-French determination to stand firm against Italian demands was re-emphasized.

Rome Fascists made it plain, however, that Premier Mussolini would place the demands against France squarely before the British Minister.

Satisfaction of such demands, from the Fascist point of view, is a natural sequel to the Munich conference's satisfaction of Germany's demands in Czecho-Slovakia and imperative to the European appeasement which Mr. Chamberlain seeks.

Diplomatic circles predicted the Prime Minister would find a difficult task here.

Other Threats

In addition to the French colonial dispute, some circles saw threats to British and French prestige in the open Italian participation in the Spanish insurgent offensive, and in reports that Germany plans to use her new submarine fleet in the Mediterranean.

As for the colonial agitation, the impression gained ground among diplomatic observers that Premier Mussolini would press them because he likely feels it is time for him to collect something for his share in the Munich peace of last September —(by which Italy, Germany, Britain and France agreed to absorption of Czecho-Slovak Sudetenland by Germany and to adjustment of Hungarian and Polish territorial claims upon Czecho-Slovakia.)

Italian press agitation has indicated three demands which might be satisfactory to Italy: A guarantee that the 90,000 Italians in Tunisia, French North African protectorate, could retain their Italian citizenship and enjoy special privileges; a share in control of the Suez Canal; a free port in Djibouti, Gulf of Aden port in French Somaliland, and a share of the French-controlled railroad between Djibouti and Addis Ababa, Italian conquered capital of Ethiopia.

Mr. Chamberlain begins the official conversations with Mussolini tomorrow, but there was opportunity for a preliminary exchange of views at tonight's banquet the Italian Premier prepared for the British visitors at Palazzo Venezia.

HASTINGS

Poll Taxes Are Evaded By Young Men

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 11 — That a number of young men here were evading poll tax by getting assessed for rooms, was the charge laid before the council Monday night by Councillor Stanley Stevenson. He said that the men who paid poll tax had registered complaints that it was not fair to them. Reeve Lewis Kelley said the assessment roll was due for adjustments and ordered a special meeting of the council for this week, at which the assessor will be present and instructed along these lines.

Awaiting of Books

Referring to the town and hydro books, the reeve said that an independent audit should be made periodically to satisfy the public. The books have not been accurately checkd by local auditors, he maintained. The hydro books were audited last year by local men and then the council were forced to have the job done by a chartered auditor to satisfy the people, Reeve Kelley said.

A communication from Edward Humpage, Peterborough auditor, was read guaranteeing to check the books for an amount not to exceed $60. Reeve, Kelley appointed Stanley Stevenson and Charles Lynch to interview Mr. Humpage and possibly secure a lower rate.

A request from the Imperial Oil Company was read asking for a rebate on part of their 1938 business tax. The Reeve said that according to law they could not rebate a business tax and on motion of S. Stevenson and C. Lynch, the rebate was not granted.

Wellman Re-appointed

Two applications for the position of constable were read but William Wellman was re-appointed for a fifth term. The motion states that the contract may be terminated by ten days notice from either party. The reeve highly commended Chief Wellman for maintaining law and order in this municipality for the past year.

Fred Dodd was re-hired as fire chief at a salary of $35 per annum but was cautioned by the council to organize the fire brigade in a manner that would efficiently deal with fires when the emergency arose.

Following are officers re-appointed for the current year: J. C. Wilson, secretary board of health at a salary of $5 per year; M. A. O'Shea, solicitor at a retaining fee of $10 per year; W. J. Boyle, caretaker at $100 per year; George Lynch, fire engineer at $7 per month; Dr. J. A. MacDonald, M.O.H., at $50 per year.

On a motion of C. Lynch and I. Bond, notice will be given that a by-law is being prepared for the next regular meeting making Front street at Bridge street intersection a stop street, and Bridge street a through street. The bylaw would take effect when given approval of the department and stop signs are erected.

It was revealed that the counties engineer had recommended to the council that the village paved streets be re-surfaced this summer. On a motion of I. Bond and W. McEachnie, the council will request the counties council to have the work done this year. It was pointed out that this would not be paid direct to the counties but this municipality would forfeit the counties grant until such time the work was paid for. Reeve Kelley said he would endeavor to obtain a portion of the grant each year.

A tax prepayment bylaw allowing a discount of 5 per cent off last year's taxes up to October this year was given its readings. Any taxpayer may prepay 90 per cent of the taxes and receive the discount.

Following are the committees reappointed: Streets: Stanley Stevenson, chairman, Iden Bond, Charles Lynch; Finance, Charles Lynch, chairman, William McEachnie, Stanley Stevenson; property, William McEachnie, chairman, Iden Bonds, Charles Lynch; charity, all committees.

U.S. Meat Industry Best In 4 Years

CHICAGO, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The United States meat industry was geared today to its fastest pace in four years as a result of an increased flow of livestock to market.

Employment in packing plants and production of meat have risen to the best levels since 1934, analysis of industry statistics showed.

The many industrial and business activities which are part of the meat trade—from country producer to city butcher—likewise have been stimulated by increasing volume of livestock production.

Meat packers have stepped production up to the best level since late in 1934. The industry's employment index has risen above 100 points and is about 10 points higher than a year ago and 17 points higher than early last spring. Average employment for the years 1923-1925 equals 100 on the basis of Bureau of Labor statistics computations.

Payrolls have risen to above 109. Wages per hour are the highest on record. The packing industry normally has approximately 150,000 employees but no recent census is available.

Hog slaughter, an important factor in packer volume because of the amount of processing work required in preparing pork, is the best in two years. Hogs slaughtered in 1938 totalled 36,186,000 head, largest since 1934. Sheep and lamb slaughter was near record proportions.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Jan. 11 — (C.P.). — Fractional advances scored in early trading to-day on Winnipeg wheat futures market were held as business became quiet in later dealings. Closing quotations were ¼ cent higher, with May at 62⅛, July 62⅝ and October 63 cents.

Most of the support appeared to come from mills and exporters. Canadian wheat export business was placed around 300,000 bushels.

Uncertainty regarding the European situation brought higher prices at Liverpool, where values closed ⅝ to ¾ up.

Buenos Aires continued to hold near previous closing levels, while Chicago improved slightly, apparently influenced by lack of moisture forecasts for the United States winter wheat belt.

Present Awards To Scholars At Millbrook

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 11. — Joining with the Sunday School for its anniversary occasion on Sunday, the congregation of St. Andrew's United Church met with the school at 2.30 p.m., the guest speaker for the day being Rev. M. C. Parr of George Street Church, Peterborough, chairman of the Peterborough Presbytery.

The superintendent, W. F. Fallis, and the pactor, Rev. A. L. Sisco, had charge of the service, the only one fo rthe day. The guest speaker was introduced by the minister, and selected as his subject, "The Master Key," based on the verse found in Isaiah 23, 22: "The key of the house of David will I lay upon hih shoulder." Various kinds of keys were dealt with in detail, including the invisible key of memory, fancy, imagination, good judgment, stern duty, ending with the injunction: "Do not lumber up yourself with a lot of keys that are of little use to you. There are keys for every kind of lock, and every kind of person, and there is a master key for every experience of life. We open the door of business every day with the key of faith, and by this key we enter through the door into fulfillment of God's promises, that never fail. The key of courage is necessary, but the keys of popularity, cleverness, and of force will bring no lasting blessing into the life," he said.

Awards Presented.

The awards won during the year were presented by Mr. Fallis, fifteen having been present every Sunday, or in case of illness providing a doctor's certificate; two Sundays are allowed for absence during the year, providing that there is attendance at some school, a note from the superintendent vouching for the visiting scholar. Those receiving either a Bible or hymn book, including four tots from the primary department, were: Edith and Jim Elson, Anna Manley, and Stewart Murney; Miss D. M. Sisco's Class: Leone Manley; Mrs. L. S. Smith's Class: Paul Elson; Miss Marian O'Brian's Class: Jessie Murney; Mrs. J. H. McKnight's Class: Evans Hatherly and Donald Edmunds; Miss Madeline McDowell's Class: Kathryn Elson; Miss Marjorie McDowell's Class; Margaret Elson and Marguerite Murney; Mrs. G. O. Fallis' Class: Robert Ridge; Young Men's Bible Class, W. A. O'Brian, teacher: Harry Freelove, not missed a Sunday in 13 years, and Elwood Fallis, not absent in 11 years; Boneka Class: Ethel Forayth; Mrs. P. Stinson's Class: David Hatherly.

The superintendent mentioned that, while last year only 2,479 verses had been learned in 1938, when the Book of Mark had been set for memory work, 8,110 had been memorized; three years have been allowed for learning this Gospel; but at least 150 verses must be recited in twelve months. The list included, for Sunday: Ralph Richards 152, Evans Hatherly 235, Teddy Sisco 168, Jack Kill 250, David Hatherly 241, Orval Challice 217, Robert Ridge 152, Francis Tickner 334, Laureen Richards 284.

Every child in the Primary Department was given a book, and the boys who wrote on their temperance course examinations and received certificates were: Fred Ridge 60, Teddy Sisco 71, Teddy Stinson 71, Russell Kennedy 82, Evans Hatherly 89, and Donald Edmunds 90.

Similar prizes will be offered again for 1939, and Mr. Fallis announced the annual executive meeting on Friday, January 13, at 8 p.m., the other event in the Sunday School calendar being the play "Wild Ginger," to be given here by George Street Young People of Peterborough, on January 20, under the auspices of the Young Men's Bible Class.

Gets Helping Hand

A helping hand is given Jan C. Masaryk, son of Czecho-Slovakia's founder, as he walks down the gangplank from the liner Washington to the cutter which met the ship to convey him to New York. In doing so, Jan Masaryk returns to his mother's country; the country where he had seen his late father, the great patriarch of Czecho-Slovakia, lay the groundwork which resulted in the creation of the war-born republic. Jan Masaryk, 14-year Czecho-Slovak minister to London, recently resigned that post and after a lecture tour in the U.S., will return to London as a private citizen.

Doing The Right Thing

Among the private bills listed for consideration at the coming session of the Canadian parliament is one by which the United Church of Canada seeks to amend the United Church of Canada Act of 1924, to clarify the use of the title "The Presbyterian Church in Canada." It sets forth that congregations and members of Presbyterian churches who did not become associated with the United Church on June 10, 1925, may use the name "The Presbyterian Church in Canada."

One might quite accurately say that the name had always been used by the Presbyterians, but the open action of the United Church in applying for amendment is a formal movement and quite a proper one. It is officially undoing something which might much bebetter have never been done in the first place, as it always did have within it the feeling that something like pressure was being exerted where none should have been used.

A little quiet consideration at the time would have made it clear enough that an attempt to take away from a denomination its right to use a name of long usage was more apt to defeat the general plan of union than to encourage it. The United Church in moving for this change is doing a proper and a right thing.

All Newspapers Get Them

A newspaper office is somewhat of a centre of information, and it should be. In the course of a year it answers a good many questions and looks at a good many strange and splendid things which are submitted for explanation, comment or praise. A freak potato, a bit of rye straw about as high as the kitchen roof, an egg of great size laid by some overly enthusiastic hen. And so on and so on.

On the ninth of January there was another. Winter months are not prolific apart from the trapper who arrives with a wolf pelt or a rare fox skin. A lad came to the Examiner bearing with him something wrapped in a piece of paper and he wanted an explanation for the thing which he had found. He placed it on the corner of the desk and carefully unwrapped it. No—you have not guessed it right. It was a snake.

A garter snake on the ninth of January. Does it mean anything unusual? No, our opinion is that it does not apart from the fact that the little snake was poorly advised to come out of his winter quarters at this season. And that led on to the next question: Where do snakes go in winter time? For the most part we believe they get into stone piles and go as far down toward the bottom as possible. Sometimes they may find a place in an old log which answers the purpose. We refer to all these things because by so doing it may make it unnecessary for boys in general to come romping up the stairs with more snakes wrapped in newspapers or merely slipped in the pocket. We do not cry out in fear of them, but admittedly they do make one feel just a little wiggily or some such thing. As a matter of preference we find greater pleasure in gazing upon a 15-pound turnip, a full-blown head of cabbage or listening to the history of a boot-jack which has been in the family for 80 years or more.

Out In The Open

Mayor Day of Toronto favors having licensed places for placing bets on horse races rather than having the present system of this being carried on secretly in attics and cellars and the back rooms of a number of lesser business places. What is going on in Toronto is taking place in every city in the country. The bookmaker does not advertise that he is in the business, but those who want to know where to place their bets on races in any part of the continent are well aware of where they can be accommodated. Now and then Toronto police conduct raids, smash through closed doors and clean out some hidden office which may have been doing business with half a dozen telephones. But the business goes on.

We believe there would be opposition to a city or province recognizing this business by licensing it, and yet there is something to be said for the course which Mayor Day favors. It is not possible to cause people to stop betting on horse races. At certain seasons of the year our government recognizes it as something which is quite legal and takes a portion of the winnings for its own use. Apart from such seasons it is not legal. If there were recognized offices opened and the business brought right out in the open we do not believe it would result in any increase in betting. All the present mystery and secret room atmosphere would be taken from it. The Examiner realizes that such a view is not likely to meet with approval by a good many people, but it also believes that the proposed system would be better than the underground method followed at present.

Trying To Say Too Much

Mayor Jamieson Bone of Belleville delivered an inaugural address at the meeting of the 1939 City Council, nor was he content to confine himself to condition of roads and sidewalks, the flood situation in the spring, debentures, taxes and the placing of stray cows and dogs in the civic pound. His worship went rather far afield. A few quotations give a general idea of the amount of territory covered:

"The Federation of High School Teachers is one of the worst cancers eating at the vitals of this country....A workingman's child cannot get a job as a gasoline or elevator attendant without a working knowledge of Greek or Sanskrit."

"Politicians and parties line their pockets at the expense of a poverty-stricken people and dare not have a strict outside audit of their books, contracts and accounts."

"Cabinets to my mind are formed of the dullest wits to be found in all Canada."

We submit that is not bad for one address. Members of the Teachers' Federation would be left hanging on to the ropes; the politicians being used to criticism and attack might be able to still take a few steps under their own power, and our cabinet members being dull-witted would fare best of all because they would not understand what his worship was talking about until some person told them he meant they were a bit balmy.

We fear the mayor of Belleville likes to fling things about. He seems to have overlooked the fact that school teachers do not select the subjects which they teach; all that is set down in advance for them. We believe it is possible to get along quite well without a working knowledge of Greek or Sanskrit; very few people possess such knowledge and yet a good many folk are making a living.

It is rather cheap to say that politicians are busy lining their pockets. At one time or another we have known a good many of them, and we cannot at the moment recall one who has made money out of public life, while we can think of several who have had to quit public service in order to attend to the serious business of making a living.

Nor do we believe our cabinet posts are filled with the dullest wits to be found in the country. Things do not work out that way, nor could they.

It would have at least shown a degree of courage had Mayor Bone submitted a list of politicians who are grafters and another list of cabinet ministers whom he regards as being dull-witted. It actually requires little talent to let loose such a blast as the chief magistrate of Belleville exploded in his inaugural address. It merely means that a man has said a great many things which would be much better if left unsaid.

She Did Not Tell All

We noticed a short report of an address given to some women's organization in a rural church, and the general theme seemed to have been that conditions as they used to be many years ago were much to be preferred to those of today. We believe the general idea can be grasped by quoting the following:

"Divorce is something which is hard to countenance; it is increasing. The lack of faithfulness between man and wife is something such as has not occurred before. I like to think of the sweet pictures of family life in the New Testament of the home life of Mary and Martha and of the love for the brother Lazarus. It seems to have been ideal and many of us long for the time when it will come again.'

It is possible to prove almost anything by referring to the incidents which bear favorably on such a point, but we fear the speaker in this case has selected only the material which she desired to use to prove her point. Had she preferred to present the whole picture she could for instance have referred to a number of family scenes which were not just as lovely as they might have been. Just one will serve as an illustration to show that family life in New Testament times was not exactly perfect. We quote from St. John, 5th chapter, telling of the time when the Master was going from Judea to Galilee stopped at Jacob's well in Sychar, and there engaged in conversation with a woman of Samaria. Part of the conversation is thus recorded:

"Jesus said unto her, Go, call thy husband and come hither.

"The woman answered and said I have no husband. Jesus said unto her, thou hast well said, I have no husband:

"For thou hast had five husbands, and he whom thou now hast is not thy husband; in that saidst thou truly."

Possibly when a speaker desires to point to the undesirable events of today it is pleasant to think there was a time when similar conditions did not exist, but it is not always the easiest thing to prove the contention.

Can Still Buy Them

R. B. Whitehead, securities commissioner for this province, explained something of what was being done to protect the public in an address to the Toronto Stock Exchange Staff Association. A report of the meeting said among other things:

"Through the efforts of the commission the public are kept fully informed about securities they are asked to buy. Salesmen are registered, auditors are sent on regular and surprise visits to brokers' offices who are not members of the Stock Exchange and every effort is made to protect the public interest."

Just how the public is being kept informed regarding various securities offered for sale is not at the moment apparent. It is correct enough to say that salesmen are licensed today, but that in itself does not improve the salesman nor does it improve the nature of the material he goes out to sell. It is just as possible to buy poor stuff from a licensed salesman as it ever was to buy the same kind of stuff from one without a license. Getting a license does not change anything, except that the salesman himself has subscribed to certain regulations. It is something like getting a license to drive a car, something which of itself does not make the holder a better driver than he was before. Or more careful.

There may be a degree of protection today which did not previously exist, and high pressure methods have been stopped, but it is possible to get loaded with undesirable securities today, and there are plenty of people in our own city who can bear testimony to that unpleasant fact.

NOTE AND COMMENT

There is one question which should be fairly answered—who is asking for a wide-open Sunday in this province?

Uncle Sam has put a ban on bombs and airplanes for the Japanese. The scrap iron business, however, is still going ahead.

Germany admits there is a serious shortage of coffee in the Reich. That should give the German people grounds for complaint.

New invention will make newspaper out of straw. Fitting enough as there is generally plenty of chaff printed in the things.

We noticed a report from St. Thomas where a man of 54 years was referred to as a retired farmer. What else had he been doing?

A Mineola, N.Y., report says that 58 per cent. of motorists who drive late at night have been imbibing. The margin of safety we feel justified in asserting is too small.

Mayor Hamilton forecasts a reduced tax rate and we have an idea that no citizen will seek an injunction to prevent the council from acting in the direction indicated.

Alberta man who has been corresponding with a girl for eleven years has finally asked her to marry him. Possibly he has not heard of that old proverb about "Marry in haste, etc."

Windsor police, seeing a man stealing a bag of flour from a store, opened fire and shot the heel off his shoe. Such marksmanship should not be overlooked when selecting the next Bisley team.

Four prisoners who escaped from Burwash were absent 14 hours, during which they walked 12 miles along the railway tracks. And for that they will probably serve a couple of years extra time. The old idea of escaping from prison worked better in story books than in real life.

New rule in Russia is that a worker who is 20 minutes late arriving shall be discharged. That may be hard, but we can recall places in this land of the free where it was as much as a man's life was worth to allow his city editor to see him crawling in 20 minutes behind.

Windsor is mad because it has been left off the royal trip list and North Bay is also mad for the same reason, and St. Thomas cannot understand why the King and Queen are not to see the place where Jumbo was killed. After sanctioning that route list for the visit of Their Majesties we cannot understand how Prime Minister King expects to get re-elected.

ON THE TENTH

¶ When I lived on Concession Ten, along with good and kindly men, we never locked the door; when in the morning down we came, why everything was just the same, like what it was before.

¶ We never used to lock the barn, knew nothing there would suffer harm, no one would steal a cow; there were no wild and roving men, to come and take the speckled hen, or swipe the fatted sow.

¶ But since I came away from there, it seems a changed and worse affair, not like it was before; before we douse the lights at night, we see that everything is right each window and each door.

¶ And folk will listen and they'll shake, feel safer when they lie awake, glad when the night is through; they fear a burglar man will come, and have with him a nasty gun, steal all the silver too.

¶ It's different in the country too, beats all the rotten things they do, when bad men get about; steal turkeys, geese and weanlings too, and then before they get it through, they'll clean the hen house out.

¶ It's not quite like it used to be, and that is plain enough to me, too many stealing men; I'd like to settle down once more, where it is like it was before —upon Concession Ten.

Slaves, in ancient Rome, were given caps when they were set free. Until such time they went bareheaded.

1927 was the last good year the cap industry enjoyed in the United States. Cap manufacturing was hard hit when the gangster cycle of films caused caps to fall into disrepute; sales fell off two-thirds.

John Hetherington invented the high silk hat and wore one on a coday in 1797. Crowds pushed about him till women fainted in the rush. Dogs clamored. A child's arm was broken. Hetherington was seized by policemen and taken to prison on the charge of inciting to riot. The authorities said he "wore a tall hat having a luster calculated to frighten timid people."

Men wore their hats to dinner in the 17th century. Samuel Pepys wrote in his famous diary that he got a cold in the head because he removed his hat while eating dinner.

High hats are all made by hand, for no machine has yet been developed which can turn them out satisfactorily. The sale of these hats provides a reliable barometer of economic conditions, falling off during depressions, picking up when conditions improve.

Patents have been granted for hats that tip themselves, and for hats that shine in the dark.

Mourning and marriage are indicated by hat styles among the natives of Korea, in China. A mourner wears a hat entirely concealing the face; the married man has a black hat showing his face under an openwork brim.

An English judge recently postponed a court session till a bareheaded woman witness could go out and purchase a hat. He said being hatless causes a woman to appear too undignified in court. An American jurist—on almost the same date — announced that women jurors must remove their hats to maintain the dignity of the court.

MARRIAGE IDEAS

A questionnaire was sent out by the Marital Relations Institute of New York City to some 18,000 applicants for marriage licenses, asking why they were marrying. Strangely enough, 119 men said they were marrying for "financial security." Barely half said they were "marrying for love." Other reasons given for marrying were: children, social prestige, companionship, sympathy, and understanding.

At least half of the marriages taking place throughout the world today are not preceded by courtship or inspired by mutual love. They are family alliances arranged by parents.

The various states recognize 26 grounds for divorce; a recent survey shows 206 reasons for marriage.

In Greece it is not customary for sons to marry before all the girls in the family have been wedded. The sons help provide the trousseaux for their sisters and in this manner speed their marriage.

Dr. Hornell Hart, in his book, "Personality and the Family," says that during the period of courtship young people should see each other under unfavorable conditions, instead of only meeting during hours of pleasure and relaxation. To guarantee greater happiness in married life, they should even breakfast together, for then one or the other—or both—may be irritable.

In Philadelphia there are six men who have formed a Brothers-in-Law Association. They are married to the six Carson sisters. Every Friday night they meet to discuss ways and means—of getting along with their wives.

A University of Illinois professor, after studying the background of over 500 married couples, declares that the fewer parents a married couple has living, the better their chances for wedded happiness.

Young girls of certain American Indian tribes were given in marriage in exchange for horses.

It is customary in certain portions of Persia for priests of the Mohammedan faith to grant religious permission to temporary marriages of only a few hours duration.

DEATH IN THE PULPIT.

Two brothers, James and George Miller, grew up in Greenbank, Ont. James taught the public school and was superintendent of the Sunday school. In both offices he was succeeded by George. James became a salesman and George took over the work when James went to college. On through the university and Knox College George followed James. The older brother has done city mission and social service work in Toronto, while George served in Knox Church, Toronto, then in Brandon, Fort Frances, and Ingersoll. A student of philosophy, a temperance leader, a thoughtful preacher, the confidential adviser of hundreds who trusted him. Dr. George Miller was an influence for good. His scientific interests brought him the degree of F.R.G.S. For several months he was laid aside by illness. Preaching his first sermon as minister in Tillsonburg, he died in the pulpit uttering these last words: "What the world needs is Christ."—The New Outlook.

• Here's A Nice Point To Argue

NOW, here is a controversy in which I can throw myself with enthusiasm.

A correspondent writing to the New York Times says he has called the Postmaster General, Mr. Farley, severely to account because of "a glaring error in grammar on the one-and-one-half-cent stamp".

The point is that the stamp says 1 1-2 cents. That P. R. M. has got the Post Office jumbled up is clear, for he reports that he has a letter from the assistant Postmaster General admitting that from a technical viewpoint he is "probably" correct and that the matter will be looked into further "before another series of 1 1-2 cent stamps in designed".

I hope the Postmaster General and his assistants, unto the third and fourth degree, will not retreat from their position.

The objection says the Baltimore Sun, is that they have used the plural form of the noun cent.

Now, what is plural? All the dictionaries I have ever heard of say that plural means "more than one".

If one and a half isn't more than one, then two and two make five and all arithmeticians are lunatics and have been since the beginning of time.

It is proper, of course, to say "a cent and a half", but it isn't only improper, it is downright idiotic, to say "one and a half cent", and if Jim Farley is half a man he'll stand pat.

• None Of The Lines Made Money

F. W. FAIRWEATHER, chief of Research and Development for the C. N. R., in a recent statement discussed reasons for the deficits credited to the railway. He is reported as follows:

At this point might be asked, Mr. Fairweather amplified, that if the Canadian National plays such a large part in the country's development and substantially more than any other railway in Canada, why does it have a deficit? To answer that question he drew attention to conditions which prevailed when the Canadian National was organized out of financially impoverished privately-owned roads. In 1920, there was an operating deficit of $35,000,000 and this figure did not include interest charges upon any of the outstanding capital.

It was precisely on account of the component parts of the system being unable to show a profit that they fell into the hands of the Government and became organized into the Canadian National system.

"I may say that since 1923 the Canadian National has always paid its operating expenses and that the deficits which have arisen since that year have always been from fixed charges and are independent of the volume of business done.

"It is impossible for a railway to cover interest charges if a large portion of invested capital is in the form of funded debt and traffic is at a low level. If, however, an efficiently operated railway, with its slim earnings per mile should receive an increase in traffic, it should respond quickly and be capable of showing a larger surplus over operation expenses."

• Reaching Out For More Taxation

OTTAWA'S Assessment Department, which works on the authority of an act of the Ontario Legislature, is endeavoring to collect business taxes from many sources which hitherto have not been assessed in this respect. They are proceeding to assess "contractors", hairdressers, milliners, dressmakers, masseurs, furriers, music teachers and others who carry on their little businesses in their homes and, in some cases at least, are endeavoring to collect three year's arrears.

The tax is based on 15 percent. of the assessed value of the property occupied. That is, explains the Ottawa Journal, if the "little fellow" doing a house business in furs or hats works in a place assessed at $3,000 he would pay a tax on 15 percent. of that figure, or $450. His tax would be at the current civic rate, and he would pay about $18 a year. To meet a bill for three years' arrears of over $50 might be a real hardship.

The position taken by the Assessment Department is that it proposes now to carry out the terms of the Ontario Assessment Act in this regard. As that is not a new act perhaps we may infer there has been some winking at its provisions in the past. These little one-room businesses have not sprung up overnight. That being the case, it might serve the purpose if notice were given that henceforth—from the beginning of 1939—the business tax will be applied rigidly in all such cases. Those engaged in these businesses then would be fully acquainted with their obligations, and would have to make provision for the tax.

Firms and individuals in established offices, paying high taxes, obviously have a grievance if they must meet untaxed competition from a host of "little fellows" who in the aggregate must account for a considerable part of the public expenditure in services of many kinds. That is one side of the problem. On the other side is the fact that a small house business may support a family, preserves its independence, saves it from hardship or charity.

Considering all these factors, we should say substantial justice would be achieved by making the tax for these house businesses applicable in the future but not in the past. The act makes it retroactive, it is true, but it seems that the act has been applied with some latitude in the past and it might be well to use some discretion in turning over a new leaf.

WHAT OWLS DO.

OWLS slip up on their prey on silent wings—the feathers being fringed with down to render them noiseless. Once the bird's strong talons have secured a grip on an animal's flesh, the creature seldom escapes.

Birds are able to see at least 100 times as well as can human beings —yet they cannot see the color blue.

Half the weight of a bird consists of the muscles that move the wings.

As many as 3,000 skulls of mice, rats and gophers have been found underneath the nests of barn owls. These birds consume small creatures in their entirety, later coughing up the bones and fur.

Of all living creatures, birds possess most active respiration and require the most oxygen. The reason is that the air they inhale is sent from their lungs into pockets surrounding their internal organs, and even into the inside of some of their bones.

AN APOLOGY.

——At this time it seems in order to issue a great general apology to Dowager Queen Mary of England, whose hats for many years were the subject of coarse humor in the United States. Astonishing jumbles of cheesecloth, feathers, wire and apples they were, to be sure, but, looking back at the Queen Mary models over the gruesome things seen in the cities of the U. S. A. today, any fair person must acknowledge them as majestic, lovely adornments which most American victims of the present style could copy with a gain of beauty, dignity and comfort.—Westbrook Pegler, Columnist.

THE THIRD EGG.

——In these parts stories about cooks are understood ipso facto to concern colored people, usually female. Therefore, it was a novelty to me when the other evening I heard an anecdote about a cook who turned out to be a Chinese. It appears that some years ago this Chinese cook was making a cake. He broke an egg, which was all right; another egg, which was also all right, and then a third egg, which was bad. Ever since, his employer told me, he always throws away the third egg without so much as cracking it. Some theory regarding devils, as I got it.—Baltimore Sun.

To The Editor

HARDSHIP

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Would you kindly allow me space in your newspaper to voice a protest to our City Council on the proposed advance payments of taxes for 1939?

I know that I am by no means the only taxpayer in this city who must practice the most careful budgeting and the strictest economy and to whom the advance of a month in the time set for the payment of taxes would mean a definite hardship without further punishing by fines for what one finds impossible to do.

Thanking you, Sincerely,
TRYING-TO-MAKE-IT-GO.

Up went a small hand. "Please, sir, pious."

A STITCH IN TIME . . .

Wills too often are thought of as final, when as a matter of fact they need periodic revision. Births, deaths, your children's marriages, a change in your business, the purchase of a new house; any of these may make your Will obsolete to a greater or less degree. ¶ The officers of the Toronto General Trusts, through long experience as executors and trustees, can give you practical assistance in re-considering your Will. They will be glad to estimate the probable amount of your Succession Duties and to explore with you the most workable solutions to your current estate problems. Such consultations place you under no obligation. ¶ Among the many matters demanding your attention in the new year, give first place to reviewing your Will in the interests of your family and estate. You will be well advised to entrust the drafting of any codicils to your Will, or the revision of it, to your solicitor.

Voluntary Subscription Plan Is Mooted For Artificial Ice Arena To Be Built In City

Dreams of an artificial ice palace and auditorium with a seating capacity of 5,000 which have been cherished in the mind of every sports follower in the city and district during the last decade are closer to realization today than at any time since the agitation for such a building started.

A small committee which came together about a year ago to devise ways and means of raising the money for the building have decided to take the bull by the horns in a final effort to get the project underway. At a meeting held recently it was learned unofficially that the committee approved of a plan of voluntary subscription to obtain the nucleus of the $120,000 believed necessary to finance the building of the combination ice palace and auditorium.

The suggestion was made at the meeting that a canvass could be made of every factory and business office in the city and every employee would be asked to make a donation to the fund. Employers of labor, factory heads and leading business men would be approached also to contribute as much as their finances would permit to get the fund underway. At the same time a sub committee would be detailed to lay the plan before the old boys of Peterborough who have moved away and made their fortunes in other parts of the continent, seeking financial aid from them. In this way it is believed that $50,000 might be raised.

Approach Governments

The committee also intend to made representations to the Federal and Provincial Governments asking that each appropriate at least $30,000 to the fund. Already members of the committee are known to have been received by J. J. Duffus, M.P., where the plan was discussed.

Mr. Duffus when asked if the plan was feasible remarked that "In the past there has been instances where the Federal and Provincial Governments have teamed up with City Councils to finance similar projects," but beyond making that statement he would not go, and the answer given the delegates from the committee has not been made public.

A usually reliable news source revealed today that a former well known Peterborough man had promised some time ago that he would gladly contribute the sum of $10,000 for the purpose of seeing this city build an artificial ice arena, and it is believed there are others who would come through handsomely.

The committee also considered the angle that the building of the arena could be let to a local firm and a hard and fast rule of employing local labor on the project be followed with direct benefit accruing to the city.

At the present time it is understood that many of those interested feel the building should be placed in the Exhibition Grounds because in so doing, the building should be used for exhibition purposes and would therefore be exempt from taxation, which is an important factor. If it would be used for exhibition purposes it is believed the committee should have little trouble securing assistance from the Provincial government, which in the past has given every encouragement to the directors of class A fairs and the smaller exhibitions. It was pointed out today that Peterborough Exhibition one of the four class A fairs in the province is the only one of the four which has no refrigeration equipment to properly accommodate dairy products. This would be afforded by placing the arena in the Exhibition Grounds.

Auditoriums Too Small

It was also mentioned during the discussions that there is no auditorium in the city large enough to accommodate a political mass meeting, nor one which might be used as a banquet hall in the event of a convention being held in Peterborough. When the A.Y.P.A. delegates, 400 strong visited the city last October it was impossible to seat all at any one banquet. The auditorium might very easily be used as a ball room during the late summer or early autumn, according to other interested citizens.

There is also a faction in the city who feel the building should be placed on Point St. Charles and others who maintain it should be centrally located uptown.

One enthusiastic sports follower in discussing the arena said the lacrosse club drew 1,500 people to games at the new arena on Townsend street and the people would not hesitate to attend games at the Exhibition Grounds. He added that "the majority of sport fans live south of Charlotte street anyways."

Exhibition officials are interested in having the building on the grounds because they claim the Exhibition has suffered heavy losses in the past when rain kept the attendance down and this could be avoided if a building such as is contemplated was built. The exhibition could go on with the spectators seated comfortably in the arena, and the various events run off on the space reserved in the enclosure.

During the past year St. Catharines and Owen Sound with populations of 25,000 and 13,000 respectively both built artificial ice arenas. Oshawa, Kingston and most of the other cities of a similar size to Peterborough have artificial ice.

Artificial Ice Needed

Roland Denne, former mayor said Peterborough must have artificial ice if it hopes to retain its place as a hockey centre and a progressive town. Peterborough has produced some fine hockey players and teams but it is discouraging for the boys to enter a game and play their hearts out against a team that has had two months practice on artificial ice while the locals probably were lucky if they had one or two practices.

It is generally believed among sports followers that only one quarter of the people interested in hockey in this district attend the games because the accommodation is inadequate and old fashioned. In an artificial ice arena fans enjoy every comfort and rarely complain of the cold.

No permanent committees have been named as yet and it is believed that the provisional committee named last year will do all the preliminary work before calling a public meeting and outlining their plans. At the present time they refuse to make any statements except to remark that the men are quietly investigating every angle to the proposition and all on the committee are enthused and optimistic for the success of the venture in 1939.

Can Talk Without Fear

Dr. Heinrich Weiss, former chief rabbi of lower Austria, is shown with his wife, Jukia, and their two children, David and Friede, as they arrived in New York aboard the S.S. Pennland. Dr. Weiss, who was an Austrian army chaplain, was thrice arrested by Nazis because of his close friendship with the former Chancellor Kurt von Schusschnig. He defied an order to remain in the new German state and fled with his family to Czecho-Slovakia and thence to Belgium. On arrival in New York, said he: "Am I really in the United States? Can I talk now without fear?"

Collegiate Notes

BASKETBALL.

The C.O.S.S.A. loop sport circuit opens here on Friday night when the senior boys' and girls' teams play hosts toi Lindsay in two well-matched games. The first game is at 7, while the senior girls play at 8.15. The only other team in the school is the junior boys, coached by Mr. H. A. Craig. The juniors are inactive this week. The senior girls' team is again coached by Mis D. E. F. Brisbin, while Mr. H. L. Bamforth looks after the senior lads.

All three teams have been practising since before Christmas and are out to win, despite the date being Friday the thirteenth. At the time of writing the line-up for the girls' team is unavailable, but it is expected that Coach Bamforth's team will feature such forwards as Taylor Cutting, Bill Ferguson, with Johnston, Bob Ferguson, and Gillespie on guard duty.

Noted that a request has been sent to the Board of Education for new backboards and hoops of the gym, along with some other equipment. Whether this is a follow-up of our suggestion of a few weeks back or not we don't know, but it is a needed change.

The basketball games on Friday ill be followed by a dance in the gym. The admission is only 15c, so come on, Beau Brummel, date up now and enjoy a real evening's fun Thank you.

Support the teams. They represent you, and are yours.

MOTION PICTURES.

The student body of P.C.I. was taken on a twenty-minute sightseeing trip around Ottawa last week through the medium of a talking picture. Among the places visited were the Peace Tower, Royal Mint, and various buildings having to do with the administration of justice in this country. The film was entitled "The Westminster of the West," and depicted many interesting and historical places. The picture was another in the series of Wednesday educational pictures to be shown in the morning assemblies.

It would be interesting as well as educational to make these a weekly feature, Mr. Henry.

ECHOES.

Volumes 1 and 2 of the Echoes, P.C.I.'s school magazine, are still missing. It is necessary to have these two copies in order to compile a complete anniversary edition. This is the silver anniversary of our prize-winning magazine, and it must be the best ever. Managing editor Bob Hamilton and his staff of journalists are working nightly in order to complete this edition at an early date.

The literary contest for the Middle and Upper Schools closed this week after the extension of the closing date for a few days. The competition for the lower forms will soon be over and a great many more contributions are needed.

HISTORY.

History was again made last December when more than six hundred and fifty pupils and graduates gathered in the well decorated school gymnasium for the twenty-eighth annual "At Home." The music was provided by Jerry Wooll and his orchestra, who did a fine job indeed of "putting over" the affair.

Again this year, as in the past, the decorations were fitting and artistic Much credit is due those who helped whether it was holding pins or doing the teachers' caricatures that adorned the wall. Those responsibe for the decorating were Miss Margaret Westbye, secretary of the Students' Council, Doris Glover, Jack Roper, Jim Harvey, Ken Gillespie, and A. Hertsthorne.

Three suppers were necessary in order to accommodate the large crowd. We only saw one bird all night.

MORNING ENTERTAINMENT.

This feature has again come into light. Last week a remarkable piano solo by David B. Rogers of Form V. was heard. Dave played Benjamin Godard's "Valse Chromatique," and received a hearty ovation from the student body. Later a harmonica and guitar solo was rendered by a First Form student. His selections included "The Butcher Boy" and "To-pi-tin," two recently popular songs.

EXAMINATIONS

Again this unpleasant subject crops up. For those who are fortunate enough to have reached middle or upper school but who are unfortunate enough to have to study to obtain that elusive fifty or better—trouble begins the end of this month. The second and first form examinations were held before Christmas and the students are now standing by for further information.

CADETS

The officers training course is being held regularly in the Armouries under Serg.-Maj. Frape of the Prince of Wales Rangers and a fair number of cadets are turning out to these drills but all those who hope to be officers must appear and pass an examination before getting their commission.

The signallers (morse and semaphore) are meeting regularly under the supervision of Jimmy Lillico. The bugle band seems to have temporarily disbanded, the blast of bugles and roll of drums not having been heard for several weeks now. What's the matter, Noel?

CAMPUS FLASHES

Bobby Parnall, starry middle wing of last fall's P.C.I. senior football team notched a couple of counters when he made his debut as an O.H.A. player with the Peterborough Colts against St. Mike's Buzzers last week. He also received a severe gash over one eye. . . There are several other P.C.I. students on the same team, Ward, the King brothers, Foster and others. To tend to make it a complete P.C.I. aggregation it is coached by Mr. Bill Jackson of the teaching staff. ..... The financial statement of the Hamilton Jones travelogue held last November 24 wa srendered by treasurer James Sands of the Students Council.... A profit of Something over one hundred dollars was shown .... The caricatures for the "At Home" were done by Miss Doris Glover, Jack Roper and A. Hertsthorne and showed all the teachers of the school. These caricatures were very well done and showed the teachers in characteristic array . . .

Some cold weather should bring about practices for the C.O.S.S.A. hockey entry from P.C.I. So far no practices have been held and it is impossible to get a line on a team. However, it is understood that O.H.A. players attending school are eligible. P.C.I. boasts several as well as an O.H.A. coach. . . . Just remembered, "Happy New Year"—better late than never .... Beginning this week and continuing from then on your "Collegiate Notes" will appear in the Peterborough Examiner on Wednesday nights instead of Saturday, as previously.—P.H.T.

Marmora District's Oldest Pioneer Hugh Shannon Passes 86 Mark

MARMORA, Jan. 11. — Hugh Shannon, probably the oldest resident of the Marmora district, celebrated his 86th birthday on Tuesday.

Mr. Shannon is the second youngest and only surviving member of the family of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Shannon, pioneer settlers in Marmora township. He was born on the farm four miles north of Marmora village, where he still resides with his eldest son, Donald, and family. Fifty-nine years ago he married Miss Josephine Taillon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Taillon, who passed away a little over a year ago.

In spite of his advanced age Mr. Shannon is enjoying the best of health and goes about his daily duties as usual, besides being a regular attendant at Mass at the Sacred Heart church.

For most of his life, he has followed the occupation of farming, but for a period turned to the carpentering trade and helped in the erection of business blocks and residences in Marmora as well as in the erection of houses and buildings at Deloro.

Pleasant Memories.

He possesses a very keen memory and his reminiscences of Marmora's early days have been enjoyed by listeners and by readers when narrated in the press. He particularly enjoys the remembrance of an occasion in the early sixties when prizes were awarded dutiful scholars of the eight schools in Marmora township. Thirty books in all were given as prizes to the best scholars, and Beaver Creek school, attended by Hugh Shannon with the late John Irwin as teacher, carried off 22 prizes of the number given. The late Magnus Fidler, a well-known farmer of the same section, drove the 22 pupils of Beaver Creek school on a lumber wagon to Marmora Town Hall, where the prizes were awarded. Mr. Shannon smiles at the thought of pupils of this age traveling by that means of transportation. He was one of the 22 recipients and still treasures the book which he was awarded so long ago.

Another treasurer possession is a horse pistol with flint lock which was given him by his uncle, the late John Hughes, who carried the weapon in the rebellion of 1837 while carrying dispatches. Another relic of bygone days in his possession is a sword cane which was formerly owned by an Englishman residing in Belleville.

Another interesting souvenir yellowed with age but with print still distinguishable, is a copy of the Christian Guardian of the year 1835.

Mr. Shannon celebrated his 86th birthday quietly at his home with his immediate relatives who live at his home and nearby. His children are Mrs. Louise McGrath and Mrs. L. P. Hughes, Marmora township; Donald, at home; Mrs. E. J. Munn, Timmins; Mrs. H. R. Keast, Copper Cliff, and Mrs. M. Skelly, Rochester, N.Y. There are also 22 grandchildren.

A host of friends join in congratulating Mr. Shannon on passing another milestone of life.

Inquest Is Deferred Into Two Deaths

LINDSAY, Jan. 11.—No definite date has been set for the inquest into the deaths of Albert Young and Richard Cornelius, Brock Township residents, who were killed Monday when their car crashed into a truck near Sunderland, Coroner Dr. Oliver of Sunderland said last night.

The coroner said that a consultation between Crown Attorney Alan Annis of Oshawa, Provincial Constable Yuile and County Constable Reid of Beaverton, and himself had been held yesterday and it was decided not to call the inquest until John Tindall, third person in the death car, is released from the Ross Memorial Hospital here.

Tindall is the only eyewitness to the crash, except the driver of the truck, Samuel Ray. According to Dr. Oliver, Tindall is a transient who had been staying with the aged Indian, Cornelius, for about a week.

Yanks Counting On Gehrig For One Season

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (AP)—The champion New York Yankees are counting upon Lou Gehrig to play reguar first base for only one more season, or two at the outside, so their scouts and minor league managers are under orders to come up with a slugging replacement for the 35-year-old "Iron Man."

At present there are four prospects o ntap, with Tommy Henrich, the club's hard-hitting right-fielder, more than likely to be converted into Gehrig's successor.

The only flaw in this plan is that the Yankees might not be able to spare Tommy from their outfield. It all depends upon how well Charley Keller, the brilliant youngster from Newark, lives up to his press notices.

As additional insurance against the day when Gehrig's legs finally crack under the strain of playing so many consecutive games, the Yanks scouts have reported enthusiastically on three of Colonel Ruppert's chattels. They are Ed Levy, who was with Binghampton last year; Johnny Sturm, who was at Louisville on option, and Leonard Gabrielson, who slugged the ball for Seattle.

Meanwhile Lou is devoting his days to fishing out in Long Island Sound and preparing to play 154 more games this season.

No Hope Is Held For Recovery Of Col. Ruppert

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 — (AP). — Genial Col. Jacob Ruppert, baseball magnate, lay near death to-day in his palatial Fifth Avenue home.

The last rites of the Catholic church were administered, and attending physicians said there was no hope for recovery for the 71-year-old owner of the world champion New York Yankees.

But the stout little bachelor sportsman, who had made one of the biggest fortunes in the United States—in brewing, baseball and real estate—fought strongly against an attack of phebelitis that has kept him from his office for nine months.

The multi-millicnaire's brother George and members of the family had been summoned to his bedside.

Besides his chain of baseball properties, valued at more than $15,000,000, Ruppert owns a $35,000,000 brewery business—one of the largest in the world—a real estate holdings in New York second only to the Astor family.

Associates have estimated his fortune at between $70,000,000 and $100,000,000.

Church Boys' League Plans Hockey Team

HAVELOCK, Jan. 11.—A full attendance was had at the initial meeting of the Church Boys' League of St. John's Church, for the new year, when they met on Friday evening in the church basement.

Following the routine opening exercises their leader, H. W. Roche, gave a talk during the devotional period, on "The Lord's Prayer," pointing out the two divisions, the first being one's duty and praise to God and the second one's duty to their fellowmen.

Secretary Merle Clark reported that he had complied with the members' request in distributing Christmas cheer to two invalid boys. Treasurer E. Fleming reported that all acounts had been paid and a bank balance of $3.61 remained on hand.

Rev. R. E. Lemon, present a few moments during the meeting, addressed the boys on their obligation to the league, and appealed to them to support the work sincerely and regularly.

Considerable discusion ensued regarding the forming of a hockey team to compete in a juvenile church league of Havelock and Norwood. Howard and David Lemon, representatives from Norwood advised the league of what was being accomplished in their village, and it is expected that a team will be organized by the local group under the guidance of Mr. Noel Lade. In order to raise funds it was proposed to hold a picture in the church basement, in the near future. The remainder of the meeting was spent in sing-song and group games.

HOW TO SKI

By FRITZ LOOSLI
Instructor Toronto Ski Club

SNOW PLOW POSITION
The Knees Should Be Well Bent Forward With the Body Leaning Forward Only Slightly.

TEMPO RHYTHM

Rhythm and perfect co-ordination in Tempo running are only attained through hard and systematic work and training. To skiers interested in taking up this modern form of skiing, it is advisable to begin with the Snow Plow and Stem turn in order to get the proper foundation of more advanced technique.

It is surprising how few skiers can Snow Plow and Stem properly. Hanes Schneider, world famous ski insructor, and Otto Schniebs, for years coach at Dartmouth, both realized the necessity for advanced skiers to have the fundamentals of the Stem well taught before attempting to try further advanced technique.

Change Positions

When practising the Snow Plow, in order to get rhythm right from the beginning, change the Snow Plow position to a parallel position, alternating the two positions during the whole down hill run. The change of position should be smooth and every change evenly timed. The purpose of this exercise being not to try to stop, but merely a ryhthmic practice. The skis should be kept almost flat on the snow when taking the Snow Plow position. When the skis are in a parallel position, have the body fairly erect and then bend the knees forward when taking the Snow Plow position. This is the first step in trying the bobbing motion so useful in Tempo turns. Practise this for 10 or 15 minutes, alternating with the pure Stem or "STEMBOGEN."

The Stembogen is a succession of left and right turns, remaining in the Snow Plow position while turning. The turns should be short and frequent with the weight of the body on the outer ski, that is, on the left ski for a right turn, and on the right for a left turn. The inside ski should be kept flat on the snow to allow turning, with the knees well bent, rather than body leaning too much forward. The hips and shoulders should rotate smoothly.

Lifted Stem

The lifted Stem with pole, which follows the Stembogen, should receive great care and much practice.

Taking the Stem position, allow the outer ski to slide half-way around with the weight well outside. When the inner ski starts to slide, drop the inside pole on the snow slightly above and back of the inner tip of the ski, transferring what weight is left on the inner ski to the pole. Raise the ski off the snow and bring it parallel with the outer ski.

A slight bending of the knees when the skis are brought parallel will make the turn smoother and more graceful.

Tempo and rhythm will be continued in the next article

NEW YORK, Jan. 11—(AP).—While the Duke University football special was rolling eastward from Pasadena, a fan paid the Blue Devils a buck apiece for their autographs. ....Does that make 'em pros?.... Note to the girls: Max Baer is as gorgeous as ever....Benny Leonard, who has gone in for refereeing on a wholesale scale, will hop from Hartford, Conn., to Hobbs, N.M., there to handle a three-day amateur tournament....If you don't believe Van Mungo is in the Dodger doghouse, just listen to Larry MacPhail: "Mungo figures less prominently in our pitching plans this year than he has since he has been on the Brooklyn club."....are you listenin', Van?

Last week the New York boxing commission announced it was so often misquoted in the press it would henceforth issue mimeographed minutes of its weekly meetings.... Today's initial mimeograph effort began: "Hymie Caplin, manager of Sixto Escobar....." The manager of Escobar happens to be Lou Brix.... Red Barber is to be brought in from Cincinnati for one of three broadcasting jobs here next season. Babe Ruth is not being considered for either of the others.

What is the football situation at Pittsburgh University? Is that talk of a wholesale exodus of 1938 freshmen still going on? SPORTS DAY BY DAY

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

'Tis junior night this p.m. at the Brock with our local squads lambasting each other about in their first clash this season. Colts and Monarchs haven't too much love for each other—what with disputes o'er players, schedule dates and what not—so they'll each turn it on in a desperate attempt to cop the duke. There are plenty of good junior puckists on each team and folks can bank on a real scrap this time. The Monarchs will trot out several new lads and they promise to pin back the Colts' ears or know the reason why not. And the latter outfit expect to have a new husky on the rearguard this eve, one Bert Howden who bumps the beam at a mere 220 pounds! Just another Johnny Ferraro, but he can skate too. All of which sounds most intriguing.

* * * * * *

In case you puck fans have forgotten who plays for whom, here are some o fthe Monarchs' players: Morrison, Beggs, Giardino, Cauley, Nicholls, Rochetti, Connelly, DeCarlo, Vitarelli, Gillespie and maybe Mortimer and another one or two. And the Colts' cast includes: Cournyea, Wade, King, Parnell, Williams, Craig, Foster, Stewart, Howden, and so on. Junior puck-chasers turn on the heat in their tilts and dish up heaps of sizzling action, and tonight's all-local O.H.A. tussle should be even hotter than usual; it rates a raft of cash customers, and no kidding.

* * * * * *

Seven Feet Around

Speaking of big lads, the amazing and ever original pro mat game has dug up another—this time a 647-pound grunter named Martin Levy. He is hardly six feet tall and is seven feet in girth! Was on a pro card last night in Windsor. Just imagine a baby that blots out the scenery with a seven-foot measurement around the waist—oboyoboyoboy, what a middle! Whether or not this gee can rassle, or merely waddle, matters not in the merry mat business, and we are vastly intrigued with the possibilities of such a huge cluck. We'd like to see local sports interests have him shipped here in a flat car and derricked onto the sports' scene.

* * * * * *

There is no doubt at all but the Petes could use a 647-pound slob on defence, if the ice is solid. His displacement in cubic feet of air would be invaluable and rival puck carriers would face a great handicap in pacing off such a big detour when heading for the cord citadel of the locals. Or park him at first for the Petes in ball and what a target he'd be for jittery infielders to peg at. And with his gargantuan corporation hanging o'er the platter at bat, he'd draw a walk or a hit-by-pitcher every trip. Orfuns could use him on one side of the line and bolster the other side or the secondary with the extra gridders, eh? The chances of using this giant with the big equator in sports here are unlimited, and he'd be worth easily five cents per pound per week locally, don't ya think?

Rah, Rah, Redmen!

Belleville Redmen open the O.H.A. "B" series here with the Petes this Friday night, and the draw prizes will be announced then, too. Programs will announce lineups with players' numbers. Quinte crew this year — and Skipper Thomas thinks they're a shoo-in for the group title—includes: Goalie Watt (and watt a guy he is !), Bentley and Speedy St. Louis on the back fence, Barriage and the Jackson twins up front, while McCreary, McElrath, Larry Goyer (the ex-pro), Storms and Robinson are alternates. It's a good gang with a lot of biff in that getup—and one-punch Speedy looks like he'll throw a lotta punches the Petes' way this winter again. The locals are honing up their hooks and uppercuts this week in readiness for the fray.

* * * * * *

With folks here becoming interestedl in the proposal to build an artificial ice arena soon in Peterborough, a few facts on the fine new arena in St. Catharines might be timely. It was built in four months the past fall at a cost of $91,000 on city property. It will seat a little over 3,000 patrons with standing room for another 1,200. It was built under the supervision of the City Engineer and, being virtually fire-proof, gets a low fire insurance rate. Seats were installed on concrete decks and look down upon a 190 by 80 foot ice area. Various color schemes lighten up the interior of the place and a powerful lighting system is in effect. In most cases during construction of this excellent miniature Maple Leaf Gardens, contracts were let to St. Kitts' firms and St. Kitts' workers employed. The rink is a credit to that community.

Words Of Tribute

Oshawa columnist comments: "Oshawa baseball fans, oldtime and present players, learned with regret of the sudden passing of P. A. (Shiner) Johnston of Peterborough, who succumbed to a heart attack Sunday. He was well known throughout Ontario and especially here in Oshawa. He played ball with Peterborough's good teams for years, later acted as manager and coach, was also a C.O.B.L. umpire, and he was manager of the Petes as late as three years ago. Ted Johnston, local druggist, is a nephew.' We might add that Shiner, who was buried today in Toronto, played the odd game when he was 48 years old—just three years ago!

* * * * * *

This from Belleville: "Ball fans in Central Ontario will be shocked to hear of the death of Percy A. (Shiner) Johnston, veteran ball player of Peterborough, coach, manager and umpire. Shine, as he was known, was suddenly stricken with a heart attack Sunday night following his customary Sunday motor drive. In the old C.O.B.L. days, the names of Shiner Johnston and Jake Solomon were bywords and coupled together like ham is with eggs. One season Shine played for Belleville and got a great kick out of ribbing the home town fans, whenever possible. He was always a battler, playing the game for the games sake. Shiner was in his heyday a diamond star when he played semi-pro in Toronto prior to the Central League. But he always gave such players as the Mills boys, Fred Goyer, Duke Dainty, Teddy Gallagher and Jack Williams plenty of trouble. His presence around the Peterborough park will be sadly missed, as he was always good for the odd wisecrack or snappy comeback."

* * * * * *

Dese, dem and dose: Oshawa's junior "B" team and our Colts must have their playoffs finished by Feb. 5th, says the O.H.A.....Gord Meikle, the star Cobourg gridder, is shopping around for a job with a future to it ....Lindsay puckists play in Omemee this Thursday twilight....Last night's Colts' contest in Cobourg was called off, owing to no ice; a flock of puck frays in this neck of the timber are being postponed lately.... Clarke and Routley may line up with Monarchs here tonight, too, in their tiff with the Colts....Church games were postponed last eve, leaving the loop nine in arrears....These four are listed for Thursday eve: Knox vs. St. Paul's Bantams at six, Park St. Juveniles vs. All Saints at seven, St. John's Juniors vs. Mark St. at eight, and George St. Seniors vs. All Saints at nine....St. Peter's Juveniles have a practice game at seven tonight in the Sacred Heart rink; these players are urged to attend: Garvey, O'Hern, Scriver, Eason, Corkery, O'Toole, Henwood, Davis, Mason, Elliott, Vitarelli, Basciano....A meeting of the O.J.H.A. (juvenile) group is set for here Sat'day, with Lakefield, Lindsay, Campbellford and locals invited.... Adieu; adieu (yeah; give the divil his adieus!).

Scrambling a Scrambled Situation

As if the middleweight situation in the boxing game wasn't already sufficiently muddled, along came Billy Conn, Pittsburg Irishman, to further gum things up by first defeating Solly Krieger, world's champion in sections controlled by the N.B.A., and then Fred Apostoli, rough and tough battler who rules the roose in New York. Both the fights, of course, were non-title affairs, so Billy adds himself to the members of the "uncrowned kings" division. The picture shows Conn connecting with Furious Fred in their recent 10-rounder.

MUSSING UP THE MAPLES

Miss G. Constable made all hands step to keep within sight of her in last night's bowling bee. Trundling in the Merchant's League, Miss Constable turned in three fine games of 226-225-223 for a 674 total.

With D. Abraham ahead of the male performers, three others pumped off over 700 pins each. Abraham's count was 706, J. O'Toole 704 (313); E. Burton 702 ,and T. McArthur 700. For the Bankers, Beechner of the Bank of Montreal, hit 614. In the Merchant's League, following Miss Constable, were B. McMahon 656, L. Reid 647, C. Grant 644, R. Penrose 618, and L. McCormick 603. The Merchants loop gave out a 202 single by Miss M. Allison, McArthur's 700, P McDonald 697, W. Muirhead 628 and K. Lee 612. In the C.G.E., after Burton and Abraham, S. S. Shaughnessy chalked up 653, G. Robertson 650, B. I. Burgess 646, A. Hunter 658, T. Glover 645 and J. Radcliffe 606.

Harwood Skater Has Near Call

HARWOOD, Jan. 11.—A near tragedy occurred on Sunday afternoon when a number of young people were skating on Rice Lake.

While skating near the mouth of a creek, one of the party, Mr. Art Covert, disappeared below the surface of the ice. Fortunately he came to the top at the same spot and found ready hands to aid him to safety. Except for a cold skate home, Art appears none the worse for his ducking.

The Chinese Government will place 300 buses on the Chungking-Kunming highway.

Ruth In The Hospital With Heart Attack Just Laughs It Off

New York, Jan. 11 (AP)

BABE RUTH, baseball's all-time home run king, was under treatment in French Hospital today for a slight heart attack.

Bellowing cheerfully at visitors, the 45-year-old Babe was more worried over the critical illness of his former boss — Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees—than his own ailment.

"Hell, I'm all right," he said. "Just a check up. I've been exercising too much trying to work off this belly."

"I don't know how much I lost," he grinned, "but I'd say about 12 or 15 pounds anyway. Maybe I overdid it."

His physician, Dr. Robert McConnell, was more concerned. He said Ruth would be given further tests during the day and then probably be permitted to return home.

HAMBURG, Germany—(CP). — Hungary, after losing 3-1 to Scotland in an association football game beat Hamburg 2-0 here in another international feature.

Defends Title And Gets Nod In Tough Scrap

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 11 (AP)—Henry Armstrong, champion of the world's welter and lightweight boxers, successfully fought off the challenge of Baby Arizmendi, rugged little Mexican, in their fifth encounter last night.

Like their last two clashes, it was a gruelling battle for 10 rounds that kept more than 10,000 spectators in an uproar, with both fighters standing toe to toe and shoulder to shoulder, Hammerin' Henry emerging the winner by a decisive but hard earned margin.

The Tampico Kid left the ring a beaten man, one side of his face covered with blood and cheers from his countrymen ringing in his ears, but he could point to a record unequalled by anyone else in the fight game.

He had just finished his 52nd round opposite Henry Armstrong with never a knockdown scored against him; nor had he been seriously hurt.

DETROIT, BOSTON AND AMERICANS CAPTURE N. H. L. GAMES

Bruin Youngsters Blast Hawks 3-1; Wings And Americans Blank Canadiens And Rangers

By Alan Randal
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Hockey won't languish so long as good youngsters, like Boston Bruins' ever-quickening supply of sophomores and freshmen, keep coming into the National League and setting a lively pace.

But most of the romance is still being written by the men who have been around awhile, the veterans whose stickhandling and headwork make up for a gradual slackening in speed. They helped build the game to its present proportions but they know better than to try to bask in memories and reputations.

The Bruins's youngsters were on the go again last night, contributing all the goals in a 3-1 victory over Chicago Black Hawks at Boston that lifted their team into a five-point league lead. Yet the night's feature stories were being told on other fronts.

Nels Stewart, the old plodder with the magic wand, whipped an overtime goal past Davie Kerr to give New York Americans a 1-0 win over their intra-city rivals, the Rangers. Americans rose to within two points of the second-place Rangers on the deft thrust of 35-year-old Nels, his 311th score in schedule play since he broke into the league in 1925.

Larry Aurie, a game little leader of Detroit Red Wings in their world championship days of 1935-36-37, came out of semi-retirement as manager of Detroit's International-American League farm club at Pittsburgh to have another fling on the Red Wings' front line. He scored a goal at Detroit and it was enough to defeat Montreal Canadians, for the Wings recorded a 3-0 shutout and beat off the Habitants' challenge for sixth place.

Prediction Goes Haywire

Predictions of Manager Art Ross of the Bruins that the Boston attendance would be cut by 5,000 because Bill Stewart was fired as Chicago manager last week didn't hold good. Stewart was among the 12,000 customers who saw his former charges beaten and only about 4,000 more could have been crammed into the rink.

It was distinctly the Boston kids' night after Earl Robinson scored for Chicago halfway through the first period. Roy Conacher and Jack Crawford, first-year men, scored before the chapter ended to give Bruins a 2-1 lead. After a scoreless second period, featured by a fist-fight between playing Coach Paul Thompson of the Hawks and Assistant Manager Cooney Weiland of the Bruins, Porky Dumart scored for Boston with the aid of Milt Schmidt. Dumart and Schmidt are sophomores from Kitchener, Ont.

Tommy Anderson, a veteran having his best season, started the play for Stewart's money goal, driving the puck into Kerr's pads. "Old Poison" knocked down the rebound with his hand and slapped it into the net. Rangers protested unsuccessfully that Stewart's hand had knocked the rubber over the line. Nearly 14,000 customers saw the keen rivals battle through three periods of scoreless hockey, the main breaks provided by 10 penalties.

Fists swung frequently at Detroit and the crowd was on edge when Aurie provided the night's main thrill, scoring late in the third after Eddie Wares had given Detroit a lead in the second and Scotty Bowman had added to it in the third. After the game, Charlie Conacher rushed from the penalty box, where he was serving a misconduct sentence, to start a fight with Babe Siebert. Other players joined in and it was several minutes before order was restored.

Tiny Thompson's shutout was his second since joining Detroit. Earl Robertson of the Americans got his first of the season.

Remember When—

Montreal's two teams—Maroons and Canadiens—set a National Hockey scoring record one year ago tonight when Maroons defeated the Habitants 11-7. Previous high total for one game since the 1921-22 season was 16 and latest recurrence came Feb. 18, 1935, when Maroons and New York Americans played an 8-all tie at New York.

Juniors Clash Here Tonight

An O.H.A. junior contest is billed for tonight (Wednesday) here when two local squads, the Colts and Monarchs, clash at 8.30 in the Brock St. rink. It will be the first meeting of these Peterborough puck entries so far this season and should be a slambang joust all the way. Considerable rivalry exists between the two clubs, who have been battling over players, nights to play and sundry other matters. The independent Monarchs are a new outfit in O.H.A. ranks this year, while the Colts are the juniors in the Peterborough Hockey Club A fine flock of young puckists adorn each squad and fans can bank on a redhot rousing number when these teams tear into each other in their first clash of the year.

Coach Pete Vitarelli will have several new players with his good Monarchs' bunch—which held a strong Lindsay squad to a tie. In addition to Morrison, Beggs, Giardino, Cauley, Nicholls, Rochetti and Connelly, he will use DeCarlo, Vitarelli, Gillespie and possibly Mortimer and another player. Coach Bill Jackson's Colts include: Cournyea, Wade, King, Parnell, Williams, Craig, Foster, Stewart and a few more, with 220-pound Bert Howden going to make his debut on defence. The game will be a sizzler and should draw a big crowd of hockey fans.

MORE FAN SEATING

LONDON—(CP).—The Football Association Council has approved a scheme for increasing capacity of Wembley Stadium by 6,800. At the next cup final there will be room for 100,517 people—45,592 seated and 54,925 standing.

Ailing Amerks Hold Cot Conference

Red Dutton's rugged band of Americans in the National League are bowling along at a great old clip, but the injury jinx, bugaboo of team hopes in everything from hopscotch to hockey, caught up with them after they went through the first part of the season unhampered. Here are four pieces of ice ivory seen in a New York hospital recently, gathered around the bed of Al Murray, diminutive dynamiter of the team's defence and its most serious casualty. Al is out for the remainder of the season with torn shoulder ligaments. Shaking hands with him as he stands on crutches is Red Beattie, utility forward, out with a leg injury. On the other side are two minor cases, Eddie Wiseman, right wing, LEFT, and Art Chapman, centre.

Trail Defeats Vienna 10-1

VIENNA, Jan. 11.—(CP-Havas)—Trail Smoke Eaters, playing their second game here, last night defeated a Viennese hockey team 10-1. A large crowd witnessed the walkover victory.

It was the eleventh win, without a loss or a tie, for the Allan Cup champions in their European tour.

BRADMAN HITS OUT

ADELAIDE, Australia — (CP). — Playing for Southern Australia state team against a southern districts cricket aggregation in an exhibition game, Don Bradman, Australian Test Cricket captain, made 131 in 63 minutes. His score included 16 fours and two sixes.

Goodyears Whack Sailors Down 7-2 While Brantford Redbirds Bow To Falls' Brights By 9-2

No one ever thinks of old Coney McGowan as a pugilist on the ice. The veteran centre of Port Colborne Sailors is a crafty opportunist who is leading his team in point getting this season.

So fans at Port Colborne sat back in surprise last night when the slim forward traded a few punches with Bobby Laurent, youthful rearguard for Toronto Goodyears, in the final period of an Ontario Hockey Association senior "A" division game won by Toronto 7-2.

It was McGowan's first major penalty this season and possibly his last. He'd rather be on the ice plugging for his team.

In the other senior game, Brantford Red Birds, back on their home ice after a disastrous Eastern United States tour, absorbed a 9-2 drubbing from Niagara Falls Brights. The Birds have won one league game in 12 this season.

The results left Goodyears, undefeated this winter, away out in first place with 23 points. Oshawa, idle last night, runners up with 16. Port Colborne hold third position with 12 points and Niagara Falls are fourth with one less.

It was a sweet victory for coach Joe Primeau's classy Goodyears. Always fearful of the Port Colborne "bandbox," Goodyears trailed 2-1 at the end of the first period. Quick goals by Laurent and Johnny Inglis at the start of the second gave Goodyears a 3-2 edge and then Peanuts O'Flaherty, a Toronto winger, broke up the game with a scoring rash of four succesive goals.

Three in Last Canto.

Irish Johnny's brilliant outburst came on three solo dashes and an assist by Shorty Robinson. Three of the goals came in the final frame and one near the end of the second.

The quartet of counters lifted O'Flaherty, product of Toronto St. Michael's College, into third place in the league's point standing with 21 points, one less than teammate Punch Imlach, who didn't play against the Ports, and four less than the league leader, Les Chisholm, Oshawa. Eddie King was the other Goodyear scorer.

The game showed the good judgment of Primeau, who once centred the famous "Kid Line" of Toronto Maple Leafs. Primeau thought that Inglis, King and O'Flaherty make a good second-string attacking division. The trio proved it by accounting for six of the seven goals in their first game as a unit.

McGowan continued his winter's successful sniping by notching the first Port goal. Another veteran, Doug Runions, shot the other.

Both Brantford goals were scored by Ossie Storer as the weakened home team fought hard. Brant left wingers were at a premium with Bill Allen and Ray Krieger unable to play. Keith Cooper suffered head injuries when he collided with the boards and was ttaken from the game for medical attention. Cubby Cuthbertson, a right winger, plugged the gap from then on.

Swat Mason, Whip Shortt and Steak Morrison, each with two tallies, and Chat Steele, George Grigor and Smack Allan, each with one, were the Falls' marksmen.

Niagara Falls will leave Jan. 24 on a trip that will see them play games against Baltimore, Hershey, Atlantic City and New York, entries in the Eastern United States Amateur League.

Pontiac Carnival Stuck Can't Find Queen Capable Of Skating

Pontiac, Mich., Jan. 11 (CP) SPONSORS of Pontiac's famous carnival faced two problems today and the answer to one of them would be a good-looking Canadian girl who could skate. The other concerns cold weather sufficient to provide ice. With colder weather forecast, the ice seems likely, but so far the promoters have not been able to find a good-looking girl here for queen of the carnival who is able to skate around the rink even once.

Boasting Max Ready To Take Nova And Louis

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (CP). — Sporting a bandanna neckpiece and a 10-gallon sombrero, Madcap Maxie Baer added zest today to a dullish sport scene and announced he came to town to provide a little local color and lineup some fistic chores leading to a return joust with Champion Joe Louis.

The former heavyweight champ, now under contract to make cowboy films showed his usual wordy truculence when he arrived yesterday. He challenged the world at large and mentioned Louis and Lou Nova as a couple of chaps he'd like to belt over right quick should they be close at hand, which they weren't.

Maxie's manager, Ancil Hoffman, remained in the background, offering safe words about waiting for the best offer before naming Baer's next opponent. He added Promoter Mike Jacobs' idea of matching Nova and Max for Madison Square Garden seemed "silly" because such a "titanic" event should take place outdoors. Baer, Hoffman and Jacobs have considerable conferring yet to do.

"I'm here to create a little interest for the news boys," Maxie declared from under his towering topper. "Where's my hoss. Elect me sheriff and we'll run every fighter and manager out of the county. A little local color is what I'm bringing this town."

Close Call For Porter.

"Say, I thought you were Joe Louis," yelled Baer to his colored sleeping car porter. "I almost smacked you. Sure, I saw Nova fight and he's good but I'm better."

Baer followed these modest assertions with more of the same plus the information the deaths of his mother and father in the past year changed him a lot—and for the better.

"One punch and I might be the greatest fighter in the world if I could get that Louis again," he added.

However, the general opinion was that Max, who has been idle since licking Tommy Farr last March, was not kidding anybody, least of all himself. A long time ago, even before Louis knocked him kicking in September, 1935, Maxie seemed to decide Jolting Joe had his number. The present would seem too late to change such a mental hazard.

"I would like to fight Nova and perhaps Tony Galento" continued Baer "Right now I weigh 218 pounds I am living carefully and keep in good shape. I think I can beat Louis now, I have changed. Louis has changed. And he can be beaten if you crowd him"

'Count On Me For 20 Wins' Says Diz

With his infectious big grin working overtime and promises to win 20 games this year flowing freely, Dizzy Dean, baseball's best copy, exhibits his pitching arm to Bob Lewis, Chicago Cubs' secretary. Owner Wrigley signed the Diz for a reported salary of $20,000 for his work in 1939, despite his failing arm of last season after his purchase from the Cards for $185,000. The Dean arm couldn't be in better shape according to the X-rays... all that remains to be seen is if it is O.K. according to the won and lost record.

Martin Defies Ouster Threats

DETROIT, Jan. 11 — (AP). — Homer Martin, facing the newest crisis in factional battles of the United Automobile Workers' Union, boldly defied threats to-day to oust him from the presidency, or otherwise curtail his influence.

Acknowledging reports union foes may seek his head at a special meeting of the international executive board called by his critics, the bespectacled former preacher calmly declared: "I am not afraid of a thing."

Martin, indicating he was fully prepared to fight his foes with a defence of his policies, announced he would attend, and preside at the board session to-day after clamor over his latest "Communist purge" and relations with the Ford Motor Company.

The U.A.W. chief has held several meetings with Harry Bennett, personnel director of the Ford Company. Ford's is the only remaining non-union firm among the major auto producers.

Charges Fly Fast

George Addes, U.A.W. secretary-treasurer whom Martin once suspended, said the board would demand an accounting of Martin's so-called negotiations with Bennet.

In that connection Martin charged an unnamed "high official" of the union with false insinuations that he (Martin) was trying to form a "company union" with Ford.

The balance of voting power on the 24-man board now favors the anti-Martin group.

Union sources said that Martin's most recent "communist purge," in which he suspended officers of the big Detroit Plymouth local 51, would be examined.

Charges flew fast meanwhile between Martin and the U.A.W. committee created last November to handle Ford organizing activities.

The committee, composed of Delmond Garst of St. Louis, Charles Millard of Oshawa, Ont., and Walter Reuther of Detroit, charged it had "found it impossible to obtain a conference" with Martin.

Martin, termed this "a deliberate falsehood," and said the committee had been made a "political football being kicked around by those who have sought to build themselves instead of the union."

Prisoner's Death Seen As Suicide

KINGSTON, Ont., Jan 11—(CP). —A coroner's jury at an inquest in Kingston penitentiary last night returned a verdict that David Thauvette, Cornwall, a prisoner, died in the prison hospital one week ago from injuries caused when he "voluntarily jumped from the third range in the cell block.

Evidence showed Thauvette, serving a 18-year sentence imposed at Cornwall for manslaughter, had completed little more than two months of that time. Three convict witnesses said they saw Thauvette step to the rail, crawl over and jump. He struck head first on the cement floor and died 15 minutes later.

6 Arabs To Be Shot

JERUSALEM, Jan. 11.—(AP). — Six Arabs captured in a fight with British armed forces near Hebron Dec. 18 were sentenced to death today by a British military court for possession of arms.

This was the largest number of persons sentenced at one sitting of the court since its establishment. The Arabs had engaged British forces near the scene of a pro-British demonstration in which other Arabs opposed to the exiled Grand Mufti of Jerusalem partcipated.

Convalescing After Sickness

After many severe illnesses such as influenza, scarlet and typhoid fever, pneumonia, etc., or an operation, the patient is usually left in an extremely weak, nervous and exhausted condition.

To all those convalescents who need a tonic to strengthen and build up their weakened system we would recommend Milburn's Health and Nerve Pills to assist them back to the full enjoyment of robust health. They supply the elements so necessary to build up the shattered nervous system, and bring back bodily strength and vigor.

A trial will convince you of their merits.

Wins New York-To-Miami Air Race

Here is the winner of the New York-to-Miami air race, and the $2,000 prize that went with the victory, Max Constant, pictured alighting from his 'plane shortly after landing at Miami. His elapsed time was five hours, 43 minutes and 39 seconds, just a shade under the time of Lieut. Commander Russell Holderman who made the trip from New York in five hours, 44 minutes and 17 seconds. The additional weight of Mrs. Holderman, who slipped aboard the 'plane just as it was leaving New York, undoubtedly slowed the plane, causing Holderman to lose, aviation experts said. Constant, who came from California to participate, flew in place of Jacqueline Cochran. She already holds the record of four hours, 12 minutes to Miami. Unable to find as speedy a plane as she wished, she let Constant substitute for her.

Car Crashes Store As Officer Fires

TORONTO, Jan. 11 — (CP). — One of two fleeing robbers is believed to have been wounded early today when Constable Robert Crawford of suburban Weston emptied his revolver at a car containing two men who had attempted to break into a shoe store. The officer fired six shots.

The driver of the car was believed hit, according to Constable Crawford. As the Constable fired at the front of the car, the vehicle swerved up over the sidewalk, crashing into a store front and continued along the sidewalk for a distance.

Returning to the roadway and with all lights out, the damaged car sped away north through the town, passing Constable James Elder near Church Street, North York Township.

The noise made by the two youths smashing in the window of the shoe store attracted Constable Crawford. As he left the Police Station half a block away, the constable fired a warning shot at the two. When this failed to halt them and they jumped into the car, the constable fired three more shots at the front of the car.

Two other bullets were fired at the car as it passed him. Constable Crawford said. As the vehicle swerved into the store front and back on to the road the constable was forced to jump back quickly to avoid being run down.

"I know the driver must have been hit, because when I fired directly at the car as he got under way, he swerved sharply over on to the sidewalk, narrowly missing a hydrant," Crawford said.

"He hit the store front with a terrific crash and the car must have been stolen from a nearby service station.

May Need Aid Longer

Should no improvement take place in world prices, however, assistance to western wheat growers, either in the form of a fixed price or on some other basis may be necessary next year and perhaps longer, pending either a recovery in prices or a readjustment in western agriculture to meet prevailing conditions.

The immediate problems arising out of the fixed price relate to farmers' requirements of wheat for feed and seed. The wheat board has taken the position that it will sell wheat to farmers only at the fixed price. This is to prevent farmers selling all their wheat to the board and receivinvg the bonus and then buying back their seed and feed requirements at the open market price, or perhaps buying back wheat ostensibly for seed or feed and re-selling it indirectly to the board to get the bonus twice.

Complaints have been made this puts an unfair burden on the farmers and relief authorities who must buy wheat for seed next year because of crop failure or who wish to buy special varieties such as the new rust-resistant wheats.

In regard to purchase of wheat it is suggested Canadian farmers should not be compelled to pay 20 cents a bushel more for Canadian wheat with which to fatten livestock than American farmers have to pay for Canadian wheat.

Suggest Grinding For Feed.

A solution to the feed wheat problem is in sight but no practical way of meeting the complaints regarding seed wheat has yet been suggested. It has been proposed the Wheat Board should grind wheat purchased by farmers for feed and charge the open market price plus charges for grinding.

This would prevent the wheat being used for other than feed purposes and prevent it being resold to the Board at the fixed price.

As members from the prairies arrive they are making their views known to the ministers and the wheat committee of the cabinet is expected to meet in the next week or two. Trade Minister W. D. Euler is chairman of the committee and the other members are Agricultural Minister Gardiner, Resources Minister Crerar and Finance Minister Dunning.

C. McCrea, secretary of the Association.

IN MUCH HIGHER SPIRITS

Skiing enthusiasts were in high spirits this morning when they woke to find old man winter had returned to Peterborough and was sending much-needed snow to cover ski trails and runs. Even the most ardent, while they have never ceased to practice their sport during the warm spell, had reached the point of despondency where they were contemplating entering water-skiing events. Today's fall of snow, unless it melts as rapidly as it fell, should place all skiing haunts in first class condition.

More Adequate Parking Space Is Needed Before Change Made In Traffic By-law Autoists Say

Conditional approval of the city's amended traffic bylaw has been received from the Department of Highways, but domestic opposition has cropped up in a resolution passed by the Peterborough Automobile Club asking the Department to withhold final effect to the bylaw until the council has provided adequate parking space down town.

The letter from the Department objects to the second clause which declares that "absolute control of street traffic is vested in the police," and is officially regarded as too sweeping in the authority given the police.

Another clause directing that fire department apparatus shall have the right of way on the streets while proceeding to a fire or answering a fire alarm call should be deleted according to the criticism from the Department.

C. Alex Sollitt, president of the Peterborough Automobile Club, informed the Examiner today that the bylaw had recently been scrutinized by the club, and a letter had been sent to the Minister of Highways urging that as a condition to the bylaw the city should provide ample central parking space.

"We have no desire to put any obstacles in council's plans of regulating traffic," Mr. Sollitt said, "but they themselves have admitted that additional parking space is needed, and also that it should be supplied before tightening up on parking practices. It seems to the club that the council has gone ahead with their bylaw, but in the meantime they have done nothing about securing more parking space for the motorists. The opinion of the club is that car owners have a right to be heard in this matter. The automobile has become dominant in modern traffic, and the general trend of cities is to try to solve the parking problem that is now universal. Simply passing a bylaw as the council has done does not seem to be a satisfactory course unless the motorist who is finding less space on the streets has some other place to park."

Plow Inventor Dies

PATERSON, N.J., Jan. 11 (AP).—John S. Leslie, 88, inventor of a rotary snowplough for railroads, died yesterday. Leslie designed and perfected his rotary snowplough in the early 1880's. Trapping Skunks Without License Costs Man $10

Robert Calvert, R. R. 2 Ennismore, who gave his occupation as laborer learned this morning that trapping skunks without the proper license is an expensive hobby. He was assessed $10 and $2.50 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., when found guilty of the offence on a plea of guilty. The fine must be paid within a week or Mr. Calvert will spend fifteen days in the county jail. Irven J. Lyons, Peterborough County game overseer laid the information and conducted the case for the department.

Another fish and game case was to have been tried but Howard Hynes of Harvey township failed to answer when his name was called and Magistrate Langley ordered that a summons be issued. The information laid by A. N. Hodgson, game overseer for Victoria county alleges that Hynes had no gun license.

Donald McAllister of Owen Sound pleaded guilty to being intoxicated in a public place and was given the usual fine of $10 and $4.50 costs.

"I'm not a drinking man, Your Worship but this time I took a few too many," was the answer he gave the cadi when asked if he had anything to say. The fine levied was the minimum under the Act. In default of the fine he will spend ten days in jail.

E. Bummel of Keene through constable Gordon Puffer, J.P., pleaded guilty to an infraction of the Highway Traffic Act, namely not having a suitable reflector on a motor vehicle and was fined $2 and $2.50 costs.

Fraser Watson of Peterborough, through Constable Puffer also pleaded guilty to speeding and as there was nothing flagrant about the offence was assessed the minimum of $5.00 and $2.50 costs.

Reckless Driving

D. J. Williams, Peterborough, pleaded guilty to reckless driving and was fined $15.00 and $2.50 costs. He told the court that while driving north on Rubidge street his windshield became frosted and when passing two parked cars the rear fender of his car struck a parked car, throwing him against the windshield and he received cuts on the nose and face, before he could get his car under control it slid into another parked car and damaged the front fender of this second vehicle. He explained also that he had paid for the necessary repairs to the damaged cars. Police report verified this evidence and the fine was levied as above and his license suspended for two months.

George E. Whipp, charged with reckless driving in the city pleaded not guilty and the charge will be heard on January 25th. W. J. A. Fair appeared for the accused and V. J. McElderry, K.C., County Crown Attorney, asked for the adjournment until that date.

Cobourg Utilities Flares At H.E.P.C.

COBOURG, Ont., Jan. 11—(CP). —The Hydro Electric Power Commission was criticized by two members of the Cobourg utilities commission at its inaugural meeting last night. Action of the H.E.P.C. in not giving the same discounts on electric stoves to all who had been gas users prior to the closing down of the H.E.P.C. owned gas plant here, was criticized some time ago by the commission who wrote the H.E.P.C. pointing out that it was not living up to its bargain in regard to the stove discounts.

A letter from the H.E.P.C. last night informed the local commission that it was considered justifiable to give a smaller stove reduction where the gas consumer had only paid a small amount each year for gas.

This matter had been taken up with the staff of the Cobourg public utilities, it was pointed out in the letter.

"They go to the staff instead of the local commission to say this," said commissioner Jack Delanty. "It just shows how the H.E.P.C. plays us for suckers." J. E. Skidmore questioned the wisdom of the commission in paying the subsidy of $25 to every gas user who changes over to electricity.

"It would be different if our utilities were paid for and we had lots of money," he said. "As it is now we are letting the H.E.P.C. out of the obligation of supplying gas and in addition we are spending thousands in this manner for their benefit.

"We can't afford to do that. We are going to be in the red."

Car Transport Opposed

MONTREAL, Jan. 11.—(CP). —MacCallum Transport of Oshawa, Ont., yesterday applied to Quebec Public Service Commission for a license to transport motor cars on a tractor-trailer to Quebec distribution points. The tractor-trailer, 42 to 45 feet long, would carry four motor cars or three trucks on its two platforms. The application was opposed by counsel for the Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways, who said the winding character of the Lakeshore highway from the Ontario border made such trailer-carriers a danger to other traffic.

Blackwater Youth Dies Of Shot Wound

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LINDSAY, Jan 11.—Norman Purvis, the 25-year-old Blackwater youth, who is believed to have accidentally shot himself with a shot gun in the bush near his home on Monday, died in the Ross Memorial Hospital early yesterday morning after transfusions failed to save him. 84 Years Old and at Work Every Day

Oldest active business man in Peterborough is John Coughlin, 84, whose monument works on Hunter Street have been a familiar sight to residents of this city for the past half century. He was in business in Belleville before coming to Peterborough. The shaft-like memorial beside him is of Scotch granite, is more than 150 years old. Some suggestion of the durability of the material with which he works is seen in this monument, the polish on which is as smooth as the day it was erected. For centuries to come Peterborough cemeteries will probably contain hundreds of specimens of his craft, still in excellent condition.

The results are admirable, according to all reports, and the film will bring the world more closely and accurately to Peterborough eyes than before.

Reginald Stewart Is Scheduled To Give Concert In Peterboro'

The second of the current series of concerts presented by the Peterborough Canadian Concert Association in the Collegiate Auditorium will be the pianoforte recital on Thursday, January 26th, by the well-known Canadian pianist and conductor, Reginald Stewart.

Mr. Stewart was born in Edinburgh, and his musical education was received from Isador Philipp in Paris and Mark Hambourg in London. Arthur Freidheim, the German pianist who was at one time a pupil of Franz Lisst, was also one of his teachers.

Mr. Stewart's career has been a dual one—divided between the keyboard and the conductor's podium. In 1919 he became conductor of the Canadian Operatic Society and two years later Director of Music at Hart House, University of Toronto. In 1925 he was heard as pianist at the Bournemouth Festival, directed by Sir Dan Godfrey, and while in England at that time, he gave his first recital in Wigmore Hall. Five years later Mr. Stewart was again in England, this time to conduct the London Symphony Orchestra in Albert Hall. He was the first Canadian to conduct the British Broadcasting Company's Orchestra.

Five years ago Mr. Stewart became conductor of the Promenade Symphony Concerts in Toronto, which this year were broadcast throughout both Canada and the United States. These concerts have been attended by upwards of half-a-million people and are regarded as a distinct feature of Canadian musical life. Mr. Stewart also directed music for the CBC's Shakespearian productions, and he recently commenced a broadcast series of pianoforte recitals.

John Coughlin In Business For Sixty Years

Oldest active business man in Peterborough is John Coughlin, 84-year-old monument manufacturer on Hunter street for the past half century. He is the oldest man in his trade in all Ontario, he believes.

He has been making tombstones and monuments of other kinds for close to sixty years, is still as active as ever and will probably continue for some time to come. Mr. Coughlin was born in 1854 in Belleville and as a youth learned his trade in that centre. He opened up his own shop after three years of apprenticeship and operated in Belleville for seven or eight years, coming to Peterborough about fifty years ago. He has been in the same location, near Aylmer street, for the past forty years, the rest of the time at a shop across the street.

During those sixty years in business he has sanded and chiselled thousands of tons of granite, has made thousands of monuments large and small. "I don't think there is another man in Ontario who has sold as many monuments as I have. Firms, yes; but individuals, no."

Little Lake and St. Peter's cemeteries hold most of his work today and probably will for centuries to come. For one of the beauties of working in granite is that one's work lasts almost indefinitely. Some idea of the durability of granite can be gleaned from a glance at an old monument Mr. Coughlin has in his shop. It is a tall shaft, made of polished Scotch granite, is more than 150 years old, yet is as smooth as the day it was first erected. When he erected a larger stone to take its place, Mr. Coughlin took the old monument in part payment.

Erected War Memorials

After the war he did a good business in erecting war memorials. Among those he fashioned and placed are those at Lakefield, Frankfort, Keene, and Hastings. The largest job he ever did was a fountain that sold for $3,500. It is standing at Cannington.

Best granite, according to Mr. Coughlin, comes from Finland, Sweden and Norway, although many people still prefer the Scotch granite. Expensive to buy, it is shipped from those far countries to Canada. Some is mined in Quebec as well.

Many changes have come to his trade in the past sixty years. It was about that time that people first began to erect single monuments for entire families—that is, people of moderate means just started then. Prior to that they often used to erect single markers each time a member of the family died, but then they began to realize that it was cheaper to erect one large stone for all. Styles have changed, particularly from the shaft-like memorials to a more oblong structure.

Compressed air, pneumatic drills, and blasts, have all quickened the stone mason's work, eliminated long hours of difficult labor, and made work more perfect, he said. His shop is now equipped with all modern devices such as those mentioned and he admits the work is better now than when all was done by hand.

Will Still Use Them

While there is evidence of a trend away from large stones in cemeteries, he does not believe it will seriously affect his business. In all cemeteries where stones are not permitted, markers are substituted, and the accumulated cost of several of these—one for each individual member of a family—is more than the cost of a single large stone, he pointed out. The one thing that played the greatest havoc with his business was the depression. "People just stopped buying stones, but things are coming back now," he said.

While he is the oldest business man in Peterborough, he does not believe a man should work to so great an age as he has attained. "No, the young deserve a chance and I would be only too willing to quit if I were able," he said. "If some one would buy my place I'd gladly retire tomorrow." He is sad about having had to work so long, for he feels that one of the causes of the depression was that men worked until they were too old, did not permit younger men to start.

To Get Millions

Mrs. Daniel Dodge, former telephone operator of Gore Bay, and widow of the youthful motor heir who lost his life in an accident last summer, will receive an amount reported from $2,000,000 to $6,000,000 from his estate, according to the terms of a settlement announced at Pontiac, Mich.

Suspect Is Held In Attacks Upon Women

Suspicious actions of several men on the streets in different parts of the city last night frightened women and resulted in several calls going into the Police Station, all of which were immediately investigated.

Shortly before eleven o'clock police were called to the Park Street south district and Constables Archie Menzies and Percy Sexsmith brought in a man who was found leaning against a tree at Albert Street. The man gave his address as Albert Street, and this morning before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., pleaded guilty to an intoxication charge. He was fined $10.00, and costs, and is being held pending identification by the three young women who were working to-day and unable to look at the prisoner to determine if he was the man the police have had complaints about.

According to information conveyed to the police by the 'phone call a man was hiding behind a tree near the corner of Romaine and Park Streets on the east side, and two young women who were walking home on that side of the street crossed to the west side when they saw him. At that time a car driven by a south-end resident who knew the girls pulled up at the curb and gave the badly frightened young women a ride home. The driver of the car then returned and found the man in the same place. He stopped the car and walking over to the man asked what his business was behind a tree close to midnight. The man appeared to be intoxicated and answered with abusive language, so the questioner 'phoned police and the stranger was picked up.

Shortly before ten-thirty police received a call from Carlisle Avenue in Ashburnham where it was reported a man had walked across a verandah where three children were alone in a house and had frigheened a young girl as the latter came to the house to bring her brother home. The girl seeing the man in a long overcoat hiding behind a tree on a lawn ran home and told her father. The man had disappeared when the father investigated and he conveyed the information to police because of the suspicious actions of the stranger.

Many young women living at the south-end of Park Street and in the vicinity of Romaine are refusing to walk home alone late at night, and are either taking the bus or going around by George Street. Police are keeping a close watch on the district and with the assistance of the citizens hope to clear up the trouble.

Any suspicious characters who are noticed loitering in residential areas should be reported to the police immediately if their actions justify such a course.

City Council May Permit Train Whistles

The engine whistling clause of Peterborough's anti-noise bylaw is likely to be transcribed in a new key following a conference here Tuesday afternoon of representatives of the C.P.R., the C.N.R. and the city council at which it was agreed engineers should be permitted to use discretion in sounding whistles in emergencies and otherwise as a warning to prevent accidents.

Mayor Hamilton explained that the bylaw as passed in 1937 forbids the blowing of railway engine whistles within the limits of the city. After this prohibition had gone into effect, a fatal accident occurred at the C.N.R. crossing on Water street north, and the inquest emphasized the fact that the muffling of the whistles was regarded by railway engineers as obligatory, and opinion since then has concluded that the bylaw was drawn too narrowly for the safety of the public.

The features of the bylaw forbidding the sounding of whistles at railway crossings as a general practice will be retained, it was proposed, but engineers will be allowed to sound warning signals to avoid accidents or in any other circumstances which they think require whistles to be blown.

The council was represented by Mayor Hamilton, Aldermen McIntyre, McCannan, Glover, Bradburn, Gordon and Dutton, City Clerk Armstrong, and City Engineer Parsons; the C.N.R. by O. W. Duff, Belleville, divisional superintendent, E. W. Burns, Lindsay, assistant superintendent of the Midland subdivision, and D. E. Bell, local agent; and the C.P.R. by D. S. Thompson, Toronto, divisional superintendent, and T. F. McArthur, local agent.

Mayor Hamilton said the council wish to eliminate any unnecessary whistle blowing at the 57 railway crossings in the city, but at the same time it did not intend to deprive the public of essential warning signals which could be sounded in emergencies by trainmen. There had been some suggestion that the bylaw be repealed, but Mayor Hamilton said he did not think the council need go to that other extreme.

If the bylaw were rescinded, Mr. Thompson stated, engine whistles would have to be sounded in approching every crossing.

Mr. Duff read the material restrictions in the bylaws of Port Hope, St. Thomas, Niagara Falls, Montreal and other cities. In the main they permitted whistles to be blown for the purpose of sounding warnings to prevent accidents or as signals in the ordinary operating of trains.

The proposed amendment met with the approval of the members of the council and the railway representatives. City Engineer Parsons also called attention of the recurrent trouble caused at railway crossings by the projecting rails and ties above the level of the roadway in the streets, and sometimes by their depression. Railway crossing signs and one or two other matters of interest to both the city and the railways were also discussed.

Edgar P. Pym Retires From C.N. Express

Edgar P. Pym, cashier with the Canadian National Express for the last twenty years, retired from the service on superannuation Saturday. He came to Peterborough from Quebec and had been with the railway since he was twenty. The retiring age is sixty-five. The express office staff presented Mr. Pym with a chair and ottoman Saturday afternoon, short addresses being made by O. R. Kidd and W. F. Skitch. Special reference was made to the efficiency shown by Mr. Pym, and also to his congenial relations with the staff.

"SEE? SEE what I mean? See that devil look on her face? Look at her now!"

Worthington Gurley was speaking in an excited stage whisper to Dr. Holgate, and pointing to Peaches Pomeroy.

"She planted that bracelet, Dr. Holgate. Just like I told you. We ought to have turned her in."

"You may be right, Gurley. But—to look at her now, I think the uncertainty and fear of her position is greater punishment."

Never, surely, had misery and fears shown more in anybody's expression. Peaches looked ghastly. Not even her expert makeup could conceal the character of her now. Dr. Holgate shuddered. "Thank God!" he muttered—really a prayer of gratitude that he had come to his senses, he who had imagined himself in love with her.

"I want to find Sara Sue Davis," he announced emphatically "If it is not too late."

"Oh, she's still here," said Worthington. "Its not midnight. Anyhow her coat—"

But Dr. Holgate hadn't meant that. His "too late" was his own secret matter. For Gurley had told him that Bob Towne would marry Sara Sue!

Thornton Holgate was one of those somewhat rare individuals who store abundant energy, but keep it under control until they themselves will to release it. Such a characteristic is associated with a contemplative, analytical mind, a thinker. Usually, they are comparatively sedentary in outward appearances, but can become physically dynamic when occasion demands, dynamic with action!

Thornton had proved this when emergency arose at Galveston beach. Nobody would have suspected that a scholarly instructor in mathematics could be an expert swimmer with stamina enough to save two lives. And again at the Sylvan beach dance hall—he certainly flattened a burly sailor with his fist, just because such a course had been presented to him as reasonable and right.

Now, in the University club, he faced a similar emergency decision. Only, this one was infinitely more important to him, more personal and urgent. He had to act.

He grabbed the younger man by the hand as if he were a little boy, and started pell-mell across the dance floor, craning his neck, looking. "Find Sara Sue," he commanded Worthington.

Unconsciously, hand in hand, walked all about the great ballroom. They asked people for Sara Sue.

"She was here a while ago," someone answered. "Don Romero was wooing her."

"I saw Bob Towne cut in on her," said another. "Look for him."

"Isn't she with T. J. Sanders"

"Try the women's lounge."

Everybody had suggestions, but no definite help. Sara Sue had vanished.

"A whole gang of people went downstairs, to get some air, they said," somebody told them. "She might be with them. They'll be back soon, I imagine."

Thornton and young Gurley hastened down to the street. They saw no one on the sidewalks, no one they knew.

"Maybe they walked over to Main," the lad suggested. "Come on."

Downtown Houston was full of people even at this late hour, so that the college crowd was not readily visible. But energetic Worthington stood on a fireplug and caught a flash of evening clothes in a group a block away.

"There they are!" he cried. And then, despite the surroundings—"SARA SUE!"

He yelled it loud enough to make everybody turn and stare, but no matter. He and Dr. Holgate plunged off at a run, Holgate leading him.

At once a messenger boy and two or three pedestrians started running, too.

A policeman saw them and started after. All in a flash the block became jammed with excited, running, questioning people. Dr. Holgate and Worthington were ignorant of the commotion they created. "SARA SUE!" Dr. Holgate himself yelled, almost desperately.

They caught the other collegians turning a corner.

"Where's the fire?" somebody demanded.

"Sara Sue!" Sara Sue Davis—is she here?"

She wasn't. No, she had not come with them. They had not seen her as they left the dance floor. They had just come for a brief walk outside. They had not seen Sara Sue. The crowd encircled them, the policeman came in. Explanation had to be gone over in detail. Thornton Holgate had to do a deal of talking—without explaining much of anything. He simply wanted Sara Sue Davis, urgently and now. He blushed in the telling. He couldn't explain that he wanted to catch her and pour out his love!

"Come on, Gurley!" he commanded, and started running back to the University club. They left people staring and a policeman standing spread-legged, shaking his head.

Back up the club stairs they came onto T. J. Sanders.

"T. J., have you seen Sara Sue Davis?" Worthington panted, excitedly.

T. J. did not answer at once. To be sure, he had just seen her. In fact, he had just five minutes ago taken his rival in love to her, given them his blessings and taken his own heavy heart away. He knew exactly where they were. Why all this excitement about her now, he wondered.

"Smatter? What you want with her?" he demanded of young Gurley.

Now, for the first time, Worthington faced that question.

What, in all truth, did he want with Sara Sue? Why was he plunging wildly around with Dr. Holgate looking for her? The matter of the diamond bracelet had been disposed of. Probably never to be mentioned again. Certainly there was no occasion for such speed, even if they did eventually tell Sara Sue about it. Poor Worthington was sadly confused. This evening had been too much for him. He looked at Dr. Holgate.

"Anyhow," T. J. resumed then, "she oughtn't to be interrupted. She's over yonder getting engaged. She's—"

"Engaged!" Dr. Holgate exploded that.

"Yeah. Dammit. But it's all right. If she wants him, she ought to have him. It's her place to say, not mine. Well, ho hum, such is life. Let her alone, can't you? Bob Towne's not so terrible. If she wants—"

"Oh, my Lord!" boomed Holgate, appalled.

He had determined to find her and confess his devotion at once. He had not realized it possible for her to be engaged already, tonight! Things had been moving fast for him this evening, too!

He stood there, breathing fast from his run with Gurley, his hair disheveled now, his necktie at an absurd angle. Sweat beaded his face. "Oh, my! I can't stop now, Gurley! I've simply got to find her and tell her. At once!"

Worthington still couldn't see the hurry. In fact he was coming to think the bracelet episode was best forgotten. Poor kid—he could not read Dr. Holgate's mind!

"SARA SUE!" Dr. Holgate boomed out, like a bell hop paging somebody. "SARA SUE DAVIS!" People again turned to stare.

Almost as if she had heard the summons (as indeed she may have, but subconsciously) Sara Sue herself appeared across the room. With Bob Towne walking near her. Thornton Holgate saw them at once, and he did not hesitate.

"WAIT, SARA SUE!" He yelled it, over the heads of boys and girls. The music stopped, the orchestra assuming this was another floor show surprise. "WAIT! MAKE NO COMMITMENT — UNTIL YOU HEAR ME! SARA SUE!"

He was shouting, his face flushed, intent; a tall man elbowing his way through the dancers, one hand held high and waving; utterly oblivious of those around him.

"I LOVE YOU, SARA SUE! I WANT TO PROVE IT! . . . I WANT TO MARRY YOU! . . . WAIT! I LOVE YOU! . . . IT IS I, THORNTON!" . . . I AM COMING!"

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, January 12.

The planetary configurations for this day point to rather mild activities, with affairs moving in routine grooves and with a fair degree of progress and profit. These may arise from change, travel and new business or rearranged methods rather than in the beaten path. It is probable that some things may run contrary to ideas and plans of higher-ups. Also, the physical condition may hamper.

Those whose birthday it is may expect matters to run along in customary grooves during the year, although they might be made more interesting and lucrative by a little forced action — a journey, fresh ideas, or some new sort of stimulation. However, such initiative might be opposed by superiors or those in power. "Peppy" letters would help, accenting new slants. But in all be careful with the health.

A child born on this day may be original, fairly enterprising, and energetic, with inclinations toward innovations that may not always win support from its superiors. Nevertheless, it should have sound judgment, fresh insight, and a versatile mind.

DOROTHY DIX

After All, Husbands Do Provide The Finances That Make a Home Possible, So It Is Their Just Due That They Be Given Equal Part Of It

A MAN believes that what's the matter with marriage is the bossiness of wives; that if wives would make marriage more of a partnership and less of a dictatorship in which they run the whole show, it would do a lot toward popularizing the holy estate and stopping divorce.

"As things are now," this man says, "when a young couple get married and set up their household goods, the wife immediately assumes autocratic powers and thereafter the husband is nothing but a poor slave whose only right is to toil to support the home which she monopolizes.

"It is the wife who in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred picks out the house in which the family lives; superintends the decorations, which are done according to her taste and with no reference to the husband's; apportions the rooms, also without giving a thought to husband's comfort; and who decides on what church they shall attend, what clubs they shall belong to, what friends they shall have.

"Who has the nice sunny room with the southern exposure in every home? The man who pays the freight? Not much. It is the baby's or Grandma's or Mother's — never Papa's. Who has all the closet room? Everybody else but Father. He hasn't even a hook that he can call his own, or a hair brush that is his exclusive property. Who has to give up his easy-chair in the living room and move back to the dining room every time some callow youth comes to call on the girls? Poor old Dad.

"Is it the wife's family or the husband's family who have the run of the house and are perpetually camped in the guest chamber? You know the answer. Is it the wife's friends or the husband's friends who are invited to dinner and who drop in for bridge of an evening? You need but one guess at that. Does the husband have to eat the kind of food he likes, or the sort his wife was brought up on? Even a baby knows that if Mamma likes spinach it is spinach Papa is going to eat—no matter how much he loathes it.

"Why women should think that the homes that their husbands work and support, and that would not exist except for their husbands' labor, belong exclusively to them and that their husbands have no right to any say-so in them, is a mystery I have never been able to understand. But they do. Furthermore, they fight so fiercely for their rights that their husbands give in for peace's sake and wipe their feet on the doormat before they dare enter their own doors.

"Most of the married men I know are so cowed that they are afraid to invite an old friend to dinner, or ask any member of their families to pay them a visit. They wouldn't dream of doing anything so bold as pre-empting a back room for their adored collections. They just meekly permit their wives to throw what they call John's 'junk' into the ash can.

"Now, little as women seem to realize it, the thing that oftenest leads a man into marriage is a desire for a home. He has dreamed of a place of peace and rest where he can strike his roots down and have that earthy anchorage that we all crave. Something that belongs to us. Something that we are a part of. Something permanent. And he thinks of this as a place where he can express himself and be himself; where he can do as he pleases and gather about him the people, the books, the things that he enjoys.

"It is a blighting disappointment to him when he finds out that his wife will let him have no part in the homemaking; that she won't even let him pick out his own little spot of earth, or even so much as choose the kind of a chair he likes to sit in. If she has gone modernistic, he had just as well adapt his bones to angles, no matter how they yearn for curves.

"One of the constant grievances of wives is that their husbands are undomestic, that they take no interest in the home and that they leave every decision to them. The reason is that they have never been permitted to have any part in the building up of the home. It has never been theirs except technically. It has always really belonged to the wives and children. Their function in it has simply been that of the bill-payer.

"I think perhaps wives do not realize what a raw deal they give their husbands about the home, or else they would give them a better run for their money."

Looking Back On This Date

One hundred and twenty-four years ago today (Jan. 11, 1815) John Alexander Macdonald was born at Glasgow, Scotland. Although he was always proud of the fact that he had been born in Scotland, John A. regarded himself more a Canadian than a Scot, for he had been brought here when 5 years old, and all his education, save that which he got from his parents in his infancy, was Canadian, such as Canadian education went in those days. When he died in June, 1891, he had proven himself an Empire builder and the creator of the Dominion of Canada, perhaps more than any other one man. But he used to disclaim that honor for himself, stating that he was but the instrument, aided by colleagues picked by Providence to share in the nation and Empire building.

Sir John's birthday was always an event to us old timers at Ottawa. The newspapermen would be at his office to greet him on his arrival—"Always the first to come in on my birthday," the old man would say. And then we would go through the congratulatory messages. I remember how "tickled" the old man was on his last birthday (Jan. 11, 1891) when he showed us a delightful personal letter from Lord Stanley of Preston and his wife.

No more striking illustration of the opportunities of Canada is given in our history than that of this man, who, without financial aid in his youth, won his way to the Bar and into Parliament, which were to be stepping stones to his immortality, at least so far as Canada is concerned. I think the finest tribute paid to Sir John was that by Mr. Wilfrid Laurier a couple of days after Sir John's death: "For the supreme art of governing men, Sir John Macdonald was gifted as few men in any land or in any age were gifted—gifted with the highest of all qualities, qualities which would have made him famous wherever exercised, and which would have shone the more conspicuously the larger the theatre. The fact that during all these years he retained unimpaired not only the confidence but the devotion—the ardent devotion—and affection of his party, is evidence that besides those qualities of statesmanship, to which we were daily witnesses, he was also endowed with those inner, subtle undefineable graces of soul, which win and keep the hearts of men."

Therein Laurier was largely painting a word picture of himself, for he, too, had the same qualities as had Sir John A. Macdonald.

Italy is expected to increase its wheat acreage.

GOODNIGHT STORY

By MAX TRELL

One of the most important things in the world is to be able to read. Unfortunately for Ferdy, who was a little black and white puppy, he had never learned how to read. That's why he got into trouble with the green paint, as you shall see.

Ferdy and Knarf and Hanid, the two shadows, were walking cheerfully behind the two children yesterday afternoon. They had entered the park. Ferdy wagged his tail and barked at the squirrels and pigeons (he wasn't really trying to frighten them but only trying to say hello to them in his own way), and looking this way and that at the trees and shrubs, and stopping now and then to say hello again to the other dogs who came passing by with their masters and mistresses.

All at once Ferdy spied a bench with a little white sign on it. No one was sitting on the bench, although it looked nice and new, and as green as the leaves in summer.

"You mustn't go near that bench!"

Looks Good to Him.

"Oh! what a wonderful-looking bench!" Ferdy barked joyfully. "I'd like to sit on that bench. I'm going to this minute."

"No—you mustn't go near that bench!" Hanid warned him.

"Why not?"

"Can't you read what that sign says?" Knarf put in. "It says—"

Now Ferdy was quite ashamed of the fact that he couldn't read. But he didn't want anyone to know that he couldn't. So before Knarf had a chance to finish telling him what the sign read, he broke in: 'I can read it as well as you. It says: Please sit down on me."

"No it doesn't!" Hanid and Knarf told him. "It doesn't say that at all."

"Of course it does. And I'm going to do just as that sign says. Just watch me!"

Not Green Cushion.

And with those words Ferdy leaped forward, pulling the leash out of his mistress' hand.

"Come back!" shouted the little girl. "Don't go near that bench! Ferdy! Come back!"

Did Ferdy obey her? Oh, no! He did not.

He sprang on that bench and sat down on it, wagging his tail against the back of the bench.

Oh dear! It all felt wet and sticky. And when Ferdy was finally taken off it again, he was full of green paint. And instead of just being a black and white puppy, he became a black and white and green puppy.

And all because he couldn't read two little words: "Wet Paint."

Bride Is Hostess To "Stitch Club"

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 11.—Mrs. Ernest J. Powell, a bride of recent months, was hostess for the regular meeting of the "Stitch Club," which met at her home, King street east, on Saturday at 3 pm., with sixteen members in attendance.

The president, Ruby Fallis, was in the chair, and the roll was answered with "What colors I will use for the accessories in my bedroom." The girls are holding a 'Country Store' in the new community waiting room on Saturday, January 14, and report was made on donations received; also the posters, for advertising the event, were displayed, commented on, and arrangements made for their placing following the meeting.

It was decided to send to Toronto for samples of linen suitable for using for bedroom accessories, and the leader, Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, showed samples of various kinds of stitches to be used on dresser scarfs, etc, and gave a talk on "Design," emphasizing how great a part this plays in planning a room with proper effect in view.

For their home work, the girls will continue the study of accessories for individual rooms, and will answer the roll with "What accessories I have chosen to make." Wilma Armstrong, Ethel Belch, and Margaret Smith were appointed to demonstrate fagotting at the next meeting, and before dismissal, the vote of thanks to the hostess was voiced by Lola Gardiner and Margaret Smith, and endorsed with hearty applause.

Compromise Offered Boston's Strikers

BOSTON, Jan. 11 (AP).—A compromise wage-hour agreement designed to end a seven-day truck strike marked by death, scattered violence and paralysis of food and freight transportation in the Boston area, was offered today to 5,000 striking drivers for ratification.

At Governor Leverett Saltonstall's personal urging, the employers early today accepted the agreement, cheering loudly at the prospect it might end the bitter dispute.

Ralph Cahouet, spokesman for the carriers, said the agreement provided a top scale of $39 for a 48-hour week, an increase of $2 over the current wages. The union had asked $40 for 40 hours. Cahouet said drivers would be paid 85 cents for the first hour's overtime in each day and $1 an hour thereafter.

Cunningham—Cooke

An interesting mid-winter wedding took place in Thornhill United Church on January 5 at seven-thirty o'clock, when Laura Eileen, only daughter of Rev. E. B. Cooke, the pastor, became the bride of Charles E. Cunningham of Newmarket.

Throughout the service the church was softly lighted by tall white candles, while vergreens and ferns used in combination with baby 'mums formed an attractive setting.

Given in marriage by Mr. R. E. Stinson of Lindsay, the bride was charmingly gowned in a graceful frock of wine velvet cut on simple lines with large puffed sleeves, square neckline and shirred bodice. She wore a matching hat with shoulder length veil, gold slippers and carried a nosegay of Joanna Hill roses. The bride was attended by Miss Vera Misener of Galt, gowned in aqua chiffon with long full skirt, the sleeves and bodice finished in lastex shirring. She wore a tiny doll hat and carried an arm bouquet of Pernet roses.

The groom was attended by his brother, Mr. Aubrey Cunningham, Toronto, and the ushers were Mr. James Treloar of Sutton, and Mr. Arthur West of Newmarket.

Following the service at the church a reception was held at the parsonage. Later the couple left on a wedding trip to Ottawa, the bride travelling in a rose wool dress, grey cloth coat, velvet turban of royal blue with matching shoes and bag. On their return they will make their home in Newmarket, Ont.

We Noticed

...Mild, sunny weather, rivulets rushing in tiny streams down the curbs, merchants busily sweeping sidewalks; the twittering of small brown birds who "remained in town" for the winter season... it's not surprising, is it, that some of us have been so easily fooled into that delicious feeling of anticipation that is usually a prelude to the delights of springtime?

....Doing their share to help the feeling along are the designers whose unfailing genius has produced an exhilarating collection of new styles and materials to be cunningly presented on the first balmy day—even though Christmas is barely out of sight.

....Some of the newest prints shown are huge patterns of florals, such as are seen in draper fabrics and sometimes in wallpapers. Smart ones are enormous poppies with trailing stems, buds and occasional leaves, or great big bouquets at intervals.

....Light yellowish green, a shade called seaweed, but nearar the color of young buds, makes a delightful dress one of the shops features in an interesting spring collection. Its color is accented by a big bouquet of deep violets at the waistline. The dog collar is of gold set with brilliants.

Jolly Program Presented By Friendly Bible Class

The Women's Friendly Bible Class of St. John's Anglican Church sponsored a very entertaining program of miscellaneous character, coupled with a humorous one-act play, entitled "The Minister's New Car," Tuesday night in the Parish Hall.

Acting as the genial chairman, Rev. Canon Robertson welcomed the capacity audience and announced the numbers.

Directed by Mrs. J. Howard, the amusing farce proved to be the chief feature of the program and delighted the audience with its many clever sallies. Realistic old-time costumes which even included the "bustle' and the long ostrich plume worn by our grandmothers, added to the attractiveness of the cast, which was composed of ten ladies of the Bible Class. The personnel was as follows: Mrs. Anne Howe, Mrs. Willison; Mrs. Freda Livery, Mrs. Brooks; Mrs. Dora Jarr, Mrs. Basset; Miss Lily Pond, Mrs. Morris; Miss May Knott, Mrs. Johnson; Mrs. Mary Young, Mrs. Pakenham; Miss Sarah Cuse, Mrs. Howell; Mrs. Henrietta Lott, Mrs. Dainton; Grandma Frisbie, Mrs. Bradshaw; Mrs. Hagan, Mrs. Pruner.

In Predicament.

The play opened with Mrs. Anne Howe in a predicament over how to cut out a dress. Gradually her gossipy neighbors dropped in, each bringing her own suggestion on the dressmaking problem, which came to a disastrous end and added to the hilarity of the audience.

Into this group a newcomer dropped a bombshell, when she announced that the minister had a new car. Speculation as to how he could afford such a luxury consumed them and gave rise to many erroneous impressions. Finally deciding to go in a body to investigate, the gossips were confronted by the minister's wife, whose simple explanation put to shame these busybodies, and brought a ridiculous finale to this comedy of errors. All of which goes to show that even a minister is not above the suspicion of his curious parishioners.

Every member of the well-chosen cast played her part with a verve and enthusiasm that made this humorous production one to be enjoyed from first to last curtain.

Program of Songs

Rounding out the evening's entertainment, a splendid program of songs, dances and readings met with much applause as the various artists appeared.

The opening number was a reading, "Dominique," one of Henry Drummond's well-loved habitant poems, given by Mrs. J. Collis, whose encore was "The Legend of the Twilight Bell."

Another well-received number was the accordian solo by Alf Pooley, who responded to the applause with "Gold-Mine in the Sky," while Eric May contributed a group of beautiful vocal songs, "When I Dream of Old Erin" and "The Dear Little Girl."

Charles Coleman, always a prime favorite with a St. John's audience, excelled himself in his vocal numbers, "When the Boys Went to Germany" and "Too Early in the Morning." Two groups of finely executed piano selections were the charming offerings of Miss Arleigh Connel and Donald Howell.

An enjoyable variation to the program came with the pleasing skip-tap dance by Miss Regina De Carlo, and the graceful tap dance given by the two youthful partners, Sylvia Vaugan and Ervin Parnel.

Old-time dance music was supplied, with violin, accordian and flute by a quartette consisting of Albert and Hosanna Vinette, Henry Simmons and Stewart Clark.

In the second part of the musical program another group of artists brought fine entertainment along similar line. On this group the opening number was "Smilin' Through," a vocal solo by Mrs. Ena Morley, while in fine voice Mrs. Leslie Groombridge sang "A Heart That is Free" (a favorite of Deanna Durbin). "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise," sweetly sung by Mrs. Brooks, was another popular offering, which was warmly applauded.

A young elocutionist showing much promise was Miss Joan Reid, who in comic costume delighted her audience with her reading, "Listening to the Band," while "Albert and the Lion" was the comedy number presented in real English accent by J. Sharp.

Again dance numbers were enjoyed in "The Highland Fling,' by Jean Milliard in true Scottish costume, while three of the senior "Y" girls, Mary Mitchell, Lily Long and Ethel Barnes, gave a tap dance novelty in smart black and white outfits.

The Vinette boys returned for a hill-billy selection and again met with much applause for their peppy rhythm.

Accompanying all the artists for the evening were Mrs. E. Foster, Miss L. Bacon and J. Marshall.

God Save the King concluded this splendid program, after which refreshments were served to all who contributed to the success of the evening.

"Conditions as they are today," was the subject of an interesting address given by Mr. J. Milby at the Monday meeting of the Confederation Home and School Association.

Mrs. T. Monk presided. Secretary and treasurer's reports were given by Mrs. S. Hopkins and Mrs. A. Millard. Mrs. H. B. Jackson, convener of the program committee, reported on the school Christmas concert, and thanked the members for their assistance and co-operation The next meeting of the Association, to be held the second Monday in February, will be an open night, and a cordial invitation is extended to the general public to attend. The roll call was answered by a good attendance of members, and Miss E. Garbutt's class won the attendance banner. A delightful musical number was given by Mr. H. Barton, assisted by Miss Betty Craig and Mr. Kenneth Henwood, who played the chimes, drums and xylophone.

QUEEN MARY SCHOOL

A review of current events for the past month was given at the Queen Mary Home and School Association meeting Monday night by Mrs. D. Loucks. Mrs. L. Maguire spoke on the distribution of milk in the city schools and relayed a message from Mis May Jory that she was giving cod liver oil to the children at the school, and expected that under this special method and the addition of milk, undernourished children would show an improvement in two months' time.

A report on the Christmas tea held December 16 was given by Mrs. C. Fulford. Announcement was made of the meeting to be held February 6 in celebration of Founders' Day, when Mrs. W. R. Morris will guest speaker. A talk on home and school literature was given by Mrs. E. Wand, and Mrs L. H. Ingram explained the recently organized class mothers' committee and introduced the members.

Two piano selections by one of the pupils, Miss Ruth Gaskell, won well-merited applause, and a New Year's song was given by five tiny members of Miss I. Madill's fourth grade class.

KING GEORGE SCHOOL

A stirring talk on the motives and purposes of Women's Organizations and their bearing on present day problems was given by Rev. M. C. Parr, pastor of George Street United church and chairman of the Ministerial Association, at the Tuesday evening meeting of King George Home and School Association, held in the kindergarten rooms.

A large attendance of parents was present at the meeting, which was opened by a hymn chosen by Mrs. W. H. Morton, who was in charge of the evening's program. The secretary's report was read by Mrs. S. Barrie, and Mrs. Max Swanston, president, expressed the satisfaction of the members that Mrs. D. Miller, the treasurer, was recovering from her recent illness.

A delightful duet, sung by Mrs. W. L. Hepburn and Mrs. M. Pomeroy, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. E. E. Kerr; an enlightening discussion on current events by the school principal, Mr. B. E. Kerr; a scripture reading by Mrs. W. Beggs, followed by the prayer from the Home and School handbook; two pleasant recitations by Miss Helen Lyon, and a piano selection by Mrs. M. C. Parr, concluded an enjoyable program. A hymn and the Mizpah benediction closed the meeting.

George Street W.M.S. Has Successful Year

A very successful year's work was reviewed at the January meeting of George Street Women's Missionary Society, held Tuesday afternoon in the board room with a large attendance. The reports given covered the many and varied activities of the six different groups, each group holding a meeting once a month in the home of a member for mission study, prayer, music and a social cup of tea. A monthly contribution is made by each member, and the total amount raised during the year in various ways amounted to the gratifying sum of $1,020.76.

The sick and visiting committee, with Mrs. J. W. Hale as leader, made 638 calls during the year, and the community friendship committee, convened by Mrs. H. Girven, made 323 calls, 92 being on strangers, and 120 at the hospital. Reporting for the literature committee, Mrs. W. H. Morton stated that 247 books had been read by 56 readers in 1938. The Evening Auxiliary had an excellent report given by Mrs. Charlton McBride, and a fine report was given by Mrs. Hodgens for the Mission Circle. Mrs. J. M. Beatty gave a full and satisfactory report for the Mission Band, and Mrs. Donald Munro reviewed the work of the Baby Band. Mrs. McIntyre and Mrs. Leo Copp stated that officers of the C.G.I.T. had been very busy, and could report a very successful year.

Sacred music softly played by Mrs. W. P. Purdy was heard before the meeting opened, with Mrs. A. R. Brown, president, in the chair. After the call to worship, the Lord's Prayer repeated in unison, and a hymn, Mrs. McMillan read the minutes, which showed a loss of three members by death, Miss Marion Coon, Mrs. C. Stevens and Miss Maude Eason. These members will be greatly missed, and their vacant places hard to fill.

The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. H. G. Walker, the Scripture lesson, taken from the 23rd Psalm and the 10th chapter of St. John was followed by prayer by Mrs. Morrow, and a hymn. Announcement was made of the World Day of Prayer to be held on the 24th of February. Mrs. A. I. Brown and Mrs. W. H. Morton were appointed to meet with the committee to make arrangements. An invitation was extended to the members to attend the Presbyterial meetings to be held in George Street Church on the 24th of January. A very hearty vote of thanks was made to Miss Nellie Douglas, who typed the programs as a contribution to the W.M.S.

During the afternoon a delightful solo by Mrs. A. B. Burrows, accompanied by Mrs. Renaud, was enjoyed by the members.

Growing Interest Shown In Work Of Children's Aid

Due to increased interest among Peterborough citizens in the work of the Children's Aid Society, and as a result a greater demand on the society's time, it was found necessary to appoint a committee to go into the matter of arranging for someone to assist Miss Rachel Young, superintendent, in her speaking engagements. The committee is composed of Mrs. Collins, Miss Young, Rev. P. J. Kelly, and Rev. R. T. F. Brain.

A suggestion made by Mr. McCready, that an illustrated map of the city of Peterborough be sponsored by the society was rejected by the board, on the motion of H. B. Cowan and E. B. Fowler, who remarked that merchants are already being besieged with advertising demands of this kind.

A report on the Christmas entertainment was given by Mrs. J. Fanning, and the shelter report by Mrs. E. F. Lawrence. The treasurer's report showed a favorable balance of $491.54. The superintendent's monthly report for December listed 95 office interviews, 179 visits, 113 telephone calls, 136 letters, 1 address, and 6 court attendances. Miss Young stated that the society begins the month of January with the responsibility of 110 children, placed as follows: Shelter, 9; boarding homes, 20; adoption probation, 29; wage homes, 3; free homes, 37; in institutions, 12.

At Christmas, outside of the children in the Shelter, forty were remembered by the society. Gifts were supplied by the C.G.I.T. from St. Andrew's and Knox church; a beautiful basket of fruit from the Junior Red Cross Helpers of Queen Mary school; 12 dolls for the Shelter children and for some of the children in their own families. Christmas cards were sent to some children and to some of the families in whom the society is interested.

"The opportunities to interpret the work of the society continue," Miss Young said. "Awakened interest, naturally and wholesomely, means greater demands on the society's time. If the office cannot give this time—and it cannot—it is natural this interest will wane. Three community people called me on one day to visit three different families at the same hour; two Home and School clubs wished me to speak last evening and I could not accept either. We cannot go on without the interest and support of our community. Are we, by any chance, going to lose this because we cannot give the time which the people have, in reality, a right to expect from its society?"

The list of donations received at the Children's Shelter for Christmas 1938 were as follows: Transportation to Zeller's Store; Santa Claus Parade and candy by Business Men's Association, per Mr. T. A. Mackay; cake, Canada Bread Company; sandwiches and cake, Trinity Church; Brownies' party to the girls; a program and a gift to each child, St. Paul's South End Mission Band through Miss Vera Hayes; potato salad, 48 cans, Nicholls Hospital; party and Christmas tree at All Saints by All Saints' Young People; sandwiches, All Saints Young People; stockings and candy bags with nuts and oranges, Barnardo Boys' Club, per Mr. Degan; two gals. ice cream, Silverwood's Dairy; 40 pints chocolate milk, 10 quarts milk, Sunshine Dairy; candy canes and chocolates, Pratten Hardware; 2 doz. oranges from Mrs. C. Gordon and Mrs. Gordon; Christmas cake, chocolate bars, oranges, apples, Stock's Bread, per Mr. J. Dutton; candy, Mr. Chris Graham, Empress Hotel.

Rebels Nearing Tarrangona

HENDAYE, France, Jan. 11 (A. P.). — Insurgent despatches reported to-day that two of General Franco's columns were converging on Tarrangona, major Mediterranean coastal city 50 miles south-west of Barcelona.

One column, moving toward the city from the west, was reported to have taken the villages Bellmunt and Pradell, just north-west and north-east of Falset, and to be encircling the latter town, 25 miles inland from Tarragona.

Another column was driving from the north, advancing against Espluga, just outside Montblach, 20 miles above Tarragona.

Insurgent reports said the government's counter-offensive in southwestern Spain was halted by reinforcements rushed by General Quepo Dellano to defend Seville communications lines with northern insurgent Spain.

Government despatches, however, reported General Jose Miaja's troops were consolidating conquered positions.

The insurgent communique listed capture of the road junction town of Mollerusa, east of Lerida; an advance to within five miles of Montblanch with occupation of Poblet Monastery, famous old abbey; and occupation of several smaller towns on or near the Lerida-Cevera-Barcelona highway.

Montblanch apparently was the immediate goal of insurgent campaign. It is only about 20 miles from the coastal city, Tarragona, and about 30 miles south-east of Lerida.

The advances were in the central and southern zone of the Catalonian front. Positions were unchanged in the north between Artesa de Segre and Tremp.

The government, meanwhile, pushed its campaign along the southwestern front in Cordoba Province, seeking to drive a wedge through the railroad connecting Seville with northern insurgent Spain. Barcelona communiques reported the government armies were about 65 miles from the Portuguese frontier, with four columns driving westward fanwise into Badajoz Province.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

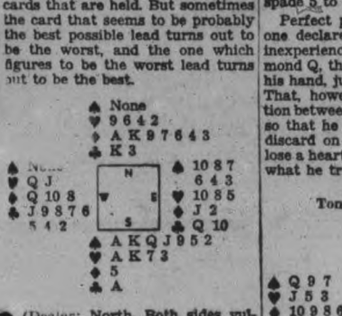
WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHOSE GUESS IS IT?

THAT QUESTION IS one of the stock jokes in some bridge circles, when the bidding is ended and a careless player is in doubt as to whether it is his lead or his partner's. Pretty logical rules govern the choice of lead, based on the bidding that has been done and the cards that are held. But sometimes the card that seems to be probably the best possible lead turns out to be the worst, and the one which figures to be the worst lead turns out to be the best.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

This deal was bid differently at most tables of a duplicate game, nearly all declarers somehow reaching contracts of 7-Spades. The briefest bidding was where North bid 1-Diamond and South went at once to seven. In all cases North bid his diamonds.

At some tables, after a lead of the heart Q, the declarer managed to go down two, losing two trump tricks to East. At several the set was held to one after that lead because the declarer played the hand right. After the heart K won, the spade A disclosed East's trump holding. The heart K was then cashed, club A taken in, Diamond A and K played, furnishing a heart discard, and the club K furnishing another, then a heart was ruffed by South, who threw East in the lead with the spade 5 to the 6, only trick lost.

Perfect play was of no value to one declarer, however, because an inexperienced player led the diamond Q, theoretically worst lead in his hand, judging from the bidding. That, however, broke communication between the declarer's holdings, so that he could never get a heart discard on the club K and had to lose a heart and a trump, no matter what he tried to do.

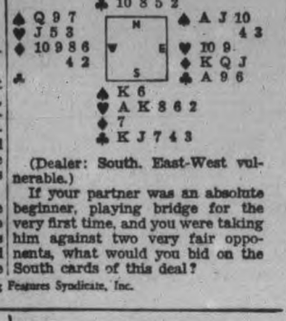
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

If your partner was an absolute beginner, playing bridge for the very first time, and you were taking him against two very fair opponents, what would you bid on the South cards of this deal?

"Boys Town" Substantiates Claim By Founder, Father Flanagan, To Effect "No Boy Is Really Bad"

BOYS TOWN, Neb., Jan. 11. — A human salvage plant, specializing in boys, is functioning here to substantiate Father E. J. Flanagan's contention that there is no such thing as "a really bad boy."

Close enough to Omaha to be a suburb, this unique and independent town of 300 boys is located on a 400-acre tract of Nebraska farm land. It is incorporated as a city under a special charter granted by the state legislature in 1936. Its mayor is a boy elected every six months and he governs with the approval of a boys' board of six city commissioners.

The administrative aspect of life here is important under Father Flanagan's policies. The pre-election campaigns are as heated and exciting as any held in any community in the nation. Through the administration of the town's affairs, the boys gain a knowledge of public affairs, probably far in advance of their contemporaries who are fortunate enough to have homes of their own.

"No Boy Really Bad"

The young Catholic priest has been motivated in his experiment that has attracted the attention of the nation by the singular conviction that, "No boy is really a bad boy."

"I realize only too well that many people will honestly disagree with the statement," Father Flanagan declared in an exclusive interview. "But I have been defending it for 21 years. And I feel that we have proven the truth of this belief in our record here at Boys Town. Since 1917 several thousand boys have come to the town—from homes destroyed by death, divorce, crime and other tragedies; from jails and prisons where they were confined, and from the streets and alleys of our big cities. We have yet to discover a boy who has gone out into the world from Boys Town and been convicted of any crime. To me that is ample justification for the statement that, 'No boy is really a bad boy'."

With a $90 loan and faith in an idea Father Flanagan founded the town here. Its schools are fully accredited and offer the boys a wide range of vocational education. No boy is discharged from the town until he steps into a job with a fair wage or he is adopted in a substantial home.

No Assessments

Financially, the town is supported entirely by voluntary contributions. Neither the Catholic church, any community chest, or any public organization contributes to or underwrites its upkeep. Boys are admitted without respect to race, color or creed, and they are encouraged to worship in any manner they desire.

It has been Father Flanagan's lament that his facilities could not accommodate the horde of homeless and penniless boys who have sought admission in recent years. Hollywood has made possible a probable expansion of tremendous proportions of this enterprise. A major film company produced the film "Boys Town," which has scored an emphatic hit and focussed national attention on the experiment. This paved the way for stage appearances of a Boys Town troupe in many metropolitan cities. These proceeds will make it possible to add considerably to the investment in living facilities for boys.

A group of movie stars went a bit further by sponsoring a postseason football game for the Boys Town football team — and dramatically enough, with the team representing the elite Blacke-Foxe Military academy of Hollywood, Boys Town won, 20 to 12, and the victory is being celebrated. The town's share of the proceeds was voted to be placed in the special building fund.

Rehabilitation of human beings has been Father Flanagan's chief aim in life. He began as a newly ordained priest in the early winter of 1913. The lower streets of Omaha were crowded with hungry, unemployed, restless men—the backwash of the crop failure which had struck the middlewest that year.

Disappointment

Father Flanagan sought to stem the tide of discontent and privation among the men. He founded what he called the workingmen's hotel, where as many as 500 men were cared for, housed, clothed and fed. The priest was extremely disappointed as he found many seeking to avoid work instead of finding it, and discovering that his philanthropic shelter was being taken advantage of by drug addicts, confirmed drunkards and even criminals using the hotel as a "hideout."

"But that experience taught me the lesson that led to the founding of Boys Town," Father Flanagan related. "I discovered that there was one thing in common in the past life of nearly every man who came to me there. He had been left homeless, orphaned or abandoned as a child. I became convinced that if we could find the homeless boy before he became entrenched in these vices that we might be able to prevent him from ever becoming one of these human shells.

"The results, I am proud to report," Father Flanagan declared, have erased the slightest skepticism to this belief."

Steamship Mogul Col. Gear Dies

MONTREAL, Jan. 11—(CP)—Col. William Inkerman Gear, 81, prominent Montreal steamship man and president of Crown Trust Company, died last night at his home in the neighboring city of Westmount.

Born in Toronto, Col. Gear had been in the steamship business since 1874 and at the time of his death owned his own steamship agency, William I. Gear and Company, Incorporated. He joined a shipping firm at the age of 14, starting the career during which he became an outstanding figure in the shipping life of eastern Canada.

Through his connection with the Robert Reford Company, Canadian agents for the Cunard Company, Col. Gear became a director of the parent company and its affiliated shipping enterprise, the Anchor-Donaldson Line, prior to his retirement from business in 1929.

Interested in several commercial organizations, Col. Gear was president of the Montreal Corn Exchange in 1902 and later head of the Montreal Board of Trade. He represented Montreal transportation interests on a commission which dealt with the development of the St. Lawrence River as a commercial artery in 1911 and 1912, and took a prominent part in the campaign waged to keep the St. Lawrence waterways and the power to be developed through its rapids in Canadian hands.

Advocate 16 Million Less Acres Of Wheat

LONDON, Jan. 11—(CP Cable).—Statistical reports of world wheat trade were reviewed today as the international wheat advisory board met to consider the current slump in the world's grain markets.

They expected last year's acreage of 81,000,000 would would be cut to 65,000,000 although if every wheat farmer complied with the plan, they said, this year's figure would be 55,000,000.

As a protest against artificial means of controlling production, a group of social credit supporters burned a sheaf of wheat outside the board of trade building, wheer the meeting was held.

Ray Atherton, United States minister to Bulgaria, who presided at the meeting announced the United States is relinquishing the chairmanship of the committee although not withdrawing its membership. Mr. Atherton will preside during the meeting but a permanent chairman will be chosen later today.

Reeve Forecasts Lower Tax Rate

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 11.—A possibility that reductions in the 1939 tax rate would be seen here were forecast by Reeve Lewis E. Kelley at the inaugural meeting of town council here Monday. The streets are in excellent shape, the reeve stated, and this would account for less expenditure in the streets department. Referring to town officials, he stated there would be no increase in salaries this year.

M. J. Baker, prominent Hastings business man, was re-appointed treasurer of the municipality for the seventeenth consecutive year and clerk for the sixth term.

Merchants, who failed to turn in their relief accounts in time for each council meeting, were subjects for discussion by the council. The reeve stated it was confusing to check up on each relief slip issued and urged that merchants be more prompt in presenting their accounts.

Congress Shapes Attack On Trade Pacts

By W. B. Ragsdale
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

WASHINGTON, Jane 12—(AP).—Lines are being laid in the United States congress for what easily may become a broad assault on the trade agreements policy by which President Roosevelt's administration has tried to pry open foreign markets.

State secretary Cordell Hull's visit to the senate finance committee tomorrow will open the way for a discussion of the whole policy, though ostensibly that visit is being made only to talk about the United States' trade treaty with Cuba.

How far efforts to revise the program will go is a question that can be answered only by the developments of the session.

Besides Republicans, some Democrats and several of the farm organizations are assailing the trade agreements. Changes proposed range from a complete repeal of the simple restoration of senate power to approve or disapprove the treaties worked out by the state department.

Score In Effect

Almost a score of these treaties have been put into effect, setting up trade alliances with as many nations. They included the recent Anglo-American agreement and a revision of the Canadian-American pact. They have been praised in many quarters, but each treaty has produced its own group of dissatisfied Americans. The latter complain that every time the tariff barriers are lowered on any foreign commodity, that article is brought into keener competition with some American product.

For example, when the agreement was signed recently with Canada, the National Live Stock Growers Association complained the administration was trying to sell us (the beef industry) down the river" by cuttin gthe duties on Canadian cattle and beef.

Not long afterward, the executive committee of the national grange called for senate ratification of all trade treaties and exclusion of all farm commodity imports that might increase the number of idle men or idle acreage, or force the sale of American products at prices below cost.

Holstein Breeders To Hear Mayberry

The Peterborough Milk Producers' Association are co-operating with the Holstein Breeders' Club in their annual banquet on Thursday, January 19 at 12.30 p.m. in the basement of Mark Street United church. These organizations are also inviting the Cheese Producers' Association and the Concentrated Milk Producers to join with them on this occasion, thereby providing an occasion for the dairy farmers of the county to meet together.

The speaker for this dinner will be R. H. Mayberry of Ingersoll, a prominent dairy farmer who has been interested for years in the marketing of milk. He was one of the Canadian delegates at the Empire marketing conference in Australia a year ago. Mr. Mayberry's subject will be "Marketing Milk Products."

Tickets for the dinner are 50 cents, and as the number of rural club dinners is likely to be fewer than last winter everyone who is thinking of going along with the Holstein Breeders is advised to get a ticket before next Thursday. A special invitation is being extended to the ladies for this luncheon engagement.

525 Millions Need Of U.S. For Defences

No Hysteria In Call Says Roosevelt Shaping For Worst

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt asked the United States congress today for an immediate appropriation of $525,000,000 as the "minimum of requirements" for bulwarking the country's defence against the possibilities of present offence against us."

In a special message Mr. Roosevelt requested that the $525,000,000 be appropriated at once to be divided between the army and navy.

The fund would include $300,000,000 for a minimum increase of 3,000 in army plane strength.

He also asked for another $27,000,000 to provide an adequate "peace garrison for the Panama Canal," of which $5,000,000 would be for immediate use to begin necessary housing construction.

The total request, all of which would not be spent in one year, would boost the new budget for defence to $1,661,558,000, largest by far of any peace-time outlay.

"Devoid of all hysteria," the president said, "this program is but the minimum of requirements.

"I trust, therefore, that the congress will quickly act on this emergency program for the strengthening of the defence of the United States."

Not Ready In 1917

Mr. Roosevelt said that after entry into the Great War the United States "had more than a year of absolute peace at home without any threat of attack on this continent" to prepare its fighting forces.

"Calling attention to these facts does not remotely intimate that the congress or the president have any though of taking part in another war on European soil, but it does show that in 1917 we were not ready to conduct large-scale land or air operations," the president said.

"Relatively we are not much more ready to do so today than we were then—and we cannot guarantee a long period free from attack in which we could prepare."

Of the $525,000,000 the president asked that $450,000,000 be allocated for new needs of the army, $65,000,000 for similar requiremepts of the navy, and $10,000,000 for training civil air pilots.

The $300,000,000 of the army fund should provide a minimum increase of 3,000 planes, he said, adding it was hoped orders placed on a large scale will "materially reduce the unit cost and actually provide many more planes."

(The present authorized plane strength for the army is 2,320. Mr. Roosevelt did not indicate whether the proposed 3,000 plane increase would consist entirely of fighting planes, or include also training and other types. He said details would be submitted to the appropriate committees by the war and navy departments.)

More Guns Of All Kinds

Of the $150,000,000 balance for the army, $110,000,000 would go for

Hastings Fire Late on Wednesday afternoon fire destroyed the home in which two Hastings families resided. Flames spread so rapidly that practically nothing was saved and the whole building was destroyed in less than an hour. (Examiner Correspondent's Photo).

Two Families Homeless By Hastings Fire

HASTINGS, Jan. 12—When fire of undetermined origin swept a two-storey frame dwelling at the southern limits of the village early last night, two families were rendered homeless and a four month's old baby was the near victim of suffocation as she slept in a carriage.

Mrs. James Ryder, mother of the child, and Mrs. Alton Barker, a neighbor, became confused in a rush to save clothing and piled it over the baby, who slept.

Mrs. Barker said she did not know there was a baby in the carriage, and piled clothing on it intending to form a bundle which could easily be carried to the street. Fortunately, Mrs. Ryder, discovered in due time what might have been a fatal error and removed her child to safety.

Fire was first discovered in a stairway leading to the cellar and had gained considerable headway. Mrs. Ryder, in charge of six children, were occupants of the house at that time. She sent her brother, Billy, 9, about 300 yards down the road to the nearest telephone to sound the alarm and her sister, June, 12, was sent across the road to a neighbor's for assistance.

Mrs. Alton Barker and Mrs. Ryder attended removal of some clothing while Wilbert Beavis and Roy Skinkle, first men to arrive, threw buckets of water on the blaze.

Timmins Clerk Of 25 Years Ousted In Fight That Ends With 3 Town Fathers Quitting

TIMMINS, Ont., Jan 12 (CP)—H. E. Montgomery, Timmins town clerk for the past 25 years, was ousted from office last night at a meeting which ended in the resignation of three town council members.

Bitter words passed between councillors and Mayor J. P. Bartleman, who was accused of "passing the buck" on the question of single unemployed relief.

By a 4-to-3 vote the council passed a by-law revoking Montgomery's appointment. The principal charge against him was inefficiency. Councillors Len Cousins, Brunette, and Roberts resigned, claiming adequate motives for the dismissal had not been furnished.

Defence Purchasing Board Is Also Forecast In Speech From Throne

Aid To Be Offered Municipalities Give Jobs, Public Works To Be Extended; Tweedsmuir Sees World Tension Ahead

OTTAWA, Jan. 12 (CP).—Further expansion of Canadian defence forces to guard against continued threats to world peace and establishment of a defence purchasing board were forecast in the Speech from the Throne today as major projects for the present session of parliament.

Brilliant sunshine bathed Parliament Hill today and only a light crispness of the atmosphere carried a reminder that Canada's 18th parliament was being formally opened in mid-winter.

Ottawans searched their memories to recall if, and when, the weatherman had ever been more indulgent. The unseasonable mildness brought to the Parliament Buildings crowds considerably larger than usual.

The regular accompaniment to the opening of parliament are blustering winds and snow, with soldiers shivering in their greatcoats and spectators seeking refuge within the rooms of the buildings. But today was spring-like, invigorating and generously treated with sunshine.

Most of the parliamentarians were present, and all morning they were busy renewing acquaintance, setting their offices in order and speculating on how long they would be here. Some looked for a short, sharp session. Others believed it would be long and that adjournment would be made for the royal visit in May. All were inclined to agree that, this being a pre-election session, it would be more vigorous than the three that have preceded it.

Busy Time Ahead.

The speech, read at the opening ceremonies by Governor-General Lord Tweedsmuir indicated a busy few months for members of Parliament and Senators, assembled for the fourth session of the 18th Parliament of Canada.

Employment, trade and grain marketing will be other subjects affected by the Legislation of the session. Aid will be offered municipalities in putting men to work and Federal public works will be expanded.

The Canada-West Indies trade agreement will be terminated and negotiations opened for a new one. A law to regulate grain exchanges will be submitted. The Canada Grain Act will be revised. Other measures to aid in the marketing of farm products will be introduced.

While expressing hope the efforts now being made to effect a peaceful settlement of international differences would meet with success, the speech said time was required for these efforts to accomplish anything. In the meantime the possibility of further tension had to be faced.

"The Government have considered that the uncertainties of the future and the conditions of modern warfare make it imperative that Canada's defences be materially strengthened," the speech read.

"Two years ago the appropriations for defence were substantially increased and a beginning made on a program of modernization to safeguard the country from the dangers of attack.

Think 4 Windsor Slayers In New Holdup

TORONTO, Jan. 12.—(CP).—Four gunmen, resembling somewhat the quartette which killed James Windsor last Saturday, held up and robbed William Whittingham in the kitchen of his home on Westmoreland avenue in much the same manner early to-day.

There was no shooting. The loot amounted to $5. They fled when Whittingham suddenly yelled, "All right, Jack! Give me my shadow-gun!

Mr. Whittingham's shout, which might have cost him his life, was pure bluff, he said later. There was no Jack in the house and he does not think there is such a thing as a shadow-gun. He meant to have shouted "shot-gun."

Mrs. Whittingham, in the kitchen with her husband about half an hour after midnight, also was threatened.

"Mind your own business or you'll get it too!" one of the gunmen said.

Telephone calls to newspaper offices and to Chief Inspector John Chisholm at police headquarters were other peculiar developments of last night in Windsor's death.

Know Killer By Feb. 1.

A voice each time repeated substantially the same message. "The murderer of Jimmy Windsor will be known on February 1. The initials are E.R."

Police believe the voice came from a "crank" but added it to the mass of "information received."

Police searched all suspected bootlegging establishments in the city immediately after they investigated the Whittingham hold-up, as both the victim and his wife declared the four men had bottles of beer in their pockets. Descriptions were given to police by Mr. and Mrs. Whittingham which tallied closely with that of the four Windsor gunmen except in the matter of height.

"Height is often deceptive," declared Inspector Chisholm. "We are certainly not discarding the possibility that they might be the men responsible for the murder."

2 Hurt In Blast At University

WINNIPEG, Jan. 12—(CP).—Two men were sent hospital today when an explosion wrecked the third floor of the University of Manitoba science building. Origin of the blast has not been traced but chemicals are believed responsible.

The injured are William McColl, 45, and William Thompson, 42, maintenance men. They were rushed to Victoria Hospital where officials said extent of their injuries had not yet been determined.

Classes o fthe university, situated in Fort Garry, Southern suburb of Winnipeg, had not been assembled when the accident occurred.

McColl and Thompson were working in a laboratory when the explosion smashed windows, wrecked equipment and hurled them across the room. There was no fire.

Valuable laboratory equipment, including burners and test tubes, were destroyed. In a hasty estimate one authority gave the damage as around $50,000.

Brazil recently shipped 230,000 bags of coffee to Germany.

Text Of Speech From Throne Read At Parliament's Opening

OTTAWA, Jan. 12.—(CP)—Following is the text of the Speech from the Throne read at the opening of Parliament today by Governor General Lord Tweedsmuir:

Honorable Members of the Senate:
Members of the House of Commons:

The announcement that Their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth have graciously decided to visit Canada in the months of May and June has been received with rejoicing throughout the Dominion. The honor of welcoming their King and Queen, in person, on their own soil, is a privilege which will be shared with enthusiasm and pride by all His Majesty's Canadian subjects. The visit will be the first paid by the reigning sovereign to any of his self-governing dominions. It will be the first time a British King and Queen have been in North America. It is deeply gratifying that Their Majesties' tour will embrace all the provinces of Canada.

Premier King

Demonstrations Of Friendship

The official visit paid Canada in August last by the President of the United States was the occasion of unusually warm demonstrations of friendship and understanding upon both sides of our common border. It is particularly pleasing to the citizens of our country that the King and Queen have found it possible to accept the invitation of the President to visit the United States before the conclusion of their Canadian tour.

My ministers have found it necessary to give anxious and continuous consideration to developments in the international situation and their effects upon Canada. Our own relations with other countries continue friendly, but the aggressive policies actively pursued in other continents have inevitably had a disturbing effect upon every part of the world.

The government shared in the general sense of relief that the appalling disaster of war, which threatened Europe during the month of September last, was averted, and in the recognition which that crisis manifested of the widespread will of the peoples for peace.

Must Strengthen Defences

They are hopeful that the efforts now being made to find a solution for the specific differences which are causing friction will meet with success. They recognize, nevertheless, that time is required for these forces to work, and that the possibility of further tension in the meantime must be faced. In this situation, the government have considered that the uncertainties of the future, and the conditions of modern warfare, make it imperative that Canada's defences be materially strengthened.

Two years ago, the appropriations for defence were substantially increased, and a beginning made on a program of modernization to safeguard the country from the dangers of attack. The government intend to pursue this policy vigorously, and to propose to parliament that the program of defence should be further augmented, and that particular emphasis should be laid upon air defence.

Legislation will be introduced to establish a defence purchasing board with power to purchase equipment for the defence services and to ensure that, where private manufacture is necessary, profits in connection with such are fair and reasonable, and that the public interest in protected.

While taking the measures necessary to assure the maintenace of our national integrity against the possibility of external aggression, the government have sought in positive ways to strengthen the mutual interests which unite Canada in friendly relations with other countries.

Hon. R. J. Manion

You will be asked to approve the trade agreement with the United States of America, signed at Washington on Nov. 17, 1938. This agreement fulfils the hope expressed in the Speech from the Throne, last year, for an agreement with the United States, which would confirm and enlarge the advantages of the agreement concluded in 1935.

Simultaneously with the conclusion of the new agreement between Canada and the United States, a far-reaching agreement was effected between the United States and the United Kingdom. Taken together, the agreements constitute a constructive contribution toward a betterment of world conditions. It is deeply gratifying to the government that in their efforts to increase, and to ensure a longer period of time, the advantages to Canadian producers and consumers secured in earlier agreements, they were able, at the same time, to further the ends of international good-will.

The Canada-United States agreements have involved, in addition to the wider markets secured for Canadian products, a thoroughgoing revision of the Canadian tariff structure, and a reduction of taxes on trade much greater than that made by any previous parliament, or by any other country in recent years.

Notice has been given, effective Dec. 31, 1939, terminating the Canada-West Indies agreement concluded in 1925. My ministers hope that negotiations will shortly be entered upon leading to a new agreement which wil lbe mutually beneficial to the West Indian colonies and to Canada. In connection therewith the tariff board has been directed to make a careful examination of the sugar preferences and duties.

Responsibility Divided

Unemployment in Canada continues to receive the unremitting attention of local, provincial and federal authorities. Having regard to the existing division of powers and obligations under the British North America Act, responsibility for unemployment and the solution of its problems is necessarily divided. There has been an increasing assumption of obligations on the part of the federal government.

World Wheat Parley Coming

LONDON, Jan. 12.—(CP Cable)—The International Wheat Advisory Board today decided to call an international conference to deal with the world wheat problem. It will be the first since August, 1933, and likely will be held in London.

The agenda for the conference will not be prepared until tomorrow and even then they may not touch more than the broad principles to be discussed.

It is understood that Vincent Massey, Canadian High Commissioner, told the committee the Canadian government agreed to a world conference but made reservations on several policies which have been mentioned as likely to be discussed at the conference.

New Power Unit To Drive Plane Across U.S. On Quart Of Water, So Inventor Says

DETROIT, Jan. 12 (CP) — Glenn W. Watson, whose radio typewriter is used on modern battleships throughout the world, claimed today he had invented a steam power unit that would drive airplanes across the country on a quart of water.

The device he terms a "cold coil" generator "results in instantaneous transformation of water into steam." By condensing the steam and using it over and over, he hopes to operate even airplane engines without a boiler.

He is keeping secret the electric unit that is the basis of the steam generator, he said. Watson, a native Detroiter, comes from a family of inventors.

Safe-Cracking Robber Gangs Pay 7 Visits To Hamilton District In One Night

HAMILTON, Ont., Jan. 12 (CP) —Safe-crackers and shopbreakers were active in Hamilton and nearby towns during the night, two store safes containing about $400, automobile equipment and other goods being stolen.

Three men travelling in a large motor-car was believed responsible for a break-in at Grimsby, where an automobile radio and other equipment were stolen from a store. The same gang was believed responsible for two store robberies in Hamilton when two safes were stolen.

Four stores were entered in Westdale but police said they did not believe the break-ins were by the same gang that escaped with the safes here.

The Hamilton robberies were in Loblaw's groceteria where a safe containing $300 was stolen and John Gibson's drug store, where a safe with $100 was taken.

Duce To Give Chamberlain Definition Of "Justice" He Sets As Price Of Peace

British Premier Listens To Lengthy Demands With Italy Convinced She Must Rule Or Be Prisoner In The Mediterranean

By Edward Kennedy (Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

ROME, Jan. 12 (AP).—Premier Mussolini presents to Prime Minister Chamberlain today his demands upon Europe, constituting in effect a definition of the "justice" which he sets as the price of peace and likely revolving about control of the Mediterranean and colonial concessions.

Mussolini laid down the policy of "peace founded on justice" in a friendly toast at the banquet he gave the British Prime Minister last night.

Mr. Chamberlain, in answering toast, said his way was for a "just and peaceful solution of international difficulties by the method of negotiation."

The two talked informally for 90 minutes at one meeting yesterday and chatted again after the banquet. The formal conference today included, as did the previous discussions, Foreign Ministers Lord Halifax and Count Galeazzo Ciano, Mussolini's son-in-law.

Count Ciano received Lord Halifax, Sir Alexander Cadogan, British Permanent Undersecretary of Foreign Affairs, and Sir Noel Charles, counsellor of the British Embassy, an hour before the formal program started with a visit by Mr. Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax at the Pantheon of Italian kings and the unknown soldier's tomb.

The presence of Sir Alexander was believed to indicate that the preliminary talks dealt with Italian desire for concessions in French Africa and perhaps with the Spanish war.

Long List Of Demands?

Mr. Chamberlain's position in the ensuing formal parley was said to be that of a listener, offering nothing until he had heard Mussolini's demands, which diplomats expected would be considerable.

It is the Fascist conviction that Italy either must dominate or be a prisoner in the Mediterranean.

The two statesmen, in their toasts, affirmed past Italian and British assertions that the sea was so vital to each that it could be made a bond of union rather than the bone of contention.

But Italy has indicated by her recent course that she feels this union can be achieved only by sacrifices from a third party, France. (The Italian press for weeks has agitated for control of French Tunisia, and for concessions in French Somaliland, in management of the Suez Canal and Djibouti—Addis Ababa railroad).

The outcome of the talks, therefore, depended largely on how much Mussolini could get Mr. Chamberlain to ask France to give, and how

Mrs. G. Rigby Elected President

HAVELOCK, Jan. 12. — Mrs. George Rigby was elected president of the Havelock Home and School Association at the annual election of officers on Tuesday evening in the school. Mrs. Rigby succeeds Mrs. Walter Nobes, who has been president of the organization since it began two years ago.

Principal W. D. Duncan of the Public School, acted as chairman during the election of officers, which resulted as follows: President, Mrs. G. Rigby; vice-president, Mrs. Charles Taylor; secretary, Mrs. Ray Scott; treasurer, Mrs. V. Brisbin; program convener, Mrs. H. B. Puffer; social convener, Mrs. H. Hoard; membership convener, Mrs. W. Forsythe; executive committee, Miss Lucy Wing, Mith Edith Roberts, Mrs. W. D. Duncan, Mrs. H. Pollock, and D. C. Drinkwalter.

"The Changing Curriculum Meets the Need of Modern Living" was the subject of an interesting address by W. D. Duncan. The speaker discussed civics, geography, stress on English, all of which aid in triumphing life, and solve the problem of leisure time. The pupils should be able to read simply, naturally, accurately, and effectively. The new course aims to form and strengthen character; to train boys and girls to follow pursuits in literature and crafts; and to awaken intelligence so that the students may take their place in municipal affairs."

Mrs. Smythe proved to be the victor in a spelling match, in which all the members competed.

Following some community singing, the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Juryman Advises Police Probe Mine Accidents

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., Jan. 12 (CP)—An inquest juryman's recommendation that municipal police officers be summoned to investigate all Ontario mine accidents was forwarded today to Attorney-General Gordon Conant and Mines Minister Paul Leduc.

Tommy Church, Teck township councillor and member of the International Committee of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, submitted the recommendation as a rider after the jury inquiring last night into the deaths of John Holubec and Vito Vlaisavgevic in Lake Shore Mine Dec. 27 declared death accidental. Church questioned witnesses more extensively than any other member of the jury, made up of miners and mine union members.

The jury recommended that future mine blasts be set off as far as possible from the rock to be blasted. Holubec and Vlaisavgevic were entombed by a rock-burst and their bodies were recovered eight days later by rescue crews that tunnelled night and day through 83 feet of piled rock.

Church declared in his rider that mine accidents should be investigated by police the same as any other accidents. He also suggested that rock blasts should be made from electric fuses from a central point when the miners have left the mine.

"This rider was considered as a full rider to the verdict," Coroner Dr. R. J. Edis explained. "But when members of the jury disagreed it was added by Mr. Church personally. I am forwarding copies of it to the district crown attorney, the attorney-general's department and the mines department."

Victim Broke Rules

K. Gustafson, drill runner on the shift with Holubec and Vlaisavgevic, testified the two men broke safety regulations the night they were killed, by sparking blasts from a motor. Previous blasts on the raise where they were working had all been sparked from a switch, he said, but the switch nearest the point where they were blasting was located out of range.

"I was recovering from effects of the Christmas celebration or I would have been with Holubec and Vlaisavgevic," Gustafson said.

John Adamson, underground superintendent at the mine, explained a rock-burst as the breaking of brittle rock under pressure from rock above.

Mines Inspector W. O. Tower explained that regulations require all blasting in raises past a height of 50 feet to be made from a switchbox. The men were working about 114 feet up in the raise when the accident occurred.

E. Breens, the motorman who loaned Holubec and Vlaisavgevic an electric tram to spark blasts, said he was about 275 feet from them when he heard "three shots go off." The rockburst occurred simultaneously. No instructions had been issued against using a tram to spark blasts, he declared in answer to a question from Church.

Shift bosses J. Harlinge and H. Sims said the men sparked the blast from the tram-motor because the key to the switchbox in an old powder-house nearby had been lost.

Gustafson declared the rock was "brittle and broke good" in the raise. Sims said he saw nothing dangerous in the raise less than three hours before the rock-burst.

Colorado Mystery Fish That Wear Fur Coats Found Merely Covered With Fungus

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12 (CP) Fred Orsinger, director of the United States Bureau of Fisheries Aquarium, explained today the Colorado fur-bearing fish mystery.

"This is the season for fur-bearing fish," said the fisheries official. "The fur, however, isn't fur, but fungus."

Orsinger had heard that Otis McIntyre, secretary of the Colorado Game and Fish Commission, said he would recommend an out-of-season cast to try to hook the furry one reported seen in a river in that state.

Orsinger said he'd seen hundreds of so-called fur-bearing fish.

At this time of year most stream fish are extremely lazy, he said and fungus gets attached to them.

"Why I've seen some fish that the average layman would swear were wearing a mink coat," Orsinger claimed.

Insurgents In Sight Of Mediterranean

HENDAYE, France, Jan. 12 (AP).—Spanish insurgent forces, already in sight of the Mediterranean, gathered momentum today in their drive toward Tarragona, threatening to isolate government troops to the south.

General Franco's troops were reported advancing southward from Montblanch, gateway to Tarragona, which fell into insurgent hands late yesterday after a combined drive by four supporting columns had swept aside government resistance around the little city of 5,000 population.

At the same time General Juan Yague's Moroccan troops went into action in the long-dormant sector east of Mora de Ebro. These forces took Mora La Neuva on the west bank of the flood--swollen Ebro River and skirted to the south and east toward a junction with another column now threatening Falset.

The combined movements of General Yague's troops and those around Falset and Montblanch threatened to cut off a large slice of government territory, trapping the militiamen still defending Tortosa and the region between the Ebro River and the sea.

Franco was said to control two sides of the triangle formed by Montblanch, Falset and Tarragona. Military observers said insurgents advancing along the Montblanch-Tarragona highway could see the Mediterranean clearly and that the government's communications between Montblanch and Falset were under insurgent fire.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Jan. 12 — (C.P.). — Late selling which developed after reports of uncertainty at Chicago, caused Winnipeg wheat futures to lose some of their early gain today, but the decline was not sufficient to drive prices below the previous close. At the finish values were ¼ to ⅜ cents higher, with May at 62⅜, July 63⅛ and October 63¼ to ⅜ cents.

Export business in Canadian wheat was placed near the 750,000 bushel-mark, largest for several days. Except for opening flurries, trading was generaly quiet.

Sale of two Australian flour cargoes to China and inquiries for further quantities gave a firm tone to Liverpool trading and quotations finished the session ½ to ⅝d higher.

Should Do Two Things

A conference between railway officials and members of the City Council will probably result in a change being made in the regulations regarding the blowing of locomotive whistles within the city limits. The existing bylaw of the city forbids it and that is not a wise provision in its entirety because it puts the city in the position of telling the railway companies how to operate their trains within the city limits. If the city issues such instructions then it is logical argument to claim the city also assumes responsibility for the carrying into effect of its bylaw.

In making any changes the city might well aim to accomplish two things, (1) the elimination of unnecessary blowing of whistles, and (2) the placing of the onus for safe operation directly in the hands of the railway companies.

We have in all some 57 railway crossings in this city, and the only place where gates are used is at the George Street crossing of the C.P.R. Apart from that there are some half dozen wig-wags at other frequently-used crossings where traffic is heavy. Otherwise the crossings are open and unprotected.

We do not believe it is necessary for the whistle to be blown at every crossing where neither pedestrian or vehicle is in sight, but we are certain the changed bylaw should give the locomotive engineer freedom to issue such warning as he considers necessary because he is the one who is right there and sees the varying conditions as they are enacted.

The primary consideration is that the railway companies should agree to such regulations and on that basis accept responsibility for the operation of their trains within the city limits. We should as a city withdraw from the position of making such regulations as carry with them any indication of our acceptance of responsibility for whatever may happen in their operation.

Now That's Splendid

When announcement was made of the plans to build a road between Buckhorn and Bobcaygeon, the Examiner stated it might be the right time to ask why the highway from Apsley to Bancroft was not completed.

Well, the answer has been given, and A. L. Elliott, K.C., member for this riding in the Ontario Legislature, has furnished it. Just this—the road will be completed and work will be proceeded with in the spring.

And that is what this paper desired to hear said. There is no lack of labor in the district and it would be well to place more men on it than have been previously engaged. Building a highway is something like making a house or a suit of clothes. The thing is not of much use until it is completed and ready for use.

We are satisfied the completion of the Apsley to Bancroft road will mean more to this city and district than a good many people have so far credited.

Handicapped By Fear

When it came time for the burial of James Windsor, who was murdered in Toronto, there was much reluctance on the part of those who had been asked to act as pall-bearers. One man backed out and gave as his reason that he was afraid to do so. He might be identified as having been associated with Windsor in the bootlegging or bookmaking business and become himself a victim of the gang who murdered Windsor.

We read that the names of all six pall-bearers were kept secret and not even the undertaker knew in advance who was going to act. That is not the way such things are generally done. As soon as the pall-bearers are named the list is open for release to the newspapers for an advance story if they desire to use this material that way.

That fear which grips people when they have reason to believe gangsters are after them is as real as can be. It is well enough for the outsider to laugh at it, but the known fact is that four murderers who killed Windsor are still at large, and it is also known that they would as readily kill any other person who had crossed them as they dealt with Windsor.

That same fear is something which hampers police action. Those who might have something interesting or useful to tell the police are not saying anything. They may even have a good enough idea of how it all happened and why but they keep the information to themselves and leave the police to work it out as best they may without any assistance. That feeling of fear tells them that if they talk they will be marked men and their lives will be in danger. That is why one gangster will not squeal about another.

It means that Toronto police with a murder case on their hands are handicapped by fear. They cannot go to an individual and ask what he knows about the case and come away with a statement. It is not that the underworld has subscribed to any code of ethics. It is merely that its members remain silent for fear of what may happen if they follow any other course.

What Can They Do?

There are 22 nations represented at a meeting of the International Wheat Advisory Committee in London. This is a permanent organization and possibly there are few things regarding the output of wheat which are not on daily record in their office.

A good deal of the material appearing telling of their deliberations is a general resume of statements and arguments which have been many times submitted at similar gatherings elsewhere. The most significant statement is that the estimated consumption of wheat during the crop year ending next July 1 was only 75 per cent. of the world supply.

That is if the supply were 800 million bushels, then there would be 200 million bushels left for which there would be no demand.

The next question is: What do they intend to do about it? Such gatherings possess little or no authority. That is, they cannot possibly go to wheat growers in Canada and tell them to quit producing wheat. At best they can only advise and present the possibilities of disposing of wheat. As far as our country is concerned the individual farmer would have to deal with his own acres and plan his own crop schedule.

The matter is of interest to our government if it intends to go ahead with the policy of paying a fixed price for wheat. It is aware in advance that there is an existing surplus which the present rate of consumption will not dissipate, and that means there will be no possibility of avoiding the large losses to which it has been committed by paying a price above that registered in the markets of the world. It all comes back to the simple problem of having too many farmers in too many countries growing too many bushels of wheat and that of course was all known before the 22 nations sent their representatives to the meeting in London.

We Can't Regulate It

Hon. P. M. Dewan, Minister of Agriculture, believes there should be a law to prevent the pilfering of Christmas trees from either Crown lands or private property. It is estimated there are 5,000,000 trees cut in this country each year; last year customs figures showed the value of exported trees as $509,000.

The average Christmas tree is one of eight or ten years' growth and we do not suppose there is any reliable way of even giving an approximate value of the crop. There are some owners of bush land who cut their own trees and sell them direct by the door-to-door method. If they are fortunate they may get rid of most of the stock for 50 cents each. We were informed the other day of one man who sold trees to a couple of men who came and cut them and took them away, and he got little more than ten cents each for them. Then there are always a large number left over which are pure waste. It has always been done the same way and we can think of no method which would place the right number of trees on the market.

As for taking them from Crown lands or private property—that is stealing them—it would seem that the existing law regarding trespass and theft should be sufficient. If it cannot be enforced then any new law or regulation would be in the same position.

Our Standard Of Living

In a letter written to the Examiner by a young man who is 25 years of age there is complaint about living conditions in this country. We quote:

"We are being forced down to a standard of living which is lower than we have yet experienced. There are too many of our homes where there is no buying power and where by only the most frugal planning is it possible to keep things going. When one considers that we are a new people in a new country there is only one conclusion and that is we are not making much of a job of it."

We doubt whether this young man knows much about the standard of living which has been followed by a great many people in a great many sections of this country. We are moved to doubt if many of our grandfathers knew much about what we refer to as a standard of living. When people first came into this country most of them were hard up. If there had been a system of relief then in existence they could have qualified for its benefits. Of ready money they had little; often enough they would have none at all.

People who were born on a farm or in some of our villages know well enough there was never much money in evidence, and that often enough there was the very thing which this young man mentions, frugal management. If it had not been for that there would have been something like disaster.

We can think of a number of homes in one village, and the same applies to a number of the farm homes in the district around it, where a boy was apt to be pretty well grown up before he ever had a suit of clothes which he was the first one to wear. Making over the garments of father or uncle or any other relative who might contribute, was a common practice. Mittens and stockings and often enough underwear were all made at home. There were homes where the evening meal consisted of boiled barley and wheat with a touch of molasses on it. There was no money to be spent for sports. If the boys decided to play they did so with their own equipment. But no person ever thought of such conditions as a hardship and probably it did not occur to people that their standard of living was not high.

There were no telephones, electric lights, electric ranges, power-driven washing machines, radios, automobiles, picture shows, refreshment booths, and yet there are thousands of our people in Canada who had just such an experience in their youth, and if one were to ask them if they had a good time they would reply emphatically in the affirmative. The most of our people in this country are not well-to-do and they never have been. But in spite of that it is possible to lead a happy and a rather useful existence.

TIME TABLE

¶ A little book came in today, I quickly flung the thing away, and did it with a jerk; it told me on the second page, that in this hard and moving age, that I should plan my work.

¶ I should get up right on the dot, nor linger when I shouldn't ought, each moment I should have; I should be brisk when I arose, and brisk when putting on my clothes, and brisker when I shave.

¶ I must leave home right on the dot, nor turn my back or pause or stop, just keep right straight ahead; if people come to call on me, must know how long they're going to be, must limit what is said.

¶ And I must keep that up all day, and work in scientific way, each day must be the same; and I must never lag behind, time every chore that I can find, just like they run a train.

¶ There may be something in that book, that I was wrong to overlook, I may be stubborn too; but I can't wind up like a clock, and time each movement like a block, in all I have to do.

¶ Why just today a chap came in, he had a fresh and friendly grin, he shook me by the hand; he left here fifteen years ago, I talked wih him an hour or so—and thought it simply grand.

Making Cheese Is the Way Out

JANUARY brings the patrons of hundreds of cheese factories together for their annual meetings. As most of these factories are run on semi-co-operative lines and the patrons have an active interest in the plants to which their milk is sent, there is usually a good attendance.

Annual reports, given by the owner, the secretary, or the maker as the case may be, tell the story of the year's work, the total milk received and the price at which the cheese were sold. A quick survey of the reports noted so far indicates that farmers who stuck to their cheese factories this year were wise.

As butter fat is the common denominator of all Canada's dairy enterprises, most factory reports translate the price received per pound of cheese in to the average value of the butter fat made into cheese during the year. Ontario reports show, says The Family Herald, that cheese factory patrons have this year been paid between 31 1-2 and 33 1-2 cents per pound of fat in the milk they delivered during the past season. A few factories, of course, make both butter and cheese, and one of these reported that butter fat as butter brought an average of around 29 cents or as cheese 32 cents per lb.

Speaking for Quebec dairymen recently J. F. Singleton, assistant chief of marketing, Department of Agriculture, emphasized the fact that, although the butter market in Canada reached a record high of 36 cents per pound in March, every month thereafter recorded declines with mounting surplus production, and now, at the turn of the year, this surplus is holding prices down to around 20 cents. And most wiseacres admit that late spring may see further reductions.

Mr. Singleton made out a wonderful case for a swing from butter to cheese production, proving beyond a doubt that Canada's surplus butter fat should go to the United Kingdom as cheese rather than stay home and flood the domestic market as butter. But the question is how can this theorizing be turned into action?

The Family Herald asked a leading extension man of Quebec if he thought cream producers in his area could be brought back to feeding whey instead of skim milk. "Not a chance," said he, "my farmers have found that skim milk is good for young cattle, for pigs, and for hens, and you'd have a hard time getting them to support a cheese factory."

How then, are Central Canada dairymen to be persuaded to increase cheese production? The Ontario Cheese Producer's Association can help by giving as wide publicity as possible to the facts mentioned above, for one thing. The Dominion Experimental Farms system might revise and bring up to date its experiments on the value of whey (particularly the pasteurized variety!) for feeding various kinds of live stock.

Inevitably some people will ask for a Government subsidy. Even were our Government committed to such a policy, it would be a terribly complicated matter to subsidize the cheese industry under present conditions. About the only way in which Government aid either Federal or Provincial, might be legitimately given so as to offer some immediate help would be the appointment of fieldmen or supplemental cheese factory instructors, whose work might include varied service and instruction of which our dairy farmers are always in need.

To The Editor

WANTS A CHANCE

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Our City Council have been talking a lot lately about the increasing number of people who apply for relief, and Mr. Dutton wants to make a lot of new laws, whereby people will find it much harder to get assistance.

I believe there is a law which is supposed to compel people such as the Globe Construction Co. to employ local workmen whenever possible. This may be a city by-law; I don't know. I know at least three first class carpenters, who have repeatedly applied for work at the Royal Theatre. This morning (I am a laborer) we discovered four carpenters from outside the city working in that building.

If the city would take the trouble they could prevent quite a few men from applying for relief by making such companies employ local men. At least they can try.

And by the way, whoever struck out the clause "must be gainfully employed for a period not less than a year" was quite right, because a person who has been out of work for a year or more would be as likely to need relief as the one who had been working. The City Council should remember that they were placed in office by all the people in the city of Peterborough and should quit complaining and show a bit of constructive effort.

Very truly,
"PUZZLED."

Peterborough, Jan. 10.

A NEW THEORY OF ENERGY

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—The new theory of solar energy was the transcendant merit of being thoroughly scientific, that is, of fitting the facts. Briefly it is that atoms change under conditions of activity and re-emerge in their original form. This re-emergence is of course the pith of the theory. There is no proof of it except that it is a fact that conditions must renew hemselves. If true, it solves the problem of the perpetuity of the universe, something hitherto ridiculed by the school of modernist criticism. Moreover it teaches us once more (if it is possible to teach us anything), that it is not necessary that the universe should conform to the ideas of mankind, but that the ideas of mankind must bring themselves to conform to the facts. This is true of other things. It will have been observed by those interested that arguing from assumptions as is rife in theology is in matters connecied with the Godhead a wholly impossible thing. Yet on it goes and that it is breaking down makes one wonder that it has not broken down before, for it is not man but God who is the creator of the universe,

J. H. BURNHAM.

AGREED

"The trouble is, Daphne, the bank won't let me marry under £200 a year."

"Oh, don't worry about that, I won't let you marry me under £2,000."

—Humorist.

Predicting Events In 1939

THERE are few people who would care to predict what is going to take place in 1939. The Examiner presents the following forecast issued by the Rosicrucian Order on the ground that it at least makes interesting reading:

EVERY YEAR the Rosicrucian Order issues a booklet dealing with coming events. The one for 1939, "The Czecher-Game of 1939" is the eighth in the series and is now being released for free distribution. As usual, it makes interesting reading, especially as in the past issues the percentage of error, and that due only to the unpredictable element of the human equation, has been less than ten per cent.

As the material for these predictions is tabulated and prepared many months in advance, this is a remarkable record. The present booklet opens with an explanation of the manoevering for position that is now going on in Europe and the consequent recurring crises and hopes for peaceful settlements. It offers the novel reason, (that is, novel to the non-Rosicrucian) that much of the mental unrest of today is due to the disturbing effect upon our nervous systems of the tremendous magnetic and electrical surges arising from the present sunspot maximum. In passing, one may say that the Rosicrucian Order has for centuries made a special study of cosmic and solar radiations. However, passing on to more mundane subjects, we learn that should there be an outbreak of war in Europe or the East, that neither the United States, Canada, or Mexico will suffer such drastic economic effects as they did in the Great War.

In the States there will be a continuance of unemployment and of labor troubles until finally the great army of consumers will rebel and appeal to the government seeking legislation that will be of service to them. As a result labor will lose some of its power and much of its legalized protection.

IN CANADA

In regard to Canada, she will make very clear to Great Britain the part she will play in any conflict in which England is involved. She will declare her loyalty in matters affecting the security of the Empire only if England has not brought the conflict upon herself. Most definitely she will not side with England in any political move which might endanger her own peace. In view of Japanese aggression both Canada and Australia will to a certain extent lean more upon the naval strength of the United States. There will be further tariff changes between Canada and the U. S. to their mutual benefit but to the detriment of Great Britain.

In world events, the Mediterranean trouble will continue. Great Britain during the late summer, or early fall of 1939, will be faced with the decision as to whether to plunge the Empire into war in order to uphold her prestige, or to keep the peace at the cost of sacrificing her position as a world power. Economically, British shipping will be greatly stimulated by the tremendous importation of material by European powers in preparation for the eventual conflict. In Palestine, despite sporadic outbreaks, there will be a strengthening of governmental control. England will not capitulate to the Arabs, but recognising the justice of some of their claims, will greatly restrict Jewish immigration.

HITLER IN DANGER

In Germany, 1939 will see the culmination of Hitler's power. He will be compelled to submit to the demands of the united democracies and their allies under threat of immediate war, which would mean both his and Germany's destruction. As a result, the populace which has hitherto thought him invincible, will see a weakness which his opponents in his own country will not be slow to seize upon.

Economically, Germany's export trade will greatly decline particularly that to the South American countries, largely as a result of her subversive activities in that continent. Also the concentration of her efforts on preparations for war will further prevent her from keeping her place as a great exporting nation.

As in the past, France will be greatly disturbed by political and social troubles and she may expect much the same difficulties in Syria as England has had in Palestine.

Italy will secure favorable trade agreements from England on the promise to keep the peace in the Mediterranean and generally, she will be more prosperous at the close of 1939 than she has been for years. As her prosperity increases she will gradually draw away from her dangerous alliance with Germany. She will also lessen, to the point of abolition, her recent anti-Jewish enactments.

OTHER EVENTS

As to the world in general, there is predicted the inauguration of a campaign for the unity of the Semitic races as against the other peoples of the world. That is that the two great monotheistic religions, the Mohammedan and the Jewish will draw together, incredible as it may seem to us. There is a rather gloomy touch to the picture of three great fundamental races, the Japanese, the Semitic and the Aryans each seeking to dominate the world, but that is what is predicted as the ultimate outcome.

The brochure closes with a hint of the developments in science which are quietly taking place in Latin America and forecasts of revolutionary advances in manufacturing and communication. All in all, although there are bright spots here and there, 1939 is likely to be a hectic year with its full quota of the troubles and anxieties associated with history in the making.

• Millions From Gasoline Taxes

THE GASOLINE TAX of 10 cents a gallon, which now prevails in the three Maritime Provinces, is the highest impost on motor fuel on the North American Continent. Quebec and Ontario levy 6 cents, and all the other provinces 7.

The Saint John Telegraph-Journal gives an interesting survey of the field of gasoline taxation in the United States. The rate of gasoline taxation is 4.8 cents per imperial gallon in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, as well as in New York, Pennsylvania and a number of other states in the mid-west. The lowest rate on the Continent prevails in Missouri and the District of Columbia, where it is about 2.4 cents on the Canadian gallon measure. Ten states have a tax of 3.6 cents, including Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Michigan and California. In eighteen states the rate is 4.8 cents, in ten it is six cents, in five 7.2 cents, in one 7.8 cents, and in three,—Florida, Tennessee and Louisiana, 8.4 cents.

Revenue from motor fuel taxes in Canada in 1937 aggregated $38,373,947, divided among the provinces as follows:

Ontario	$17,644,164
Quebec	7,078,230
British Columbia	3,118,312
Alberta	2,610,211
Manitoba	2,270,660
Nova Scotia	2,006,489
Saskatchewan	1,937,553
New Brunswick	1,439,096
Prince Edward Island	269,232

If the increase of seven per cent which took place in New Brunswick in 1938 is general all over Canada, the additional revenue collected by the provinces in motor fuel taxes during the year will be in the vicinity of $2,680,000.

New York, with a total of $61,461,000 is the greatest gas tax collector in the United States, followed by Pennsylvania with $55,711,000 and California with $46,614,000. In the amount of tax collected per vehicle registered, Florida led with $2.67; Louisiana was second with $49.22, and Tennessee third with $44.74. In Canada, the figures per car registered in 1937 were: Nova Scotia, $40.09; New Brunswick, $39.13; Quebec, $33.76; Prince Edward Island, $33.61; Ontario, $28.28; Manitoba, $28.08; British Columbia, $26.80; Alberta, $25.99, and Saskatchewan, $18.44.

The gasoline tax has become an important source of provincial and state revenue in recent years, and with the current improvement in highway surfacing, it is expected to continue to mount.

WHY ANNOUNCE?

TORONTO, Montreal and Winnipeg are regarded as hotbeds of Communism and Fascism, and the R.C.M.P. have been charged to investigate. Why handicap the police by announcing their orders? And why should there be much to worry about if these "isms" are merely confined to the crowded centres of population? In brief when these taints of foreign subversion begin to reach the people in the smaller cities, the towns and villages of Canada, there might be something to worry about. In the meantime, the police should do their job, but there should be no brass band announcement from Ottawa as to what they are about to do. No one ever heard tell of Scotland Yard having to work under such a handicap. — St. Catharines Standard.

THE SALE OF SKODA.

Big guns and shells bearing the well-known trade-mark Skoda, made in Czecho-Slovakia will henceforth go only to those countries in goosestep with Hitler. The French Schneider-Creusot interests, which since 1920 have had a big interest in Skoda, Europe's second largest munitions works, last week sold their shares to Czecho-Slovak interests. For thus recognizing "changed conditions" in eastern Europe, the former French share-holders were paid $10,300,000.

With French directors out of the way, Skoda's new corps of German military technicians can go more conveniently about their business of arming Germany and her allies, a task at which the foundries and furnaces of Skoda are most capable.—Times.

Councillor Wilde was asked to supervise the removal of the Christmas decorations from the streets.

Rescuers Cease Efforts To Raise Drowned Tractor Driver

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Jan. 12.—Efforts to locate the body of William Turncliffe were abandoned late Tuesday as the ice had become dangerous to work upon. Turncliffe, 23-qear-old lumberman of Bessemer, drowned in Crooked Lake, Monday, while driving a tractor from Bessemer to Hamlyn's lumber camp, in the township of Mayo, County of Hastings.

At least four men broke through the ice Tuesday, stated Provincial Constable S. Palmateer, who is supervising the grappling operations. The men went in up to their knees, being prevented from going deeper by the boards laid on the top of the ice.

"Heavy rains Monday night almost took the ice out of the lake," stated Constable Palmateer. "There were about twenty men working on the lake from dawn to dusk in an effort to bring the body to the surface.

"On four or five occasions, a man would sink through the ice but the boards we had placed around saved them from going deeper. The ice had become too thin, and we had to cease operations until it becomes more solid."

Grappling irons caught the body on two occasions but attempts to raise it were unsuccessful. It is thought that Turncliffe was pinned under the machine as it sank backwards through the ice.

When the ice becomes more solid the tractor will be raised and pulled ashore on the ice.

Carl Bruce, who was with Turncliffe when it sank through the ice, but managed to drag himself out of the water, was one of the men who worked throughout the day on the lake.

18 Months For Arson

Found guilty of arson out of a charge arising from a fire that destroyed the home of Mrs. Hattie Brant, in Prince Edward County last October, Huron Brant, Tyendinaga resident, was on Tuesday sentenced to eighteen months in the Guelph Reformatory when he appeared before Judge Evan H. McLean.

Joseph Vanwart, an alleged accomplice, who was also charged with Brant, elected trial by judge and jury, while the latter elected trial by judge only.

On Wednesday, in police court, before Magistrate E. J. Butler, Abe Brant and Hattie Brant, owner of the destroyed house were arraigned on a charge of conspiracy in connection with the fire. The former pleaded guilty, while Mrs. Brant entered a plea of not guilty. Both were remanded until January 25.

Charges of conspiracy against Abe and Hattie Brant arose out of an allegation made to police by Huron Brant at the time of his arrest, in which he is alleged to have charged that Abe Brant left $25 in cash on a stove in his Hallowell home with the suggestion that it would be worth that much to have the Hattie Brant home destroyed. Charges were laid by the Ontario Provincial police.

Held For Chicken Theft

Three Prince Edward county men were taken into custody on charges of the theft of 22 chickens when they were arrested in the south part of the county on Wednesday, while found trying to dispose of the poultry to a wholesale house. The three men's names were given as William Rosebush, alias William Woods, of Cherry Valley; Howard Marshall and David Marshall, brothers residing on McDonald's Island, Prince Edward County. The trio were held in custody for Prince Edward County authorities after it had been established by police the poultry stolen was the property of William Blakely of Cherry Valley.

Trucker Has Near Call

While being driven across Weslemkoon Lake, a truck loaded with logs of the Sawyer-Stoll Lumber Company Ltd., nearly went through the ice. Fortunately the logs slid off the truck through the ice, and the truck was able to proceed to the shore. The logs will be salvaged before they become frozen in the ice.

International students are to have a club house in London.

4 British Constables Convicted For Slaying Arab

Jerusalem, Jan. 12 (CP)

FOUR British constables were convicted today on charges of slaying an Arab they had taken prisoner.

William Wood was sentenced to three years in prison, J. Mansell received one year, and Phillip Crossley and George Crossley were placed on one year's probation. They said they had killed Mohammed Haddad when he tried to escape.

Officials pointed to the prosecution as proof of British impartiality in quelling the Arab revolt. Police tactics have been assailed by the German press.

All four constables were accused of murder. Chief Justice Sir Harry Trusted ruled they had not intended to kill the Arab but that it was difficult to see why they did not pursue him in an effort to recapture him.

Louis Starting His Quest For 2nd Million

By LAWTON CARVER
Central Press Canadian Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—Joe Louis is about to start out on what must be one of the most pleasurable of all enterprises—the quest for still another million dollars. He figures to get that all right and more, too, and finally he may wind up as the richest fighter that ever lived.

Just how much he has now and how much of his future earnings he will be able to keep, must remain problematical. He, of course, like all fighters is afflicted with sundry cuts when that money he earns in purses comes in. However, he is doing very well indeed and you may lay to that, as we say aboard our yacht.

The champion will start his 1939 campaign on Jan. 23 at Madison Square Garden, with John Henry Lewis offering himself to the cause to the best of his ability, and after that will come as many as three more bouts before the close of the year, Louis' activities to be governed to some extent by taxes. When his income reaches the point where the government is taking practically everything, he will hang up his gloves and await arrival of another year as he did in 1938.

Double Trouble

That gives the champion a problem, too. If he fights too much he finally is giving the most of it away; if he doesn't fight enough he can't do his best job in the ring because he needs plenty of action to keep sharp, and he might take a layoff and again run into a slight inconvenience such as the one that overtook him in his first fight with Max Schmeling.

It may be that he is so far ahead of the contenders currently yapping at his heels that he doesn't have to be at his very best to retain what is known as the most prized bauble in fistiana—otherwise the heavyweight championship.

In truth, the contenders are a pretty sorry lot and you may wager that layoff or no layoff Louis never again will make the mistake of regarding any opponent too lightly as he did Schmeling that first time. And, of course, when he really goes out there banging away he is a great fighter, not too smart and not too tough around the jowls, but great, nevertheless, because of his punching and his speed of hand and the boxing they have taught him.

Looks Good For Years

Unless the layoffs between bouts and his natural laziness get him he has what it takes to go through this year and probably several more, for he doesn't dissipate, is still young and has come along at a time when actually the chief contenders are Lewis, a smart, crafty boxer, but lacking a punch; Max Baer, who has been knocked out by Louis and idle too long; Tony Galento, who is wide open and probably not the same since he suffered that very tough attack of pneumonia, and Lou Nova, a green young man who apparently has a long, long way to travel.

If he meets those four or any three of them during 1939 he ought to win by knockouts, as he progresses steadily onward toward riches on top of riches that must astound and almost daze him as he sits down and thinks about it all, if he has the imagination to go that far.

The beauty of his position is that his money has been wisely invested and, barring out and out catastrophe, he never will be in want. Roughly, he has drawn close to $5,000,000 and figures to have about a million of that for himself, with still more rolling in.

There is no telling how much he will wind up with eventually if nothing happens to him. It's a very tough spot to be in, as Rockefeller said when he asked Henry Ford for a dime.

U.C.C. Puckists Beat St. Mike's

No one is quite certain on the point as yet, but it seems as though a new deal is in store for Herb Little's Upper Canada College Majors. If your memory holds good you'll recall that U.C.C. wound up as celler occupants of the Prep School group last semester. Not until their eighth and final game of the schedule were they able to claim their initial victory.

Consequently, hopes of a new deal are particularly bright because yesterday the U.C.C. color-bearers opened their Prep School campaign with a 3 to 1 victory over St. Mike's Buzzers. Though Coach Little wasn't showing, the lads demonstrated enough to warrant serious championship consideration.

George Mara, shifty centreman, paced the winners. He sniped the first goal of the contest and added the clincher in the dying moments when the Buzzers were trying hard to level accounts.

As is usually the case in Prep pastiming, there wasn't a dull moment. Several times tempers flared, but there was no actual outbreak. St. Mike's drew six of the nine penalties. Only one of them proved costly, as Simpson fired Upper Canada's second goal of the initial session while McKay was serving one of the two penalties he received.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

While the O.R.F.U. and Argos are definitely against a Big Six grid grouping next fall, and some of the teams aren't overly-excited about the idea—especially the Petes!—there is a strong movement on foot by a few of the clubs and several of the writers to have the Montreal clubs join as one, and drop Peterborough. Big Four Union has a meeting on Jan. 21st and it'll probably decide what's what. Gilhooly of the Ottawa Journal, pulling hard for a Big Six grouping, says: "If Argos can satisfy Toronto U. that Beaches in the senior city league wouldn't injure it the league will expand. Montreal won't operate two clubs next season and Peterborough's return to football will probably be the most brief experiment on record. The sentiment is overwhelmingly in favor of the larger circuit, and in the ordinary course of events it's bound to materialize." Nuts to you, sir!

Lots of basketball activity coming up this week-end on local floors. Three Senior City Cage Loop contests billed for the Y.M. C.A. gym on Saturday night. And two C.O.S.S.A. senior scraps at the P.C.I. gymnasium Friday e'en, Lindsay gals and boys playing local teams. While tonight sees two L.O.B.A. contests on at the P.C.I., C.G.E. gals clashing with Belleville at eight bells, and Cobourg colleens mixing with the local Orfuns (mostly Westclox lasses) at nine. No admission charge for this scheduled Lakeshore Loop girls' cage double-header this e'en, we're told; but can't see how the fair ones operate on a gratis basis. Games rate a goodly crowd.

About Dit Clapper

Doug Vaughan, who succeeded Vern DeGeer to the sports editorship of the Windsor Star—when Vern moved up to the Globe—bats out a bit of solid columnistic praise fo rAubrey (Dit) Clapper. He goes to town for this Hastings' product (with many friends here) who is starring for Boston Bruins in the N.H.L. And it's time Clapper received more publicity as he rates in the same puck bracket as Eddie Shore, a teammate. Doug says: "From defence to forward and back to defence, starring in all three shifts, probably stamps Dit Clapper as one of the most versatile players the National Hockey League has ever known." He gives details then.

* * * * * *

"A few years ago," Vaughan continues, "Clapper reverted back to his old post on defence and dropped into the position as a hand drops into an old glove. With his tremendous physical bulk and strength, his ability to deal out a stunning bodycheck, to break quickly on attack and set up plays, he quickly became one of the most valuable players on the Boston rearguard. And playing defence hasn't affected his scoring prowess as much as might be expected. Manager Art Ross likes his defencemen to do plenty of puck carrying, so Clapper fitted into the scheme naturally. Last season, playing defence, he had six goals and nine assists. Babe Seibert of Canadiens and Earl Seibert of Chicago were among the few defencemen to excel him in this department. This season, he is leading defence players of the league in actual scoring."

Colts Win The Heat

Colts cantered off with an 8-2 verdict over the Monarchs at the Brock last gloaming in an O.H.A. junior fixture. Barely 300 fans sallied forth to see the all-local fray, others apparently hanging onto their shekels for the senior opener Friday. Not a bad tussle last p.m. but a bit ragged and the Colts shaded their gallant rivals on age, weight and experience. Looked a coupla goals better in each period but they couldn't exactly coast. The lighter young Monarchs kept mushing in on Colts' territory and never quit battling. But a good big man should always trim a good little guy—and that was the payoff. Ice was surprisingly good and the game remarkably clean, no rough stuff cropping up. But both sides need lots of practice yet as their passing plays are ragged and the wingmen rove out of position like a one-eyed race hoss.

* * * * * *

Wade waded through last eve on some nice sorties, while Craig and Foster were also clicking well for the winners. Rochetta and Nicholls caught our fancy on the attack for Monarchs. The former is a natural, but might pass the bootheel around a little more. There are a lotta promising puckists on both these junior outfits and they'll go okay before the season winds up in laurel wreath or poison ivy. Not much to choose between last night's goalies, except that Morrison had quite a shower of rubber to weather in comparison to Cournyea. There now, we've straddled the fence pretty well on this all-local affair, what?

A Wager Or Two

Some of the Petes up at the rink last p.m. were talking of rounding up five or 10 bucks and betting Eddie Thomas here tomorrow e'en that the Petes would trounce Belleville Redmen. The spirit was willing but the finances weak! Though they may feel more flush Friday. It ought to be a dandy senior "B" battle—quite in keeping with those rousing struggles of last winter. Quinte crew copped a 3-1 win over our gang last week in Belleville, but the locals stand a very fair chance of reversing that count here tomorrow. All they ask is fast ice, as the homesters reel off the mileage pretty rapidly on hard aqua. And there'll be bumps and bumps in this game as the Quinte-Petes' feud flares anew.

* * * * * *

Puck programs, given away Friday eve at the rink, will show fans who's who and what's his number. So you'll know which is Larry Goyer, ex-pro in Quinte livery, Speedy St. Louis, Hot-Dog McCreary, Cy Barriage of the visitors; and Lorne Gray, Doc Nicholls, Joe McNulty and the rest of the Petes. The Hockey Club draw will be held for one shopping certificate worth $50 and four worth $25—and this isn't by any means hay (no cow in creation eating that kind of grub). With the weather tightening up some, and such an ice attraction, we look for the largest crowd of fans of the season on deck to rap the Redmen and yodel the Petes over this hurdle.

Soccer Prexy Dies

RAWTENSTALL, England, Jan. 12.—(CP Cable.)—Charles E. Sutcliffe, president of the English Football League, died at his home in this Lancashire town to-day. Known as soccer's "legal mind," he was 73 years old.

After a distinguished career as player, director, referee and legislator, Mr. Sutcliffe was elected vice-president of the English Football Association in 1919 and succeeded to the league presidency on the retirement of Sir Charles Clegg in 1937.

He is best remembered as the compiler of the intricate club seasonal fixture lists. At a function marking the jubilee of the league last year, Mr. Sutcliffe was presented with silver plate from the eighty-eight league clubs, the highest tribute being paid to his services as a member of the management committee for forty-nine years.

HOW TO SKI

By FRITZ LOOSLI
Instructor Toronto Ski Club

The lifted Stem with pole is not only one of the most useful turns, but the systematic practice of it will give the body the co-ordination necessary for Tempo running. It will oblige you to shift the weight on the outer ski and complete the turn practically on that same ski. It is also good practice to hold your edge without leaning inward toward the slope, but you must ride the outer ski in the proper angle to hold the turn. The goal in practising the Lifted Stem is to acquire perfect rhythm and timing without trying to pick out the spot where the turn may be made. At first the turns should be made fairly wide until a perfect timing is obtained as to when to drop the pole and lift the inner ski off the snow. Once this is achieved make the turns less wide and more frequently trying to get rhythm.

The Lifted Stem without pole is the next step. Begin to practise this turn taking the slope in a traverse, sliding the outer ski in fairly wide stem position and transferring the weight of the body on that same ski. When the turn is half completed in that Stem position, lift the inner ski off the snow with a shove and bring it parallel with the other ski.

As the practice proceeds, make the turns less wide, so that they almost become a skating motion. The greater the speed at which this is practised, the less stemming is required to make the turn, and finally the skis remain constantly parallel the shoulder and hips making the turn possible. If the knees are pressed well forward, you have made then, a perfect Tempo turn.

There is a certain time between two Tempo turns when the weight is brought back to the heels. To have control of that weight change, sideslipping is the best practice exercise. Stand on a steep packed slope with skis together on the traverse and body erect; release the edges until the skis start to slide sideways. When the weight of the body is pressed forward with the knees, the tip of the skis will drop toward the slope. The reverse occurs when the weight is held back on the heels; you will start to slide backward with the feeling that the back of your skis will stick and may result in a fall. If you are holding your body properly, with the skis edged slightly, nothing will happen, but the sliding backward of the skis. By transferring the weight of the body to the front and then to the back of the skis, the forward and backward slide will alternate as you wish.

If the slope is long enough this side-slipping may be ended in a form of Tempo turn by stemming slightly with the outer ski on the last forward slide. By pushing the inner ski well forward and dipping your knees as low as possible the turn will proceed similarly as in a fast Tempo turn. While practising the side-slipping, avoid using the poles to give momentum for either the forward or backward slide.

English Girls Show Canada Their Cricket

LONDON, Jan. 12—(CP). — The year 1939 should mean a great deal to the youth of the British Empire according to plans now being considered in London.

Among other things there will be continuation of the conducted tours of secondary school parties from the Old Country to Canada next summer. This will be girls' year in this connection and parties will include girls' cricket elevens to play exhibition matches in Canada.

Lord Bessborough, former governor-general of Canada on Jan. 3 addressed an important meeting of headmasters in England on the new Empire Youth movement of which he has been elected president of the executive committee.

Though all arrangements are as yet tentative it is understood there is a chance of the Crystal Palace being selected as a site for a Youth City, where each dominion will have its own pavilion and where there would be the closest co-operation among young people from all parts of the Empire. The cost of the scheme is estimated at £1,000,000 ($4,700,000).

The idea is to provide accommodation for students from all parts of the British possessions and dominions who may visit London for study purposes or on holiday tours. There they could meet secondary or senior pupils from schools in Great Britain and the amenities of London museums, art galleries and places of historical, literary and national interest might be shared by the much larger student body.

This would mean a lot to groups of visiting students from foreign countries whose impression of London and the essential friendliness of the British people may mean much in international relations in years to come.

Penny-a-Week Plan

Major Fred J. Ney of Toronto and London, honorary organizer of the National Council of Education and Overseas Education League, is a prime mover in the Empire Youth Movement, and is anxious for every school in England to be identified with the movement. Collections in the schools in which youth of all ages may contribute to the cause may have its drawbacks, he suggests. But under this scheme each school in this country, even if raising only a single penny per week would provide the interest and redemption on a capital sum of £80,000 ($376,000) or roughly one-twelfth of the total sum required.

If the scheme matures and the dominions are persuaded to support the project, the spacious grounds of the Crystal Palace offer a splendid site for this Youth City.

Such an idea would at all events be continuing the policy which originated the spectacular building of glass. It is known that Prince Albert—at whose suggestion the palace was built—had in mind the promotion of education and the provision of facilities of all kinds in connection with education and the betterment of youth. During its existence various schools of art and science have been connected with the palace.

School Tours Of 1939

Plans are underway for the conducted tours of a large group of English school girls to Canada during the coming summer. Last summer a group of English boys camped with Canadian and New Zealand boys at Banff, Alta., afterwards being entertained in private homes in the east and west of Canada.

According to Major Ney, "This experiment was a great success. As an immediate result a large group of Canadian students is to visit New Zealand in 1940 to take part in that dominion's centennial celebrations.

"In 1939 it will be the girls' turn, and an invitation is being extended to a large group of girls from British private and secondary schools to make a coast-to-coast tour of Canada by special train, and in one direction via the Great Lakes.

"The party will leave Liverpool on July 28. At Montreal and other points it will be joined by groups of Canadian girls. At Banff a week will be spent on Tunnnel Mountain or in its vicinity, at a permanent camp which it is proposed to establish to commemorate their Majesties' visit to Canada next summer. Here it is anticipated they will be joined by further girl students from Australia and New Zealand.

It is expected the group will be widely representative of British secondary education and for this reason it has been suggested that scholarships should be offered to assure the selection of the right type of student.

Another innovation to take place under Major Ney's sponsorship is the tour of two girls' cricket elevens from England to give exhibition matches in Canada. They will arrive with the group of students. One team is drawn largely from Harrogate College and the other from Roedean, both famous schools. Cricket as a girls' game has not yet been adopted in Canada. Promoters of this venture hope that the visit of these two teams an dtheir demonstration games will stimulate further interest.

Condition Critical

His health failing for many months, Col. Jake Ruppert, ABOVE, millionaire brewer and owner of New York Yankees, is near death, according to members of his family. He is suffering from a complication of diseases recurring from an attack of plebitis. This is one of the most recent pictures of the colonel in good health, taken when he was up and around for a while last summer.

Ruppert's Condition Remains Unchanged

NEW YORK, Jan. 12—(AP).—Condition of Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the world champion New York Yankee baseball team, remained unchanged today.

The 71-year-old multi-millionaire brewer and real estate operator, stricken with phlebitis and a liver ailment, slept quietly through the night.

His personal physician, Dr. Otto Scherdtfeger, said last night there was no hope for Ruppert's recovery. "His condition is very, very serious," he said. "The end is very near."

Remember When—

Henry Armstrong, sensational Los Angeles negro holder of the world featherweight boxing crown, raided the lightweight ranks to knock out Enrico Venturi in the sixth round one year ago tonight. It was Armstrong's first start of the year that saw him become the only man in boxing history to hold simultaneously three world titles — featherweight, lightweight and welterweight.

Take A 6-1 Nod At Gardens For Sixth Win

Any doubts about the strength or lack of it, of Tracy Shaws Oshawa Generals were dispelled last night. Seeming to gain more punch and power as the game progressed, the streamlined prides of motordom, dumped the rugged and willing Young Rangers, 6 to 1, at the Gardens. Their display definitely stamped them as an outstanding Big Eight junior threat, worthy successors to the gallant band that fought through to the Memorial Cup finals last year.

An old sports axiom has it that a team is no stronger than its weakest sub. That bewhiskered saying seemed to hold good last night as Oshawa hung up its sixth victory without a black mark. Usually the Taylor-Sawyer-Knott line carries the mail for the Generals. But last night the Jud McAtee-Kinsella-Smith threesome came into its own. Not that Billy Taylor and his linemates weren't clicking. It just happened that the second trio happened to be packing more potency, with Orv Smith, St. Mike's gift to Oshawa, writing the hat-trick into the ledger.

Quick Goal

Young Rangers tossed a large-sized scare into the Oshawa ranks with an opening burst of power [illegible] was capped by Ron Wilson's goal just past the one-minute mark. Not until the Sportimer passed the twelve-minute line did Oshawa begin to assert their superiority. Their offensives grew more frequent and were more dangerous. Finally, Billy Taylor gave Nick Knott the set-up for the tying marker after a neat passing play at the 17:30 mark.

Orv Smith, Jud McAtee, Bill Taylor, Nick Knott and Jim Drummond starred for Oshawa, with McManus steady in goal. Taylor's goal and assist brought his points-total to 23 for the season. He has 6 goals and 17 assists to head the Big Eight scorers by a wide margin.

COLTS COP DECISION OVER MONARCHS IN JUNIOR PUCK FRAY

Hockey Club Juniors Victors By An 8 to 2 Margin In Lively All-Local Tussle

The Colts copped an 8-2 victory over the Monarchs in an all-local O.H.A. junior struggle here last night in the Brock St. rink. About 300 fans witnessed a fair struggle on a good sheet of ice, with the local "B" squad having a decided edge over thei city rivals. It was a clean, lively tussle most of the way.

Bill Jackson's Colts had a 3-1 margin in the first frame, and were in front by a 5-1 score going into the third chukker. They had more weight and experience and won handily, though the younger Monarchs battled hard every minute they were on the ice. The game was free from rough play and fairly fast, but looked more like shinny a good part of the route, owing to absence of ice and practise here in the past several weeks.

There were few individual stars in this gave over the entire route, some of the boys shining for a time but fading in the later stages. Both goalies gave a good account of themselves, there being no "soft" markers all evening. Wade, Craig and Foster seemed most effective for the winners; while Nicholls and Rochetta looked most dangerous for the other gang. The winners threw up a stiff defence, with plenty of beef, and all the losing forwards fought hard to tramp in there. With lack of practise, neither team looked its best in this fracas.

Colts Get One

Early in the first frame, Wade scored in close for the Colts on a pass from Williams on the left boards right in front of the net. Ward went off for tripping and the Monarchs swarmed around dangerously in a ganging attack but they couldn't beat Cournyea. Later on the Colts had an edge on play as they swept in close repeatedly. It got faster halfway through as the boys hit their stride and was fairly even. Wade scored again at the halfway mark on a neat solo effort, to give the goalie little chance. Ward was chased for boarding and the other outfit pressed, with Connelly finally scoring on a shot that trickled through the goalie on Vitarelli's pass. They kept ganging up for a time, but later Craig wormed his way through with nice stick-handling to tally shortly before the finish.

The Colts tallied early in the second, but it was not counted being in the crease. Hoffman got the air for slashing and the Monarchs pressed hotly for a space. At full strength again, the heavier Colts carried more of the play and kept Morrison busy in the cage. Foster was robbed on a nice try and the winners showed two quick ones on continued boring-in rushes, Wade taking a pass from Craig for one and then Foster netting the disc on an assist by Ward. It was pretty hot and quite even at the gong.

A Fast One

Right at the start of the third, Wade tallied for the Colts and a minute later Rochetta got it back unassisted for Monarchs. Play was quite fast with the Colts having a margin through the third on ice that held up remarkably well. They battled it out hammer-and-tongs, but quite cleanly, with the older junior gang having a good margin on pass as they tore in often on passing rushes, while their defence blocked the Monarchs most of the time. Halfway through, Craig took a pass from Foster to sing the seventh goal for the Colts and a few minutes later Craig tallied alone on a nice rush from his own blue line right in on top of Morrison. Both sides had slowed up considerably when the last bell sounded.

The teams:

Colts: Goal, Cournyea; defence, Ward and Wade; centre, Parnell; wings, McDonald and Williams; alternates, Craig, Foster, King, Howden, Hoffman and Cooper.

Monarchs: Goal, Morrison; defence, Beggs and Giardino; centre, Rochetta; wings, Vitarelli and Connelly; alternates, Nicholls, Clarke, Cauley and Gillespie.

Referee, Archie Weir.

Belleville Here To Play Petes

The O.H.A. senior "B" season opens officially here tomorrow (Friday) night at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. rink when Belleville Redmen clash with the Petes in a league game. These teams tangled once before this season, the Redmen yanking out a 3-1 decision on their own ice last week, but the Petes promise to even it up here. Puck programs will be given fans at this contest, showing players' numbers, etc. And the Hockey Club draw for prizes will be made at this initial encounter. The affair should draw a big crowd of fans, who will recall the thrilling senior scraps of last year in this grouping and who realize that Belleville has bolstered considerably and will ice a powerful team against the Petes.

Goalie Watt robbed the locals of a win last week and he'll be along tomorrow, with Speedy St. Louis and Bentley bashing them on defence. The Jackson twins and Cy Barriage are forwards, and the subs include McCreary, McElrath, Goyer (the ex-pro), Storms and Robinson. The Petes' team includes: McNabb, Harding, Gray, Crowe, McNulty, Starr, Tompkins, Kingdon, Nicholls, Coughlin, McDougall, Creighton, Gardner and Weir—with a few of them being dropped for this tilt. With good ice likely it ought to be a hard-hitting and exciting game before a big crowd.

Billy Conn Moves Into the Picture

Presenting Billy Conn, latest all-star entry in the fight game's dizziest division, the middleweight ranks, where everybody beats everybody else and then they start over again. Conn holds no titles but within the past month has defeated Solly Krieger, recognized by the N.B.A. as world's champion, and Fred Apostoli, holder of the same title according to the edits of the New York Boxing Commission. Which gives the Pittsburg Irishman a pretty fair status in boxing's Dizzy Division.

Flying Dutchman Wants To Ride Admiral Again

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 12 — (AP) —Charley Kurtsinger, the "Flying Dutchman" of the turf, wants to ride Stagehand against War Admiral in the Widener Cup race at Miami, Fla., on March 4.

Kurtsinger, who lost the jockey job on War Admiral when owner Samuel Riddle decided to get another boy, said also in an interview to-day he still believes he can ride the Admiral to victory over Seabiscuit.

Charley was aboard War Admiral when the Riddle ace was beaten in November by the Biscuit in a match race. That was his last ride on the Admiral.

Kurtsinger, disappointed because Riddle ousted him as the Admiral's jockey, announced he had "temporarily" retired as a rider after 15 years, and was considering becoming a trainer, like Earl Sande, the conditioner of Stagehand.

Thoughts of a possibility of getting up on Stagehand, however, softened the 32-year-old jockey about retiring. He said also he might return to the saddle if he could get a good Kentucky Derby mount.

"If I could rid the Admiral against Seabiscuit in the spring or in August, we could win.

Kurtsinger wasn't talkative about the training business except to say he would use "modern methods," that includes training each horse separately and not as a group, he explained.

Pays Off In Hats

It cost Larry Aurie, ABOVE, a few hats, but he's back in the major puck picture with Detroit Red Wings, with whom he starred for so many years. Larry went down to the Wings' Pittsburgh farm team in the International-American league as playing manager, but with the Wings flying very low he's taking a fling at adding his efforts to hoist them up the N.H.L. ladder. When he went down to the Int.-Am. circuit he bet a bunch of his teammates a hat apiece that he'd be there all season, so he's keeping a weather eye open for bargains in headgear.

Generals Whack Chiefs Down By Score Of 7-3

OSHAWA, Ont., Jan. 13—(CP).—Oshawa, a team that floundered about in the lower brackets before Peg Hurst took over the goaltending duties, counted but five points separating them today from their closest rivals, Toronto Goodyears, undefeated leaders of the senior "A" division of the Ontario Hockey Association.

Since Hurst, formerly of Whitby Red Wings intermediates, took over the janitor job Dec. 14, the Oshawans haven't lost a game. Much of the credit has gone to Hurst, a great ice general.

Oshawa continued their torrid pace here last night to trim St. Catharines Chiefs 7-3. The loss left Chiefs in fifth place in the six-team league while Oshawa increased their lead to six points over the third-place Port Colborne Sailors.

Lex Chisholm, tricky Oshawa centre and the league's leading scorer, added to his impressive point total by scoring two goals with assists on two others against St. Kitts. The display gave him a total of 29 points, seven more than George Imlach, Toronto sniper.

Other Oshawa scorers were Carl Maundrel and Roy Covert, each with two, and Jerry Cooper, with one. The winners scored five goals before St. Kitts notched one. Chiefs' scorers were Ossie Carnegie, negro winger, Joe Desson and Bob Pinder.

Trent Battlers Lose 5-2 To Indian River

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 12. — Playing their first game of the season in the East Peterborough Rural League, Indian River's hockey squad took the Trent River boys into camp last night by a 5-2 score at the Norwood Arena. This is the latter team's second straight loss, having dropped their first to Donegal on Monday night.

With a fairly good sheet of ice the boys set a sizzling pace throughout the game, giving the handful of fans lots of action. Play was decidedly clean, only two penalties being handed out, each team receiving one.

Trent River lost the services of one of their defencemen in the game with Donegal when Earl Van-Volkenburg injured his cheek bone, and almost had another casualty last night when Chaplin received a nasty cut on the nose.

Indian River's first line, composed of Bill Green, Gavin Shearer, and Neil Clark, and Defenceman Walsh, were standouts for that team, with Green taking individual honors perhaps with two goals and an assist. Jim Brown, Bill McLaughlin, Fred McLaughlin, Cliff Chaplin, all forwards, and Goalie Alley proved most effective for the losing team.

Trent River went into the lead early in the first stanza, Jim Brown scoring on a pass from Bill McLaughlin. Indian River tied it up four minutes later, when Green tallied on a drifting shot from out past the blue-line.

Green missed a beautiful chance to score soon after the start of the second period, and Trent River once more took the lead when Chaplin picked up the loose puck in enemy territory, to beat Cavanaugh on a bounding shot, twenty feet out from the net. The advantage was not held long, however, Indian River applying the pressure, which eventually netted three goals, Green, Walsh, and Shearer bein gthe marksmen.

Two goals up going into the last frame, the Indian River squad still adopted offensive tactics, keeping their opponents pretty well bottled up within their own defence zone. Alley was practically bombarded with shots in this period, making some fine stops, but had no chance on the final score of the evening, Shearer, nothing his second of the game, picking up a rebound from Green.

There will be a double-header at the Norwood Arena on Friday evening, when Westwood meets Elgin, and Havelock plays Donegal. Indian River is also scheduled to meet Hastings at the latter town on the same evening.

The teams:

Trent River — Goal, C. Alley; defence, Jay Brown, Watts; centre, F. McLaughlin; wings, W. McLaughlin, Jim Brown; alternates, C. Chaplin, Jack Brown, R. Alley, R. Umphrey.

Indian River — Goal, Cavanaugh; defence, Holmes, Walsh; centre, G. Shearer; wings, N. Clark, Green; alternates, Dewart, R. Walsh, M. Tedford, R. Tedford, M. Andrews, Hogan, J. Clark, Jim Cavanaugh, Ted Doherty.

The summary:

First Period.

Trent River—Jim Brown (W. McLaughlin) 8.38
Indian River—Green 8.42
Penalty—M. Tedford.

Second Period.

Trent River—C. Chaplin 9.15
Indian River—Green 9.20
Indian River—Walsh 9.22
Indian River—Shearer 9.30
No penalties.

Third Period.

Indian River—Shearer (Green) 9.53
Penalty—P. Watts.
Referee—B. Hagerman, Havelock.

Barrow Guarantees Yanks Pennant To Cheer Sinking Ruppert

By Gayle Talbot
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 12 — (AP). — It was a glum gathering in the office of Secretary Ed Barrow of New York Yankees. Every now and then another caller came in quietly, removed his hat, and asked: "Anything new on the Colonel?"

To each Barrow gave the same answer, "No, nothing new. He's still alive."

Everyone knew that Colonel Jacob Ruppert, multi-millionaire owner of the Yankees, was making a hard fight for his life in his home up on Fifth Avenue. It wasn't known whether he would live another hour or another day, but there was no hope that he would make a complete recovery.

"I was up to see him," said Barrow, "and the last thing he said to me was: 'Will the Yankees win another pennant this year, Ed?' I told him I would guarantee it."

Saw Only 2 Games in '38.

Colonel Ruppert was able to get out to the Yankee Stadium only twice last season, and Barrow recalled he became too excited to sit through the second game.

"We were trailing by three or four runs going into the sixth inning, and the Colonel kept jumping around and beating me on the leg. Finally he hopped up and tore out of the stand. I yelled after him that we would win it for him, and sure enough we did. Bill Dickey hit a home run in the ninth inning."

Barrow, himself over 70, has been associated with Colonel Ruppert longer than any of his baseball lieutenants. They always worked in the closest harmony, and the success of their collaboration is reflected in the glory of the present Yankee empire. Barrow supplied the baseball knowledge, Ruppert the money.

"The Colonel was crazy about the game from the time he was a kid," said Barrow. "He had his own team as a boy, and they played on Saturdays. His mother made him mow the lawn before he was permitted to play, but he made the rest of the team help him do it."

He thought pretty well of himself as a second-baseman until he went out to the Polo Grounds one day to practice, and Buck Ewing, the old catcher, pegged a ball that nearly took his hand off. Right then and there the Colonel decided to drop his baseball playing career."

Someone recalled the best of all the Ruppert stories, the time when Babe Ruth gave the Colonel a wide grin and told he wanted $80,000 to play the next season. The little owner was thunder-struck.

"What?" exclaimed. "You must think I'm a millionaire."

France responded to this means of appeasement. France, in a preliminary answer, declared she would yield "not an inch," of colonial territory.

Some Other Snags

Interwoven are other problems, such as the war in Spain, British fears of German encroachment in the Mediterranean, and lagging Italian-British trade.

Those accompanying Mr. Chamberlain said, since the prime minister came on Mussolini's invitation, he had no initial offe rto make but would wait for Mussolini to speak out. They announced themselves pessimitistic over the chances of any concrete political achievement coming out of the trip.

Mussolini declared last night that the Italian-British Easter accord placed relations on "a solid basis," resulting in 'a new Mediterranean and African reality" and opening the way to collaborate for peace.

Oh 'Twill Be Friday 13th But What Of It?

(By The Canadian Press)

Hard-boiled and all one may be but this fact must be faced—tomorrow is Friday, the 13th.

The old hoodoo was here eight months ago and some people who happened to meet with misfortune Friday, May 13, 1938, may have blamed it on the unusual combination of day and date. That's a custom as old anyway as the Gregorian calendar instituted in 1582.

No year is complete without one appearance of Friday the 13th. He has turned up nine times in the last five years. He will be here again October 13, and in 1940 he will tag September and October.

It has never been established that anything unfortunate happened to anybody because Friday was dated up with the 13th. But the superstition, legend, tradition or usage, will persist.

Some say the idea is as old as Adam—that Eve and her spouse were expelled from Eden on the day of the week corresponding with Friday and that it was on the same day of the week that Cain killed his brother Abel. Other authorities recall the astrologers of ancient Babylon declared 13 unlucky. The mythologists of Scandinavia blacklisted the number because Balder, their sun-god, had to die when 13 were found in the circle of Valhalla.

In Christendom probably the most accepted version of the origin of the Friday the 13th fixture is in the fact there were 13 at the Last Supper, including Judas Iscariot, who, next day, traditionally a Friday, betrayed Jesus Christ for crucifixion.

In any case, doubtless thousands of mortals tomorrow will refuse to set out on a journey by air, sea or land, start any new enterprise or sit 1-3 at the table, because it is Friday the 13th. On the other hand lots of bold spirits will go out of their way to walk under ladders and spill the salt, just to show their contempt for the time-honored idea of the unlucky day.

ROSENEATH

50 Languages Are Spoken In Toronto

(Examiner Correspondence.)

ROSENEATH, Jan. 12.—That 50 languages are spoken in the city of Toronto was one of the facts disclosed when a portion of the study book. "Weaving a new web," was presented by Mrs. R. Crego at a meeting of the W.M.S. held in her home, on Wednesday.

Other important points brought out were: Ontario has the largest Indian poplation; that Canada's foreign-born population, bring with them from their native lands, a culture of and an appreciation for the finer arts and craftsmanship; and that these people are being woven into a mosaic pattern. The warp threads are the old stock from Britain and France, and the pattern is being woven from the many nationalities from other lands.

Mrs. L. W. Scott, president, sang a solo during the service, and presided over the meeting. The theme of the service was "Making Canada Christian."

In the business period the treasurer reported $128.00 forwarded to Presbyterial treasurer.

It was decided, on motion, to hold a crokinole party and other games also on January 27.

Mrs. L. W. Scott offered the Parsonage for the February meeting, and Mrs. D. Brisbin will have charge of the study book.

The hostess served refreshments at the close of the meeting, and the members lingered for a social hour.

Personals.

A progressive euchre and dance was held on Wednesday night, January 11, in the Orange hall, under the auspices of the Women's Institute. Jack Grant and his dance band from Havelock were in attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Waller visited friends at Brighton on Monday.

Mrs. J. Adams is staying in Warkworth for some time with relatives.

MORE ABOUT—

Two Families

were returning from work when they learned of the fire but it had gained sufficient headway to prohibit entering the building. Volunteers had removed half a dozen pieces of furniture to the street.

Fanned by a light breeze, the house was estimated to have been completely demolished within one hour from the time fire was first discovered. The volunteer fire department were called to service but by the time they received the alarm and removed the engine to downtown its was evident they could be of little use since the house was a solid mass of flames.

Mr. Mouncey estimated loss to the building at $700 and household effects $1500. The house was owned by the White estate and was under the supervision of Mrs. Frank Brown, Roseneath.

Those present in the house when fire occurred were: Mrs. James Ryder and her two children, James, 2, and Betty, four months, and four Mouncey children, Donald, 7, Billie, 9, June, 12, Ross 13. A fifth son, James, 16, was working in the village at the time. Mrs. Mouncey has been deceased for more than a year.

Both families, so hastily made homeless, were invited in by their friendly neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Barker, for supper but as one of the children remarked during the presence of a reporter, "Daddy, I'm not very hungry," so the rest of the homeless seemed to be not very hungry either. The families were divided among friends in the village for overnight.

OBITUARY

JOHN BEAMISH.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 12. — There passed away at the family residence in Percy Township on Wednesday morning, January 11, one of the most esteemed residents of this district in the person of John Beamish.

A member of one of the district's earliest pioneer families and the second oldest man of the township, he was a son of Irish pioneers, the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Beamish, and was the last surviving member of a family of three boys and two girls.

He was born in January, 1851 on the farm where he spent his entire life and where through the past 88 years had watched the development of this district. He was a most industrious and prosperous farmer, and until the past summer was able to follow a plough and do his share of the farm chores. Deceased was a member of St. George's Anglican Church and until recent years was a faithful attendant.

He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing widow, three daughters, Mrs. John Collins of Otonabee, Mrs. William Dukelow of Woodville, and Mrs. William Pulfer of the Cobourg Road, also one son John at home.

The funeral will be held on Friday afternoon from the family residence, thence to St. George's Church, Hastings, for the funeral service conducted by the Rev. William Stocks.

Interment in the Trent Valley Cemetery.

Windsor Is Buried Beside Wife, While One Watches

Toronto, Jan. 12 (CP)

JAMES WINDSOR, whose brutal killing police have failed to solve, was buried today in Mount Hope Cemetery beside the grave of a woman whose tombstone was marked "beloved wife of James Windsor."

Windsor's widow, the former Mabel Snyder, from whom Windsor had lived apart for the last 22 years, attended the funeral service. It was not known whether Windsor had married previously or whether the grave beside which he was buried that of a relative.

Mabel Snyder Windsor married Windsor, then a bartender, 26 years ago. They lived together four years.

RIVER OPEN AGAIN.

January's relaxing weather has produced stretches of open water opposite the George street wharf and further north off London street.

NO RINK YET.

The comparative mildness of the present winter is illustrated by the fact that although Rice Lake has been frozen over for some time it has not yet been considered safe to make the usual rink at Bewdley.

DISTRICT COURT

Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., held police court in Havelock Wednesday afternoon disposing of three liquor cases and Friday afternoon is scheduled to hold court in Campbellford.

FLORAL NOTE.

A new Morning Glory acquires its name from its color and from the central character in "Gone with the Wind." It is a dark red, and is about to become known as "Scarlett O'Hara."

INQUEST TONIGHT

Quite a number of witnesses will testify tonight in the inquest into the cause of the recent sudden death of Victor (Jimmy) Monaghan which will be held in the police court at 8 o'clock.

JUNE IN JANUARY.

Two small ducks were noticed this morning paddling upstream above the Auburn dam, oblivious to the fact that the water was icy cold and the shores rimmed with ice. Above the Lakefield dam, two large wild ducks were swimming and feeding.

MAIN STREET PIGEONS.

Pigeons rackety-cooing up in the involutions of the moulding over the George street wall of the market building seemed to add warmth to the sunshine on the main street this morning, and certainly created a homey touch as a familiar sound around farmers' barns these days.

BAG IS RECOVERED

The medical case stolen from the automobile of Dr. Herbert Young in front of St. Joseph's Hospital, was recovered this morning, hidden behind a tree near the lift lock. The contents were intact except for a quantity of drugs and the police theory is that the case was stolen by a drug addict.

CAR HITS TREE.

Damage estimated at $60 was done to the automobile of Dr. Charles Scott near interesection of George Street and Park Hill Road Wednesday when the machine slewed on the icy road as Dr. Scott was endeavoring to avoid a collision with another vehicle and crashed into a tree. The left front of the car suffered most from the impact.

KITCHENER'S RELIEF BILL.

Kitchener's relief bill for December was $16,267 as compared with $10,723 for the the corresponding month last year. The number of their people on relief increased from 1,338 in December, 1937, to 1,792 last month. Peterboroukh's figures were 1,386 persons on relief costing $9,566.73 a year ago, and last month 2,007 on relief at a cost of $13,970.21.

START WORK IN 10 DAYS.

Preparations for highway construction to be commenced in about ten days on the Buckhorn-Bobcaygeon Road, were moving apace today as workers commenced to move their camp from its site on the Oregon Trail to Nogie's Creek. The Employment Service of Canada here, with whom all applicants for work must register, is being flooded with registrations.

BOY SETS BEDDING AFIRE.

The old story about children playing with matches was heard once again in Peterborough on Wednesday when a four-year-old boy on Bethune Street set the bed clothes on fire. He had apparently secured matches and was playing with them. The Fire Department speedily extinguished the blaze before it had spread, and the youngster was not burned.

HAS NO AUTHORITY.

"The answer to that resolution of the Peterboro Automobile Club is that the city council has no authority to purchase land for the purpose of providing parking space for automobiles," Alderman Gordon said this morning, referring to the Examiner's interview Wednesday with Alex Sollitt, president of the club, who are asking the government not to enforce the new traffic by-law until the city has supplied adequate parking space for cars.

FINE RUSSIAN DOGS

The Chicago Sunday Tribune contains some interesting pictures of Johnny Gottselig, left winger of the Black Hawks and top scorer in the National Hockey League. In one of the photographs he has been snapped with a couple of Russian wolf hounds, one of them world's champion and Peterborough people will be interested in learning that these fine dogs are the property of Mrs. Harold Cluxton, formerly of this city. Incidentally Mr. and Mrs. Cluxton are planning an early return to Canada and may take up residence in Guelph.

ATTEND FUNERAL

Toronto sporting celebrities who attended the funeral of Shiner Johnston in St. John's cemetery, Norway, Wednesday included Bill Smith, life member of the O.B.A.A. and the first president of that body; Norman Chandler, Toronto umpire and former teammate of Shiner's; Harry Burridge, catcher for the Peterborough Midland League team in 1906 and 1907; Sid Haliburton, third baseman for the same team; Knotty Lee, veteran baseball coach and manager; "Curley" Belleghem, well known in City League circles as a pitcher thirty years ago, and Dr. Black, race horse owner.

Police Kept Busy Running Down False Alarms

Although the police received a number of calls Wednesday night complaining of suspicious actions on the part of men on the streets and one youth was brought to the station on suspicion, only to be released later when the girls who had been attacked previously failed to identify him as their assailant there were no reports of women being actually attacked last night.

Police were kept busy, however, running down false alarms. A typical case was a complaint from a woman on Stewart street that a man had been loitering around near her place and apparently peering into windows. When officers investigated they found that the man was a well-known citizen who was waiting for his wife to come out of a nearby house.

This morning a report came in that a man had frightened two young girls on Sherbrooke Street last night by crossing the street and apparently making for them. This story is being investigated today, the police sifting every complaint to the bottom in the hope of rounding up the youth who has caused so much alarm in the southern portion of the city during the last few nights.

Transient Asks For A Rest; Given 3 Months

James McAleer, transient, who told Magistrate Langley, K.C., in police court this morning that he needed a rest, will have one for the next three months.

McAleer pleaded guilty to being drunk on the market square yesterday, and also admitted previous convictions here in October and September so that he was tried as a third offender.

"The penalty is not less than three months imprisonment and not more than six months," said Magistrate Langley. "Do you want the full six months?"

"Be as lenient as you can, your worship," remarked McAleer. "I would rather have a month."

The court imposed the minimum penalty, three months in the county jail, so that the accused should be getting out just about the time the big leagues get under way.

New Brass Band Is Organized

Frank W. Robinson has been elected president of a new brass band recently organized in the city of which Walter Dark is the director. The secretary is J. P. Halcrow.

It is understood these musicians did not wish to become attached to a military band, and as they wish to continue their interest in group music they decided to form a band on the basis of the British brass band models, such as St. Hilda's, of about twenty-five instruments, with no reeds.

Some of th men had their own instruments, others have been lent by J. Mendel Greene, the nucleus of a music library has been collected, including marches from the Crystal Palace contest in 1933, but the members have not yet selected a name for their band. They are planning to made their debut in a few weeks or more, and have already made a great deal of progress in their practices.

Czech-Hungary Border Friction Brings Threat Of Invasion

Budapest, Jan. 12 (AP).

HUNGARIAN newspaper reports of new "Czech provocations" along the troubled Post-Munich border today kept the frontier in a state of nerves.

The press followed up a reported Hungarian warning that a new violation of frontiers would lead to an "invasion" of Czechoslovakia with dispatches such as these:

By the official news agency—That 30 carloads of "Ukrainian terrorists" had arrived in the vicinity of Ungvar.

By the newspaper Az Est—That Czech "regular army" attacks on the Hungarian line at Barkaszo were repulsed, with several Czechs wounded.

JACK BENNY — MRS. ELMA LAUER — ALBERT CHAPERAU

Jack Benny, radio and screen star, has been indicted by a U.S. Federal grand jury on a charge of smuggling jewelry, in conspiracy with Albert N. Chaperau, self-styled diplomat who was recently convicted on four counts of smuggling. Mrs. Elma N. Lauer, wife of New York Supreme Court Justice Edgar J. Theft Of Furs And Drunken Brawl Brings Roundup At Lindsay

LINDSAY, Jan. 12.— A drunken brawl at the home of George Hudson during which an Indian named Edward Skeeters, of Smith's Falls and Hudson were badly beaten and around which centred the theft of furs from the store of J. Houzer, kept the police busy Tuesday night and yesterday rounding up the alleged participants. Tuesday night the police were summoned to the home of S. Raymond, into which the slightly intoxicated Indian wandered. He told Raymond that he had been brutally slugged by two or three men with a stick and kicked in the side. He also muttered words about stolen furs, etc. Later Constable Reeves discovered that the furs had been stolen from the Houzer store.

The police then visited the home of George Hudson and found him so badly battered up that he was unable to be moved from his bed. There was considerable blood about the floor and bed. Working on the other clues, the police came to the conclusion that following the theft of furs, (by parties unknown) a party had been held where it is alleged, there was a dispute about the division of the spoils.

Late yesterday an arrest was made in connection with the brawl, when a local man named F. Keenan was picked up. According to the story told the police by Raymond, Skeeters entered his house and endeavoured to call up a party in Toronto by long distance, giving a number on Davenport Road. Skeeters ran upstairs when Raymond's son entered the house and begged to be placed in hiding. Raymond, Jr., picked up a gun, which was unloaded, and ordered the Indian to come down.

The police have the names of the parties who figured in the brawl, and interesting developmetns are expected.

Two former mayors of Lindsay have come out in favor of propositions of a rather revolutionary nature—propositions offered with a view to ease the burden of high taxation. Ex-Mayor R. I. Moore advocates the abolition of Provincial governments, giving the Dominion government power to handle commissions. He claims that if the people got rid of over-government, lower taxation will follow. Ex-Mayor John O'Rielly claims that the government should assume the cost of education take over the policing of the province and municipalities and the cost of hospitals, such as the institution at Gravenhurst.

Charge Withdrawn Against Solerow

After having been adjourned several times the charge against Ralph Solerow of having stolen a quantity of merchandise from the Pattenick store here was finally disposed before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning when Crown tAtorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., asked to be allowed to withdraw the case.

W. B. Gordon, who appeared on Solerow's behalf, naturally offered no objection. Magistrate Langley announced that the case was withdrawn without costs.

The charge was laid following an investigation of the recent fire in Pattenick's store by Inspector Saville of the Ontario Fire Marshall's department.

Council Session Ends In Mix Up When Lakefield's Reeve Asks Resignation Of Constable

By Staff Reporter

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 12.—Fireworks and a municipal muddle that will take plenty of untangling featured the inaugural meeting of Lakefield town council this week, and resulted in Chief Constable Wallace Hendren tendering his resignation and walking out of the meeeting.

Argument and discussion over the position of chief constable reached such a high pitch during the meeting that it is reported the clerk had to pour oil on the troubled waters by rising to a point of order. The Council with three of the four councillors new men, and a new reeve in the chair started the session at 8 o'clock and rung down the curtain shortly after one in the morning, with the air still heavily charged with electricity.

It is customary at the first meeting to pass a by-law confirming the appointment of the chief constable for the ensuing year, and this covers his other jobs as well, that of weed inspector, sanitary inspector, poundkeeper, assessor, collector of taxes, furnace man and caretaker of the Memorial hall.

By-law Blocked.

When the council went into committee of the whole on the second reading of the by-law with Councillor Graham in the chair Reeve Scriver moved, seconded by Councillor Charlton that the committee arise, which blocked the by-law and gave it the customary hoist until the next regular meeting or later. The motion passed and the discussion waxed warm, with Constable Hendren handing the clerk his resignation. At this point Dave Millar made a motion, seconded by Charlton that the clerk call for tenders for the position, the tenders to close Feb. 13th. This carried by G. H. Graham and Edwards immediately moved that the resignation of the constable not be accepted which also carried, with the entire council voting to keep Hendren on the job. The reeve was in the chair.

Removed His Desk.

That night Constable Hendren removed his desk from the Town Hall and has not been back since. The desk was his property. David Millar remarked today that the new men and himself were a little bewildered by the rapid chain of events but he expressed himself as being satisfied that Hendren was a good man and suitable for the job. He believed that Hendren was still holding the position because his resignation had not been accepted.

Reeve Scriver when approached about the meeting said it was his opinion that the job should be thrown open every year for tender so that everyone would have a chance to place applications. That was the reason he blocked the by-law confirming Hendren's appointment, he claims. "Hendren did not do the work to the satisfaction of the ratepayers, but will have his chance along with any other to tender for the position," said Reeve Scriver.

Not Personal Feud.

"I'm suggesting that this whole squabble is nothing more or less than a personal feud between you and the constable", said the reporter.

"Not at all," answered the Reeve, "Our dealings have always been friendly but the general public say his work has not been done right."

Interviews with three ratepayers in Lakefield not members of the Council reveals that Hendren's work has been entirely satisfactory and all three agreed he was the best man for the job.

It was also learned that during the 23 years that the late Robert Webster was chief constable, the job had never been thrown open to tenders. Hendren has been on the job for three years.

Busy On Tax Roll.

Hendren when interviewed had little to say about the recent developments. He said he was undecided at present on whether to tender for the job, and was still working on the tax rolls.

Councillors received a notice from the town clerk today advising them that a special meeting had been called for two-thirty this afternoon when Constable Hendren would be present and would be asked to continue on the job until the closing date for tenders, February 13th. He did not report for duty on Tuesday morning. It is expected the air will be cleared at this meeting.

Today Lakefield's only Chinese resident, Mr. Wong was busy sweeping out Memorial Hall and working at the furnace. This led one village wag to remark that Lakefield might as well appoint the Oriental to the position of Chief Constable and get some real publicity by having the only Chinese Chief Constable in Canada.

The Council appointed Henry Harbison, village constable pro-tem so that the town would not be without police protection. Harbison was named County Constable last year. In every home in the village today the council meeting is the chief topic of conversation and every person met on the main street was ready and willing to discuss the many angles to the situation.

Dr. Raeman has been assigned to Tuesday afternoons. The attendance of the girls and boys who enrolled for the course is back to normal following a slight decline on account of illness.

DANGEROUS HABIT

A delivery truck driver reported today that children were using a slide at the intersection of Mark and Robinson streets in Ashburnham and that one had slid past the front of his truck on the icy road missing it by inches. He added the road was so icy at this point that a motorist had little chance of stopping if a child suddenly shot out in front of the car.

CHAPTER 48

"BOB TOWNE, you have simply got to stop proposing to me every time we meet. I am very happy about the Columbian award. Happy for you. I think you deserve every dollar of it. But that has noth-ng to do with you and me."

Sara Sue wasn't going to let Bob get into a balmy mood, if she could help it. Men are much more difficult to handle then, if you are by nature kind.

"Aw, but listen, Sara Sue—didn't you hear what Sanders just said? He said—he said it was all right! He congratulated me. You MUST have told him something; didn't you? Come on, this is no time for teasing!"

She sighed heavily.

"I'm not teasing."

"You are."

"I'm not, I tell you. I—I don't want to be flip about it, Bob you know that. I wouldn't hurt anybody's feelings for the world. But I did not say I would marry you."

"Well, you can say it now, can't you? Grea-a-at glory, Sara Sue, I'm crazy about you! You know I am."

"I ought to, by now." She said it resignedly, looking beyond him.

"Then let's get married. Hunh? . . . Listen, kid—" Bob's voice and manner changed abruptly then. He dropped almost to a whisper, and pleaded as earnestly as he knew how.

Sara Sue knew that he was in earnest, too. She could tell. Most of the time Bob Towne was blustery, noisy, peppery. But Sara Sue was wise enough to know that such an outward manner often covers a fine sensitivity. She had long ago known that it did in Bob Towne.

His softer urging, therefore, stirred and hurt her more than his bluster. She had just forced herself out of one emotional experience, had just stopped crying because she had to turn T. J. Sanders down. It may be flattering, she was reflecting, but it is also nerve rending to have two young men offer you their hearts and souls in the same half hour. Especially if each is a go-getter type, full of energy, strong. She just could not maintain her pose of crusty bantering; the tears came back into her eyes.

And the tears—surprisingly—did the trick.

Big Bob Towne, no spiritual fool even if he was a football man, was pleading as earnestly as he knew how— "and I'll work for you and slave for you, honey; honest I will. I'll be anything you want me to be. I'll have this money—I'm going to ask T. J. to stand up with us, should I?—and it'll be enough to start us out. If you'd rather I finish school, I will; but honey, I wish you would marry me at once and — aw-w-w-w honey! . . . S-Sara Sue! . . . You're—crying!"

He had concluded in a bare whisper. He looked into her eyes for several seconds. She was silent, but he had his final answer.

Slowly he took a handkerchief and blotted her tears. He pleaded no more, spoke no more at all; in fact, never in all his life thereafter did Bob Towne mention this moment to Sara Sue again, never did he again mention, flippantly or otherwise, that he had loved her, wanted her, yearned for her as devotedly as he knew how.

They had been sitting together, even as she and T. J. had been sitting together a few minutes ago. Bob put his hand under her elbow, helped her to rise. Then he patted her shoulder ever so gently. That was all. They started walking toward the ballroom. A hullabaloo there assailed them.

When a dance floor has more than 800 people on it, in all the varying stages of hilarity and motion and happiness and noise, one more man shouting frantically is not likely to be understood on the opposite side of the room. Bob and Sara Sue paid little attention at first. But then the orchestra stopped, heads began to turn, and words began to be clear. The shouting man was moving, and waving a hand.

"SARA SUE . . . WAIT, I TELL YOU! . . . WAIT! . . . I LOVE YOU MYSELF! AND I . . ."

The utterly amazing proclamation startled everyone into silent attention.

Sara Sue began to hear, to understand, to recognize him. "It's Thornton," she murmured, incredulous. "It's Thornton Holgate! . . . What in the world—?"

The young professor was plowing through people much as he had plowed through salt waves off Galveston; pushing and pulling and swimming, and shouting instructions the while. Wild, frantic instructions. Nobody laughed, yet; nobody quite understood. Was this another gag? Another floor show act? Whatever—?

"Oh, Sara Sue, am I too late? Are you—?"

"Why, Thornton, what in the world is it? Do you realize what you are doing? And saying?" Sara Sue almost shouted herself now. Everyone strained to listen.

"Oh, my darling, I do! I am saying that I love you and want to marry you." He paused momentarily, to swallow and catch his breath. "Is it true that someone—Towne—was proposing to you? Have you accepted him? Is there no hope? Oh, I have been so blind, Sara Sue! So incredibly blind, and stupid. Can you forgive me? Can you give me time to prove my affection? To show—"

He held out a hand in supplication.

His astounded audience, including Sara Sue herself, was enthralled by his manner. No one laughed. No one smiled. Here was drama, abject, gripping drama, and everybody seemed to sense it instantly. Some may have thought it an act, but certainly they wanted to see it through. A somewhat disheveled young man, a young Rice professor whom most of them knew because of recent publicity, was openly and earnestly proposing marriage to a beautiful girl. And he seemed oblivious of the crowd around them. Oblivious of everything in God's world save The Girl who stood there.

"I was wrong, darling, wrong! I asked your help, but it was you I wanted, not she. I knew it weeks ago, and my foolish pride held me back. I was thinking, hoping, some way would be made clear for me to make love to you, yourself. You, Sara Sue! Not her. Not her, I tell you! I knew the minute I first saw you that it was you, that night we talked, while it rained. But I—you—you were an ideal, and I—I—oh, what a fool I have been!"

"Why, Thornton! . . . Why Thornton!"

She could not speak coherently. She reached tremulously as if to touch him, then withdrew her hand and put it to her mouth.

"Why, Thornton!"

"I have only now learned that you may be engaged. I came, hastening, running. I am sorry if I—Oh, I must have upset things here!" He glanced for the first time at the amazed listeners around them. "But I do not care. This transcends conventions, my dear. It does! I love you. I care not who knows, or hears. If it is not too late—no matter, I love you anyway. I always have. I always shall!"

"For God's sake!" some voice in the crowd rumbled.

And that broke the tension. A veritable explosion of words, exclamations, laughs, everything, came then.

"Why, T-T-Thornton!" Her voice was breaking now, and her dainty chin was trembling. She was gazing intently into his eyes, her own misty and deep and calm. "T-Thornton! Yes, Thornton!"

The noise subsided, and people moved back away from them, there almost in the middle of the floor. She was in his arms—he was still talking, pouring out his very soul—and she was looking up, nodding.

They were still there a full minute later, and a hush almost sublime had settled again over the staring crowd. Here and there was excited murmuring and whispering. And the appreciative orchestra leader, accustomed perhaps to unexpected drama, raised his baton, spoke a word or two; music suffused them, muted, tuneful music. Could it have been a wedding song? Lohengrin? Still oblivious, Sara Sue and Thornton began to walk away; he was still talking, but slowly, softly now. He had an arm around her; he held a hand. They moved down the University club stairs.

The great International ball came to an end about an hour later.

"Ho hum and hi-de-ho" yawned Bob Towne, when he met T. J. Sanders at the hat checking counter.

"Yep," said T. J., not smiling. "Well, I'll be seeing you."

They were almost the last ones to depart. They were tired, and looked it.

"Guess I'll leave these last two coats," Freshman Gurley said. "They belong to Sara Sue and Dr. Holgate. They didn't call for them. Say, Bob, I thought the upperclassmen were going to mix up the checks, or something?"

"Phooey, slime. Go on home. Your wife is already asleep around there in an easy chair. I ought to beat you for neglecting her. Maybe I will."

DOROTHY DIX

Marriage Is a Gamble, But The Odds On Its Success Will Be Lengthened If Both The Man And Woman Do a Check-up Before The Trek To The Altar

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—They say that the future of every marriage is a gamble. I disagree. I think if a man and a girl are foresighted enough to check up on each other's defects as much as possible and to make sure that they see eye-to-eye on finances, children, work and spare time, to discuss problems frankly before the time comes and have a willingness to co-operate afterward their marriage is certain to turn out well. And what do you think about religious beliefs and marriages? D.

ANSWER:

There is always the element of chance in every marriage, as there is about everything else in life, because unforeseen circumstances may arise that wreck the most carefully laid plans.

I have known husbands and wives who were devoted to each other and who have lived happily together for many years, then separated and had their home broken up when a poisonous mother-in-law came to live with them. I have known many marriages wrecked by disease. A sweet-tempered and amiable wife turned into a shrewdish whiner by some nervous disorder, or a jolly husband gone grouchy through dyspepsia. And always there is the problem of what a man and woman are going to turn into after marriage, because, no matter how well you know the boy friend or the girl friend on the safe side of the altar, on the other side you find you are married to a perfect stranger.

So marriage is bound to be a gamble. It is never a safe thing, and maybe that is one of the reasons why we all want to try it. The very uncertainty of it fires our sporting blood.

But you are right in saying that you can take a lot of the risk out of marriage by picking out your mate with your head as well as your heart, and taking a few of the hurdles beforehand instead of waiting to jump them all after marriage, when it is forever too late to find out that you and Sweetums think differently about everything under the sun.

The main thing to consider in marriage is congeniality. As long as two people have the same tastes and habits, like the same kind of cooking and enjoy the same jokes, they are safe.

The subject of mixed marriages is certainly one that should be settled before marriage because it is one fraught with misery and tears and bloodshed. There are plenty of other things for married couples to fight over besides religion. I think that people of different religious faiths should never marry if either one is particularly devoted to his or her own church. If they do, there is sure to be trouble over the children, if not over the orthodox one trying to force the other one into his or her creed. It is much better, as a general thing, for people to marry in their own faith.

Of course, there are exceptions to this rule, and there are many mixed marriages that are peaceful and happy, but this only happens when both parties are broad and tolerant and just and fair. It is certainly ironical that religion, which is the gospel of love, should bring on some of the bitterest controversies the world has ever known.

• • • • • • •

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—My parents said I should write and ask you if you think it is proper for a girl of 16 to go out once in a while with a boy. I have been going with a sensible boy of 17 who doesn't keep me out late, and we have good times together, but my father and mother do not know whether I am too young to go or not. We don't go out more than once every two weeks. PEGGY.

ANSWER:

It is entirely proper for a girl of 16 to step out a bit with the boys. Indeed, it is educational, because if she doesn't begin going with boys around that age she is always shy and awkward with them and never learns the technique of how to get along with them.

Besides, it is the best way to keep her from losing her head and going boy-crazy. It is the girls who have never had any dates who imagine every lad to be a glamorous Fairy Prince and who think they are in love with the first chap who comes along. The girl who has played around with boys all of her life knows Johnny Jones for just what he is, and he doesn't rouse any romantic yearnings in her breast.

By all means step out with your nice boy friend, but don't go steady with any boy. Have as many on your string as you can get. Look 'em all over. There is safety in numbers.

• • • • • • •

DEAR MISS DIX—We have not been long married and have been very happy together, as we are very congenial. He was a widower with a son, of whom I am very fond, and we were both so glad to have our own home, but lately I have found out that there is a woman in his life. He has always been so down on that kind of thing himself that I cannot understand it. He is very good to me and is a splendid fellow with every one, and I love him dearly, but I feel that our marriage is a mockery now and that I cannot carry on. I can go back to my job and support myself, and I have a little money saved. What do you think I should do about it? BROKEN-HEARTED WIFE.

ANSWER:

The ony thing you can do is to have a frank talk with your husband about the matter and ask him to put all of his cards on the table. Certainly he owes it to you to, at least, be honest and let you know where you stand.

Perhaps this "other woman" is no new rival—for it seems early for him to have gone philandering—but a mistress of whom he finds it difficult to rid himself. Many men when they decide to marry and "range" themselves, as the French say, find themselves bound in a network of love ties from which it is almost impossible to extricate themselves.

But, at any rate, get the truth, and then you will know whether to be sorry for your husband, or leave him.

GOODNIGHT STORY

By MAX FRELL

"So the children went for a ride on a pony this afternoon — well, well! I'm very glad to hear about it," said Mr. Punch to Hanid and Knarf. The two shadows had come to visit him in the playroom after the children had gone off to bed. "I hope they had a good time."

"They had a wonderful time!" Hanid exclaimed. "They rode all around the ring in the park."

"Why are ponies so small?" Knarf asked Mr. Punch the next moment. "Don't they eat enough?"

"Yes—they eat quite enough," Mr. Punch laughed. "I mean—quite enough for ponies. That isn't the reason why they're so small."

"It's really very simple."

"What is the reason then?"

Mr. Punch was thoughtful for a moment or two. Then he answered. "Well—I'll tell you why. But first you must answer a question. There must be ponies, musn't there?"

"Of course there must," the two shadows said promptly. "If there weren't any ponies, how would the children be able to take pony rides."

"That's right. If there weren't any ponies, there wouldn't be any pony rides. So if the ponies, instead of being small, were all as big as horses, there wouldn't be any ponies to speak of. They'd all be horses. You wouldn't be able to tell them apart. So," said Mr. Punch, smiling, "you see the ponies have to stay small. It's really very simple after you think about it."

But the shadows were not satisfied with Mr. Punch's explanation. They didn't think that ponies stayed small just to be able to keep giving children pony rides. They were sure there must be some other reason.

Another Reason?

But when they asked Mr. Punch again, he just shok his head. "I've told you all I know about ponies. Perhaps they do stay small for another reason. Perhaps they can't grow any bigger. After all, there are big dogs and little dogs, and big trees and little trees, and big people and small people. And so there are big horses and little horses—and the littlest horses of all are ponies. And if there is another reason why the ponies stay small, I'm afraid you'll have to ask the ponies. But I'm not so sure that even they know."

Janetville Lodge Celebrates 3rd Birthday With Party

(Examiner Correspondence.)

JANETVILLE, Jan. 12.—The third birthday of "Silver Jubilee" L. O. B. A., No. 1012, was celebrated on Monday evening in the Orange Hall, when euchre and dancing was enjoyed by a capacity crowd.

Miss Evelyn Hart won the ladies' prize for euchre and Ross Davidson and Ross Jackett tied for the men's prize, the former winning in a draw.

The door prize was won by the Worthy Mistress Mrs. E. A. Bradburn, and the bag of flour on which tickets had been sold went to Mr. Heber Preston of Peterborough, while Wilmer Fitze held the winning ticket for the coffee.

At the conclusion of the euchre lunch was served by the members and included the three-tiered birthday cake, which was beautifully iced and appropriately decorated for the occasion and topped by three candles which were extinguished by the W.M., Mrs. E. A. Bradburn.

Dancing was then enjoyed for a couple of hours to music furnished by Percy Hamilton's orchestra.

The proceeds of the evening amounted to $35, which will be applied to improvements for the hall.

PILES GO QUICK
With Dr. Leonhardt's Prescription.

Many sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have found out that quick relief can be had with an internal medicine.

Bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel is the cause of piles. The veins are congested and flabby, the bowel walls weak. That is why an internal medicine like HEM-ROID should be used. HEM-ROID stimulates the circulation, relieves the pressure of blood in the veins of the lower bowel, and helps to heal and restore the sore, tender parts.

HEM-ROID is the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, who spent several years of his professional life in finding the cause of piles and the medicine that would remove them. His medicine succeeds because it tends to correct the cause.

No matter what kind of piles you have or how long you have had them, if you want to try HEM-ROID, you have our promise to give you back your money if you do not find quick and satisfying relief, after using just one bottle.

Cost Of Relief Is Increasing In Campbellford

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 12—There are five more families registered on relief than there were at the same time last year, Relief Officer J. J. Lewis Hay revealed before members of the council on Monday night and the cost was $150 above December, 1937. Querried by Councillor McColl as to the reason for this when present working conditions were better than they had been for some time, Mr. Hay explained that it was due in a large part to the fact there had been very little road work during the summer.

Mayor Long expressed the opinion that the grant from the Water and Light Commission would be the same as in 1938, approximately $10,000.00.

The report of the tax collector, J. C. Birmingham, indicated arrears of taxes collected to the end of December were $1,055.95. The summary of 1938 taxes was as follows: Paid to treasurer, $66,370.41; unpaid taxes, $10,123.14; discounts allowed, $670.26; total $77,163.81. Arrears for the year were $8,164.29. Amount of 1939 taxes collected to date, $3,589.66. Giving his report in the capacity of school attendance officer Mr. Birmingham said: Home permits, 3; employment permits, 4; irregular attendance, 98; irregular attendance investigated, 106; physical infirmity, $1; mental infirmity, $1; average attendance, 91 per cent.

Refuse To Remove Snow.

"Either enforce the by-law or throw it into the fire," suggested Councillor MacMillan when it was learned that several citizens had refused to remove snow from their sidewalks.

A by-law authorizing the borrowing of up to $50,000.00 to meet current expenditures until taxes were collected was passed on motion of Councillor McColl.

The following appointments to the various boards were made: Library Board, A. T. Linton; Board of Education as High School trustee, Major Geo. H. Free; Board of Health, Earl A. Bell; auditors for 1938, Maj. J. M. Bygott and Wilbert A. Kingston. At the suggestion of Councillor McColl the clerk was authorized to instruct the council's representative on the School Board that he should attend the special meeting of the council when the tax rate would be struck.

The clerk advised the council of the official results of the vote taken on the by-law on Jan. 2nd and advised them that more than two-thirds had voted in favour of granting the Trent Dehydrated Products Company a fixed assessment. The by-law was given its third reading and was passed unanimously by the council.

With regard to the matter of retaining the services of a night watchman the majority of the councillors were in favor of having an extra policeman but it was suggested that tenders should be asked for. It was recommended that only local applicants should be considered in view of the fact that the last time a policeman was advertised for there were seventy-five applicants. Tenders will be received until noon on January 20th.

New Madoc Member On Hydro Commission

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MADOC, Jan. 12. — Owing to the resignation received from E. C. Tufts and accepted, it was necessary to hold a nomination for the position of Hydro-Electric Commissioner to fill the unexpired portion of the year. Nominations held on Monday evening resulted in the election by acclamation of W. J. Hill, who with T. H. Rupert, elected last week, will form the local board of Hydro-Electric Commission for 1939.

Community Club.

The first meeting of the Madoc Community Club for the year 1939 was held in the form of a chicken supper at the spacious dining-rooms of Blue's Hotel on Monday evening, with the large attendance of 72.

The main problem for discussion was ways and means of raising funds to assist in the relief projects of the community.

It was decided to hold a fancy dress carnival in the Madoc Arena, with the details of organization and completion of committees left in the hands of T. H. Rupert. An address was delivered by Charles Johnston, president of the club, in which he stressed the value of co-operation among the members in order to achieve the objectives of the club.

New Year's Thursday For Diehard Scots

GLASGOW, Jan. 12—(AP).—Diehard Scots of the Inverness village of Blarmachfoldach will celebrate New Year's Day tomorrow, observing a local custom more than 300 years old with a preference for brunettes.

Since 1599, when a government order substituted the Gregorian for the Julian calendars, the villagers have refused to fall in line. Under the older Julian calendar the New Year begins 12 days after the day now observed elsewhere in the western world.

Tonight at midnight the village kirk bells will herald the "New Year" and Blarmachfoldach folk will "first foot" each other. This is what "first footing" means:

If a dark haired person is the first to put his or her foot across the doorstep on New Year's Day it is said to spell a year of good fortune for the household. Blonds are believed to be unlucky, so brunettes always are in demand at New Year's.

Turkey's 11 new vessels will cost nearly $9,000,000.

Pressure On Japan To Stir Reprisals

TOKYO, Jan. 12—(AP). — The newspaper Nichi Nichi quoted Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita as declaring Japan would prepare "retaliatory measures against the mainlands and dependents of the United States and Great Britain" if they "should resort to serious economic pressure against Japan."

The paper said the statement was made in an interview, but the foreign office spokesman said, "The story is supposed to reflect the views of various officials of the foreign office but I believe it is Nichi Nichi's guess."

"In short, the foreign minister's intention seems to be to meet the legitimate demands of Britain and the United States regarding their China interests with an attitude of complete good will, but to cope with any restraining or threatening actions on their part with a stern policy."

We Noticed

. . . By Easter, according to one of New York's smartest modistes, coiffures won't be up and hats will not be as tiny as they were last Fall. Coiffures will be molded to show the shape of the head. A hat will be a hat and not a wisp of felt or a miniature pancake of flowers or something.

. . . It will be chic to have your hat contrast with rather than match, your dress. Flowers and ribbons will be more widely used than fruit and feathers.

. . . Turbans and pillboxes with wimples attached . . . mushroom shapes . . . feathers and veiling and ribbon for trimming . . . straws very fine or else very rough . . . certainly the midseason hats and early spring bonnets are new-looking and exciting. There is more felt or straw per bonnet than there used to be. Victorian sailors, real turbans and tricornes have replaced "doll" sailors, turbans and tricornes.

Do You Know?

Besides daily dusting with a soft, clean cloth, an occasional wiping with a cloth wrung out of mild soap suds, followed by a rub-down with furniture polish, will preserve the sheen of your furniture?

Shrunken woollens can be brought back to normal size by rinsing in fresh soap suds instead of clear water, after washing? Repeat each time the garment is washed until the correct size is obtained.

Program Leaders Are Arranged By St. James W.M.S.

With Mrs. Wesley Rose, the recently elected president of St. James' W.M.S. Auxiliary, presiding, the first meeting for 1939 was held in Wesley Hall, Wednesday afternoon.

The opening devotions were led by Mrs. E. Woodley, vice-president, who read an appropriate selection from the poem "Our Country," while a hymn and the Lord's Prayer completed the worship service.

Very splendid were the reports given by officers and secretaries of departments, all of whom spoke optimistically of the future as based upon the results of the year just closed, both in a spiritual and material sense.

The departments under review included Christian stewardship and finance and the supply, literature, temperance, strangers', missionary Monthly, associate helpers', recording, press and corresponding secretaries told in detail much of the year's activities.

The Mission Band and Baby Band are receiving intensive care at the hands of their respective leaders, while the guardian of the treasury gives the financial standing of the society as a whole to be on a thoroughly sound basis. A kindly vote of appreciation for the work being done by the leader of the Mission Band and to Mrs. E. L. Woodley, who had so capably filled the office of president, since the death of Mrs. Elliott, was voiced by Mrs. Rose and Mrs. Buckler and heartily endorsed by the meeting.

Officers Installed

An impressive feature of the meeting was the installation of officers for the coming year conducted by Rev. Mr. Craik, the pastor, who charged the new executive members with the importance of the duties upon which they were entering. Mrs. Rose took her chair, and in her modest maiden speech as president, while pointing out work she hoped to see accomplished during her tenure, declared that her motto was going to be "Living" not "giving."

As decided at a recent executive meeting, assistants to the conveners of departments were appointed as follows: Mrs. E. L. Woodley, assistant temperance secretary; Mrs. Evans, assistant supply secretary; Mrs. George Cuff, assistant associate helper; Mrs. E. M. Davis, assistant Baby Band secretary; and Miss M. Deyell, assistant Christian stewardship secretary.

The group system was also adopted by the Auxiliary, with the following leaders and the country they will represent month by month during the year: January, the executive; February, Mrs. G. Harris, Japan; March, Mrs. R. Evans, China; April, Mrs. R. Payne, Easter meeting; May, Miss M. Morton, India; June, Mrs. Breadman, Baby Band day; July, Miss Deyell, Africa; August, Mrs. McAdam, home missions; September, Mrs. Beavis, temperance and self denial; October, Mrs. Dinsdale, thanksgiving program; November, Mrs. W. K. Sloan, Trinidad and Korea; December, Mrs. M. Morrison, Christmas program. The committees for these months will be appointed later.

The study book, with Mrs. McAdam as leader, will be taken at the homes of members, evening the same as last year.

Mrs. E. Beavis and Mrs. R. B. English were appointed as delegates to the Presbyterial on January 24, with Mrs. W. K. Sloane and Mrs. A. H. Davis alternates. Mrs. E. J. Wagar was named as auditor for the society's books.

The adoption of a missionary for prayer by St. James' Auxiliary was discussed and Rev. Charlie Kitney and his wife were unanimously chosen. Following their generous precendent of past year, "World Friends" was again voted a gift to the Mission Band for 1939.

In a well-prepared paper on Christian stewardship, written by Mrs. F. W. Craik and read by Miss M. Deyell, the needs of this department and systematic giving were stressed.

The delightful vocal solo, "Beside Still Waters" was the contribution of Mrs. R. C. Searles and was greatly enjoyed. Mrs. H. F. Doig accompanied at the piano.

A New Year's message to this the first meeting of the year, was brought in a brief but sparkling talk by Mrs. W. H. Buckler. She said that with the Christmas spirit and season still fresh in our minds we look out with renewed hope upon a new year. "Our ambitions for 1939" were outlined and included, first of all, that each member come to personally know God. Our great missionary ambition is "The world for Jesus," and that can only be accomplished through our sacrificial givings.

The scripture lesson was read by Mrs. A. Davis and prayer offered by Mesdames Ingham, Cripps and Woodley.

Social and Financial Romance

Congratulations are being received by the couple following the announcement that they will be married January 31. The ceremony is expected to take place in Mrs. Hart's apartment in New York city. Mrs. Hart's first husband was killed in an airplane crash four years ago. Warburg was divorced in Reno by his first wife, the former Jean Stettheimer, of San Francisco.

Moths Would Rather Starve to Death Than Feed on Modern Mohair Velvets

Moths would sooner starve to death than feed on modern mohair velvets, thanks to scientific mothproofing which was clearly illustrated in an educational film, "Fleece to Fabric," shown at the Collegiate Auditorium on Wednesday night. The film was brought to the city by the Chamber of Commerce and executives of local textile plants as a supplement to the teaching being given a night school class in textiles and for the benefit of the general public.

More than 200 people attended the showing of the film including the entire class studying textile manufacturing. The projector was operated by B. W. Young of Toronto, merchandising and service manager for Collins & Aikman of Canada, Ltd., who also explained the different manufacturing operations as the processes were shown.

Tests to determine if the fabrics are suitable to meet the strenuous demands of modern furniture and vehicle upholstery include a resistance to wear test and a resistance to fading test. The cavalcade of velvets flashed on the screen included the entire range from plain velvets to the fanciest patterns and showed also the various uses to which they are put. These included upholstery for home furniture, cars, trains, buses, and airplanes.

Angora goats give their coats nowadays to furnish the upholstery of the modern automobile and improvements in manufacture make the mohair velvet as placed on the market to-day, far superior to the old style plush.

There was a day when practically all pile fabrics used for automobile upholstery were known as plush. These fabrics had a high pile and were hot and uncomfortable, because the long pile had a tendency to cling to clothes. In addition they were hard on fur coats. The word plush when used to describe automobile upholstery refers to this old-fashioned material which is supplanted to-day by the modern low pile fabrics which have been developed only in recent years.

According to the film, mohair velvet gets its name from the fact that it is woven from the hair of the Angora goat. Modern mohair fabrics have a very short pile, made up of thousands of fine fibres closely woven. The short dense pile is restful to ride on, does not cling to clothes and is harmless to fur coats.

C. B. Merrett, superintendent of the Bonner-Worth Mill, and teacher of the class studying textiles, was chairman of the meeting and extended the thanks of the gathering to Mr. Young after the film had been shown.

Choice Vegetable Recipes For The Clever Cooks

(BY MARY MOORE)

If I did not already know it I would be sure of it by the letters I receive saying "Please tell me how to stretch my limited means to make cheap food interesting." While they are not expressed in the same words that is the theme of so many letters it is a big problem to me.

For that reason every vegetable (for actually vegetables do form the basis of all our meals) used in these recipes is one or other of the most abundant, and least expensive, most easily stored, etc.: Potatoes, cabbages, beets, carrots, turnips and onions being featured.

And you who do not have to count the pennies a word to you if you are wise is "read it and heed it too," for if I was addressing it to you I would call it "Choice Vegetable Recipes for Clever Cooks."

Norwegian Shredded Beets

Shred (as you would shred raw cabbage) about 1½ lbs. peeled raw beets. Add to 2 cups boiling water containing 2 tablespoons butter, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoons sugar, and cover tightly. Cook rapidly for about 10 minutes (The same mixture may be baked until tender, using half the amount water).

Burgermeister Potatoes

Peel and wash about 1 lb. potatoes (or double that amount if your family is big), cut in thick slices and put in salted boiling water and boil until soft enough to put through sieve. When sieved put in saucepan with 2 tablespoons butter, ½ teaspoon salt, shake of pepper and nutmeg (do not stint with the nutmeg), and stir over low heat with wooden spoon until this puree thickens. Remove from heat and beat in 2 yolks of eggs or 1 whole egg. Divide mixture into small squares or flat cakes and fry slowly in butter to a light golden. When serving on hot platter garnish with parsley. These make a nice item on a vegetable plate.

Glazed Carrots

Since most of the carrots are large at this time of year, I think the most attractive shape to cut them in is slices, unless you care to use French vegetable cutters and make balls or lattices of them (which takes too much time for most of us). Scrub and cut carrots in ¼-inch slices, about four big ones. Boil them first in slightly salted water until nearly tender. Then drain, saving the water for that pot of soup you are planning on making. Melt together 2 tablespoons sugar and 3 tablespoons butter in frying pan and then put the carrots in and turn them over constantly, until the cooking is complete and the carrots are shining. Garnish top of this in vegetable dish with finely chopped parsley.

Cabbage Soup with Meat Croquettes (Swedish).

This is highly recommended.

The fact that this recipe calls for stock should not stop you making it for the stock can be had from boiling beef bones that can be had from your butcher for little or no cost when you are ordering other meat.

One small cabbage (or large if your family is big), 3 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon corn syrup, 3 quarts good stock, 8 to 10 whole peppercorns. Remove the outer and loose leaves of the cabbage and the heavy ribs. Chop the cabbage and cook in the butter to a light brown stirring almost constantly. Add the syrup and stir until the syrup is light brown, being careful not to let it get dark. Add the stock and peppercorns, cover, and simmer for about 2½ hours at very low heat. Serve with Swedish Meat Croquettes.

(These are always served with the foregoing cabbage soup). ¼ lb. minced beef, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespon breadcrumbs, ½ cup milk, 1 teaspon potato flour, 2 teaspoons salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper. Mix all the ingredients until perfectly smooth, and shape into very small balls, and boil in salted water or on top of the soup for about 10 minutes just before the soup is to be served. A delicious and nourishing supper soup.

Baked Onions.

These have become another "filler-inner" when our oven is hot for only one item such as a pie or pudding—and our thrifty souls must conserve all the heat. Baked apples are another good "filler-inner" that can be used for breakfast the day following.

Spanish onions are best for baking because they will keep their shape, but are not essential. Peel onions, and cut a small core from centre, and fill this with butter. Place on enamel or glass baking dish, pour in about ½ inch of boiling water, cover, and bake about 1½ to 2 hours, basting twice during the baking period. If these are not to be used when first baked, they are easily reheated in steamer. Of course, onions are delicious if baked around a roast of beef or veal. These also make a nice item for a vegetable plate.

Emem's Savory Turnips.

Cut yellow turnips in about ¾-inch dice and let soak for half-hour and drain. Then boil in plenty of salted water, uncovered, until tender and drain. Melt 3 tablespoons butter, to them add 1½ tablespoons flour and mix together, then add 1 cup boiling water (or boiling water from the potatoes) and 1 Oxo or Bovril cube and stir until thick and meat cube melts. A little pepper, but no salt, is necessary. This is another good item for a vegetable plate. We think this is best if sauce is made in top of double boiler, turnips added and allowed to stand over boiling water for half-hour when turnips take on some of the meat flavor.

French Fried Onions.

Peel very large onions (Spanish or Bermuda or Egyptian are preferable but not at all necessary) and cut into one-quarter inch slices and separate into rings. Dip in milk, drain, dip in flour, and dry in deep fat (clarified beef drippings are good), and drain on unglazed paper and sprinkle with salt. These must be served immediately, or they tend to wilt.

Euchre Party Held At Larmer Home

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 12—Mrs. R. O. Larmer kindly offered the use of her home, Cavan, for a progressive euchre in the interests of Golden Sheaf Rebekah Lodge, No 176, on Monday evening, nine tables being in use for play.

Prizes were won by Miss Ruth Ball, top score for ladies, and Miss Grace Johnson, the consolation; Smith McCutcheon, highest points for the men, with W. H. Armstrong on the low end of the score.

Lunch was served about 11 p.m., and afterward dancing was enjoyed, among those presiding at the piano being Misses Gwen Hutchinson and Grace Johnson Those going from Millbrook included Mr. and Mrs. P. I. Bentley, Mrs. H. J. Armstrong, Mrs. J. W. Hamilton, Misses Ruth Ball and Lila Whyte, and Messrs. T. W. McCamus and Clarence Ball. The Rebekah funds benefited by approximately nine dollars.

Social Evening

The Millbrook Garrison Badminton Club resumed its usual stride, after the interruptions of the holiday season, at the Armouries on Monday evening, an unusually large number of players being on hand, and the games being entered in with enthusiasm and enjoyment.

As usual; the first evening in the month was observed as a social occasion following the evening's play, and adjournment was made to the club lounge upstairs, where Mrs. W. W. Kennedy and Miss Anna L. Kells were hostesses, pouring tea and coffee at a table lovely with ecru lace cloth, cream water lillies on the central reflector, tiny cream shells at its four corners, and with tall cream tapers lighted in silver holders.

Assisting with the service were Misses Shirley Buckingham and Gladys Williamson, and Messrs Jack Turner, A. H. Jeffrey, Owen McCarthy and Walter Zeigler.

Mrs. A. Matthews' Mother to Mark 93rd Birthday

LINDSAY, Jan. 12—(Special).—Mrs. Albert Matthews is justly proud that her husband is Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Ontario. The First Lady of the Province, however, is quite as proud that her mother, Mrs. J. L. Whiteside, is the oldest lady in this town, if not the oldest resident.

On Saturday, Mrs. Whiteside will celebrate her ninety-third birthday at her home on Wellington Street. The mother of the "First Lady," is keenly interested in curent affairs, particularly in those pertaining to the welfare of her fellow citizens. Her happiest moments are spent in discussing missionary and other church activities with Mrs. J. P. Ryley, sister of the Lieutenant-Governor, who resides just a few doors from the charming nonagenarian.

Until her frailty precluded her, Mrs. Whiteside was one of the most regular attendants at the Cambridge Street Baptist Church, where her daughter and son-in-law attended Sunday school together and later beacme active members of the congregation. She was born in England, moving with her parents to Canada when she was nine years of age. Her parents settled in Mariposa Township, west of here, and farmed there for many years.

Mrs. Whiteside was educated at Oakwood High School and Hamilton Ladies' College. Following her graduation, she taught school in Mariposa. In 1871 she married J. L. Whiteside and moved to Toronto. Her husband died fifty-one years ago and Mrs. Whiteside then came to Lindsay and has resided here since.

A devout Christian, she took a keen interest in all organizations connected with her church and found time to devote her talents to the furtherance of the temperance cause as a member of the Lindsay branch of the W.C.T.U. She is also a member of the Children's Aid Society.

Install Officers Of Mission Circle

Under a new name and new leadership, "The Jean Wager" Mission Circle entered upon a new regime after closing a successful year's work.

Miss Anne Deyell, Crescent street, was hostess Wednesday night to about twenty-five members at this initial meeting.

Led by the new president, Effie Rowe, the program proved both entertaining and inspiring. After a brief devotional opening, with Miss Deyell at the piano, the essential business of the hour was capably dealt with. Arrangements for the places of meeting throughout the year were partly completed.

Mrs. A. Rosborough and the president were appointed delegates to the Presbyterial on the 24th of January, while the members planned to attend the supper ano circle conference in a body.

A New Year's letter from the Presbyterial Circle secretary with plans for the future, was read and reports were given by the secretary and treasurer, showing good progress in the past year. In appreciation of faithful service by the secretary of christian stewardship, Jennie Cuff was presented with a life membership in the Circle by the advisory president, Mrs. Wagar. Mrs. Cuffe thanked the Circle in gracious words.

Officers Installed

A beautiful and impressive installation service was held with Rev. Mr. Craik, the pastor, officiating, when the new executive was ushered into their new duties.

New Year messages were brought by Vera Leggitt, in an appropriate poem, and by Annetta Frost who read an inspiring "New Year Thought."

Both temperance and stewardship were presented at this meeting, the former by the temperance secretary, Gladys Langton, who gave "A Talk with Mr. Alcohol," the latter in "A Plea" by the president.

A comprehensive and educational presentation of the second chapter of the study book was given by Zetta Wood, who told of planting the church across Canada. To illustrate her fine account, she used concrete material in the form of a map showing the position of the church as mentioned. An intelligence test closed a very interesting study period.

As suggested at the summer school a worship service closed the meeting, when the Scripture lesson, Luke 15: 1-10, was read by Gladys Rutherford and prayer offered by Jean Hammond, Connie Wagar and Mrs. W. Rose.

A charming service of refreshments with Mesdames W. M. Wood and A. Rosborough pouring tea and Miss M. Easson and Miss M. Deyell asisstting in the tea room, while all enjoyed a social hour.

At the conclusion of the evening Olive Searles voiced the appreciation of the girls to their hostess.

The February meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. W. Rose, Morrow street, and as arranged by the finance committee, this will be "Fee Night."

OPPOSE GIRL BRIDES

LONDON—(CP).—A resolution asking the British government to order that there shall be no girls in the future married under 14 was carried at a church meeting here. Archdeacon Owen of Kavirondo (Africa), told of little girls being seized for marriage on their way to school and Sunday school.

Tested Favorite Recipes

(By MARY MOORE)

There are some fairly sane-looking folks who like boiled chicken better than roasted, and bless me if one of them wasn't coming to our place for dinner for Christmas eve when we were to have roast chicken and the bird on hand (maybe I should say "in hand") before the thought hit me that I had to serve him (or her) boiled somehow. Brunswick Stew was out of the question because I have overdone it, by serving it to much in our soup tureen. So I settled on

Chicken Pie

Our bird weighed 6 pounds—I bought it for a roasting fowl—but I was just as glad to boil it. First cut it up in pieces for serving except the breast which leave intact and separate into attractive pieces when the bird is cooked—in this way they do not break up into nondescript ribbons. The water should not contain any more than 1 teaspoon salt, but the chicken should be well immersed. Boil about 2½ to 3 hours, depending on age of bird. When done strain out chicken and chill the stock so that the fat can be skimmed from it. From one quart of stock, stir together ½ cup flour with 1 cup water, and stir into simmering stock until it thickens—strain. Arrange pieces of chicken in casserole and have prepared and boiled 2 small onions and 2 small potatoes for each guest to be served, arrange these among the chicken pieces, pour over the stock, invert cup in centre of dish, cover with baking powder biscuit crust, bake at 50 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, reducing the heat to 350 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes more to finish baking. Extra gravy to serve with a chicken pie is often welcome. Some folks like to leave out the vegetables, others like to add carrots and peas to the potatoes and onions—in any case any vegetables that are added should be cooked first.

Business Women Hear Of Budapest Congress

A vivid picture of her experiences while in Europe attending the Budapest Congress of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women as a Canadian delegate was given by Miss Alice Ahern of Ottawa in an address to the Business and Professional Women's Club last night. Natural color photographs in rich, true tones, taken on her way through Norway, Sweden and Denmark to Hungary, illustrated her trip. Slides shown at the last of Nova Scotia and our own Capital city compared very favorably with the beauties of the countries abroad.

Miss Alice Ahern, Dominion Superintendent of Nurses for the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, and convener of debating and public affairs in the Ottawa club, brought greetings from the club and its past president, Miss D. Byers, whose home is near Peterborough. Miss Ahern, introduced to the members by Miss Anne Jamieson, and thanked by Miss Greta Giles, was presented with a corsage of roses by Miss Trucie Pearson.

Recalling preparations for the international congress last July, Miss Ahern told the club that conditions on the Continent had made it seem doubtful whether the congress could take place, but the Federation had been determined to carry on in the belief that the example of a friendly international gathering of women would have some influence.

Delegates were presented from Finland, Norway, Sweden, the United States, Canada and England, but representatives from Italy and Germany had notified the convention at the last moment that they were ill—the real reason being, stated Miss Ahern, that they were unable to obtain the necessary money. Advance organizers were subject to rigid examination in search of political affiliations, but the Congress went off well, and the Minister of the Interior gave a reception for the organization, a brilliant affair that was like a bit of old Vienna come to life.

Commenting on the program, the speaker mentioned the question of the three-year plan to get more qualified women into public office as the main point. "It is not just more women we want," she stated, "but more qualified women. Women must be twice as efficient as men to get into public office." In quoting from a speech made by an Hungarian woman, Miss Ahern said that the "secert of success for women who want to go into business is that every woman must use her brains, but never lose her femininity."

Queen's Father Attends Wedding

Bouquets of spring flowers were carried by bridesmaids attending Miss Pamela Oakley, daughter of Lt.-Col. Richard and Mrs. Oakley, when she marrried Lt. Norman Scarlett, son of the late Air Vice-Marshal F. R. Scarlett and Mrs. Scarlett, at Kimpton Parish church.

Her seven grown-up bridesmaids had bouquets of mixed golden flowers to go with their gold lame princess dresses, and wore wreaths of gold leaves in their hair.

Sprays of orange blossoms edged the long train of the bride's white slipper satin gown, cut on princess lines.

She was wearing a wreath of orange blossoms and carrying a bouquet of mixed white flowers, lilies, roses, camelias, lilies of the valley and stephanotis.

Friends from Bedfordshire country houses and other neighboring homes attended tife ceremony.

The Queen's father and sister-in-law, Lord Strathmore and the Hon. Mrs. David Bowes-Lyon, were among the 400 guests. The reception was held at Col. and Mrs. Oakley's home, Lawrence End, near Luton.

Lady Hampden, Sir Felix and Lady Helen Cassel, Lady Ludlow, Sir Walter and Lady Halsey, Admiral Sir Lionel and Lady Halsey, and Sir Charles and Lady Heaton-Ellis were other wedding guests.

Miss Birdie Dawson presided at the brief business meeting, and arrangements were made for a banquet on January 25, when a Junior Girls' Business Club is to be formed.

NATIONAL DOLLS

LONDON—(CP).—Oil portraits of dolls of more than a dozen nationalities were shown here, the work of Mrs. N. van Bakel, matron of the Dutch Home in England for 23 years. At the age of 60, it was her first exhibition.

MUSSING UP THE MAPLES

Fred Hickey of the C.G.E. Draftsmen walked out with the high score at Duffus' last night. He mowed down a 757 (328) count, to head off Fred Earle's 724 and Tommy Martin's 712.

The afternoon Ladies' League gave out Miss Green's 521 (243), Miss Lyle's 511, Mrs. Waddell's 228 single and Miss Hall's 219 single. The first evening league to see action was the Westclox office, when Horace Guppy hit 699 (315); Orville Martin 642 (303); Miss D. Ackford 562 (213); Miss M. Sisson 526 (218); Miss V. Martin 510 (202), and good singles including Miss P. Webster's 283, and Miss M. Johnston's 210.

Ten teams from the C.G.E. shop gave the hardwood some rough bouncing next to Earle and Martin. J. Playford had 690; W. Hurle 662; R. Clifford 660; F. Wood, 659; L. Calladine, 645; L. Breadman 644; R. Dyer 642, and H. Taylor 607. The Drafting Room produced Hickey's 757, Harold Foster 691, Os Price, 646; Ab. Rooke 637; and Cliff Cadd 604.

The Quaker Oats squad unloaded the following big scores: B. Rollins 643; H. Kirn 624; M. Caccavella 625, and A. Guerin 603.

The race in the Motor League is apparently developing into the same four-team jam that existed a year ago. Last evening Automotive No. 1 gave up first place to the Buicks when they dropped an 8-0 decision to Nash, while the Buicks were downing Chevrolet 6-2. Eight point wins were also registered for Hudson, Ford and Chryslers over Pontiac, Automotive No. 2, and Graham entries. The standing now shows Buicks 75 points, Automotive No. 1 and Hudson 73 each, and Nash's second straight sweep giving them 72. The individual scores showed seven of the cold-chisel and hammer guys in the 600 ring, V. Fitzgerald 693; M. J. Duffus 667; H. Minion 640; Ev. Robinson 635; C. O'Toole 622; M. O'Neill 612, and H. Gray 608.

The Bowlers are again reminded of the City League meeting at 7.00 o'clock to-night.

Text Of Speech

Employment in war industry and the regimentation of masses of men for purposes of war have to appearances afforded in some countries a solution of their problem of unemployment. In Canada other methods of dealing with the problem have been followed.

The Dominion government has taken active measures to stimulate private employment through the Home Improvement Plan, the National Housing Act, and the Municipal Improvements Assistance Act. Under these measures certain local taxes have been assumed, and loans made to individuals, organizations and municipalities. The sales tax has been eliminated on important building materials. Special aid has been given to the mining industry by subventions, tax exemptions and improved transportation facilities. At the same time, direct employment has been increased through a substantial expansion of federal public works, and through assistance given to the provinces in the construction of highways, for land settlement, for special projects for farm employment and for forest conservation.

Unemployment Grants

Provision has also been made by the Dominion governemnt for grants-in-aid to the provinces to assist in the care of those suffering from unemployment and agricultural distress.

The various measures adopted to stimulate employment and afford relief to those in need have operated most successfully in those provinces which have supported them with full co-operation.

In Canada, the problem of unemployment has been aggravated in recent years by recurrent crop failures in the western provinces, and by the serious business recession experienced in the last year in other parts of the world. The intensification of the problem has set forth in bold relief the obstacles which the existing division of constitutional authority places in the way of a solution.

Report Be Ready

The report of the commission on Dominion-Provincial relations will be presented to Parliament in the course of the present session. In accordance with the purpose for which the commission was instituted, its report will provide the basis for, and the material essential to the deliberations of a national conference, at which, among the important subjects to be dealt with, will be the problem of unemployment and social services generally. The government have not altered their view that a national unemployment insurance scheme is essential to a permanent policy of meeting the problem of unemployment.

My Ministers recognize that the plight of those who are still unemployed cannot await necessary constitutional amendments, nor the summoning of any conference. They are prepared, therefore, notwithstanding constitutional impediments to effective action, to join with the provinces in a further determined effort to meet the immediate situation.

Expand Program.

To this end it is proposed to expand the government's long range program of public undertakings. In pursuance of the policy of the active encouragement of employment, it is also proposed to undertake, with provincial co-operation, to provide assistance to municipalities which, as an alternative to the provision of direct relief, desire to expand their normal program of civic improvements.

As a means of providing an opportunity for useful work and national service to single unemployed men, the assistance given to forest conservation will be extended to include other work of national importance.

The beneficial results of the youth training program, have demonstrated the wisdom of this experiment, and a measure will be introduced to increase its efficiency and expand its usefulness.

Fewer Unemployed.

Notwithstanding the embarrassments and handicaps encountered in coping with the problem of unemployment, it is gratifying to be able to record that, during the past year, there has been a material reduction in the number of those receiving agricultural aid, and a reduction also in the total number of those receiving public assistance due to unemployment and agricultural distress. At the beginning of the present winter the number of those receiving such public assistance was almost 40 per cent less than two years ago. Over the same period the number of persons actually in employment has largely increased.

Continuous improvement in the position of the fishing industry as a whole has been reflected in annual increases for the past few years in the aggregate amounts received by the fishermen from their work. The Department of Fisheries, have given, and will continue to give, increased attention to the problem of marketing. The government have also assisted fishermen substantially through direct aid.

In order to avert economic disaster to a large part of our population, my Ministers, under the terms of the Wheat Board Act, approved, for the current crop year, an initial payment for wheat as recommended by the board.

The Prairie farm rehabilitation plan will be continued, the experience of the past year having demonstrated its efficacy in improving the agricultural areas of the West..

Regulate Grain Exchanges.

Bills will be introduced to regulate grain exchanges along lines laid down in the report of the Royal Commission on Grain Marketing, to revise the Canada Grain Act, and to assist further in the marketing of farm products.

The Trans-Canada Airways will shortly provide a passenger service, in addition to the air mail and air express services already in operation. Preparations for the inauguration of the Transatlantic air service are being actively continued in collaboration with the governments of the United Kingdom and of Ireland.

In order to implement the recommendations of the Royal Commission to investigate the penal system of Canada, a bill to appoint a commission to administer the penitentiaries will be again introduced.

Legislation Proposed.

Other Legislative proposals will be laid before you and proceded with as time and opportunity offer.

Members of the House of Commons.

The estimates for the public service, together with the public accounts, will be laid before you.

Honorable members of the Senate.

Members of the House of Commons.

In this critical time of the world's affairs, I pray that Divine providence may guide and bless your deliberations.

"critical items" of equipment such as anti-aircraft artillery, semi-automatic rifles, anti-tank guns, tanks, light and heavy artillery, ammunition and gas masks—all to equip regular army and national guard units.

A total of $32,000,000 would go for "educational orders" of the army—to "enable industry to prepare for quantity production in an emergency of those military items which are non-commercial in character and are so difficult of manufacture as to constitute what is known as 'bottlenecks' in the problem of procurement."

The balance of $8,000,000 of the army fund was proposed for improving and strengthening the seacoast defences of Panama, Hawaii and the continental United States, including construction of a highway "outside the limits of Panama Canal zone, important to the defence of the zone."

Stronger Naval Bases

Of the $65,000,000 for the navy $44,000,000 would be for creation or strengthening of navy bases in both oceans, as recommended to congress last week by a special naval board, and about $21,000,000 for additional navy planes and air material tests.

The $10,000,000 for training of vicilian pilots in cooperation with educational institutions will give

She Could Neither Walk Nor Sleep

Arms and Feet Swollen With Rheumatism.

This woman suffered for many years. Pain sapped her strength until she lost hope of recovery. Many remedies were tried, but nothing broke the grip of her crippling rheumatism. At last her husband persuaded her to try Kruschen Salts:—

"My arms and feet were swollen with rheumatism," she writes. "I could not walk nor get regular sleep, and nothing did me any lasting good. I was so hopeless of ever getting better, I lost my good nature entirely. Then my husband persuaded me to try Kruschen Salts. After two weeks I began to feel better. I persevered, and in six weeks, I was doing housework. Later, I was able to go for a walk. Now I am free from pain and I feel grand."—(Mrs.) F.W.

Rheumatism is commonly caused by deposits of uric acid crystals, which lodge in the muscles and joints. Kruschen helps to break up these deposits of troubling crystals and to convert them into a harmless solution, which is removed through the natural channel—the kidneys.—advt.

"primary training to approximately 20,000 citizens," the president said, adding that this sum should be appropriated annually.

"We have a splendid asset in the quality of our manhood," Mr. Roosevelt said. "But without modern weapons, and without adequate training, the men, however splendid the type, would be hopelessly handicapped if we were attacked."

Asserting the present garrison at the Panama Canal was inadequate to "defend this vital link," the president said this deficiency could not be corrected with existing forces "without seriously jeopardizing the general defence by stripping the continental United States of harbor defence and anti-aircraft personnel."

The permanent garrison at the Canal, he said, should be increased to provide the min mum personnel required to man the anti-aircraft and seacoast armament.

to parliament that the program of defence should be further augmented and that particular emphasis should be laid upon air defence.

"Legislation will be introduced to establish a defence purchasing board with power to purchase equipment for the defence services and to ensure that, where private manufacture is necessary, profits in connection with such are fair and reasonable and the public interest is protected."

Expansion of the program of public undertakings by the Dominion and assistance to municipalities which wish to expand normal programs of civic improvements as an alternative to direct relief are measures forecast to deal with the unemployment problem. Provincial cooperation would be sought in dealing with municipalities.

Assistance given to forest conservation as a means of employing single men will be extended to include other works of national importance and the youth training program, having demonstrated its usefulness, will be improved, and expanded.

Obstacles presented by the division of constitutional authority between the Dominion and the Provinces to effective measures regarding unemployment were mentioned and the hope expressed the situation might be improved.

"The report of the commission on Dominion-Provincial Relations will be presented to Parliament in the course of the present session," said the speech.

"In accordance with the purpose for which the commission was instituted its report will provide a basis for, and the material essential to the deliberations of a national conference, at which, among the important subjects to be dealt with, will be the problem of unemployment and social services generally.

"The Government have not altered their view that a national unemployment insurance scheme is essential to a permanent policy of meeting the problem of unemployment."

The Canada-United States trade treaty which would be submitted for ratification obtained wider markets for Canadian products and involved a thorough-going revision of the Canadian tariff structure and a greater reduction in taxes on trade than had been made by any previous parliament or any other country in recent years, the speech continued.

New Sugar Pact

Notice terminating the Canada-West Indies trade treaty with the end of the present year had been given and it was hoped to negotiate a new one. The tariff board had been instructed to examine sugar preferences and duties in preparation for the conclusion of the new agreement.

Recommendations of two royal commissions which reported during the last session would be implemented in bills to be presented to parliament.

pursuant to the report of Chief Justice W. F. A. Turgeon of Saskatchewan on grain and grain marketing a bill would be introduced to regulate grain exchanges.

Establishment of a penitentiaries commission, recommended by the Royal commission investigated the penal system will be the subject of a bill. A measure to this effect was passed in the House last session but defeated in the senate.

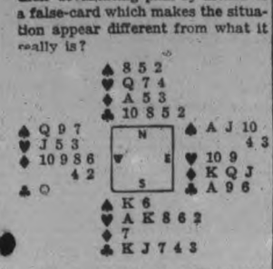
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

WHEN YOU SEEM SUNK

YOUR CONTRACT APPEARS doomed to certain defeat. The opening lead shows you beyond peradventure of a doubt that the defenders have picked the one line of play which may sink you. Do you raise up a white flag of surrender? Or do you try to steer them away from their devastating plan by means of a false-card which makes the situation appear different from what it really is?



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

Here was one of those rare cases in which a skilled cardsman played against two fair-to-middling opponents although the only partner available for him was a youngster having his very first fling at the game. The experienced player, sitting South, made the bizarre original bid of 4-Hearts, which could be justified only by a combination of his fear regarding what North might do and the probability that there might be a game in the cards for him.

When West opened the club Q against this, South could tell by his own holding that it was a singleton. After East played the A, South promptly plumped on the K. East studied plenty, then decided his partner had led from five to the Q-J. So he shifted to the diamond K. The declarer then dropped the outstanding trumps, led toward the spade K and so made an overtrick.

Had South not false-carded, East would have returned the suit, he said later. West would have ruffed, then would have led a spade to the A and would have received a second club ruff, setting the contract.

Tip In Murder Jails 8 At Swansea

Police Raid Joint Get $20,000 In Racing Slips

TORONTO, Jan. 13 (CP). — Increased bail was demanded by the Crown when seven men and one woman appeared in County Court today to answer charges of keeping a common gaming house. The eight were arrested last night in a raid on a Swansea apartment and released on bail of $1,000. Today bail was increased to $3,000 each.

Patricia Madison was first to appear. Arriving 20 minutes before opening, she played hide and seek with photographers, using a newspaper to shield her face. Taking refuge inside the empty courtroom, she demanded an inspector of police be brought so she could have photographers thrown out.

"He can't take pictures here," she told officers in the courtroom. "Throw him out."

"What, no favors for ladies?" asked Frank Callahan, who appeared for the accused, when Crown Attorney Saunders announced the bail was to be increased to $3,000. Miss Madison was the first to have her bail renewed. She took a seat in the rear of the court rather than meet photographers on the way out.

Increase of bail delayed renewal of bond for several of the men, when bondsmen were late in appearing.

The raid, in an apartment over a drug store in suburban Swansea, uncovered what police said was the largest clearing house for racehorse betting disclosed in recent years in the district. Operated by provincial and city police, the raid netted betting slips for amounts totalling $20,000, and 20 telephones.

The men taken into custody were Bruce Hadderson, Louis Brooker, Joseph Seand, Jack Little, Ben Reisman, Joseph Gould and Harry Steinberg. The woman said her name was Patricia Madison. They were charged with keeping a common gaming house.

The raid developed from police activity in connection with the killing of Windsor, who owned a barbecue stand and dance hall at suburban Lansing. Police have been scouring the underworld in an attempt to obtain clues and they have received al lkinds of tips.

Particular attention has been paid to the gambling fraternity among which Windsor is believed to have mixed freely.

Reeve Waits Report.

It was reported last night Swansea township police had obtained a warrant to raid the apartment where the eight persons were detained, and Reeve Clarence Downey was awaiting to-day a "full report" on the presence of outside police before making any comment.

In a statement last night, Chief Constable D. C. Draper of Toronto, said his department had not shown negligence in its attempts to curb the illegal activities of Windsor. Chief Draper said the Windsor home had been raided in August, 1938, but that no incriminating evidence had been found. Police were aware of its activities, the Chief said, but it was the practice of such characters to place "every obstacle in the path of police."

Windsor's Murderers Syndicate "Tools"?

TORONTO, Jan. 13.—(CP).— The Toronto Telegram says in a newspage to-day it was learned the four-man execution squad that invaded the North Toronto home of James Windsor Saturday night, when one of the men shot and killed the book-maker, "was sent out from the headquarters of a gangland syndicate."

The newspaper said Windsor was murdered because he refused to pay tribute to gangs that attempted to force independent bookmakers into Ontario into an organization.

It added:: "The syndicate's method of enforcing its control was—what happened to Jimmy Windsor."

Two Holdups Within Half Hour In Toronto Bring Total To 13 On Friday 13th

TORONTO, Jan. 13 (CP)—A west end branch (St. Clair Ave., W) of the Ellis Hosiery Shops, Limited, apparently the particular prey of bandits in recent weeks, was held up and robbed today by a man who escaped with $4.

Within a half-hour, a cleaners and dyers store on College street was held up and robbed by a gunman who escaped with $7. The hold-ups brought the total in Toronto to 13 within 13 days.

In both cases, a gunman handed store clerks a note demanding that the contents of the till be handed over. Police said descriptions of the men indicated the hold-ups were perpetrated by the same man.

The robbery of the Ellis Hosiery shop was the third raid upon a branch of that firm this week.

Debt Is Reduced As Board Shows Profit Of $4,401

Showing an operating profit of $4,401.56 for 1938, with their personal liability at the bank reduced from $8.500 to $3.500 during the last three years, the men who have been building up the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition decided at their annual meeting Thursday afternoon to coast along with the favoring wind that has been steadily blowing them away from the breakers to which they had feared they were heading.

Tom Brown was re-elected president for the fourth successive year, with E. F. Mason fist vice-president, and Gordon Hancock, second vice-president, all three by acclamation; the August dates are being retained and likewise the Conklin Brothers' midway connection minus money gambling games and any objectionable girl shows.

Looking both directions with January, the members closed the record for last year with feelings of satisfaction and turned to the new with plans for a promotional dinner at the Empress Hotel next week, and a new appeal to the county council to finance the building of one of several new barns that are needed for the housing of horses and sheep.

Large Attendance.

The gallery in the city council chamber was completely filled with the directors and other members. Three counties were personally represented: Peterborough, Durham and Victoria, and men from the country largely outnumbered those from the city. The decisions represented rural opinion, and it was quite evident the members were averse to departing on any change that would take them from the pleasant and effectual policies they have developed during the last few years.

There was some suggestion, for example, that the August dates be moved back a week, bringing Peterborough into conflict with Ottawa, and also with the first three days of the Canadian National Exhibition with consequent loss of the Conklin Carnival show, and the idea was discussed to some extent, but Torrance Lillico turned back the proposed change with the statement that the directors had evolved a winning combination, and they should go along with it, at least until the Exhibition had emerged from "the red," by paying off the note the directors have signed with their banker.

A long stretch of the afternoon was spent debating the "regional fair" idea, and finally R. M. Glover moved, seconded by Alex Huston, that the secretary write the Dominion Department of Agriculture as to what their attitude would be towards the regional fair status for Peterborough, what area of the province might be attached to it, and other aspects of a question that will not require practical attention this year.

Board of Directors.

Mr. Brown told the meeting at the outset that a serious effort would have to be made to conform with the recommendations recently outlined by John A. Carroll, director of Agricultural Societies in Ontario. Money gambling games are out, and girl shows that offend the proprieties will jeopardize the government's grant.

Homing Pig Puzzles Owner By Its 30-Mile Jaunt

Apalachicola, Fla., Jan. 13 (AP)

DREW BRANCH'S "homing" pig has him puzzled. He gave the animal to a brother who lives more than 30 miles from here. Four days later the pig returned. Now Branch can't figure out whether it hiked down a highway, crossing a five-mile bridge, or picked its way through a woods, swimming four streams en route.

Pensions Peak In 1971 At $39,000,000

Old age pensions payable at 70 years will not reach their maximum cost to the province until 1971, Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Public Welfare, told the deputation from the Ontario Municipal Association in Toronto Thursday. Mayor Hamilton and Alderman Dutton represented Peterborough.

"One of the proposals made to the minister," Alderman Dutton related to The Examiner to-day, "was that the pension age be reduced from 70 to 65 years. Hon. Mr. Cross told us that old age pensions now amount to $13,000,000 a year, that this cost will increase steadily until it reaches the maximum of $39,000,000 in 1971. I suppose that figure has been reached by actuarial experts, but there it is and it has to be faced when we talk of lowering the pensionable age to 65 years. Mr. Cross said that the age reduction could only be arrived at on a contributory basis, in his opinion. That is, people would have to contribute during the years approaching 65 some amount that would enable the provinec to begin paying pensions at that age."

Difficult to Get Employment.

Alderman Dutton said he had a short talk with Mr. Cross after the meeting, and pointed out what seemed to be a baffling difficulty. Men reaching 45 years were finding it difficult to obtain employment and at 50 years the situation was probably worse.

"On the present basis of 70 years there is an intervening period of say twenty years when a man's employment becomes uncertain. From the age of 50 to 65 or 70 years how is the average man going to be able to contribute to old age pensions if his prospect of remaining employed and obtaining new employment becomes seriously diminished. These facts impressed me that the pensions question is not to be so easily solved as one might expect from the distance of a city council."

Aid Towards Reducing Taxes.

Representatives from St. Thomas urged that surpluses held by Utilities Commissions should be made available to respective city treasuries for the purpose of reducing taxes. Peterborough's delegates advocated the local resolution that municipalities should not be chargable for hospitalization costs unless indigent patients had been residents for at least one year.

Other recommendations by the Municipal Association asked the government to assume the entire cost of preparing voters' lists, and another suggestion was that chain store taxes be increased.

Peterborough's experience with the influx of people who are attracted by the increased relief allowance paid here was cited to the Hon. Mr. Cross, and was supported by a detailed statement.

Ireland Still Ireland

OTTAWA, Jan. 13 — (C.P.). — Ireland is still Ireland and not "Eire" in the eyes of the Canadian Government.

In the Speech from the Throne read at the opening of Parliament on Thursday reference was made to the proposed transatlantic air service, and it was stated preparations were continuing in collaboration "with the Governments of the United Kingdom and of Ireland."

The new name of the former Irish Free State was missing.

Bren Probe Report Advises All Buying Be Done By Expert Business Group

Throne Speech Hints Judge's One Suggestion Is Most Likely To Be Acted Upon; Findings Confined Mainly To Review Of Case

By Frank Flaherty (Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

OTTAWA, Jan. 13 (CP).—Purchases of munitions and armaments will be taken out of the hands of the Department of National Defence and entrusted to an expert group of competent businessmen if the recommendations of Mr. Justice H. H. Davis in his report on the Bren gun contract are implemented.

The report was tabled in the House of Commons today and yesterday an indication was given that the government would act on it. The Speech from the Throne said legislation would be introduced to create a "defence purchasing board."

Creation of this board was the only positive recommendation in the Davis report which consisted chiefly of a review of the evidence taken at a long inquiry during October and November, together with a number of findings and inferences from the evidence.

The judge found no evidence that any member of the House of Commons or the Senate was admitted to any share in the contract or to any benefits arising from it or had any promise of benefit, The part played by Hugh Plaxton, Liberal M.P. for Toronto-Trinity in negotations leading up to the contract between John Inglis Company, Limited, of Toronto, and the Department for the manufacture of 7,000 Bren light machine guns is reviewed in this connection.

No Evidence of Corruption.

"I think it is right to say," the judge wrote, "that there is no evidence (nor is there in the evidence any ground for suspicion) that the minister (Hon. Ian Mackenzie) or the deputy minister (Major General L. R. LaFleche) or any officer or official of the department of national defence was guilty of any act of corruption or anything in the nature of corruption."

The question as to whether armaments and munitions should be manufactured by private industry is one of government policy on which the commissioner expresses no opinion. Neither does he express a view as to whether competitive bids

Rome Peace Trip Believed Flop

LONDON, Jan. 13 (CP).—"With the end of the formal talks two days before Prime Minister Chamberlain leaves Rome, it is generally concluded that the result of the visit of the British Ministers has been entirely negative in the diplomatic field," the Rome correspondent of Reuter's News Agency telegraphed today.

"Yesterday's conversation appears to have been somewhat less cordial than that the first night," the dispatch continued. "It is understood that although leaving his claims against France still unformulated, Premier Mussolini has not abated one whit Italy's natural aspirations nor modified his policy of support of Nationalist (insurgent) Spain.

"If on the other hand Il Duce expected to find Mr. Chamberlain ready to give way to fresh concessions in the interests of appeasement he has now been made fully aware of the British attitude.

"Britain, it is felt, would be willing to use her good offices in helping to bring about an agreement if the Franco-Italian dispute were to take the course of orderly negotiations. The recent anti-French demonstrations and press campaign in Italy, however, are considered in British circles to have done a disservice to peace and to justify at the present stage the negative attitude adopted by France.

"The question of Jewish refugees also was touched on in the talks but there appears to be no specific discussion of trade matters in spite of the evident desire here (in Rome) for Britain to increase her purchases from Italy.

3 Brothers And Girl Housekeeper Jailed For Living By Theft

ORILLIA, Ont., Jan. 13—(CP).—Four persons, three of them brothers, were convicted today of numerous charges of breaking, entry and theft following hearings lasting a month.

Sentenced were three Titus brothers, Stanley, 32, Herman, 29, and Nobel, 19, and Luella Johnston, 21, Herman's housekeeper. The thefts ranged from butter, bee hives, turkeys and beefs to that of a marriage license.

The crown argued that these were not "casual thefts" but constituted systematic depredations by which the accused had "evolved a method of living by stealing."

Herman was described as the man behind the activities. He received two concurrent sentences in Ontario reformatory of 11 months definite and four indeterminate; six months and two for theft of butter; three months for the marriage license theft and 30 days or $10 fine for using wrong license plates on his car. All sentences will run concurrent.

Nobel Titus was sentenced to six months and three indeterminate for aiding in theft of beef and turkeys. Luella Johnston, for theft and receiving butter, was given two months in the county jail at Barrie and on two other theft charges received two concurrent suspended sentences of two years each.

Stanley Titus, whose counsel pleaded "stupidity" received three months at hard labor for perjury.

Duce Acts Gentleman But Ciano Takes Violent Tone

London, Jan. 13 (CP-Havas)

AN ENGLISHMAN who is in close touch with the British delegation now in Rome advised this correspondent today that the delegates were surprised by the difference in attitude demonstrated by Premier Mussolini and his foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano.

While Il Duce, in his conversations with Prime Minister Chamberlain, remained moderate and observed an always courteous attitude, this informant said, Count Ciano struck a violent note while talking to Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax about Italy's claims on France.

Gunning, The Gallow Almost Ready Outside Has Execution Blocked "Lucky" Friday 13

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Jan. 13 (CP)—William Gunning, convicted murderer, will always remember this Friday the 13th as his lucky day.

He was told by Sheriff R. J. Gill that official word had been received from Ottawa that his sentence had been commuted by the justice department to life imprisonment.

Gunning was under sentence to be hanged next Wednesday.

Preparations were almost completed for the first hanging here in 45 years. Brockville has had only three executions since 1853.

Gunning was convicted in July of the murder of Irene Mott in nearby Kitley township and was sentenced by Mr. Justice Ainslee Greene. This week he heard workmen putting up a gallows in the jailyard.

New Accounting System For Villages

TORONTO, Jan. 13. — (CP). — An entirely new setup in municipal accounting systems in the smaller communities of Ontario was forecast to-day by Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Public Welfare and Municipal Affairs.

Mrs. Cross revealed that the Department of Municipal Affairs has been studying the problems of the smaller municipalities, many of whom are struggling along with haphazard and out-dated accounting methods.

Last September a member of the department was given leave of absence to undertake a survey of Ontario on behalf of the Municipal Finance Officers' Association of the United States and Canada and to prepare an accounting manual for Ontario along the lines adopted for use in several states across the border.

"There is a great deal of room for improvement in existing municipal accounting practices," Mr. Cross said. "Townships, villages and towns, many of whom do not have the benefits of proper audits, frequently find themselves in difficulty mainly because of the failure of appointed officials to follow recognized principles of bookkeeping. I believe that the department can give valuable assistance and guidance through the establishment of a standardized system of accounting based entirely upon the needs of Ontario municipalities."

A suggested system has been installed in one Ontario village and as soon as its efficacy has been tested, the plan will be made available to all municipalities in the province, the minister said. It is hoped that a manual of approved accounting practice and forms will be available for use of townships and villages by the end of this year.

Snow Adds Misery To Sharecroppers

NEW MADRID, Mo., Jan. 13. — (AP).—Snow and sleet laid new misery to-day on the ragged shoulders of Southeast Missouri's tatteree army of sharecroppers and farm laborers, conducting a siege on public opinion in hope of succor from their economic plight.

Freezing temperatures enveloped the scattered groups—three-fourths of them negro—huddled in sodden, makeshift tents and ramshackle vehicles along 150 miles of cotton country highway since Tuesday.

Concern over the demonstration and conditions blamed for it grew apace here and in Washington.

How long it would continue remained indefinite.

"We can't move, haven't got no place to go," said Henry McAdory, negro spokesman fof a camp of 200 near here.

Food dwindled and was divided. Farm securitly administration officials said it would require 10 days for approval of subsistence grants.

Surplus commodities corporation heads explained those in need must apply personally for the supplies available at their warehouses. McAdory said his group had received no help.

Fire At Gananoque Leaves 15 Homeless

GANANOQUE, Ont., Jan. 13. — (CP).—Fire in a three-storyed stone building here last night left 15 persons, including a year-old baby, homeless.

Six families were affected by the blaze which broke out while 10 of the residents were out for the evening. They returned to find their homes gutted. Five who were on the top floor of the building, where the fire started, fled the rapidly-spreading flames.

Damage was estimated at $3,000. The sole victim was the cat of Miss Neil Nalon, 70, and her sister Johanna, who returned from the movies to find their apartment wrecked and the cat dead.

Britain boasts that it now raises nearly all the potatoes it can eat.

2 Convicts Shot In Vain Dash From Alcatraz

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 13 (AP).—Five desperate prisoners attempted to escape from fog-shrouded Alcatraz Island Prison early today and two were shot and wounded before guards captured the quintet.

The prisoners, all serving long terms, got out of the cell building in some manner at 4 a.m. as the thickest fog in years obscured the island prison in San Francisco Bay.

Making a mad dash for the water, the convicts refused to halt at command of guards, who opened fire.

Arthur Barker, serving life for kidnapping, was shot through the head and leg and critically wounded.

Dale Stamphill, also under life sentence for kidnapping, was shot through both legs.

The other prisoners, thwarted in their daring attempt to get off the island, were Rufus McCain, serving 99 years for bank robbery and kidnapping; Henri Young, 20 years for robbing a bank; and William Martin, a negro, under sentence for 25 years for armed robbery of a post office.

All Locked In Cells.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP). — More than 300 "hard boiled" convicts were locked in their cells on Alcatraz Island today for careful inspection as a result of an attempted jailbreak by five prisoners.

Director James Bennett of the United States Prison Bureau said all normal activities would be suspended at Alcatraz pending a thorough search of every inmate.

He said prison officials had "no idea" where Arthur (Doc) Barker, Montreal Lithuanian, and his fellow convicts obtained the saw blade with which they early today escaped from their cells and gained the water's edge.

Hitler Urges Duce Lay Low For Year

Will Back Italy Then To Pay For Aid Given At Munich

By Richard Massock
(Associated Press Foreign Staff.)

ROME, Jan. 13—(AP).—Chancellor Hitler was reliably reported today to have stepped into Prime Minister Chamberlain's appeasement visit to Rome by urging Premier Mussolini to keep the peace for one year before demanding fulfilment of Italy's "natural aspirations."

From informed German quarters came the report such a message was delivered by the German ambassador, Hans-Georg Von Mackensen, in the second of two conferences he had yesterday with the Italian foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano.

Disclosure of the German Fuehrer's part in the Rome conversations came as Mr. Chamberlain turned from his talks with Il Duce to pay his respects to Pope Pius and as results of the talks were being communicated to the United States and French ambassadors in Rome.

Significantly ambassadors William Phillips and Andre Francois-Poncet were told of the Chamberlain-Mussolini talks of the past two days by the British foreign secretary, Viscount Halifax, in separate interviews.

Von Mackesen, it was disclosed, called on Count Ciano for the second time late yesterday after close of the formal talks of the two premiers.

Not Ready to Pay

Hitler's reported request was interpreted as indicating that the Fuehrer is not yet ready to make payment to Mussolini for his support at the Munich conference which partitioned Czecho-Slovakia and marked a milestone in European history.

Informed persons said, however, that Hitler probably will support Italy if her claims, principally against French colonial holdings, are not met within a year and will consider Italy justified in going to any lengths to realize them.

The Fuehrer has a full report of the Chamberlain-Mussolini conversations last night, informants said.

Lord Halifax informed the United States and French ambassadors of the talks in which Mr. Chamberlain failed to get any promises from Mussolini and refrained from making any for Great Britain.

The United States ambassador, William Phillips, spent nearly a half hour at the British embassy, at the invitation of Lord Halifax, and then went directly to his own office to report to Washington on what he had learned.

The French ambassador, Andre Francois-Poncet, arrived at the British embassy as Phillips was leaving.

Francois-Poncet was interested in ascertaining what Mussolini might have disclosed as to his intentions in the campaign to get further concessions in the Mediterranean at the expense of France.

The French had asked Mr. Chamberlain not to act as mediator in the French-Italian colonial dispute.

(As these diplomatic contacts were made between the British, French and United States representatives, Mussolini kept in touch with the German and Japanese envoys.)

The Jewish Refugees?

Phillips was particularly interested in learning what reaction the British found to a suggestion that Mussolini help advance plans for settlement of European Jewish refugees in African colonies, including Italian Ethiopia. President Roosevelt requested Mussolini's cooperation through Phillips on Dec. 3.

Indications were that the British prime minister's pursuit of peace in Rome had not greatly changed the situation in Europe, except perhaps in that it created a clearer understanding between Mr. Chamberlain and Mussolini. A spokesman for the British minister emphasized that neither received or gave concessions.

This was taken to mean that the matters of Italian agitation for African colonial grants from France and of Italian participation in the Spanish war were no further toward settlement than when Mr. Chamberlain arrived Wednesday.

Naval Aim To Fortify Strategic Isle of Guam May Touch Off Fireworks In Congress

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP) —Naval plans for immediate fortification of the Island of Guam may be come the focal point for a furious debate in the United States congress over President Roosevelt's $552,000,000 defence program.

Well informed legislators said today the project pointed toward a complete reorientation of the United States' policies in the far east.

President Roosevelt's defence message to congress yesterday endorsed the suggestion of a naval board for immediate establishment fo a major air and submarine base on the island — only about 1,500 miles from Tokyo.

Such a base, the board said, would:—

1. Assure practical immunity of the Philippines against a major attack.

2. Reduce to its simplest terms the defence of Hawaii and the continental coast of the United States.

3. Assure the ability of the United States fleet to operate with greater freedom in meeting emerging conditions that might arise in the Atlantic.

Bitter Nazi Campaign Against Netherlands Stirs Fear It May Be Next Hitler Victim

LONDON, Jan. 13 (CP-Havas) —The violent German campaign against the Netherlands over a shot allegedly fired at the German legation at The Hague "inevitably strengthening the fear that Chancellor Hitler's next attack may be in the direction of the Netherlands," Vernon Bartlett, Independent member of parliament, wrote in the News Chronicle (Liberal) today.

"From an exceptionally well-informed Dutch source I learn that German activities are being watched with considerable anxiety," Mr. Bartlett said. "Toward the end of December I said in an article that I had definite information to the effect that prominent Nazi leaders believed this would be so.

"This information, incidentally, was given to me by a man who until recently was a very important official in the Nazi party and a friend of the fuehrer. There are hints of German economic pressure in order to compel the Dutch government to change its foreign policy."

Expanded Defence Program More Public Works Feature Throne Speech

Aid To Be Offered Municipalities Give Jobs, Public Works To Be Extended; Tweedsmuir Sees World Tension Ahead

By Ross Munro
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

OTTAWA, Jan. 13 (CP).—Canada's intention to expand its defence program with emphasis on the air force and a proposal to increase expenditures on public works to relieve unemployment were major considerations before parliament today.

Members also concentrated their attention on the Liberal administration's trade policy, its plan to introduce bills regulating grain exchanges and establishing a commission to administer penitentiaries and its policy to develop a national unemployment insurance scheme.

This outline of the government's program for the present session was provided yesterday when the Governor-General, Lord Tweedsmuir, read the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the fourth session of the 18th parliament. The session was launched with the customary colorful pageant in the Senate Chamber, filled with uniformed dignitaries and beautifully gowned women.

The Commons will sit this afternoon when tribute will be paid to members who died during the recess. Interest centres, however, on the various reports which will be tabled, particularly the report of the Bren gun contract inquiry made by Mr. Justice H. H. Davis of the Supreme Court of Canada last fall. The Senate will not sit again until next Tuesday.

Modernized Defences.

In view of the precarious state of international affairs, the government intends to continued its program of modernizing the country's defences to safeguard Canada from dangers of attack, according to the Throne Speech.

In connection with this defence program, with the Air Force receiving the greatest attention, legislation will be introduced to establish a defence purchasing board to protect the public from armament profiteering. The board will purchase equipment for the defence service and, where private manufacture is necessary, it will seek to ensure that profits are fair and reasonable and that public interest is protected.

A board of three or four members chosen outside the National Defence Department and possibly outside the Government service itself is being considered, The Canadian Press learned.

The defence estimates for the coming fiscal year probably will be pumped from $34,000,000 to about $50,000,000 with most of the new appropriations devoted to the Air Force. The present personnel of about 2,000 officers and men may be doubled and fast new fighting planes will be purchased.

OTTAWA, Jan. 13.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King will table in the House of Commons this afternoon the report of Mr. Justice H. H. Davis in the Bren gun inquiry, eagerly awaited since his probe ended Nov. 24.

Unofficial forecasts of the report's contents have been published but it is impossible to substantiate in advance that it includes a recommendation that a separate, independent organization be set up to deal with all armament and war contracts.

Other reports have said that Mr. Justice Davis concluded the government's contract with John Inglis Co. Limited of Toronto was in the public interest and that he exonerated

Seventieth Annual Meeting Royal Bank of Canada

Canadian and International Economic Situation Discussed by Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director. — Commends New Trade Agreements. — Points out Failure of Economic Policies of Totalitarian States.

Sydney G. Dobson, General Manager, Reviews Balance Sheet. — Continued Progress Shown. — Present Outlook Distinctly Encouraging.

A comprehensive review of economic conditions both in Canada and abroad, with particular reference to the dangers of the economic policies now being pursued in Germany and Italy, featured the address of Morris W. Wilson, President and Managing Director at the 70th Annual Meeting of The Royal Bank of Canada.

Mr. Wilson referred with satisfaction to the fact that conditions in Canada had been relatively stable despite the setback in the United States. Recovery from the recession, which was general during the closing months of 1937 and the first half of 1938, had made notable progress and business in Canada had now resumed its upward trend.

MINING INDUSTRY

Since the inception of the depression in 1930, mining had consistently furnished the backlog and the most encouraging factor in Canadian industrial life. Volume of production in many instances exceeded in 1938 the high figures of 1937. The output of gold had again reached a new record of approximately 4,680,000 fine ounces, valued at $164,500,000, an increase of 14% over 1937. The spectacular progress achieved in petroleum operations in the Turner Valley of Alberta was also noteworthy, stated Mr. Wilson. By the end of November, 60 crude oil wells were in production and drilling was under way at 20 others, with output during 1938 175% greater than in 1937.

Unemployment and relief were still serious, although continued improvement was reported.

Tourist trade returns had been most encouraging, expenditures by tourists in Canada, totalling approximately $275,000,000 during 1938.

NEW TRADE AGREEMENTS

Mr. Wilson commended highly the new trade agreements between Canada and the United States and between the United States and Great Britain. "These," he said, "mark the greatest departure from the policies of trade restriction and national self-sufficiency since the war and cannot fail to further the common outlook and cordiality existing between the British and American peoples. It is striking that the agreements, covering an enormous volume of trade and embodying hundreds of reductions of duties and lessened restrictions, include not a single increase. At the present time no detailed analysis of the effect of the agreements on specific industries is feasible but there can be no doubt that they will bring about an important expansion in trade."

Referring to the subject of 'interest rates', Mr. Wilson remarked, "I believe it often true that if the relationship exists long enough, the debtor comes to hate his creditor. By the same token, I suppose he begins to question the morality of interest once the payment seems a burden. If you believe in the principle of private property you must believe in the legitimacy of interest. If it is proper for a person as a result of thrift to acquire, say a small property, there are few, if any, who would suggest that this property should be available for use by others without some compensation. Therefore, if compensation for the use of property be legitimate, why should compensation for its equivalent, the cost expressed in terms of money, be less so?"

INTEREST RATES

"You frequently hear it asserted that the burden of interest has become intolerable and that relief can only be brought about by drastic measures. A forced conversion of public debt is sometimes urged, accompanied by reference to the action of Australia in 1931." Commenting on this point of view, Mr. Wilson said that the average rate on the outstanding Australian debt had been cut by 25% since that country's debt conversion in 1931. The average rate of interest on Canada's outstanding debt in the same period had been cut 29%. "The best way to keep the burden of debt as light as possible," continued Mr. Wilson, "is to maintain your credit at high standing and thereby obtain the benefit of lowest current rates. The rate at which the Dominion borrows compares most favorably with that of other first-class nations."

FOREIGN AFFAIRS

The situation abroad remained difficult, stated Mr. Wilson, and expressed the opinion that "fate will overtake the totalitarian countries in due course if, in their efforts to become strong they concentrated on the military point of view and disregard the first principles of sound economics as they are doing at present." The decline in German exports had become acute since the September crisis.

"Data, available indicate," he said, "that in 1938 total exports were actually less than in 1932 and 1933, the nadir of the world depression and the last two years prior to the nazi regime."

"Internal business in Germany is exceedingly active and full employment has been achieved, but only at the cost of colossal deficits in the Government budget. Indeed, one German authority has stated that an amount equal to 50% of the national income is absorbed by Government and party agencies." It was obvious, said Mr. Wilson, that no country could pursue such a policy without producing serious inflation and, unless it were reversed, he could not see "anything but a continued lowering of the standard of living in Germany. These remarks apply with equal force to the Italian situation."

The decline in business activity in Great Britain had been halted and business in the United States had since May last, shown the most rapid recovery ever reported in its statistical annals.

Mr. Wilson also spoke with satisfaction of the closer cooperation and mutual understanding achieved in relations between Great Britain, France and the United States and also the countries of North and South America as evidenced at the recent Lima Conference.

"The outlook for Canadian business is again favourable and the upward trend would seem to be definitely restored," concluded Mr. Wilson. "The international situation is still obscure and further complexities may develop in foreign affairs. Barring such an eventuality, I am sure we may look forward to 1939 with courage and confidence."

GENERAL MANAGER'S ADDRESS

Mr. Sydney G. Dobson, General Manager, in reviewing the Annual Balance Sheet remarked that the bank's total assets were now at the highest point since 1929 and total deposits had reached a new record level. Current loans increased moderately during the year but a more active demand for commercial loans was desirable.

Taxes had, however, become an ever increasing burden for the bank. "For every dollar distributed to shareholders by way of dividends, 71c is paid out in taxes in Canada," said Mr. Dobson.

Answering the criticism sometimes voiced, that the banks are investing too large a portion of their funds in government bonds and too little in assisting business enterprises, Mr. Dobson said, "we cannot compel unwilling borrowers to use our surplus funds if, for various reasons, they are not prepared to expand their business. It would be a strange type of banker who would prefer the small return from Government bonds to the more remunerative commercial rate." Mr. Dobson also pointed out that control of "credit" is not within the power of the Chartered Banks but is a prerogative of the Bank of Canada, which alone decides whether a volicy of "easy" or "tight" money is to be pursued.

The attention of the shareholders was also drawn to the educational publicity conducted by the banks through the newspapers last year. "It is hoped these articles will help to clarify in the public mind what banks can do and what they are not permitted to do, and at the same time emphasize how necessary a safe and sane banking policy is to the welfare of the country."

BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Canada had escaped the more serious effects of the recession in business which first appeared in the United States about eighteen months ago, concluded Mr. Dobson. Conditions in Canada had remained comparatively stable and results achieved in 1938 could be regarded as reasonably satisfactory. "The present outlook includes a number of factors which are distinctly encouraging," he said, "and I look forward to the future with confidence, as I believe few countries have as promising a future as has our own."

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Jan. 13 — (C.P.). — Reports of moisture in some sections of the United States winter wheat belt gave futures an easier tone on Winnipeg Wheat Market to-day. Hesitation developed near the close after prices had firmed slightly from early losses and quotations finished ⅛ to ¼ cent lower. May at 62¼, July 62⅞ to 63, and October 63⅛.

Trading was quiet throughout the session and estimates placed export sales in Canadian wheat at only 100,000 bushels.

Liverpool closed ⅜ to ½d lower in fairly steady trading, influenced by reports of continuing drought in India and firmer offerings from shippers.

Value at Chicago remained near yesterday's closing levels, while Buenos Aires held unchanged to ⅛ cent higher.

Chamberlain Visits Pope 30 Minutes

VATICAN CITY, Jan. 13 — (AP) —Prime Minister Chamberlain paid his respects to Pope Pius in a 30-minute private audience at the Vatican to-day.

Suffering from a cold, in top hat and morning coat the Prime Minister and his Foreign Secretary, Viscount Halifax, with their party, drove to the Vatican in five papal automobiles.

Mr. Chamberlain first talked with the Pontiff alone and then members of his party were admitted to the private audience chamber.

On the way the Prime Minister got the lustiest greeting of his visit —a series of "Hip! Hip! Hooray!" cheers from 300 students for the priesthood from English and Canadian colleges.

Mr. Chamberlain's conformance with tradition that heads of governments visiting Rome shall also pay respects to the Pope was in contrast to Chancellor Hitler, who did not go to the Vatican on his visit to Rome last spring.

Deloro Smelter Banquet Jolly Affair

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MARMORA, Jan. 13. — The annual banquet made possible by the management of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Limited was tendered the Safety First Committee and invited guests at the staff dining rooms on Wednesday.

For this splendid repast served by Mrs. P. Smith and helpers appreciation of the guests was ably voiced by R. A. Elliott, chairman of the Safety Committee. Adjournment was then made to Deloro Hall, where a sing-song soon commenced, with Red Newman of Dumbell fame leading, and Jack Eyre, orchestra leader of that troupe, accompanying on the piano.

"Red" then set his audience into roars of laughter with his rendition of "The Photo of the Girl I Left Behind." The meeting was then called to order and business of the regular monthly session dealt with.

G. Brooks reporting for the Suggestions Committee mentioned the receipt of two suggestions during December. C. T. Nicholson for the Competitive Committee, told of prizes being awarded these same two suggestions and additional awards going to eight suggestions received in the previous months of the year on a recapitulation. He concluded his report by stating that the star was awarded the General Department for the month.

The report of the Inspection Committee was given by W. L. Regg and was followed by that of the Health Committee and prone method practices by J. A. Rice. C. H. Buskard gave the monthly statement of the benevolent relief funds.

For the Publicity Committee, J. H. Hemphill gave an account of the recent contest and reported the erection of a new bulletin board outside the electric shop, and the circulation of the customary New Year's letter among the employees. This concluded the business of the regular monthly meeting.

Another musical interlude was staged here. After Jack had given a pianoforte selection, the entertainer of the evening sang "When the Sergeant-Major's on Parade," the Dumbell rag, and "Ma, Look at Charlie."

Annual Meeting.

Minutes of the last annual meeting were read at the opening of this year's annual. The chairman, R. A. Elliott, gave another well prepared report referring to the splendid record of 1938 and mentioning among other things that there were sixteen of the original committee still active on the present one and that the foreman with the best year's record who was eligible to attend the Safety First convention this year was N. A. Kilpatrick. G. Brooks will also attend on account of his good record, as will W. M. Regan, representing the staff.

Attention was also drawn by Mr. Elliott to the two charts which are annually exhibited at this gathering. The one dealing with Compensation Accidents per Year was filled in as follows:

1918 major 25, 1919 20, 1920 17, 1921 26, 1922 20, 1923 23, 1924 20, 1925 14, 1926 major 6, minor 17, 1927 4 19, 1928 4 14, 1929 0 8, 1930 3 8, 1931 2 8, 1932 1 3, 1933 1 4, 1934 1 5, 1935 1 1, 1936 0 5, 1937 5 4, 1938 0 2.

The other chart, Lost Days per Year, which came under compensation, gave the following figures:

1923 major 643, 1924 519, 1925 246, 1926 major 184, minor 34, 1927 88 41, 1928 126 26, 1929 0 19, 1930 63½, 8½, 1931 64 15, 1932 30 0, 1933 9 3, 1934 20 7, 1935 18 1, 1936 0 13, 1937 83 5, 1938 0 6.

T. Paquet as secretary-treasurer, also presented an interesting report in which he gave a resume of the year's activities of the various subcommittees.

Officers Re-elected.

The election of officers was a re-election of last year's with the exception that H. A. McNally fills the vacancy caused by the regretted death last August of W. R. Reynolds. The officers are:

Chairman, R. A. Elliott; vice-chairman, W. L. Regg; secretary-treasurer, T. Paquet; assistant secretary, H. A. McNally; Trustee Board, 3 years H. O. Loveless 2 years C. H. Buskard, 1 year R. A. Elliott; auditors, H. C. Barlow and G. H. Rennie. The appointment of subcommittees is left to the executive.

Red Newman at this juncture sang "Oh, It's a Lovely War" and "The Stoker."

Lauds Fine Record.

S. B. Wright, general manager of the company, was called upon to make some remarks at this point. He congratulated the committee for its record and said there had been a tremendous improvement since the inception of the movement. He congratulated the chairman and the secretary-treasurer on their able reports, and assured the members of the continued support of the company and wished all a Happy, Prosperous and Safe New Year.

Regret was expressed at the absence of F. A. Bapty, secretary-treasurer of the company. W. L. Regg, in a short speech, drew attention to the mutual satisfaction in viewing the record of the past year.

Other speakers were A. Cranfield of the C.G.E. plant, Peterborough, Bill Kay of the Raybestos plant of the same city, Col. A. V. Yates, Dr. H. Crawford, N. W. Sabine, and Mr. Seaton, manager of the Consolidated Smelters mine at Cordova.

The gathering dispersed with Red Newman leading in the singing of the National Anthem.

Warn War May Loom In Spring

William C. Bullitt, LEFT, U.S. Ambassador to France, and Joseph P. Kennedy, RIGHT, U.S. Ambassador to England, are pictured leaving the secret joint meeting of the House and Senate military affairs committee held in Washington. The two Ambassadors are reported to have told the committee that a major war definitely threatens Europe this spring, arising from the colonial aspirations of Premier Mussolini. The picture drawn by the Ambassadors of Europe's militarism and armament will probably be used to launch a vast rearmament program in the United States.

Church At Lakevale In Fine Shape

(Examiner Correspondence.)

FOWLER'S CORNERS, Jan. 13.—The treasurer's report, given at the annual meeting of Lakevale Presbyterian church, held this week, showed the church to be in a splendid financial condition, there being a balance on hand for 1939 of more than two hundred dollars.

Rev. J. M. Young acted as chairman and conducted a short devotional period prior to the business meeting.

Bob McAdam, secretary, then read the minutes of the last annual meeting and the report of the treasurer was given by George Tully. Other reports given included that of the Sunday school by Mrs. Bob McAdam; the Mission Band by Mrs. Joe Hunter and the Ladies' Aid by Mrs. Melville Deyell.

The Sunday school was organized in 1938 and the progress it has made is an inspiration for the various teachers and officers. The Ladies' Aid had also enjoyed a profitable year, the ladies being able to hand the sum of $128 to the church treasurer. They also purchased a new communion set for use in the church.

The Board of Managers for 1939 will consist of C. W. Rutherford, K. A. Murray, Bob McAdam, George Tully, Alfred Tully, Melville Deyell, and Russell Fife, Mr. Murray being chosen chairman.

The flower committee was re-elected, being composed of Mesdames Sid Tully, Dave McAdam and George Tully.

Bob McAdam was re-appointed secretary; George Tully, treasurer, and Mrs. Eva Deyell will continue her duties as organist for the coming year. Melville Deyell and Neil Millen were elected auditors for 1939.

After various other items of business were discussed, a social hour was enjoyed, when the ladies served refreshments.

Farmer Asks a Question

True or not we are not prepared to state, but it has a point just the same. It is about the farmer who delivered his cream and was informed he would have to take a couple of cents less for it as the price of butter had dropped recently. The farmer said he thought the cream price was too low already and he could not make a living on it.

Then he began to argue and draw on some of the current events to show he was on solid ground. There was the case of the barber about whom he had been reading. He was taken to court and made to pay a fine because he cut hair for 25 cents while the government had made a ruling that the price of a hair-cut in his district should be 40 cents. He wanted to know why the man to whom he was selling cream had any right to cut the price when the barber had no right to lower the price for a hair-cut.

Of course one can say there is a law in existence to protect the price of a hair-cut and there is no law in existence to protect the price of the farmer's cream. And that we admit may be a reply but it is not the perfect or satisfactory answer.

And In Lakefield Too!

Lakefield is so close to Peterborough and folk here are so favorably inclined toward the place that when they have trouble in a council meeting there we feel as though we were somewhat disturbed in Peterborough. And we are so much disturbed by events the world over that we do not relish this added supply of disturbance coming from Lakefield.

It appears the trouble is the re-engaging of Chief Constable Wallace Hendren. Some of the members of council do not want him, while others do. It is contended the proper way is to ask for tenders for the position, but it is not reported that the lowest tender shall necessarily be accepted. Asking for tenders is not the best way to secure the services of a constable. It is quite all right to purchase coal, wood gravel or cement that way, but human services generally come in a different category. Nor does it follow that Lakefield will secure the services of the best man by accepting the tender of one who will do the work for the least money. Nor do we suppose council would make an appointment on that basis, so they might as well discard the tender system at the outset.

But we cannot get away from that first idea, that we wish Lakefield would retain its usual even balance. It can become famous on that score more readily than it can by becoming explosive. There are so many places today which give us the jitters that we feel a trifle sad to have this exquisite little community joining up with communities where things go popping off in an unexpected and unpleasant way. The scenery around Lakefield and the general feel of the place, as well as the academic atmosphere which radiates from the Lakefield Preparatory School—all such qualities speak of contentment and a bit of peace in a troubled world. It is not pleasant to think of the rulers of such a place allowing their bailiwick to be turned into a camp divided against itself. When we search for peace and pleasant surroundings we desire to be able to go to Lakefield and feel assured we shall find them in generous measure.

We Can Sell Our Cheese

This paper does not make cheese neither does it churn butter, nor has it fluid milk or butter fat for sale. But it can follow what is being said by a good many well-informed men on the merits of making cheese or butter. When there is a meeting of men interested in the dairy business they seem to agree every time that cheese is a better bet than butter, and about the only point they do not seem to have overcome is that many farmers prefer to have skim milk for feeding stock rather than using whey which they get back from the cheese factory.

The last place where we saw this matter discussed was at the Dairymen's Association of Western Ontario. J. F. Singleton, associate director of marketing service with the Dominion Department of Agriculture. This is what he said:

"The United Kingdom is the one available export market for Canadian butter or cheese. In this market Canadian cheese is well and favorable known to the extent that it commands a premium, while in the same market Canadian butter is not well and favorably known and must be sold at a discount."

"From this market Canada during 1938 received nearly 12 cents per pound more for milk fat exported as cheese than for milk fat exported as butter."

The export price for butter has a good deal to do with determining the price at home and that is true of a good many lines. It may not be a welcome truth, but then it must be regarded as a blunt and rugged fact that our butter is not highly regarded on the British market. By keeping on making butter we are piling up a larger surplus at home and the existence of that surplus keeps on depressing the price of butter-fat—or cream.

But the British market will take our cheese, and will take more of it than we are sending forward. These men who study markets are not telling anything which is not so, neither are they trying to tell farmers how to run their business. But they do have a knowledge of the selling end of the dairy business, and no business travels much ahead of its sales department. For that reason we believe it would be wise for dairy farmers to follow rather closely what these people are saying. They point to the cheese factory as the sure way to get rid of milk and that would decrease the butter supply and bring prices up at least in the home market.

100 Per Cent. Failure

Putting people on the land does not appear to be the solution for the unemployment business. Mayor Houde of Montreal told municipal council about 283 heads of families who had been sent under a colonization scheme to Northern Quebec.

The land for the purpose had been provided under two different schemes since 1930 and the plots had been secured from the provincial government and assistance given toward making a start. Most of the 283 families had since sought city relief and at present 107 had been successful in securing it. Whether all the families participating in the scheme had previously been on relief was not stated. But on the face of it this plan has been a total failure as all the land plots have been abandoned.

It does not seem to help much to give a man or a family a piece of land unless they know what to do with it and have a determination to make that land produce at least a living. A good many people who live in cities would know nothing at all about it; a number of them would regard the experiment as something which was going to carry them along until they were able to get back to their old life in the city. Few of them would look upon the plan as the beginning of a new life and make their plans with permanence in view. And that is probably why all those people from Montreal returned.

Welshman Says "Wonky"

Rhys J. Davies, white-haired Welshman, and member of the Labor party in the British House of Commons, is visiting in United States. As far as one can judge he is travelling on his own hook, and it has not yet been necessary to explain that his visit has no official significance. He was neither held under suspicion at Ellis Island nor has he been received at the White House. So we take it Mr. Davies is just visiting or travelling.

But he talks now and then, and what Welshman would not? Some of his statements indicate he does not care particularly if people applaud or not. When he sets out to tell people a few things that is exactly what he does, although now and then it is considered advisable to explain just what he does mean. To illustrate: Mr. Davies said the attitude of United States toward British foreign policy was "wonky," and that was a new one for a land which has itself produced annually a bumper crop of slang and new wordage. "Wonky," we are informed, means "lopsided," and we take it the diplomats and legal fraternity try to convey the same idea when they use the word "unilateral." But Mr. Davies just says "wonky" and now we all know what he means.

The Welshman could not understand why United States expected all the young men of England would be clamoring for a chance to go and fight in Czechoslovakia, and he had something rather blunt to say about United States being ready to "fight Germany to the last Englishman." He admitted it was nice enough for the people at home to listen to the radio addresses of President Roosevelt saying nice things about the democracies and breathing out hard words against dictators but the Welsh visitor was not lost in admiration. He would consider it better if the message said United States would be ready the day the war opened to defend democracies.

Mr. Davies is undoubtedly talking a good deal of hard truth; he is not expecting people to shake him by the hand and insist that he come again. But he has at least given to the States a new word "Wonky," and it may not injure the folk to the south if they take time to explore all that is wrapped up in that imported word.

Asking a Good Deal

The present session of parliament will have a request before it asking for legislation to provide adequate compensation to railway employees who suffer loss of position or demotion through the co-operative measures undertaken by our two railway systems.

Previous attempts have been made to secure compensation for those who have been dismissed, and an extension of the same idea now leads to the request for payment to those who are forced to hold less remunerative positions than formerly.

It would be a pleasant thing for those concerned, but it is difficult to see why the people of the country should be asked to put up the money for it. Employment as a rule carries with it no guarantee of permanency. There are a good many men in this country today—probably thousands of them—who are not doing as well as they were some years ago, and that will always be the case. It may be they are glad enough to keep on going and be able to earn a living even if it is on a decreased scale. It is hard to find a substantial reason why a railway employee should be singled out for exception, and compensation should be paid to him by the government because he has been demoted and receives less pay than formerly.

The argument would probably be that the government favored a scheme for closer co-operation between the two railroads and in that way services have been curtailed or discontinued and therefore the government is responsible. But the same thing is going on in other lines of business. When amalgamations take place or where departments are closed those who find themselves out of positions have to seek work elsewhere. Unless some allowance is made—which is not customary—they have to shift for themselves.

The government is spending public money and should not do for one section of the community what it is not prepared to do for all the community.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A new type of talking machine has been placed on the New York market, and at the moment we can think of nothing which is less needed.

Answer to Reader: No, the fact that a car has on it a 1939 marker does not indicate that said car has been paid for in full.

Sometimes we think things are all going to pieces, and then we read where plans are already being made in several places for the 1939 celebration of the 12th of July.

Hon. R. B. Bennett says the report he is engaged to be married is nonsense. That should be accepted as final as Mr. Bennett should have a fair idea of its lack of accuracy.

Report now is that the world wheat market may collapse. With wheat selling around 55 cents per bushel in Ontario there is really not much left to do the collapsing.

Speaker in British Columbia said dairy farmers should pay more attention to their cows' teeth. They have been neglected because folk look to the other end of the cow to produce the profit.

The English borough of Holborn is planning an underground structure which will hold 77,000 people during air raids and in time of peace will be used for parking purposes. But where will cars park when air raids start?

The fact that Attorney-General Conant believes there should be a general shifting around of our Sunday observance laws is not sufficient. He should make certain that a great many other people think the same way.

Woman at Painsville, O., was arrested for chopping off her husband's nose. The husband will recover all right but he will be rather handicapped. A nose you know is such a handy thing at times.

The government guaranteed C.N.R. loan of $50,000,000 was subscribed in five minutes. We have plenty of money, but the trouble is we prefer to put it in something which the government will back.

Young man in Belleville bought geese and turkey wings from farmers and then peddled them to housekeepers for dusters. And that is merely revising a custom which is so old it can be called ancient.

TOO BAD

(By A.R.K.)

¶ My Cousin Ezra feels let down, came back from seeing his home town, he only stayed two days; I heard him talk an hour or two, of all the things there'd be to do, he sang his old town's praise.

¶ He left nigh forty years ago, and he would give the folks a show, they surely needed one; for they had followed his career, and traced his progress year by year, heard of big things he'd done.

¶ He knew a good hotel was there, a few steps from the village square, he'd stop a week or so; 'twould be a pleasant place to stay, he'd see old friends most every day, he'd see them come and go.

¶ And like as not when he was there, they'd stage for him some big affair, at least he thought they should; and they'd praise Ezra without stint, the weekly paper there would print, that local boy makes good.

¶ But Ezra told me just last night, that nothing went exactly right, hotel was rather dim; and when he signed the register, he didn't even raise a stir, they'd never heard of him.

¶ The folk that Ezra used to know, they must have parted long ago, he found it very tame; and when he told them who he was, it brought no cheers and no applause—they never heard his name.

THERE ARE STRANGE FISH

THE STARFISH always faces in all directions; it has an eye in each of its five arms. The creature is known as "the scavenger of the sea" because it eats anything.

In Utah streams, fish used for bait are destroying the trout. Every once in a while a chub, used as live bait, escapes from the hook and lives to reproduce its kind. The chub eggs, laid near trout eggs, develop more rapidly. Trout eggs are favorite food of tiny chubs. If the trout eggs succeed in hatching the full-grown chubs eat the tiny trout.

Contrary to popular belief, the so-called "flying fish" does not fly. It leaps out of the water when a shark or some other enemy approaches the shoal, and soars along on its expanded fins till its weight brings it down again. The duration of most flights of flying fish are extremely short, lasting but one or two seconds. Where the fish makes a series of successive leaps the flight may last as long as forty-two seconds.

Letters To The Editor

Correspondents Discuss Various Topics

NO POWER TO DO IT

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I enclose herewith a copy of letter I wrote to the Secretary of the Peterborough Automobile Club.

Yours truly,
G. N. GORDON.

J. J. Dorris, Esq.,
Secretary of the Peterborough Automobile Club,
358 George Street,
City.

Dear Sir,—In last night's Examiner I observed that there was a resolution of the Peterborough Automobile Club passed objecting to the passing of the traffic by-law until the City Council provided sufficient parking space for the public parking.

Would any member of the Peterborough Automobile Club or any of its officers please let me know where there is any authority for a municipal corporation to purchase lands for parking purposes? If any member can show me that the corporation has that power, I will immediately send a cheque to the treasurer of the Peterborough Automobile Club for $10.00.

I might say that a resolution was passed last year asking the Ontario Government to give municipalities power to purchase land for public parking purposes and, apparently the Government considered that it was not the proper time for public monies to be expended for such purposes.

Yours truly,
G. N. GORDON.

THE VOICE OF "TOM MOONEY"

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—That was a touching picture in the Examiner last evening of Tom Mooney and his sister and faithful wife, and now I'm writing to let you know we heard him speak last evening over the "We the People" program. I did not have pen and paper at hand but I think I remember the substance of what his lawyer and he said; they both spoke for about five minutes each.

Mr. Mooney's lawyer said he became interested in the case about five years ago and had investigated all the evidence thoroughly, also the man concerned. He spoke in a manly fashion and spoke most highly of Mr. Mooney. He said he was a most remarkable man. He said he had almost lived with him for five years and he never complained, nor was he bitter and had kept his sense of Irish humor and in introducing him he remarked it was the proudest moment of his life.

At this juncture Mr. Mooney took the air. He spoke quietly and clearly, we could hear every word distinctly and there was unmistakable "quality" in his voice. He remarked that although his body had been in prison his soul was free and that he had kept in close touch with all that was happening in the world. He had been allowed many visitors with whom he had conversed and with that and reading he was well informed. He said he had a desire to be useful as far as his health would allow and that prison life had had effect on that to some extent, also he wanted to use his influence for his friend Mr. Billings. He said he had no bitterness in his heart but a sorrow that such a thing could have happened. Yes, indeed how cruel men can be when a humane man steps between them and those who perhaps they have wronged.

I believe that Mr. Mooney has an open wound in his heart, a grief over a condition that could murder a man's soul rather than alter their way. May "Labor" seek to be worthy of the sufferings and gentleness of this man.

• Auto Cases Become Involved

SOME of the cases which arise out of automobile deals can be rather complicated affairs. Here is a case which came into court at St. Thomas and on which decision is pending. Read it through and try your hand at giving the proper decision:

—An action to recover $196.35 on a car transaction was heard in division court when Harry Korman, London, sued D. G. Howse, St. Thomas dealer. Decision was reserved, but the court expressed the opinion that the charges appeared to be only proper, in most of the cases at least.

Korman had an accident with his car about a year ago and the insurance company decided that the damages amounted to $440 of which there was $50 deductable against Korman. Requiring a car immediately, Korman conferred with the defendant Howse and bought through him, acting as agent for another St. Thomas dealer, a new sedan. Howse financed the purchase and then guaranteed the loan.

The dispute arose concerning the deal of the old car. After it was repaired here, it was turned over to Mr. Howse to sell. Korman said that Mr. Howse said the car would bring $700 which was the list price, and further, Mr. Howse was to get $100 of the proceeds for taking care of the sale. The money from the sale was to be applied to the purchase price of the new car and the balance paid to Korman.

Mr. Howse produced bills to show that considerable additional work was done on the car before it could be sold. He then turned it over to J. Clinton, R. R. No. 2 for $550 and took in another car valued at $150 on the deal. To this he made further repairs. Actually the car transaction yielded the $700, but with repairs, salesmen's commission and parts the net proceeds of the deal were less than Korman anticipated. Mr. Howse showed that in the final settlement with Mr. Korman the firm actually wrote off a credit of $26.55 out of the $100 that Mr. Howse was to get for handling the transaction.

• News From A Small City Jail

A SHORT news item from Cornwall illustrates vividly the extremely serious problem which has arisen through the failure of the Federal and Provinical Governments to make any attempt to care for unemployed single men. The chief of Police in that city says the Montreal Star has been moved to express concern over the number of youths among the multitude of "transients" who are crowding the jail to capacity for shelter. This is, of course, no reflection on Cornwall. The Cornwall jail is naturally not a very large building, but in the past year its cells have been called on to shelter 4,287 of what are now euphemistically called "transients" but who, up to a few years ago, would have been more bluntly described as tramps. This is at the rate of nearly twelve a day all the year around who have committed no other crime than to be out of work and on the move, but who are so desperately "up against it" that they have had to seek shelter behind the bars to keep alive. Summer no doubt sees a falling-off in the numbers applying for food and lodging, and in the summer also a certain number of these men who really want work (and it is our belief that—so far at least—the great majority of them do) are able to find it, but with the return of the cold weather the problem of mere existence becomes more and more terribly pressing.

But what worries Chief Seymour of Cornwall, as it must—or should—most grievously worry all of us, is that out of this crowd of wandering, and frequently, we imagine, nearly starved and frozen men, "at least fifty per cent are in their twenties, or younger." This, it seems to us, is the most terrible part of the cruel business. If there is any hope whatever of getting the transient camps proposed by the head of the Toronto Command of the Canadian Legion into operation this year, why don't we hear any more about it? And if the Corps idea is to be talked out by vague fears of "militarism" or some other "ism," isn't there enough "patriotism" in existence to do the job for the sake of humanity—and our country?

The spectacle of a shivering and hungry boy begging to be locked up with criminals just so that he can keep alive is a disgrace to Canada and a shock to every element of decency and humanity in it. No wonder Chief Seymour found them so often "discouraged" and "disinterested." No wonder he reflects that this horde of wandering and aimless youth, with its morale crumbling upon the verge of permanent vagabondage, may be responsible for the "growing number of petty criminal offences throughout the Province." The miracle would be if it were not. And another miracle will be if, unless something is done about it, the offences throughout the Province, and other Provinces, do not only continue to grow in number, but cease to be "petty."

ANOTHER DAILY GOES.

THE disappearance from the list of Maritime dailies of the Saint John Citizen, which had been in existence for just 30 months, comes as no surprise to those who understand the difficulties and high costs of running a modern newspaper. There are very few cities and towns in Canada where more than one daily paper can be regarded as commercially feasible.

In the past 20 or 30 years the number of daily newspapers in Canada has been reduced by approximately 30 per cent, as the result of a succession of mergers and enforced suspensions of publications. Nevertheless the newspaper field still remains over-crowded in at least a dozen towns and cities across the Dominion. That the number will be yet further reduced by future mergers can hardly be open to question.

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

Now when the even was come, he sat down with the twelve. . . . And as they were eating Jesus took bread, and blessed it, and brake it, and gave it to the disciples, and said, Take, eat, this is my body.

And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and give it to them, saying, drink ye all of it; For this is my blood of the new testament, which is shed for many for the remission of sins.

But I say unto you, I will not drink henceforth of this fruit of the vine, until that day when I drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom. And when they had sung an hymn, they went out into the mount of Olives.—Matt. xxvi, 20, 26-30.

WHEN FARMS HALT

THE Exeter Times-Advocate admits that the weather has been a bit uncertain. Perhaps that is what prompted its editorial remarks:

Out there on the good old farm the other night the hydro "went off." The cows were being milked by the electric milking machine, the milk was being separated by electrically-driven machinery, the stable was lighted by hydro and the motor was busy grinding grain. In the house, supper was being prepared and ironing was being completed. The result? Consternation. Language. For a period helplessness.

Then the storm blew up. Cars were stalled. The mail-carrier was held up. The butcher and baker could not make their rounds. Social engagements had to be canceled. Horses and cutters and even sleighs were out of commission. The doctor could not make his usual rounds. Result! Helplessness.

In a far more real sense than we know we have educated ourselves into helplessness, dependence. It's a bad thing to cultivate tastes that may become our tormentors. We live in an electric age all right, but suppose the electricity should be shut off? This effort towards freedom is a weird affair, when you come to think of it. We are wise in learning to use things. We are wise, too, in being independent of them.

PUSH AND PULL.

A sad story comes from Victoria, B. C. — The story of the two-tailed goldfish which was found splashing aimlessly in a park pool, never getting anywhere because one tail tried to propel him forward and the other tried to drive him backward.

We have a fellow-feeling for that goldfish. This world, it seems to us, is full of people who, between the pull of progress and the push of longing to retreat to what seemed simpler times and ways, are getting nowhere in their little pools.—New York World-Telegram.

NOT HIGHER TAXES.

No Royal Commission ever appointed in these days, which comes along with a report recommending higher taxation for the general public, or part of the public, is worth its salt. What the country requires is some commission—alack and alas, our hopes are dim about the derelict Rowell Commission or near derelict—that will show the way to ease the financial strain on the taxpayer, and make it possible for budgets again to be balanced, with a well-planned progressive set-up to reduce the public debt. Less spending and less taxation should be the only objectives worthy of any consideration, for business, industry and the individual.—St. Catharines Standard.

A Bit of Nonsense

Obliging

Immigration Official— "I'm sorry, but there's been a mistake here. We've got your hair down as dark instead of blonde."

Modern Young Lady— "Oh, that's all right. Will you alter it, or shall I?"

Inquest Is Held Into Death Of J. V. Monaghan

James Victor Monaghan, 27, came to his death in St. Joseph's hospital on December 26th last from poison self-administered, in the opinion of the coroner's jury which, under Dr. Herbert Young, investigated Thursday night the sudden taking off of the young man.

The full verdict was as follows:

"From the medical evidence submitted the jury is of the opinion that James V. Monaghan came to his death in St. Joseph's Hospital in the cit yof Peterborough and county Peterborough on December 26, 1938, from poison, self-administered.

"This verdict has been reached after a perusal of certain letters written by the deceased and from the opinion of the medical witnesses called as they were able to testify and from the fact that the deceased was in possession of two deadly poisons in sufficient quantities as to cause death."

There was evidence to show that Monaghan had threatend suicide on a number of occasions and that shortly before his death he purchased fifteen grains of strychnine from a local drug store.

The contents of his stomach had not been analyzed after his death but Dr. Robert Young, the physician who was called in when Monaghan was stricken said that in his opinion the cause of death was some violent poison.

"Undercover" Work

Monaghan's father and his sister, Miss Kate Monaghan, made several cryptic references to "undercover work" that the deceased had been doing and mentioned the possibility that those against whom that work had been directed might have something to do with his death but no evidence was adduced along that line.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., examined the seventeen witnesses who were called.

James Monaghan, Sr. said that he had seen his son two weeks before his death and he appeared to be in good health then. He said that some two and a half months before the death of his son he and the latter had had a quarrel and he had put his son out of the house. Witness produced a letter that he had received from his son on November 9 in reference to the adoption by Monaghan Sr. of a child belonging to his son and in that letter which was read to the jury the deceased had said: "You need not worry about me bothering you any more as I will be out of the running" and then had gone on to explain that he had asked a friend of his to get some cyanide of potassium for him on the pretext that he wanted to do some plating.

Witness said the night he received that letter he had met his son on the bridge and he was walking along whistling cheerfully. He told the jury of a previous occasion when his son had pretended that he was going to take iodine. "He took care to be close enough to his sister so she could prevent him from taking it," witness said.

Asked by Mr. McElderry as to any enemies his son might have had, Monaghan senior said he did not know of any. 'He was doing some undercover work and that might have been an excuse for some one to fix it up for him," he said. "It might have been some of the men he was trying to run down. That does stops at nothing."

Sister Testifies

Kate Monaghan, sister of the deceased, corroborated her father's evidence as to her brother's attempt to take iodine on a previous occasion. "He made sure he was close enough to me so that I could knock it out of his hands," she said.

"I don't believe he did it himself," witness said when asked as to her opinion of the cause of the death. "Some of those people he was looking for in his undercover work might have done it."

W. B. Gordon, who said that he had been acting as solicitor for Monaghan senior told of the latter bringing him the letter from his son that had already been read and of his showing the communication to Constable Puffer.

Constable Puffer was called and testified that as a consequence of Mr. Gordon's showing him the letter he had several interviews with James Victor Monaghan and deceased had assured him he meant nothing by the threat. "I have no more intention of committing suicide than you have," the constable reported Monaghan as saying.

Chief Constable Samuel Newhall told about an accusation being made against Monaghan several years ago by a young girl and of a bottle of "gophers' strychnine" being found on him. The witness produced the bottle.

Letter Is Read

Sergeant Detective W. Meagher testified that when he went to the boarding house on Charlotte street where Monaghan had lived until about two weeks before his death he had found a letter signed by Monaghan an daddressed to a local girl in which he said that he planned suicide as the best way out and that he had got a friend to secure some cyanide of potassium for him, telling him that he wanted to so some plating.

Dr. Robert Young, called in when Monaghan became ill at the home of Daniel Donoghue, 449 Rogers street, said that when he saw Monaghan's condition and the convulsion he was having he was at once suspicious of poisoning and asked Monaghan what he had taken.

"He said, 'I won't tell you now; I'll tell you later'," Dr. Young stated.

"And did he tell you later?" asked the Crown Attorney.

"Ten minutes later he was dead," replied the witness, who said that in his opinion death was due to some violent poison.

Dr. C. B. Waite and Chief Coroner J. C. Smith who performed the postmortem examination, said they found nothing so far as the condition of the vital organs was concerned to supply any adequate cause for Monaghan's death Dr. Smith told of the nurses finding two capsules containing strychnine in Monaghan's clothes.

Strychnine Is Bought

Frank Greatrix, druggist, swore that on December 23, James V. Monaghan had purchased 15 grains of strychnine at his store, stating in the book he signed that the poison was to be used for rats. The strychnine was in bulk. He had weighed the strychnine in the capsules found on Monaghan and discovered there was 13 grains.

Norman Elliott, druggist, produced his register of poisons sold to show that on October 20 he had sold a quantity of cyanide potassium to "J. Burns, 278 Simcoe street" and the register said that the cyanide was to be used for plating.

Coroner Dr. Young asked both druggists if they did not think that when deadly poisons were bought by persons about whom they knew little if would be a helpful policy to check with the police.

Complained Of Poison

Victor Sullivan, Ashburnham, testified that several weeks before Christmas Monaghan had complained to him about not feeling well and said that he had been poisoned by some cough syrup he had taken. The inside of Monaghan's mouth was black, witness said.

Rita Lafave who said that she was a friend of Monaghan's testified that he had never said anything to her about suicide. A letter from the deceased to the witness was read aloud by Mr. McElderry. It told of Monaghan's affection for the witness and asked her to meet him on a street corner. She had not done so because she was out of the city at the time. She told of a conversation she had had with Daniel Donoghue in which he told of giving Monaghan a couple of aspirins shortly before his death.

Mrs. M. Lafave, mother of the last witnes scorroborated her evidence in regard to the conversation with Donoghue.

No Place To Sleep

Daniel Donoghue told of Monaghan coming to his place two weeks before his death and stating he had no place to sleep and asking for permission to sleep in the barn of the Weston Bread Company. Witness had given deceased a bed in his own home and he had continued to live with Donoghue, although he paid nothing and had borrowed some $19.25 from the witness. Donoghue said that several times Monaghan had complained of pains and had worried about an old bladder complaint coming back. On those occasions Donoghue had given him aspirins. On December 26 he had had another attack as he was sitting by the radio and Donoghue gave him two aspirins but did not know whether or not Monaghan had taken them. Some time later deceased had gone upstairs and witness told of the condition in which he found him shortly afterward as Monaghan started to come down stairs. Dr. Robert Young had been called and Monaghan was taken to hospital where he died shortly afterward.

Elmer Donoghue, son of the last witness, gave similar evidence as to what happened on the afternoon of December 26 and Vernon Donoghue a younger son, swore that Monaghan had borrowed 50 cents from him on the day the strychnine was bought and another half dollar on the morning upon which he died.

That concluded the evidence and the jury after considering the testimony for some time returned their verdict at 10:47 o'clock.

Before the jury retired Miss Kate Monaghan, sister of the deceased, interrupted with a question to the coroner.

"Were the contents of the stomach analyzed?" she asked.

"No," replied the coroner.

"Then you do not know the cause of death," said the girl.

"Merely from the clinical observations," said Dr. Young.

The jury was composed of L. L. Maguire, foreman; Herb O'Heron, Harry Campbell, Simon Clancy, Charles Ireson, Earl Maniece, Fred Murphy, Fred Lajoie, John Thompson, George Morency, Joesph O'Dette and Mortimer Quinn.

Thinks Religious Groups Will Defeat Nazis

BOSTON, Jan. 13—(AP). — Former Chancellor Heinrich Bruening of Germany, now a lecturer at Harvard University, looks for religious groups eventually to overthrow the Nazis, "but perhaps not for 10 years."

"Nothing has done the Nazi regime more harm than the persecution of the Jews," he told the Unitarian Club here. "I believe the resistance to it is very widespread and even within the ranks of the Nazi Party.

"These persecutions do not appeal to even a small minority of the people and that is the only hope I have for the future of my country."

Bruening said censorship and a rigorous military surveillance made it "impossible to organize any resistance."

"I cannot even tell the story of the secret state police and the fate of many of my dearest friends. It is hard to imagine to what depths human depravity can sink.

"Cells have been lined with electric light bulbs so that a prisoner feels as though he were dying of thirst. At the same time he is forced to listen continually to recorded speeches of Goering.

"Very few people can stand that for more than three or four months. People cannot stand this modern system of torture, this continual fright....after three days of it I have seen a man come out looking like a man of 70 with whitened hair."

French To Open Up On Foreign Policy

PARIS, Jan. 13—(AP).—Premier Edouard Daladier pushed the Chamber of Deputies into unlimited foreign policy debate to-day on the same problems which have been under discussion between Prime Minister Chamberlain and Premier Mussolini in Rome.

"You asked for it and I don't want to dodge it; I demand that debate start tomorrow and not be interrupted," he told chamber political group leaders.

He waved away Socialist objections that airing of views on Italian agitation for French colonial concessions and the Spanish civil war might further complicate the Italian-British conversations in Rome.

The party delegates then agreed to the debate.

Informed sources thought the Rome talks resulted only in an exchange of British and Italian views.

The Senate was considering a proposal by Henry Berenger for a joint meeting of army, navy, air and foreign affairs committees to review French defence plans.

Wounded Constable Kills Gunman

Shot in the chest by Victorien Perrault, RIGHT, whom he cornered and attempted to arrest after Perrault had tried to hold up a restaurant in Montreal's east-end, Constable Lucien Bourgela, LEFT, of the city police force raised himself on one knee and fired five shots after the fleeing gunman, killing him. Constable Bourgela was shot in the lung but is given a fair chance to recover. Perrault, an ex-convict, failed in his holdup attempt and was pointed out to Bourgela as he ran down a side street.

Burmans See Rich Trade Brewing As Munitions Flow In For China

By G. E. Powell
(Canadian Press Correspondent.)

CALCUTTA, India, Jan. 13. — (CP).—Optimistic Burmans hope for development of profitable trade between China and Burma as a result of the Sino-Japanese war.

A shipload of munitions for China, brought to Rangoon in a British vessel, has been unloaded into warehouses and is under a strong Burmese military guard. Meanwhile another munitions shipment has arrived in a Norwegian vessel.

Burmese authorities foresee the growth of general trade between Burma and the Chinese province of Yunnan. One or two newspapers professed alarm at the sight of armaments in the Rangoon river. But the government of Burma issued a communique declaring it was not aware of any obligation to interfere with this particular traffic, which is regarded as merely incidental.

The communique added the government was interested "in the development of general trade between Burma and Yunnan including, in addition to the valuable transit trade, a reciprocal trade in the products of Burma and Yunnan to the maximum to which such trade can be developed under conditions acceptable to Burma."

This trade flourished in spite of difficulties of transport for many years and provided Burma with much raw silk for its weaving industry.

New Easier Route.

Hitherto it has mainly followed the Bhamo-Tengueh route. But completion of a road linking the railhead at Lashio with Yunnanfu, capital of Ypnan, opens a new and less difficult rotue.

The Chinese haev asesmbled a large number of trucks at Lashio to handle expected arms traffic. Twenty of these have got as far as Yungchang, 197 miles away. Beyond Yengchang, however, conditions are so bad that mule caravans have to be used. This part of China consists of a range of mountains, some 10,000 feet high, with great rivers like the Mekong flowing through narrow gorges.

The government communique said it had been decided to take measures "to encourage the Burma-Yunnan trade in consideration of the great benefits which the development of a flourishing trade must bring to the people and revenues of Burma."

Opinion in Rangoon interprets this as a determination to capture as much as possible of the commerce that formerly passed over the Chinese coast, now under Japanese occupation.

No Deportees List

OTTAWA, Jan. 13—(CP). — The Immigration Branch of the Department of Mines and Resources has no list of persons for deportation for anti-semitic propaganda, it was learned here to-day.

At Regina in an address yesterday, Rev. C. E. Silcox, secretary of the Social Service Council of Canada, forecast a large number of paid foreign agitators would soon be leaving Canada for Europe because of anti-Semitic activities.

England-Wales Game To See 13 New Players

TWICKENHAM, England, Jan. 13 —(CP Cable). — Thirteen players make their international debut when England and Wales meet here on January 21 in the first match of the quadrangular rugby tournament. Eight of the new men will be included among England's representatives.

Drastic revision of England's team was expected in view of last season's showing when only one match was won. Wales finished as runner-up to the champion Scottish fifteen.

English selectors were impressed with the North of England's claims to representation and no fewer than three of the four three-quarters are from this area. J. Heaton, Waterloo centre, is the only one of the trio to have been "capped" previously, and he has not played in an international contest since 1935. With the exception of H. D. Freakes, Oxford University's South African fullback, and Heaton, the entire team behind the scrum is new to national ranking.

The Welsh changes are scattered throughout the team, but Vivian Jenkins, London Welsh veteran, retains his place at fullback. Wilfred Wooller, tricky Cardiff centre, will have new partners on the three-quarter line, and the Swansea pair, Hayden Tanner and W. T. H. Davies, are a formidable pair of halves.

The Teams:

England— Fullback, H. D. Freakes (Oxford University); three-quarters, R. H. Guest (Liverpool University), J. Heaton (Waterloo), G. E. Hancock (Birkenhead Park), R. S. L. Carr (Old Cranleighans); halfbacks, P. Cooke (Richmond), J. Walker (Royal Air Force); forwards, R. E. Prescott (Harlequins), H. B. Toft (Waterloo), I. E. Teden (Richmond), T. F. Huskisson (Old Merchant Taylors), H. Wheatley (Coventry), J. T. W. Berry (Leicester), R. M. Marshall (Oxford University), J. K. Watkins (Navy).

Wales—Fullback, V. G. J. Jenkins (London Welsh); three-quarters, S. Williams (Aberavon), W. Wooller (Cardiff), J. I. Davies (Swansea), F. J. V. Ford (Harlequins); halfbacks, R. Tanner, W. T. H. Davies (Swansea); forwards, W. J. Travers (Newport), E. Morgan (Swansea), W. E. N. Davies (Cardiff), F. L. Morgan (Llanelly), E. Watkins (Cardiff), W. Vickery (Aberavon), A. R. Taylor (Cross Keys), C. Challoner (Neath).

Textile Expert Dies

TORONTO, Jan. 13. — (CP). — Thomas Costello, 76, former Dominion appraiser and textile advisor of the National Revenue Department, died here yesterday. He retired four years ago and had been in poor health for many months.

Native of Renfrew, Ont., Mr. Costello was educated in Renfrew and in England and had resided here the past 28 years. Since 1908 he was recognized as a textile expert and had been sent by the federal government to the British Isles and Europe to study and report on textile industries.

Second Battleship

One of the outstanding feats on the turf in 1938 was the triumph of Battleship, son of America's mighty Man o' War, in the Grand National steeplechase in England. It was the first time an American-owned American-bred horse had ever won the classic jumping event and this year, attempting to make it two straight for Uncle Sam will be War Vessel, ABOVE, brother of last year's winner, seen here in his stall at Aintree, where the event is held and where he is now training. Mrs. Marion DuPont Scott is owner of War Vessel.

Omemee Hawks Gain A Win Over Lindsay

Omemee Black Hawks copped a 6-2 District Hockey League intermediate victory over Lindsay last night in the Omemee arena before a fair-sized crowd of fans. The ice was good and the action fast but quite clean over most of the route. The next scrap there will be Monday when Peterborough meets Millbrook.

Tom Parsons scored the first last night, with F. Parsons getting the next on Jamieson's pass, and then Brockley scoring from Ellis. Huston tallied for Lindsay. In the second, Huston and Brooks counted. The third saw Jamieson and F. Parsons give the O's a good margin before the end. Gassien drew a total of four penalties, P. Williams three, Brooks, T. Parsons, Williamson and Murtha one apiece. Stars were the goalies, T. Parsons and Huston, with others also flashing nice hockey in spots. The teams:

Lindsay: Goal, Mark; defence, Gassien, Growden; centre, Huston; wings, R. Williams, Harper; alternates, P. Williams, Balfour, Murtha, G. Williams.

Omemee: Goal, Fisher; defence, T. Parsons, Johnson; centre, Jamieson; wings, F. Parsons, Weir; alternates, Williamson, Brooks, Brockley, Ellis, Deyell.

Referee—Lou Lebarr.

George St. Loses To All Saints

All Saints' Senior of the Church League copped a 5-0 win in hockey over George St. at All Saints last night, both sides seeming short of wind in the late stages—with the losers fading more. Williamson slapped in a counter in the first heat and McDougall dittoed in the middle chapter. L. Parnell put one in his own cage in the third, with Mortimer and S. Seabrooke also finding the twine. It was the first senior struggle of the season, and was only so-so. There were no individual stars over the entire route. The teams:

George St.: Goal, Townsend; defence, L. Parnell, Heard; centre, R. Parnell; wings, Edwards, Sproat; subs, Akers, Rennie.

All Saints: Goal, King; defence, S. Seabrooke, Rusaw; centre, Williamson; wings, Livingstone, Charlton; subs., McDougall, Mortimer, Platt, G. Seabrooke.

Referee, G. Webb.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

Belleville Redmen this season are not a set of stuffed scarlet shirts—nope, they're a pretty fair puck outfit. As fans will see when the Thomasites take issue with the Petes here in the senior opener tonight. If we went for the screaming alliterative and colorful nicknames of some U.S. grid writers, we'd call the gang from Greater Belleville—meaning Deseronto, Trenton, Stirling, Napanee and points around—the Purple Purge, the Crimson Crowd or the Red Wreckers. But we'll only call 'em the Redmen till 8.30 or so, and then anything that comes to mind! The low-lifers licked the locals by a 3-1 count on Quinte ice (or slush) last week but the Petes swear by their grandpop's chilblains that it'll happen no more. Especially here this evening.

* * * * * * *

Frantic fanatics, who go for senior hockey here—and the advance sale is big—can bank on a slambang joust. The boys are welmatched, a bunch of bumpers and with no love lost betwixt the teams. The Petes expect to ice their strongest squad, including Doc Nicholls—an import from Hamilton — while the full Quinte crew will make the trek. And every game in a short schedule is important. Programs given out, and the prize draw made so it's a real hockey attraction up on the Rue Brock this p.m. mes hearties. May the better team win, and we hope Belleville puckists don't get sore at us for that reasonable wish!

Watt Is His Name

We were talking of the pugnacious St. Louis, the bouncing Bentley and canny Goyer yesterday when a guy asks: "Who's their goalie?" We said: "Watt." He repeated: "Who plays goal for 'em?" We again said: "Watt." So the goon snorts: "I asked ya who plays in goal for Belleville?" And we insisted: "Watt is their goal-tender." Darned if the nut doesn't shout: "I don't give a pink-cheeked whoop in Halifax what he is, I wanna know WHO he is !" So we gently remarked: "Their goalie is a guy by the name of Watt, W-a-t-t, Watt." And, after a chuckle, we shook hands on the deal. It's as hoary as the gag of introducing two strangers, first telling 'em on the side that they'd have to shout as the other was very deaf. It generally wound up in a fight! Some fun, eh? Well, there'll be more fun up yonder tonight when the Redmen and Petes mix it up.

* * * * * * *

Hundreds of folks here will recall the stirring senior scraps at the Brock last winter—when Belleville Redmen (who have beaten both Fliers and Petes this season) were the weak sisters of the group. Or is that mixing metaphors worse than usual? Folks will readily recall some of the fine fights that broke out among players and fans, especially that late riot when police had to hustle some of the local players and Airmen off the ice before real damage was done. And the night when anxious fans, packed in like baled hay, leaned over in one concerted swoop that swept the wall before it as startled customers suddenly found themselves flat on their stomachs on the ice! Packed houses game after game, and folks fighting for ducats for the next one—everyone satisfied with the senior "B" style of hockey. And it starts here again tonight.

On Some Ex-Fliers

Speaking of the Fliers, some of the 1938 brand are now with the Air Force in the senior loop around Ottawa. We noted the other day where they lost to Hull Volants. Lalonde was on defence for the losers, with Wiggett at centre, Cowley on one wing and Ernie McNeeley on the other. All erstwhile rivals of the Petes. McNeeley got two goals for the Airmen and Lalonde drew a major for a fist fight. This year's crop of Trenton Fliers started off slow in the VanHorne Cup serial in Kingston, but won the title with a strong finish—so they'll give the Petes plenty of opposition again. They come here next Wednesday.

Colts and Monarchs coast over the week-end but then swing into heavy hockey action once more. The Monarchs meet the tough Bowmanville bunch in Whitby on Monday, whilst the Colts entertain a strong Lindsay squad here Tuesday. Also some talk of an Oshawa-Colts' series being lined up before the end of the month. And a bit of quiet chatter, too, of a possible benefit game (or home-and-home benefits) between Cobourg juniors and our Colts for Don Markle. This is the lad we mentioned before who came here from Cobourg to play hockey but suffered severe injuries in a cage contest before the hockey season opened—and he's only now on the mend. Quite a good young puck-chaser, too, we're told. Red Creighton will referee the Port Hope junior joust in Lindsay this e'en, while Harry Lott has the Bowmanville at Cobourg contest tonight.

The Hawks Fly High

Omemee Black Hawks swooped on the Lindsayites for a 6-2 District Puck Loop decision last evening on Omemee ice. A fair-sized crowd saw the Hawks show a little too much power in agood, clean embroglio. They piled up a 3-1 lead in the first chukker and added two in the third after an even second session. Local Aces meet Millbrook there on Monday in the next number.

Cobourg Gradettes made it two in a row over our Orfuns in a girls' basketball scrap last p.m. in the P.C.I. gym, taking this one by a 17-11 score. They won at home by a 36-12 count a week back. C.G.E. gals came through gallantly in their joust here last night—it was an L.O.B.A. double-header in the Lakeshore League —and defeated a strong Belleville band by a 22-17 score. Quite a raft of cage customers took in the tussles and saw lots of action. Don't forget the senior C.O.S.S.A. frays tonight, Lindsay gals and boys 'gainst local outfits, in the P.C.I. gym. While three Senior City League basketball melees are listed for tomorrow in the twilight up at the Y.M.C.A. Heavy hoop activity here.

Hither and yawn: Church hockey results are listed elsewhere in tonight's paper....And the second division of the C.G.E. shop circuit opened last p.m., Dip and Buff winning—sounds like a square dance call, eh?.... Lucky program holder at the Brock tonight gets a table lamp, given by Comstocks, and a double Capitol Theatre pass for two weeks....Prince of Wales plays King Edward at 9.00, King George meets Queen Mary at 10, and Central tangles with Queen Alex at 11, in school hockey tomorrow morn at All Saints....Hard pin smacking last e'en in Duffus' Alleys; some dope in on it....Juvenile hockey group may be lined up in this district on the morrow....Army Armstrong of Oshawa will referee the senior puck fray here tonight....And Ernie Wortley will officiate this eve when Lakefield plays in Newmarket; Whitby and Sutton mix it, too....Ice is okay in this district again and a flock of hockey tussles will be picked up again....Kindly dont send in items too late for sport pages, as we're crowded these days....C.G.E. puck loop opens tomorrow aft in the Brock with Wire meeting Cabinets at 1.30, Switchgear playing Press at 2.30, and Fractionals mixing with Machine Shop at 3.30....It'll be a relief when they pick up that bozo who is putting a panic on femmes, as a lot of us night hawks get some narrow looks as we pass a colleen or a cop!

Park St. Victors In Church Loop

Park St. Juveniles of the Church Hockey League copped a 6-3 win from All Saints last night at All Saints' rink when the latter faded near the finish of a good gae. Park St. got two by Jobe and J. Ainslie in the first as Ackford counted for All Saints, the trio being soft markers. All Saints tied it in the second after Jobe counted, Maudsley sinking the disc and then slipping Robinson the tying pass. Jobe got two more in the third and Cox one for the margin. Jobe was outstanding on the attack, with Campbell and Morely going well also. The teams:

All Saints': Goal, Homewood; defence, Morley, Ackford; centre, Robinson; wings, Reid, Abraham; subs, Maudsley, Lacheur, Abraham.

Park St.—Goal, R. Ainslie; defence, Campbell, Walker; centre, J. Ainslie; wings, Jobe, Cox; subs, Barrie, Cummings.

Electrics Win While Orfuns Drop Decision

Local girls' basketball teams broke even here last night before a big crowd of fans in the P.C.I. gym. C.G.E. colleens copped a 22-17 win over Belleville, while the local Orfuns lost a 17-11 decision to Cobourg Gradettes. They are L.O.B.A. contests in the Lakeshore group, and the girls dished up plenty of action and good basketball.

Battling on even terms through a hard first half and then pulling ahead in the last half, C.G.E. conquered Belleville. Belleville started the scoring and the lead zig-zagged back and forth, but at the half-way mark C.G.E. had a one-point lead, 12-11. In the third quarter they pulled further ahead, 16-11, and their advantage was never cut down to the final whistle. Checking was very close both ways, with C.G.E. drawing 19 fouls and Belleville 15. The winners lost two players, M. Wood and M. Hallihan with four personal fouls. C.G.E. cashed in on six free throws and Belleville dropped in 7. Both sides muffed endless scoring chances, but C.G.E. put away a better percentage than the losers. The home team had better combination than the losers is back on the job to-day. and played better defensively.

R. Thompson and M. Wood were the best for C.G.E., the former playing a clever floor game and making many of the winners' plays. A. Cruji and M. Hitchon were best for Belleville, with the former leading her team in scoring with seven points. The teams:

C.G.E. (22).—Centre, V. Bartley; forwards: M. Hodson (5), R. Thompson (5); Guards: A. Craig (7), M. Woods (5); Subs., M. McCarthy, K. Rogow, J. Alexander, M. Hallihan.

Belleville (17).—Centre, M. Hitchon (1); Forwards, B. Shore (1), A. Cruji (7); Guards, M. Maclean, M. Melchoir (6); Subs., M. Rowbotham, M. Miller (2), J. Sherry, M. Sharpe, M. Storms, I. Corby.

Referee.—Kurly Krug, Peterborough.

Umpire.—J. Andrews, Belleville.

Cobourg Wins.

Taking an early lead and holding it to the final whistle, Cobourg defeated the Orfuns to take the leadership in the league. The last year's O.L.B.A. intermediate champs jumped into the lead near the start and were still ahead 12-7 at the half, but the Orfuns, led by Ruth Ellis and Barbara Blade, came back strongly in the third quarter. Cobourg pulled ahead again early in the last stanza and their close checking stopped the Orfuns then.

Cobourg cashed in on a number of shots from centre-court and recovered a good percentage of rebounds of both back-boards. The Orfuns could not break fast enough to beat the strong Cobourg defence but missed fewer of the chances they did have than the winners. Cobourg, with J. Young and A. Riley making most of the plays, were seemingly in command at all times except in the third quarter, although their lead never mounted above 6 points. J. Young and A. Riley led the winners on the attack while J. Oven stood out at guard. L. Magee and R. Ellis were the best performers for the Orfuns. The teams:

Cobourg Gradettes (17). — J. Young (6), R. Page (1), A. Riley (4), K. Throop, J. Oven (6), N. Shorey, L. Thompson, M. McDonnell, D. Throop, B. Wilkins.

Peterborough Orfuns (11). — A. Livingstone, L. Magee, J. Dawson, B. Blade (2), L. Levine (2), C. Bestard, M. Snowden (1), G. Mortimer, B. Ackford (2), R. Ellis (4).

Referee—Kurly Krug, Peterborough.

Umpire.—G. Dutton, Cobourg.

MUSSING UP THE MAPLES

"Lefty" Kearns of the City League tossed off the high score at Duffus' last night when he counted 745 (318) for his three-game string, and in his first appearance on the alleys this year, Mel Anthony came second with 742.

The score boards showed where 32 men trundled in the 600 or better circle. Ollie Taylor's 720 was the best for the C.G.E. bowlers. Joe Marsden had 668; E. Mowry 652 (301); S. Adamson 642; G. Jay 637; B. Ashmore 635; W. R. Parnell 632; T. McPhate 630; J. Copping 627; E. Kearns 622; B. Maybee 603, and a 307 single by Art Heal.

In the City League the K. of C. bowling five again came through to take high team honors, this time their total was 3427. After Kearns and Anthony, Tommy Cupoli hit 740; Vince Anthony 733; Nelson Routley 719; Bud Weese 707; Frank Wood 704 (300); T. Curvin 695; V. Fitzgerald 691; R. Dyer 680; A. Delahaye 677; T. Miller 671, G. Copping 666; G. Gimblett 647; R. Lewis 629; L. Martyn 623; F. Scates 623; L. McIntosh 621; J. Menogue 615; Fred Martin 612 and W. Stanbury 602.

Knox Bantams Win Over St. Paul's 2-1

Knox Bantams copped their first Church Puck Loop win of the season last night at All Saints with a 2-1 pull over St. Paul's, it being the Saints' second reverse. Knox scored one in the first and each side counted in the third in a tight tussle. Covert got the first in a hot scramble, aided by Robertson and Milburn. N. McNaughton got the next from Seels and Darling tallied on Gertley's pass. Both goalies, Seels and N. McNaughton looked good. The teams:

St. Paul's: Goal, Board; defence, Seels, R. McNaughton; centre, N. McNaughton; wings, Carley, Hendry; subs, Honour, J. Forbes, D. Forbes, Hill, Doughty.

Knox: Goal, Parnall; defence, Alcock, Bestard; centre, Darling; wings, Gertley, Braund; subs, Milburn, Covert, Robertson.

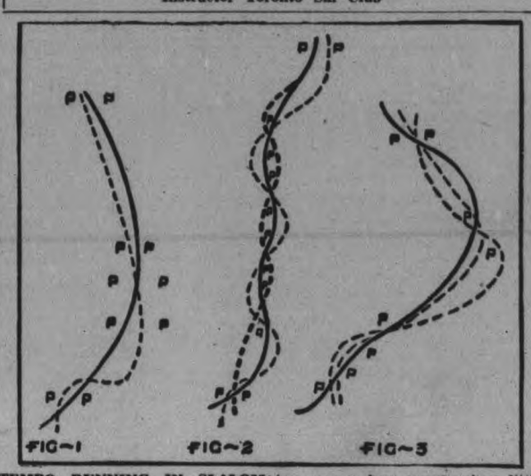
HOW TO SKI

By FRITZ LOOSLI

Instructor Toronto Ski Club



TEMPO RUNNING IN SLALOM AND DOWNHILL RACING.

Modern ski technique has greatly changed the racing tactics in both slalom and downhill races. Steel edges and extreme VORLAGE enables the competitor to take turns at high speed and with very little loss of speed. Whenever possible, the sharp turn is replaced by a long radius turn, eliminating all sideskidding.

Hip Action.

A good runner coming into a corner will lift and swing his hips and as the turn progresses he sinks again with strong forward knee and slight body crouch and thus takes most of the weight off the skis to avoid skidding. Some skiers when completing a turn will spring up and with a terrific push of their poles, dive for the next pair of flags. Despite the fact that every effort is made to gain speed, the good skier manages to get rhythm and perfect co-ordination at every turn.

A long sluss may be taken with a lower crouch, but if the terrain has marked deviation, a rather erect position is more advisable, crouching only when taking a bump. Visibility is an important factor in racing and a low crouch gives little chance to see what lies ahead. A single bump may be taken by jumping slightly before reaching it.

Diagram Explanations.

The diagrams above will give an idea how slalom flags may be taken. The dotted lines show the course chosen by a skier of the old school, the heavy line is the course taken by a high speed and tempo runner. In fig. 1 a beginner would have to stem before entering the stem corridor because his speed would be too great coming out of the corridor to take the last pair of flags to the left. An advanced skier should manage this part of the slalom course in one long radium turn.

In fig. 2 the heavy line is the course advisable if the flags are set in a slope not exceeding 20 degrees, but in a steeper slope the heavy dotted line course is best.

In fig. 3 a long radius curve would be the route chosen by the advanced skier. Whenever possible, turns should be made before passing through the flags, giving reserve space, when skidding may be hard to avoid in the next turn.

Michigan-Ontario Amateur Ball League To Draw Six Entries

SARNIA, Ont., Jan. 13—(CP).—Bringing organized international amateur baseball to southern Michigan and Ontario for the first time in many years, the Michigan-Ontario league was formed here last night with six certain entries. Three other clubs were mentioned as possible starters.

The Canadian entries, all from the Ontario Baseball Association, are Strathroy, London and Sarnia. The three Michigan points are Capac, Marine City and St. Clair. Mentioned for inclusion were Port Huron, Mich., and Stratford and Petrolia, Ontario.

Strathroy and London played in the intercounty senior series of the O.B.A. last season. Sarnia had a high-ranked intermediate "A" team. All three participated in exhibitions with clubs of the new league.

Groundwork for the new organization has been laid through exhibition contests in other years and the desire of the Ontario teams to get a greater variety of competition. The last Michigan-Ontario league, which failed financially, was of professional class "D" calibre, but produced so great a player as Charley Gehringer of Detroit Tigers.

Fred Lanline of Port Huron was elected president and governors of the new league are Wayne Richards of Sarnia, James Masters of Port Huron, William Roach of Marine City and Ernie Slatter of London.

The schedule will be drawn up early next month. Each club must declare its player limit of 18 men by July 1. The opening date was set tentatively for May 24.

C.G.E. Seconds Open Schedule

Dip and Buff squad of the second division of the C.G.E. Shop Hockey League opened its schedule last night at the Sacred Heart rink with a 5-0 decision over the Porcelain gang. They notched two tallies each in the first and second periods, and another in the third, of a speedy, interesting tilt. Padgett scored twice with McClennan, Heal and Roberts getting one apiece. Padgett, Heal, Riel, Maher, Norris and Bucknell were individual standouts in this contest—a game both fast and clean throughout. The teams:

Dip and Buff—Goal, Lacey; defence, Livingstone, Riel; centre, Bowen; wings, Heal, Padgett; subs., Roberts, McClennan.

Porcelain—Goal, Maher; defence, Collins, Norris; centre, Bucknell; wings, Richmond, Miles; sub, Young.

Referee, Cy Whatley.

Hayman To Fight Any Change In Eastern Rules

TORONTO, Jan. 13 — (C.P.). — Coach Lew Hayman of Toronto Argonauts, Canadian football champions the past two years, will fight any attempt to change the rules of the game as played in Eastern Canada.

Speaking at the club's celebration banquet here last night, Hayman, an American who came here from Syracuse, N.Y., in 1932, said he would like to see a uniform game throughout the Dominion. He deplored the fact that Canada could not have a senior final between the East and the West without one side being handicapped by rules foreign to it.

Hayman, who formerly played with Syracuse University, told the gathering of more than 200, including civic fathers and rugby officials, that Eastern Canada football was better than the United States brand "and the surface of its possibilities have only been scratched."

Darn Good Game.

"Fundamentally our Canadian game is darn good. From time to time the minor changes are necessary, but let us keep what we have now. If any changes are to be made, let them make them across the line."

Hayman's voice choked with emotion as he paid tribute to "My kids—a great bunch who won for me a Canadian championship in 1937 and the year just past."

Predicting crowds of 30,000 and 40,000 at Canadian rugby finals of the future, he said that "football is my baby, my hobby, and I love it."

Tribute was paid Hayman, whose Argos have beaten Winnipeg Blue Bombers for the Dominion title twice in succession, by several speakers, including Mayor Ralph Day of Toronto and members of the Board of Control.

Moving pictures were shown of the final game between Argos and the Bombers. Argo team members were presented with windbreakers and

LEAFS DEFEAT CANADIENS 9 TO 4 TO CLIMB INTO FOURTH PLACE

Hawks Blanked 6 To 0 By N.Y. Rangers

By Jack Calder
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Burdened all season with injuries, Toronto Maple Leafs keep bobbing up with bright contributions to the National Hockey League picture that may mean a loftier place when their hospital list goes down.

There is inconsistency in the Leafs' play, but brilliance too. Arduous road trips and rough-and-tumble battles haven't helped the weakened forces any more than their marked habit of lapsing defensively every once in a while. Yet when they've had a couple of nights of inaction, a good night's sleep and a nearly-complete lineup they often come burting from their dressing-room to produce startling results.

After a layoff since Sunday and with only Buzz Boll and Gus Marker missing from the lineup through injuries, the Leafs set a season's record for total goals last night by defeating the last place Canadiens 9-4 at Montreal. Syl Apps scored four goals and added one assist and the league's 1937-38 scoring champion, Gordon Drillon, continued to regain his old brilliance with two goals and two assists.

Because the Rangers drubbed Chicago Black Hawks 6-0 at New York, Toronto climbed into fourth position over the slumping Hawks. The Rangers rose to within three points of the first-place Boston Bruins.

The Leafs' fortunes of the entire season have been pretty well represented in their last three games. They tumbled the Bruins 2-0 at Toronto Saturday night with their best showing of the winter. The next thing, after the long haul to Chicago, they were beaten 1-0 by the Hawks. From that shutout they turned to a nine-goal performance at Montreal.

Jackson Still Inactive

Harvey Jackson, complaining of a pain in the side that may have been a tinge of appendicitis, saw little service for the Leafs, while Jimmy Fowler is still helping out the Toronto farm club at Syracuse. Marker is not expected to return to the wars for two weeks and Boll may be out the rest of the season.

In the absence of those four, Dick Irvin's band still wasted no time getting down to business. Drillon and Apps rapped in goals in the first two minutes and, after George Brown scored for the Habitants, Nick Metz and Apps gave the visitors a 4-1 lead by the end of the first period.

Louis Trudel, brought up by Canadiens from their New Haven farm with Cliff Goupille because of injuries to George Mantha and Walter Buswell, reduced the margin early in the second. After that it was a rout. Bucko McDonald scored his first goal of the season and Apps and Drillon made the count 7-2.

Jimmy Ward scored for Canadiens two minutes before the second ended but Apps had given Toronto a five-goal advantage again before the interval. Jackson and Apps were given rests in the third and the Leafs didn't bother bearing down. Herbie Cain scored for the home club but Doc Romnes gave Toronto the last goal three minutes from the finish.

A Ranger Upset

The best Rangers had done against Chicago in three previous meetings was a 1-0 victory. In their last two games with the Hawks they had been shut out.

But they bounced back with a vengeance. Bryan Hextall was their individual leader with two goals, while the others went to Phil Watson, Cecil Dillon and the Colville brothers, Neil and Mac. Playing Coach Paul Thompson of the Hawks, scoring leader of the United States division in 1937-38, moved himself back to a defence spot beside Earl Seibert without noticeable results.

Another Riot In London Hockey Game

WINDSOR, Ont., Jan. 13.—(CP)—Jack Dent, burly Windsor Chryslers defenceman, said he was attacked by unruly fans in a Michigan-Ontario Hockey League game in London Wednesday night in which a near riot resulted when spectators poured on the ice during a fight between the players.

"I was attacked by the fans while down on the ice," Dent said as he told of the game, one of the wildest of the season, in which Windsor defeated London Mohawks 3-1. "My hair was pulled. I was scratched and hit by the fans as the players tried to pull us apart."

Numerous fights broke out during the game which Harry T. Garside, president of the London club, said he would protest on the grounds of wrong decisions by the officials. Charles E. Speirax, a spectator, died shortly after suffering a heart seizure during one of the exciting melees.

Describes It

Dent described one of the game's highlights, the near riot which started when he struck a fan with his hockey stick. He said the blow was not intentional.

"As the play came to our end of the ice, the puck was shot into the corner," the big defenceman said.

"Herchenratter and Galbraith were after the puck. As they fought for it, Herchenratter slapped the puck along the back boards around the corner.

"Galbraith and Herchenratter started to battle for it. I had it trapped against the board with my foot for a face-off when the spectator in question grabbed my stick. After he grabbed my stick and was pinning Galbraith against the boards Galbraith started to swing his fists."

Dent declared he was pulled down and rolled over with Galbraith underneath. It was then he said he was attacked by the fans.

"What I figure was the cause of the fracas was the laxity of Referee Appel in not penalizing Galbraith for deliberately charging and slashing Goalie McAtee," Dent added. "As I came away I was so enraged I knocked him down with a clean body check."

Sarnia Curlers Triumph In Detroit Competition

First prize in an international bonspiel held in Detroit recently went to a Canadian rink when a group from Sarnia, skipped by W. A. Watson, came out on top to carry off the Gooderham and Worts gold trophy in the event. The winners are shown receiving the trophy, presented by Archie McColl, LEFT, president of the Detroit Curling Club. Members of the winning rink are, LEFT to RIGHT: R. C. R. Bell, A. G. Wanless, Col. J. C. Barr and W. A. Watson, skip.

Petes All Set For Belleville

The Petes will present their strongest possible lineup here tonight (Friday) when they tackle Belleville Redmen in the locals' home opening O.H.A. senior "B" game at 8.30 in the Brock St. rink. After taking a 3-1 loss in Belleville last week—and it is a short schedule—the Petes must be right in there and start winning. They have been drilling hard most of the week and feel they can knock off Eddie Thomas' improved Redmen on local ice. It promises to be a dandy senior scrap, with no holds barred, and should draw a big crowd of fans. Senior hockey proved popular here last season and should be again in 1939. Puck programs will be given out tonight at the rink, and the prize draw made.

Coach Frank Buckland expects to have Doc Nicholls, his Hamilton import centre in action, as well as two other newcomers—Joe McNulty and Lorne Gray. The latter two with Crowe will form the defence, either McNabb or Harding being in goal. Tompkins, Kingdon and Starr form one front line. Nicholls will probably be in centre on the other, with Coughlin on one wing and either Gardner or Creighton on the other. Shrimp McDougall will be the extra forward. Belleville's lineup includes Watt, Bentley, St. Louis, Barriage, Jackson brothers, Storms, Goyer and Robinson. It ought to be a fine rugged puck fixture.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Jan. 13.—(AP)—Wondering in his sleep why he felt so uncomfortably warm Irving Pease, Toronto, middleweight boxer, slept yesterday while flames shot through the floor of his room.

Dempsey Tells Of "Long Count"

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—The full story of the famous "long count" in the second Dempsey-Tunney fight, the most controversial point in the whole history of modern heavyweight boxing, is now finally completed with detailed statements by both fighters. Gene Tunney gave his version in an article in Collier's in 1932, and now Jack Dempsey, writing in the same magazine, presents his side. After describing the knock-down of Tunney in the seventh round, and the delay in the count because he failed to go to a neutral corner, Dempsey writes:

"When you have given your all in a sports competition you have only one thought and it's usually of rest. I did the human thing and thought only of rest. More than anything else in the world I wanted to stand still for an instant and relax long enough to take a deep breath in safety. The motion pictures show that I did just that. I leaned back against a convenient spot on the ropes and draped my arms over the top strand to enjoy the most welcome moment of relaxation a fighter ever knew.

Kept His Wits

"Tunney has said that he kept his wits during those fleeting seconds. If he actually did, he is more of a ring fighter than his record shows, because few people can be staggered against the ropes with a heavy right and, five second later, spilled to the deck with five more rights and lefts, and still be cagey enough to remember that the other guy must go to a neutral corner before the counting begins.

"It was a sickening sight to me to see Tunney grab that rope, pick up the belated count and pull himself to an upright position. I felt like the unluckiest guy on earth at that moment.

"Today, eleven years later, I feel that I was most fortunate of all the world's able-bodied citizens. For, if Gene Tunney had remained on the canvas, the whole course of my life would have been changed, and for the worse, I am certain. Had Tunney remained on the floor in Chicago, I would have been hailed as a 'superman' of the ring. Money would have been showered my way by the bucketful. Clamor of the public and press would have guaranteed $3,000,000 for another Tunney-Dempsey battle.

A Third Fight

"And nine months later I would have been in the ring taking a third straight beating" (Dempsey describes the Tunney fights as the only real 'shellackings' he ever took) "a million dollar beating win or lose; for, being the most studious and determined of all fighters, Tunney had perfected a defence and a counter-attack for the only fighting style I knew.

"Deflated, I believed it wise to stop fighting. The reasoning behind this decision was simple. I was firmly convinced that a body, after giving it and taking it for more than a third of its 32 years, could not be subjected to further punishment without risking and suffering permanent damage. Too many fighters refuse to realize this cruel fact."

In Tunney's story of the long count he stated that after he was knocked down, he picked up the referee's count at two, and figured out his campaign of defense and attack while waiting for the count of nine.

"Whether twenty-nine second or nine seconds had elapsed when the referee said 'nine', he wrote, "would have made no difference to me. My signal to get off the ground was the count—nine. No boxer that I have ever known has carried a stop-watch on his wrist going into the ring."

Everton Is 6-1 Favourite To Snatch Cup

LONDON, Jan. 13 — (CP Cable). —Everton was installed 6-1 favorite to win the English Football Cup when bookmakers opened the betting on the big soccer competition this week. Their 1-0 victory over the league-leading Derby County team in third round play a week ago put the Lancastrians out in front with Wolverhampton Wanderers second choice at 8-1.

Players in the 86 clubs will wear black armlets as a mark of respect for the late Charles E. Sutcliffe, English League president, when they line up for league encounters on Saturday. The 73-year-old official died on Wednesday at his home in Rawtenstall, Lancashire.

Ground conditions have shown no improvement during the week and both in England and Scotland the going will be heavy for players, many of whom are tired after strenuous mid-week cup and league contests.

Relieved of cup worries, Derby County is gunning for the league championship, an honor that has eluded the Midlanders although they were numbered among the 12 original league clubs back in 1888. Arsenal won the title last season.

With a five-point advantage over Everton, runner-up, Derby goes to Sunderland, and while Wearsiders are always a hard squad to beat at Roker Park they will have to show improved form to get as much as a point.

Special Training.

Following its home match against Arsenal, Everton's players will go into special training at Harrogate for their fourth-round English Cup match against Doncaster Rovers. The Rovers yesterday ousted Southport from the tournament by a 2-1 score.

Up in Scotland all eyes are on Falkirk whose rapid advance in recent weeks brings a strong challenge to Hearts and Aberdeen for second place behind the runaway Rangers. Victorious in five straight games, Falkirk's sharpshooters have scored 20 goals since December 17, opponents getting home only four in reply.

The Brockville Park eleven and Aberdeen fight on Saturday for possession of third place, both teams having 31 points, two less than Hearts who trail Rangers by nine. With the advantage of a home game Falkirk is expected to win.

Rangers oppose the erratic Hibernians at Easter Road, Edinburgh, and Hearts have a somewhat easier task against St. Mirren at Paisley.

Still 'Old Poison'

Snipers in the N.H.L. come and go, but Nels Stewart, "Old Poison" to goal-guardians from Benedict and Connell down to Brimsek and Broda goes right on adding to his huge goal total. This is year No. 14 for the American's ace centre and in his last game he bagged the only goal as he and his teammates defeated Rangers 1-0. The goal was the 10th of the season and 311th of his major league career.

Nags Nibble Natal Day Treat

Two famous harness horses hold a joint birthday celebration as they pass the third milestone and partake of the special bag of oats, complete with candles, provided by their owner. The latter is Dr. H. M. Parshall and his two equine stars are Chief Counsel, LEFT, and Blackstone, RIGHT. Both are pacers, Chief Counsel the leading money winner of all time, and his companion biggest earner last year. Oh yes, the three candles? Well, there were three there to start, but C. C. knocked one off in his anxiety to get at the more important substance.

Hogs Lead Slump In Livestock Prices Of Week

TORONTO, Jan. 13 (CP)—Cattle prices dropped 24 cents on all grades except bulls and fed calves on the Toronto livestock market this week. Calves and sheep were steady, lambs showed a 25-cent loss on closing sales while hogs declined sharply with losses ranging from 90 cents to $1.15 cwt.

A fairly heavy run of cattle was cleared by Thursday after a weak opening holdover of 2,000 head. All steers and heifers were down 25 cents. Weighty steers moved mostly between $6 and $7 cwt., a few lots of heavies ranging up to $7.35. Good butcher steers and heifers sold at $6.25 to $6.50, with common downward to $5.

Butcher cows sold from $3-$4.50. Canners traded at $2.50. Good butcher bulls were strong on export demand at $5-$5.25 and bolognas ranged from $4.10-$4.65. Choice fed calves brought between $9-$9.50 with mediums downward to $6.75.

A small supply of stockers traded steady at from $4.50-$5.50 cwt. Good milkers and springers were steady at $70-$80 each while more common kinds were hard to move. Export buying for United States took 140 bulls and 390 weighty steers.

Calves held about steady for the week at $9.50-$10 for choice vealers with common lights downward to $5.50. A few grass calves brought $4.50 cwt.

Open 75 Cents-$1 Off

Hogs opened 75 cents to $1 cwt. lower at $8.50-$8.75 off trucks for bacons and on Tuesday dipped again to a range of $8.25-$8.50. On Wednesday the market improved to $8.35-$8.60 with the higher-priced hogs going to out-of-town packers. Thursday's run was too small to make a market.

Sheep held at $2-$5 cwt. according to quality. Early lamb sales were at $9-$9.25 with westerns mostly at the latter price. Two carloads from the west found a market on the closing session with the bulk going at $9 cwt. some common to medium lambs traded at $6.50-$8 cwt.

Nazis Ridicule Navy Conquest Theories

BERLIN, Jan. 13 — (AP). — Chancellor Hitler's newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, ridiculed to-day "foreign speculation" suggesting Germany wants a more powerful navy for conquest of colonies in America or the Mediterranean.

Germany's recently announced intention to double her submarine tonnage and build more cruisers, the newspaper declared, "must be seen as an example of wise limitation."

"Germany wants to conquer neither North nor South America as colonies," it added. "Neither does she want to establish a naval hegemony in the Mediterranean. She is determined to realize her demands for colonies, not, however, by way of conquest. Austria and the Sudetenland may suffice as a proof that it can be done differently."

The Beobachter cited protection of Germany's extended shores along the Baltic and in the North Sea and her overseas trade interests as reasons for the naval building program, "realization of which, however, will be delayed for some time for technical reasons."

After Motherhood

IF you are weak, nervous, or have backache, sideache or headaches due to organic disturbances, you will find Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription beneficial. It tones the female organs, calms the nerves, improves nutrition. Mrs. Maurice Tobin, 41 Frank St., Peterboro, Ont., says: "Following motherhood I developed inward weakness that pulled me completely down in health. I was weak, had pains in my sides, my back ached and I was very nervous. After taking five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription my nerves were in good condition and I had fully regained my health and strength." Ask your druggist today for it in liquid or tablets.

KILL that CHEST COLD.. with your hands

Rub Minard's freely into your chest. Its penetrating effectiveness relieves congestion, and makes you feel better. Do the same for ordinary sore throat. Or for aches and pains, soreness or stiffness, in muscle, joint or tired feet. Dandruff, too, yields to Minard's, the rubbing liniment that's been famous for over 60 years. Get a bottle at your druggist's today; keep it handy. 129

Those two payments left a balance of $220.36 from last year's Exhibition.

Expenses included $9,376.60 expended in prize money, $2,895.40 for salaries and wages, $2,349.19 for supplies, miscellaneous operating expenses $8,422.21, maintenance and renewals $1,748.30, fixed expenses $667.86.

The amount of the prize money was $1,000 more than last year's $8,473.91. Vaudeville and music cost $3,270, advertising $237.74, rent of tents $483.50, financial expense $311.83, other miscellaneous costs $3,754.95; painting barns and buildings $1,085.27; incurance, $583.25.

The year's income included $1,738.40 in entry fees, membership fees $398, admissions $16,009.18, concessions $2,276, commission on rides and shows $1,762.24, rent of stalls $35, grants $7,300, donations $587.50, prize list advertising $484, miscellaneous receipts, $270.80.

The total income was $30,861.12 as compared with $28,889.90 in 1937; and the total expense was $26,459.56 as against $26,113.16 in the previous year.

District Meeting Here.

Mr. Brown announced that the convention of the District Fairs' Association would be held in Peterborough in June. Details of the necessary arrangements were left to the new board, and Mr. Brown suggested that the plans should include a banquet for the first time in the association's history.

Reporting on the field crops competition, Gordon Hancock recommended that this year it be extended to oats as well as white winter wheat. This project will be considered at a later meeting.

Convention Delegates.

Two of the younger members, Gordon Hancock and Harry McIntyre, were appointed delegates to the Ontario convention of fair and exhibitions to be held in Toronto on February 23 and 24.

Everett Birdsall, Sam Staples and other members suggested that the Exhibition should be represented at the meetings of the various live stock associations that are to be held in Toronto this winter. This opportunity of extending connections in desirable quarters was left to the chairmen of the respective committees of breed classes of the Exhibition.

Appeal to County.

It was decided to interview the County Council next Wednesday afternoon. S. S. Staples and Gordon Hancock were delegated to present the Exhibition's appeal for an increased grant this year. Mr. Brown said three buildings were needed to provide the accommodation needed for adequate housing of live stock. It was hoped that the county would assume the cost of one new building which would bear a sign crediting it as a gift from the county.

The motion to hold a banquet next week was proposed by Alexander Huston and seconded by R. T. Lillico, and the members assigned to take charge of the affair was named as follows: Mr. Glover, chairman, Mr. Hancock, Mr. Mason, Mr. Lillico and Mr. Brown.

The Regional Fair Idea.

In connection with the necessity of increased accommodation for live stock, if breeders were to be encouraged to come to Peterborough, Gordon Hancock said that the regional fair idea was receiving increased consideration, and it might be well to take that possibility into consideration before entering upon a broader building program. Mention of regional fairs opened a debate that brought Everett Birdsall, G. A. Brethen, Joseph Tully, Frank C. Paterson, C. E. Moore, and other members into the discussion on one side or the other.

Mr. Birdsall declared that he was in favor of continuing as a Class A exhibition. Mr. Tully said that the directors of the Ontario Holstein-Friesian Association in Belleville this week had expressed themselves as being prepared to support the regional idea. They had in mind Ottawa, Kingston, Peterborough, and the Ottawa Winter Fair, the original of the regional plan. Mr. Tully said the directors would like to begin with Peterborough this year. The Holstein "black and white" departments of the Roseneath and Port Perry Fairs last fall had proved outstanding successes. At Roseneath there were 110 Holstein cattle exhibited by breeders of Northumberland County, and during the afternoon the ringside crowd averaged from one to two hundred.

"We think it is a wonderful idea," Mr. Tully said, "and we are going to try to carry it out with our grant. Peterborough is one place the Holstein Association directors have in mind."

Mr. Brethen argued that it was more important to encourage such local Holstein breeders, for example, as the Mann brothers, C. E. Moore, Carman Seymour, Joseph Tully, and others rather than the Hays herd from Calgary that was making the course of the big time circuit. "These outsiders come in and get the Peterborough prize money, and your local breeders don't come back. And you are not sure the outsiders will come back."

C. E. Moore said that this condition applied to all other breeds of cattle, and Mr. Brethen recalled that Edwards Brothers exhibited a bull at Peterborough last fall that sold for $10,000 at the Royal." And there probably weren't half a dozen people at the ringside when that bull was shown here."

Those in favor of the regional fair plan said that by inducing local breeders to enter their herds an added attraction would be provided especially for farmers who, as demonstrated at Roseneath, were interested in the competition of their neighbors' herds, and of other herds they knew in the district.

Mr. Birdsall said Kingston had adopted the regional plan, and nearly died from the effect of it, until they resumed the open competition. Picton went regional, and also faded away. "They may have buried it for all I know," he added.

Alderman Glover's proposal to sound out the Dominion agricultural authorities was adopted, and Mr. Brown remarked that nothing would be done about it this year any way.

One of those who endorsed Mr. Birdsall's attitude was C. H. Westlake who contended that there were good cattle in this district if the breeders would fit them and show them; but C. E. Moore said the average farmer in this county was at a disadvantage against the competition of the professionals. Local men hadn't the time to spend on fitting their cattle for the show ring to the extent of the grooming the big circuit herds received.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often brink quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this precription a trial.—(Adyt.)

Defence Minister Mackenzie of any blame.

Yesterday's Throne speech included a statement that a defence purchasing board will be established and it was learned by The Canadian Press that the government contemplates a board of three or four members chosen outside the National Defence Department and perhaps outside the government service altogether.

At present purchases are made by the defence department and passed upon by an inter-departmental committee.

The Bren gun inquiry provided the first public review of the application of the policy of the Canadian government regarding the manufacture of armaments and co-operation with the British government in arms production.

As outlined before Mr. Justice Davis, this policy contemplates manufacture of arms for Canadian forces in government-owned factories where possible, and where not possible by private industry under strict government control with respect to profits.

Further the policy contemplates no sale of arms by or through the Canadian government to other governments but the placing of no obstacles in the way of purchase of arms by other countries of the British Commonwealth from private industry in Canada.

BANK CLEARINGS
A small decrease in bank clearings for the past week as compared with the second week in January a year ago was reported by the secretary of the Peterborough Clearings House. This week's clearings totalled $552,559 and the same week a year ago $589,222.

FRIDAY 13TH.
Members of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association are not superstitious, but Thursday night on the eve of Friday the 13th a black cat stared through the window at the executive as they threshed out the problems in a basement room.

FRACTURES LEG
Phyllis Heath, 12 year old daughter of Clinton Heath, 276 Romaine street received a fracture of the leg Thursday afternoon as school was being dismissed when she tripped on the top step and fell heavily down the stairs. She is in St. Joseph's Hospital receiving treatment.

NO ATTACKS REPORTED
No attacks on women were reported to the police last Thursday night nor was there the usual number of false alarms to be investigated. Evidently the assailant must have taken a night off from the activities that have caused so much alarm in the southern end of the city.

ATTENDED MEETING.
W. L. Ferguson was in Toronto Thursday attending the regular monthly meeting of the administrative committee of the Industrial Accident Prevention Associations. He reported to the committee on the activities of the Central Ontario division of the associations since their last meeting.

MYSTERY SOLVED.
For ten years local fishermen have wondered what happened to the brown trout placed in the Kawartha waters. The mystery was solved at least partially on Thursday night when one of the members remarked that W. H. Pearson had caught a large brown trout in Deer Bay during the past year.

GOOD PUBLICITY.
It was suggested at Thursday night's meeting of the Fish and Game executive that the Department of Game and Fisheries might consent to open the fishing seasons in this district at noon of the first day instead of at midnight. This would permit news photographers to get some good shots of the fishermen waiting to make the first cast and would add color and interest to the opening day.

SLIDES DE LUXE
Small boys and not a few small girls have been having the time of their lives the last few days in Victoria Park where two or three slides as smooth as a newly polished floor have been made down the slope. Sleighs, and bits of tin, or cardboard and will shoot down the hillside at top speed and what makes mothers gray is that some youngsters are content to use the seat of their trousers as a sled.

WILL HEAR COMMISSIONER
It is expected that there will be an unusually large attendance at Monday's luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club when J. Albert Smith, member of the Ontario Hydro Electric Commission and former mayor of Kitchener is to give an address on Hydro matters. Among those who will attend will be the members of the city council.

CAUSED A SENSATION
A badly wrecked car standing on Water street Thursday had a crowd around it all day and many and varied were the explanations given of the accident in which had been involved, the place where the crash occurred, and the number of persons killed. As a matter of fact no one was killed, the accident took place last summer near Toronto when an American visitor tried out the speed of a new car and it rolled over with him, and the explanation of the wrecked machine being here was that it was brought as a speculation by a local man who had it brought down this week from Toronto.

HELD FOR VAGRANCY
When David Black, 17, of North Bay was arrainged before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning on a charge of vagrancy, Chief Newhall stated that the youth had been here some time ago and had said at that time his father operated a farm and tourist resort at North Bay but that when the police had written to the address he had given, the letter was returned. Under the circumstances Chief Newhall said that he would like a remand so that the police might do some investigating. Black had pleaded guilty to the vagrancy charge and was remanded until next Friday for sentence.

Politics Come Before Aims Of Association

Charging that politics are more prominent than the aims of Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, S. O. Shields, secretary and Clinton Heath, chairman of the membership committee last year tendered their resignations at an executive meeting held Thursday night in the Empress Hotel, but the members refused to accept the resignations.

The meeting was featured throughout by a barrage of criticism directed at the local member, the Examiner and the Department of Game and Fisheries for lack of co-operation and a hostile attitude which was claimed by Mr. Marshall, the president to have existed ever since he assumed the reins as pilot of the local organization.

Disgusted With Progress Made

Mr. Shields in a review of the year's work said he was disgusted with the lack of progress and further explained that an attempt to launch an educational campaign among the school children in the city had failed miserably. He said the Board of Education did not concur with the association's suggestion that an essay contest would be a worthwhile venture, but the principal of St. Peter's School fell in with the idea. He criticised the manner in which the annual meeting was reported in the Examiner and voiced the opinion that A. L. Elliott, M.P.P. had drawn the attention of the Department of Game and Fisheries to the article with the result that Mr. Nixon sent a letter at once for publication in the Examiner.

"We are out of step and I think we should get out and let someone in who is in step with the party in power. We have not the support of our member in improving the fishing locally," he claimed.

Exception Is Taken

E. A. Outram, took exception to this last remark and pointed to the fact that a hatchery was nearing completion down east and the sanctuaries and breeding grounds which the department had seen fit to set aside in the Kawarthas were a success and beneficial results would soon be noticeable. He said further that this district had received a generous quantity of fry and fingerling during the year, and much more might be had in 1939. "It is not correct nor fair to say nothing has been accomplished."

At this point in the meeting Fred Marshall, explained that a close friend had told him the local association would get more consideration from the Department of Game and Fisheries if he were not at the helm, because there was evidently some animosity existing between Marshall and officials of the department. "I would like to have the opinion of the executive on whether I should step out of office or not.

Vote Of Confidence Passed

James Geraghty moved a vote of confidence in the president which was seconded by Wallace Harvey and carried unanimously. Despite this expression of confidence at least three of the seven members said they had heard Mr. Marshall's alleged differences with the Department were interferring with the progress of the association in getting the utmost consideration from the Department of Game and Fisheries.

"The trouble started last year when I opposed Alex Elliott in the earlier opening of the lunge season. I still feel I was right in my stand. On the other hand I have always been courteous to Mr. Elliott, and I feel any association should oppose any department measure if it is not in the best interests of fish and game," he said.

Unite Two Organizations

It was suggested that the work of conserving the fish and game resources of the province might be expedited and more accomplished if the Ontario Federation of Anglers and the Ontario Hunter's Association were to amalgamate as one organization for the entire province. This suggestion was put as a recommendation and will be sent to both bodies when the annual membership fee in each is forwarded.

The following chairmen were named for the year, Chris Graham, chairman entertainment; Charley Kingan, restocking; membership, J. Geraghty; publicity, A. R. Kennedy; resolutions, Fred Marshall.

Slight changes will be made in the constitution and plans are being made for a general meeting to be held in the near future.

The secretary's report revealed that a new high in membership had been reached in 1938, mostly through the work of Clinton Heath chairman of the membership committee. Two hundred and sixty were signed up, and of these the chairman alone sold 160 tickets.

Mrs. F. W. Adlam Fatally Hurt

Mrs. F. W. Adlam, 516 Sherbrooke street, was killed in a motor accident at Miami, Florida on Tuesday of this week and the remains will arrive in this city at midnight Friday. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Mrs. Adlam was 57 years of age and had left Peterborough early in November to spend the winter in Florida with her husband. Details of the accident are meagre, but it is known she was motoring near Miami city with her husband when the car became involved in an accident and she received extensive and severe head injuries. She died in a hospital at Boca Raton near Miami three hours later. Whether or not Mr. Adlam received any injuries is not known yet.

Roy Bottom Is Re-elected As President Of Kawartha Tourist Association

(By Staff Reporter).

BOBCAYGEON, Jan. 13. — The Kawartha and Haliburton Tourist Association launched into its third year of activity yesterday when the board of directors held their annual meeting in Bobcaygeon and re-elected all last year's executive.

Only change in the organization was the addition of Reeve C. H. Pardy of Bobcaygeon to the executive. Roy Bottom of Bobcaygeon was returned for a second year as president and other officers who continued to head the organization included G. K. Fraser, of Burleigh Falls, honorary president; F. E. Kerr, of Peterborough, first vice-president; Ronald Curry, of Haliburton, second vice-president; J. J. Dorris, of Peterborough, secretary-treasurer. The executive included G. K. Fraser, Bureligh Falls, W. Fowlds, Hastings; T. H. Stinson, Lindsay; A. Robson, Fenelon Falls; Dr. W. L. Crowe, Minden; A. L. Elliott, M.P.P., Peterborough; Bert McLean, Lindsay; F. L. Erskine, Lakefield; C. H. Pardy, Bobcaygeon.

The meeting was brief and dission for the most part revolved around opposition by a Lindsay organization, sponsors of a commercial enterprise that advertises the Kawartha district.

Members present deplored the lack of interest shown in efforts to attract tourists to this area. Not one of the men at the meeting profited to any degree from presence of tourists, yet they were the only ones in the district, apparently, who were taking steps to ensure their presence, it was pointed out. Men whose very livelihoods depended on the presence of tourists, were apparently too lax to attend, it was noted.

Bus Drivers Ready To Meet Smoke Eaters But There's Some Dispute Over Sticks

Bus drivers stoutly denied today that they were sidestepping a game of hockey with the firemen, but claimed they were hesitating to accept the challenge because a year ago when the two teams met, Captain Jones of the Smoke Eaters was wearing spring skates, one of which flew off during the struggle and stabbed one of the opposing players.

An alibi that some of the bus drivers had no skates was blocked by Fireman Joe Astles who offered to equip any member wishing to take part in the game with a suitable outfit.

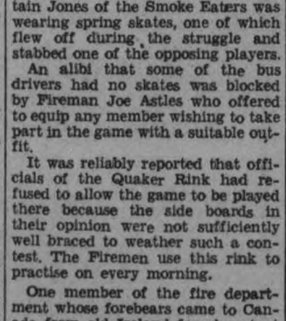
It was reliably reported that officials of the Quaker Rink had refused to allow the game to be played there because the side boards in their opinion were not sufficiently well braced to weather such a contest. The Firemen use this rink to practise on every morning.

One member of the fire department whose forebears came to Canada from old Ireland found a stout shillaleh in the attic and took this with an ordinary hockey stick to Chief Dan Whetung of the Curve Lake Indians. It is reported that he ordered the Chief to have expert jacknife men of the tribe put to work to carve out sticks suitable for the fray. The ordinary hockey stick would be far too frail to serve the purpose for which it is used in these annual epic struggles. The Indians promised to turn out twelve weapons —beg pardon, hockey sticks—that would be half hockey stick, half shillaleh and these will be handed to the fire-fighters when the game starts.

The Bus Drivers have protested vigorously against having one member of the fire department on the team, as this man cannot skate. During a game he crawls along the ice, trips the opposing players and the referee and when the puck comes near him puts it in his pocket. At present he is under suspension from the hockey wars, pending the decision of George Gimblett, Jr., Red Wilson and Tuffy Carr.

Public Speaking Class Being Organized With C. W. Wright Of Toronto As Leader

A public speaking class that is almost assured of spectacular success before it commences, is being planned for Peterborough in the near future.



C. W. WRIGHT

A few weeks ago C. W. Wright, gifted young speaker, addressed the Friday Night Supper club on the subject, "A Talk on Talking." So complete was his capture of the audience that steps were taken soon after to have him for a public speaking class in Peterborough. Announcement of the establishment of such a course by Mr. Wright has just been announced: It will be held at the Y.M.C.A. on Friday evenings from 8 to 10.30 o'clock, commencing on January 27.

Mr. Wright is noted both as a public speaker and a teacher of speaking. He has studied in London, England, in Chicago, and during the past summer he spent a month with Dale Carnegie, taking his advanced course in the "Art of Effective Speaking." For the past four years, Mr. Wright has conducted public speaking classes for the Toronto Sales and Advertising club and is also giving instruction to two other puplic speaking groups in Toronto this year.

The course offered in Peterborough wil consist of twelve lessons. These will include studies and instruction in "Overcoming Fear," "Gaining Confidence," "Preparation, "Delivery," "Speech Preparation," "Introductions," "Impromptu Speaking," "Acting as Chairman," and a number of practical things such as "Toasts." The course starts at the basic fundamentals and works through to the delivery of prepared and complete speeches.

Harry L. Beal Receives Prized Award

The first Horticultural Service Diploma awarded to any person in this district was presented to Harry L. Beal at the 45th annual meeting of the Peterborough Horticultural Society Thursday night. The presentation was made by John A. Smith, following a short address of congratulation by Dr. A. J. Madill. A bouquet of roses was sent to Mrs. Beal at her home as a further expression of the Society's appreciation of the joint interest of Mr. and Mrs. Beal in the beautification of Peterborough.

Mr. Madill said Mr Beal had been an active member of the Horticultural Association for more than forty years He was secretary for nine years in succession, and was president in 1913 and 1914 The contribution of men like Mr Beal had been of great value in expanding interest in making the city a more beautiful place for its residents.

Mr. Beal recalled that when he first joined the Society in 1898 there was no parks committee of the council, and the Horticultural Society assumed the leadership in such matters. "It was up to us to look after the city plots and corners, and we did what we could."

Mr. Beal said he had always taken an interest in flowers and lawns and gardens because they contributed happiness to life.

Re-elected President

John A. Smith was re-elected president of the Society last night beginning his third year in that position. The other officers for 1939 are: 1st Vice-president, Ernest Watson; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. S. T. Harris; secretary-treasurer, Wm. C. Wilks; directors for two years, Harry Ball, Charlton McBride, Joseph stenton, Edgar Simmons and Fred Storey.

John Matthews of Lakefield and Edward Benson were appointed associate directors, and Mrs. Chris. Plunkett of Keene was also named a director for one year.

The auditors are H. L. Beal and Fred Holmes, and the delegates to the Ontario Horticultural Association's convention in Toronto are J. A. Smith and S. T. Harris. The honorary officers are Dr. Madill, H. H. Graham and Mr. Harris.

Praised Manufacturers

Reviewing the Society's affairs last year, Mr. Smith referred to the planting of trees. the series of window competitions, the garden show at his own home, and the success of the annual flower show. He congratulated Alderman Stocker's parks committee on the fine appearance of the city's park and the improvements at Crescent street and the hilltop Memorial Park in Ashburnham.

On behalf of the Society, Mr. Smith expressed appreciation of the steady improvement in the grounds of Peterborough factories. Changes made in the last year or two, especially in lawns and shrubs and flower plots of factories in the south end was a substantial gain. Relations with Millbrook and Bailleboro societies had been extended during the year. Mr. Smith suggested that the beauty the Utilities Commission had created at the filtration plant should be duplicated in the centre of the city, in Confederation Square for instance, where everybody could enjoy it.

Committee Reports

Fred Dainton reported that 584 packages of seeds were distributed among 266 school children last year. S. T. Harris showed that the Society had spent on horticulture $1.15 per member. George Benton, James Forbes, H. H. Graham, Mr. Watson and others also commented on the work of last year.

Mrs. Fred Storey won the door prize, a silver flower container.

In his tribute to Mr. Beal, Mr. Smith said the highly prized diploma had been well earned. Mr. Beal had been loyal to the cause of horticulture for almost a life time, and well deserved the recognition of the Society and the Ontario Horticultural Association. Mr. Smith incidentally mentioned the example other citizens had set in years gone, and especially named Wm. J. Kennedy of Aylmer street south who had always found time from his work to devote to the beautification of his lawn and garden.

Mr. Smith concluded the meeting with an appeal for the same quality of support he had received last year.

Car Demolishes Railway Signal

A railway crossing sign was almost completely demolished and a motor car badly damaged as the result of a traffic accident near the corner of Park and Albert streets this morning.

R. Bunting, whose home is at 59 Russell street, St. Catharines, but who is temporarily staying at 576 Aylmer street, was driving south on Park street. Garnet Cox, coming east on Albert street, had stopped at the stop sign and moved out into Park street, planning to turn north and Bunting, to avoid hitting the Cox car, pulled his own machine to the left. He was unable to stop owing to the icy road surface and his car ran up on the sidewalk and then crashed into a C.P.R. crossing sign, wrecking the sign while the bumper of the automobile was driven back into the radiator.

Bunting was uninjured.

On Second Century

Quite happy with her lot Countess Virginia Delaune reads up on the news at her Newark, N.J. home and prepares to celebrate her 101st birthday today. She doesn't think the number 13 is unlucky for her. She is the 13th child of the late Count Delaune who preceded her as soloist at Notre Dame cathedral in Paris. She lives alone, does her own shopping, and teaches a class of children in French. Her secret—"I eat sparingly, and mostly I eat my food raw, especially eggs and fruit."

Kinsmen Aided Sixty Children

Sixty children were equipped with eyeglasses in 1938 by the Sunshine Committee of the Kinsmen Club and a total of 87 cases were given proper attention and treatment under the auspices of this organization, according to the annual report of the club's activities as submitted by Bob Leeming, chairman of the committee at the first meeting of the year held in the Empress Hotel on Thursday night.

The committee also branched into a new field and purchased two glass eyes for persons requiring them but not having the necessary funds. Several operations were performed and the medical men refused to accept any money from the club except one who took a greatly reduced fee. The hospital bill in this latter case was $24.50, and this also was paid. Twenty-two repair bills on eyeglasses were met out of club funds, and it was reported the club at all times had sufficient funds to meet their requirements.

Dave Hubbard read the financial statement, which showed a slight balance, but he pointed out the club had gone into the red on most of their entertainments. He remarked on the increased membership.

Harold Constable, secretary of the club, said January 26 had been the date set for the dance at the Kawartha Club.

Alex. Sollitt took over the chair after the banquet and the receiving of the business reports and installed the officers for the coming year, in a most able manner, Don Scott, the president, being the first.

Committees chairmen were named for the district convention of Kinsmen Clubs to be held in Peterborough in the first week of June, and the job of planning a program will start immediately.

Mrs. Fred Storey won the door prize, a silver flower container.

Morley Smith, a new member with the club last year, gave an interesting talk on New Zealand, describing the appearance and customs of the Maori, original natives of the island. He spoke at length on the climatic conditions and resources.

Lindsay Battle Proves Bloody Affair

LINDSAY, Jan. 13.—The local police stated last night that there were no new developments in connection with the robbery of furs at the J. Houzer store on Tuesday night. The authorities are searching for one Russell Clark, who has left the limits, and who, the police allege, could throw some light on the mystery. Frank Keenan, who was arrested yesterday, charged with the theft of the furs, was remanded for one week, and bail was fixed at $2,000. County Crown Attorney Anderson stated: "This man is a link in a chain of events, and we would like some time to go into the matter further. Michael Skidders, a treaty Indian from the St. Regis Reserve, who was involved in the bloody brawl at the Hudson home, was charged with vagrancy and remanded for a week.

The police informed the Examiner Thursday that Hudson, who suffered such a beating that he could not be moved from his bed, is under the doctor's care. The officers found an empty gallon jar which contained wine, and which had been consumed on the night of the fight, in the Hudson home. They also found a bottle containing, what Chief Lawlor believes, is moonshine.

After piecing all the facts and conclusions together in connection with the fight and disappearance of the furs, the police are satisfied that the latter disappeared while the fight was in progress at the Hudson home. The furs were in a bag, and it would be an easy matter, they claim, for any member of the party to slip quietly out with the furs while the Donnybrook was going on.

To-day the police completed the personnel of the party that figured in the encounter as participants and spectators, and they all have to tell their story. The party consisted of Stafford Teatro, R. Clark, J. Nicholls, A. Smoke, M. Imrie and another man unknown to the police, visited the Hudson home. It is further alleged by the police that Keenan, Skidders and Clark played a part in the fur robbery. The fight in the Hudson home, the police state, was much more serious than at first reported. While Hudson and the Indian were badly beaten up, Clarke, it appears, received more punishment than the Redman. His injuries were of such a nature that he had to be taken to a doctor following the fracas. James Nicholls also suffered severely during the fight, as did Stafford Teatro. The police are inclined to the belief that the Indian was not the aggressor, and that he put up a stiff fight when attacked by some members of the party.

Lakefield Recalls Constable To Job Refusing His Resignation But Opening Office To Tender

(Examiner Correspondence.)

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 13.—Wallace G. Hendren, Lakefield's chief constable, has resumed his manifold duties following the special meeting of the council held here yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Hendren, who has held the combined offices of chief constable, weed inspector, sanitary inspector, pound-keeper, assessor, collector of taxes, and caretaker of the Memorial Hall, has been an employee of the village for about three years. On Monday last, a by-law, confirming his re-appointment for the coming year, was blocked by Reeve Gordon Scriver and Councillor Charlton's motion. This left Constable Hendren in some doubt as to his position, which doubt he attempted to clear up by handing in his resignation.

The resignation was not accepted. And, to further complicate matters a motion to call for tenders for the position, tenders to close February 13, was passed.

When Hendren failed to report for duty Tuesday morning, the council called a special meeting to try and iron out the difficulty.

As a result of the meeting, held in the Memorial Hall here at 3.00 p.m. Thursday, Constable Hendren is back on the job to-day.

Reeve Gordon Scriver and Councillors D. B. Millar, Earl Edwards and George Charlton were present at the special session held Thursday afternoon.

or tenders were practicable in the Bren gun case although he indicates there are cases where they are not. That is a question of administration, the report said.

Where, however, a narticle is required on which bids are not possible and private manufacture is to be used the heaviest responsibility falls on those responsibile for the selection of the manufacturer.

"The question is: Were proper and efficient steps taken in this case to discharge that responsibility?" he wrote. "Upon the whole evidence that is a question for the government and parliament to pass upon."

"No substantial objection can be taken in my view to the provisions of the Canadian contract, though in the absence of any competitive bids or terms of manufacture I am unable to pass upon the substance as distinct from the form of the contract.

"It is important, of course, that the contract be a good and businesslike contract; but what is more important after all is whether the procedure adopted in making the contract was that best calculated to protect the public interest and to secure the confidence of the people of Canada that there would be no improper profiteering in the private manufacture of war armaments for the defence of the country.

"That is a question upon which the government and parliament, in the light of the evidence brought before the commission, must pass."

Saving In Any Event.

Much emphasis had been placed on an estimated saving of $1,300,000 to Canada by reason of the participation of the war office in the order. This saving would have accrued had any other Canadian manufacturer been selected.

The judge said he had not heard evidence as to the practicability of calling for tenders although government counsel had been prepared to produce it. He thought it would lead to endless controversy and was really a matter of administrative policy.

"What is obvious, of course is this: That if the government has an article to be manufactured for which by its very nature it is not practicable to call for tenders and the policy of private manufacture is to be adopted, then at once the heaviest sort of responsibility falls upon those charged with the duty of selecting the individual, firm or corporation to manufacture the article.

The Government's Problem

"The question is: Were proper and sufficient steps taken in this case to discharge that responsibility? Upon the whole evidence, that is a question for the government and parliament to pass upon.

"Mr. Hugh Plaxton retired from the law firm of Plaxton and Company on Oct. 12, 1935, but continued to occupy a separate room in the firm's suite of offices under an arrangement with the continuing partners regarding office space and clerical staff. He testified that since his retirement he had derived no financial benefit from the said law firm and that he had no interest, direct or indirect, in the accounts of Plaxton and Company with either the group of the John Inglis Company.

Justice Davis' Report

Justice Davis opened his report by reciting the order-in-council authorizing the commission which instructed him to "report as speedily as possible to our governor in council the result of his investigation together with the evidence before him and any opinion he may see fit to express thereon."

The report continues:

"Your commissioner has had the assistance of Hon. J. L. Ralston, L. A. Forsyth and Jacques Dumoulin, appointed by the government of Canada as government counsel and to assist the commission; Aime Geoffrion and J. C. McRuer, who appeared with Colonel Drew, representing both Colonel Drew and the Maclean Publishing Company Limited which published the article which gave rise to this inquiry; and H. F. Parkinson, who appeared for the legal firm of Plaxton and Company and for Cameron, Pointon and Merritt."

The report notes that the hearings, which opened last Sept. 19, occupied 36 days, the evidence filling 4,122 pages of stenographic notes beside 388 documentary exhibits. No subpoenas were necessary to bring witnesses and the commissioner was satisfied all revelant documents available were submitted.

The Gun Suitable

Of the Bren gun itself, invented and patented in Czecho-Slovakia and adopted by the British government, the report said all parties before the commission were on common ground as to its suitability and the urgency of its purchase or production for defence in Canada.

The report referred to evidence disclosing the terms under which the United Kingdom obtained right to make the gun and extended that right to the Dominions with the proviso such manufacture "shall be in a factory operated by the government in question."

Canada's requirements in Bren guns was fixed at 7,000 as early as June, 1936, the report continued. They were being made in only two factories, one in Czecho-Slovakia and the other in Enfield, England.

Lieut. M. P. Jolley of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps, sent to England for small arms training and had no experience with preparations being made in Enfield to manufacture the gun, returned to Ottawa late in August 1936 and demonstrated two guns here for that purpose.

Plenty Of Information

The report continues:

"The Department of National Defence therefore had, on the return of Lieut. Jolley from England in August, 1936, very considerable knowledge and information available to it for the consideration of the problem of the production in Canada of its actual requirements of Bren guns.

"No contract for the purchase or production of the Canadian defence requirements of the Bren machine gun was made however until March 31, 1938, when a contract was made between the Canadian government and John Inglis Company Limited of Toronto, a company incorporated and organized by Major J. E. Hahn and associates. This company was incorporated under the Ontario Companies Act, Nov. 23, 1936, with the name British Canadian engineering Limited, which name was changed on June 4, 1937, to John Inglis Company Limited.

"This contract with a private manufacturer provides for a total production for Canada of 7,000 guns on a cost plus basis and is the contract to which the inquiry under the commission is directed. The contract contemplates that deliveries for Canada will be made within the time limits specified in scheduled thereto i.e., 583 guns during the year April 1, 1940 to March 31, 1941; three times that number during the subsequent year; six times that number the next subsequent year, and twice that number during the period April 1, 1943 to July 31, 1943.

Only One Producer Consulted

"Notwithstanding that the contract involves the expenditure of several millions of dollars by the Canadian government, no industrial producer (other than Major Hahn) was consulted by the Department of National Defence as to the proposed manufacture of Bren guns for the Canadian government or invited to give competitive bids or terms of manufacture.

Nor did anyone, so far as the evidence shows, ever visit any industrial plant (except Inglis) to consider the possibility of production of Bren guns in Canada. Mr. Hellmuth put certain questions to the minister in this conection to which, with the answers, I now refer:

"Q. You did not give anybody else a chance?—A. Nobody asked for it.

"Q. Mr. Minister, what I want to get you to answer is this: You never did attempt in any method or any way to see what any one of these dozen or more well known companies, with skilled labor, skilled mechanics, who had been working in precision steel—well, let us take the automobile industry which makes the very closest parts and closest tolerances—no effort was made of any kind to see what they could do?—A The answer is 'no.' I do not think it was practicable."

The report then quoted extracts from memoranda made by the former chief of general staff, Major General E. C. Ashton, urging upon the defence department the need for establishing government arsenals in Canada, particularly for the manufacture of Bren guns.

An extract was quoted from a report by November 1936 conference of defence associations, a body composed of senior officers appointed by different service associations who meet each year, urging mobilization of Canadian industry and creation of a munitions board to meet defence needs.

Not A Debating Society

The report continues:

"During the course of the hearing government counsel submitted that this sort of evidence was not revelant to the inquiry in that, in his view, the inquiry 'was not a debating society between officers of the department as to whose views should be accepted; that the minister made the decision on the recommendation of the deputy minister; that the government had decided it; and it semed to him 'that was all that had to be considered.'

"Whether these Bren guns should be produced by the government in a publicly owned and operated factory or should be obtained through private manufacture is undoubtedly a matter of administrative policy for the government and parliament and is a question which is not open to me under the commission. But if one is to inquire into the preliminary discussions and negotiations leading up to and the completion of the contract in question, it is relevant as part of the narrative to know what were the views of the chief of the general staff and of recognized voluntary associations of officers of the land forces in Canada which were made known to the department.

"Under examination by Mr. Hellmuth, the minister of national defence said that he had stated in the House of Commons last year (1937) that he believed in public ownership, personally, through and through in regard to armaments; 'and I still say so.'

Two Different Ideas.

"The minister said that there were two very definite schools of thought in the department and that he assumed all responsibility. One school, he said, was headed by the then chief of general staff and the other by the deputy minister, for both of whom he said he had equally great admiration.

"The minister said that General Ashton (the then chief of the general staff) was very insistent upon the development of government arsenals and that the former chief of general staff, General McNaughton, evolved a very comprehensive scheme for Valcartier which would include practically all the requirements of the Canadian forces. The minister said:

'That was considered after I went into the department and I found that the cost of it would be something between $30,000,000 and $35,000,000. With my meagre $25,000,000 or $30,000,000, what could I do with a scheme like that?'

"During his testimony the minister said: 'I may say very definitely that the plan of government ownership as such has never been definitely abandoned; it has just been postponed because of the financial stringency which was particularly embarrassing to the minister of national defence.'

Needed Only 60,000 Feet.

"But the testimony given before the commission established that only 60,000 square feet of space was necessary for the purpose of production of the 7,000 Bren guns for Canada as well as 5,000 guns for the war office and that an entire new building would cost approximately $120,000. In proposal "B" of Major Hahn of Dec. 29, 1936, the building was shown at an estimated cost of $104,196.

"Where, as a matter of government policy, there was not to be public ownership in the manufacture of armaments and munitions, there was to be competition with reasonable remuneration in so far at least as it was practicable."

The report describes Major Hahn, 45, of Toronto, as having a "distinguished war record of which he might well be proud," and a lawyer, admitted to the bar in Toronto, who had taken up business as a career.

Justice Davis refered to Major Hahn's association with various companies but observed he appeared not to have been engaged in any manufacturing business in June, 1936, when he started negotiations with Herbert Plaxton, Toronto lawyer, for acquisition of the Inglis plant, then in receivership.

The Brother Angle.

In July or August, 1936, Hahn decided to take over the plant in association with Cameron, Pointon and Merritt, Toronto brokers and Herbert Plaxton. There was a possibility of the latter's brother, Gordon, becoming interested.

Evidence was quoted describing the association on Oct. 9, 1936, when Hugh Plaxton, also a brother of Herbert and Liberal member of the House of Commons for Toronto-Trinity, introduced Major Hahn to Deputy Minister General LaFleche in Ottawa. Hugh was a former law partner of Herbert's.

According to the evidence the visit was to provide opportunity for Major Hahn to sound out possibilities for orders for the new plant. A Bren gun was mounted in the Deputy Minister's office and was noticed by Major Hahn, the evidence showed.

The report quoted Hugh Plaxton's evidence in which he said he had not told General LaFleche his brother Herbert was associated with Major Hahn or had he told any member of the government who Hahn's associates were.

Further quotations from the evidence described the conversations leading up to the sending of a Bren gun to Toronto for Major Hahn's examination "with the idea he might be able to manufacture it.

Didn't Know Associates.

General LaFleche's evidence was quoted to show the deputy minister did not know what parties were associated with Major Hahn. On Oct. 19 Hugh Plaxton introduced Major Hahn and J. D. Cameron of Cameron, Pointon and Merritt to the defence minister in Ottawa who gave Major Hahn a letter of introduction to Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner in London.

Describing circumstances under which Major Hahn, according to evidence quoted, went to England late in October, 1936, with a letter from the minister asking Mr. Massey's co-operation in facilitating Hahn's search for "complete manufacturing data" on arms and munitions, the report quotes General LaFleche as still ignorant of the name's of Hahn's associates.

When some difficulty was encountered by Major Hahn in London the matter of getting information from the war office, a secret cable was sent the high commissioner by the secretary of state for external affairs, asking him to request the war office to look upon Hahn as "representing the Canadian government in this particular," and to give him what information he needed to reach a conclusion on the possibility of manufacturing the Bren gun in Canada.

The commissioner reviewed developments following Major Hahn's return from England on Dec. 5, 1936, including the submission of proposals to the department. In June, 1937, when the minister, deputy minister and Hahn were in England the deputy minister "set in motion steps with the war office to obtain permission from the patentee in Czecho-Slovakia that would enable the Canadian government, if it should so desire, to place a contract with a private manufacturer. This permission was obtained on June 19, 1937."

The report quoted defence minister Mackenzie's evidence to the effect he did not know who Major Hahn's associates were and said General LaFleche swore he did not know who were the "reliable group" which controlled certain manufacturing plants.

After the Inglis Plant

"The evidence is abundantly plain that prior to Oct. 9, 1936, (the day Major Hahn first met the deputy minister) Cameron, Pointon and Merritt, and Herbert Plaxton and Major Hahn had become jointly interested in a venture to buy what was known as the John Inglis plant in Toronto, which had been closed down since April of that year and was in the hands of a receiver and manager, the Premier Trust Company of Toronto, for the bond holders of the company, and that on Sept. 21, 1936, one Nurse, an employee in the office of Cameron, Pointon and Merritt, had made a written offer to the Toronto General Trusts Corporation (the trustee under the bond mortgage) for submission to a meeting of bondholders, to purchase the mortgaged premises which covered all the assets and undertaking of the company, including the good-will for the consideration and the terms and conditions therein mentioned.

Offer Accepted Oct., 1936

"Nurse was admittedly acting, not in his own interest, but as a nominee of Major Hahn, Herbert Plaxton and Cameron, Pointon and Merritt. The offer was accepted on Oct. 19, 1936. Gordon Plaxton about that time had become another member of the group.

"In due course the nurse agreement was transferred to a new company which the group caused to be incorporated on Nov. 23, 1936, with the name of British Canadian Engineering Limited; the company which, under the corporate name of John Inglis Company Limited which it had subsequently acquired on June 4, 1937, entered into the contract on March 31, 1938, with the Canadian Government, in question in this inquiry.

"Although the Nurse agreement had been accepted in October, 1936, and although Major Hahn said that his main interest in the acquisition of these assets, and of the trade mark and name, was the commercial busines. That is what I was vitally interested in, the new company did not start operating its plant until April 1, 1938.

At the conclusion of the hearing, the commissioner said, counsel, except Col. Drew, raised objections to his commenting on the evidence, expressing opinions thereon or making recommendations. After reviewing these objections, he said:

"The present commission was expressly created under the statutory authority of the Inquiries Act, R.S.C. 1927, Chap. 99, which reads in part as follows: 'The governor in council may, whenever he deems it expedient, cause inquiry to be made into and concerning any matter connected with the good government of Canada or the conduct of any part of the public business thereof.'

No Charges Of Misconduct.

"That a report upon the inquiry is contemplated by the statute is not open to doubt. But that a finding of misconduct cannot be made against any person, until reasonable notice shall have been given to him of the charge of misconduct alleged against him and he shall have been allowed full opportunity to be heard in person or by counsel is expressly enacted by Section 13 of the statute. No charges of misconduct, however, were formulated against any particular person.

"Having fully weighed the objection advanced on this ground, as well as the weighty consideration brought to my attention by counsel that the rights of the individuals interested in the contract might become the subject of legal controversy elsewhere, I have come to the conclusion that it is inexpedient to comment upon the evidence in respect of its bearing on the conduct of the individuals concerned.

"The facts are all in evidence; and as said by government counsel in opening their argument. 'So far as the facts are concerned, there are very few which are even in dispute.' I cannot myself recall at the moment any fact to which direct proof was adduced that is in dispute. It will be for those charged with the responsibility of dealing with the facts, i.e., the government and parliament, to examine and study them and to take such action, if any, there-on as they may see fit."

Turning to the contract itself the commissioner said the several written propos ls submitted by Hahn were examined by Lieut. olley who worked on them down to December, 1937.

Jolley Worked Alone.

"It was essentially a matter for practical business judgment and experience," he continued. Lieut. Joley was 23 years old when he graduated at McGill in 1933.

"I told him during his evidence that I pictured him sitting in his own room, very carefully and meticulously examining these different proposals, and asked him if that was a true picture or was he discussing these matters at all times with some group of men. To this he answered: 'I worked independently in making any comments on these proposals. They were my own, prepared entirely independently of any discussions with other personnel.'

"Lieut. Jolley impressed me as an earnest and scholarly young man skilled in his own technical branch. But he was obviously without the business experience and judgment necessary for dealing with a proposed business contract of an intricate nature involving the expenditure of millions of dollars."

Following Lieut. Jolley's studies and also work by Col. D. E. Dewar of the ordnance branch the contract was drafted by Col. R. J. Orde, judge advocate general, and submitted to the inter-departmental committee.

This committee, the judge said, "was a creature of the government. The prime minister, as early at least as the end of 1936, had taken steps personally to inquire into the existing procedure for letting armament contracts and for the prevention or control of undue profits in connection with peacetime contracts under any defence program which might be authorized.

"He had his own department make certain investigations and then, on Jan. 8, 1937, on his own initiative, he set up a special committee under the chairmanship of Dr. O. D. Skelton to investigate the problem.

"The members of this committee (not to be confused with what is called the interdepartmental committee which was set up subsequently and in consequence of this committee's report) were, Dr. Skelton, Loring Christie and N. A. Robertson, of the department of external affairs; the deputy minister, Col. Orde and C. Burns of the department of national defence; Fraser Elliott of the department of national revenue (income tax division); Dr. W. C. Clark, deputy minister of finance, and A. K. Eaton of the department of finance.

— "The report of this committee, dated Jan. 21, 1937 was submitted to the prime minister. The report said that 'the problem appears to be essentialy an administrative one.'

"In consequence of the report of this committee, what is known as the interdepartmental committee was created by the government by order in council on March 5, 1937, for the purpose of controlling profits on government armament contracts.

"It was to consist of one representative from the departments of trade and commerce, labor, national revenue (income tax), finance, and the deputy minister of national defence and one official or officer of the department of national defence. The deputy minister of national defence was to be chairman of the said committee."

Quoted Evidence At Length

The judge quoted at length from Mr. Elliott's evidence on the discussion of the contract in the interdepartmental committee, particularly relating to the suggestion that competitive bids be obtained ,and after acceptance of the position taken by the defence department that bids could not be obtained, relating to the selection of the contractor.

Commenting on this evidence the report said: 'The system broke down when the committee failed to report back to the body that had created it. Their failure to report was not a matter of misconduct; it was a failure to recognize the importance of their committee as part of the administrative system of government.

"There is not a suggestion that the members of the government ever heard of these difficulties which confronted the committee or of the attitude that was taken by members of it to the proposed contract.

"The minister of national defence did say that he was informed in a general way, not in great detail, of the progress of the discussions in the committee by the deputy minister but he never saw the minutes of the meetings of the committee until this inquiry commenced. The reports he had from his deputy minister respecting the interdepartmental committee's activities are of March 21, 1938, after the committee had ceased to function on this contract."

The fourth and last meeting of the committee on the contract started at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, March 17, 1938, and lasted until 3 o'clock next morning, because the defence department wanted to submit the contract to cabinet on March 18.

APPROVE BRIDGE PLANS.

Details have not yet been decided upon, and will have to be submitted to the company's engineering department when they are drafted.

Relatives Are Dissatisfied With Inquiry

The Examiner understands that the relatives of the late James Victor Monaghan are dissatisfied with the investigation made into his death. A coroner's jury under Dr. Herbert Young returned a verdict Thursday night that the young man came to his death from poison self-administered and it was disclosed during the evidence that the contents of his stomach had not been analyzed. This is the feature of the affair that concerns his relatives and they feel that the whole matter will not be satisfactorily cleared up until that step has been taken. It is not disclosed just what further action they contemplate.

The authorities, it is understood, decided that the expense of analysis and of bringing Dr. Frankish, medical adviser to the Attorney General's department down here to testify would not be warranted under the circumstances in view of their opinion, from the clinical evidence in the case, that death was due to some violent poison and the fact that Monaghan had purchased strychnine shortly before and had written notes announcing his intention of committing suicide.

A Noble Order of the Garter decoration was auctioned in London.

3 Million Relief To Be Spent On North Roads

TORONTO, Jan. 13 (CP).—Three million dollars is being spent this winter on Northern Ontario roads, chiefly on the trans-Canada highway from North Bay to Sault Ste. Marie and roads running north from it, Ontario Highways Department officials said here to-day.

Most of the projects are underway. All must be completed by March 31 under the terms of two agreements with the Federal Government covering winter relief work up to that date.

Under a Provincial - Dominion agreement within the terms of the Unemployment Relief Act, $2,000,000 road work is being done. The province bears half the cost and the Federal treasury half.

Under a second agreement covering mining area and tourist roads, $900,000 is being spent on the same terms. The province, without Federal subsidy, is putting $100,000 into the pot, chiefly for bridges and culverts.

Clearing and grading, involving the elimination of hills and curves, constitute the chief works under the agreements with the Federal Government. An advantage of doing this work in the winter is that cleared brush can be burned without danger of causing forest fires. No permanent surfaces will be laid in the winter months.

Windsor's Sister Is Threatened

TORONTO, Jan. 13 (CP)—Royal Canadian Mounted Police, hoping to gain a lead into the brutal slaying of James Windsor, 46, in his North Toronto home Saturday night, probed today into activities of narcotics and alcohol smugglers in Toronto, Hamilton, Windsor, Detroit and other cities.

Toronto police cling to a belief that Windsor, shot by one of four men who invaded his kitchen, was killed for refusal to pay for "protection" in his alleged bookmaking activities. A general theory is that Windsor, owner of a night spot on the northern outskirts of the city, was shot by an American mobster on the advice of Toronto associates.

Mrs. Eva McDermott, sister of Windsor and one of five eye-witnesses to the shooting, reported yesterday, shortly after attending the funeral of Windsor, that she had received a threatening letter warning her to "keep your mouth shut."

"You know what happened to JW," the letter read. "Lay off." Blotted in several places, the letter was signed "W.H."

Police Chief D. C. Draper of Toronto announced that "every protection" would be afforded persons who gave information on the case to police. A reward of $2,000 has been offered for information and arrests.

Rebels Isolate Vital Tarragona

HENDAYE, France, Jan. 13.—(AP).—General Franco's insurgent forces were reported to-day to have isolated Tarragona, important Catalonian seaport, by intense aerial and artillery bombardments.

The bombardments, in conjunction with the infantry drive a few miles from the coast, were said to have cut many government troops from their bases and to have paralyzed the Barcelona militiamen's retiring defence thrusts.

Taragona and Reus, nine miles to the west, were reported under heavy fire. The land barrage came from a dozen points along the 25-mile insurgent line running roughly parallel to the coast from Montblanch to Falset.

This line forms a slowly closing bottle-neck from 10 to 16 miles in width. Tarragona is almost in the centre of the bottle-neck which, if closed, would trap government forces in the Tortosa sector to the south.

Insurgent bulletins said casualties among Government troops retreating through this narrow corridor were "extremely high."

The cities of Tarragona and Reus, about 50 miles southwest of Barcelona, were hard hit by the aerial attacks.

Japs To Open Yangtse On Limited Basis

SHANGHAI, Jan. 13—(AP).—Reliable foreign sources said today Japan was working out a plan to open the Yangtse river to foreign shipping on a limited basis.

It was understood Tokyo had relaxed her firm attitude and had authorized vice admiral Koshiro Oikawa to enter negotiations to reopen the river as far as Wutu, 260 miles upstream from Shanghai.

One of the major obstacles, it was said, was the scarcity of Japanese river vessels, giving rise to fears the much more numerous British ships would capture the lucrative trade.

As a result, informed quarters reported, Japan was working out a plan under which the number of vessels the various nations would be permitted to use in the river would be limited to the number of Japanese ships available.

Evicted Sharecroppers Face Privation In Missouri

This unhappy and bedraggled group, huddled in an improvised camp along a main highway near Sikeston, Missouri, is part of the army of over 1,000 sharecroppers who have been evicted from the land they tilled or have joined a protest march against such evictions in southern Missouri. Most of the sharecroppers are Negroes, but a few white families are also included. They are virtually penniless, poorly clothed and with food supplies rapidly diminishing. They claim that landowners are forcing them from their small farms to supplant them with day laborers and to escape sharing government payments under crop control regulations with them. Washington has announced an investigation will be made and payments to any landowners found at fault will be halted. Meanwhile the sharecroppers are facing serious privation.

OBITUARY

ALBERT PRIOR.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 13.—Following three weeks, Albert Prior, 69, passed away at his home on Booth Street on Wednesday, January 11. A veteran of the World War, having enlisted with the 59th Battalion in September, 1915, he was later transferred to the Royal Canadian Rifles, to be discharged on April 30 as medically unfit for further service.

Born in London, England, he was later married to his now grieving wife at Westham, coming to Canada in 1912. An Anglican, he took an active interest in church work for many years and was also keenly interested in the B.E.S.L., Canadian Legion No. 103, of which he was also a member.

The funeral service was conducted this (Friday) afternoon when the deceased was accorded full military honors, with members of the local branch of the Legion in attendance and flags at the Cenotaph flying at half-staff. Surviving him besides his widow are one son Albert of Staten Island, N.Y., and one daughter, Mrs. Robert Hamill of town.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. T. S. Gault at Christ Church, following which interment was made at the Anglican Cemetery. Pall-bearers were members of the Legion, including Messrs. Walter Sutton, Jack Ray, Herbert Pryke, C. C. Massey, and Sidney Wilkes.

Canadian Bombers Shaping In Vancouver

VANCOUVER, Jan. 13.—(CP). — The first of 17 Blackburn Shark light bombing planes being constructed here for the Royal Canadian Air Force may be ready for test flights within four or five months, it was learned yesterday when clive officials headed by Mayor Lyle Telford toured the Goal Harbor plant of the Boeing Aircraft Company of Canada.

Company officials said that after completion of the first plane they hope to turn out machines at the rate of one every three weeks.

Equipped with pontoons, the bombers will carry two machine guns, facilities either for three 500-pound bombs or one 1,450 pound torpedo, and have a speed of 160 miles per hour.

New Flinton Truck Stolen, Burned Creates Mystery For Police

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Jan. 13.—Mystery surrounds the burning of a practically new truck, the property of Charles Champagne of Flinton, Provincial Police revealed today. The vehicle, which was reported stolen from Mr. Champagne's premises on Tuesday night, was found north of Cloyne, a twisted mass of charred wreckage, on Wednesday.

The truck, a 1938 model, had been parked on Mr. Champagne's property on Tuesday night, but was found to be missing Wednesday morning. Later in the day, the vehicle was recovered. Certain ignition wires were found to have been crossed, which doubtlessly may have resulted in a short circuit and the subsequent fire, which resulted in the complete destruction of the vehicle. Provincial Constable W. E. Smith has the matter under investigation.

First Offender Let Off.

Appearing before Magistrate Lloyd in local police court on Thursday afternoon, Harman Walker, Thomasburg, was charged with breaking into the gasoline station at Thomasburg, owned by Mr. Green, on November 11 last.

Woman's Case Held Over.

Mrs. Rhoda Johnston, of Tweed, was charged before Magistrate Lloyd with being in possession of beer contrary to the Liquor Control Act. The accused pleaded guilty, and the case was held over until April for sentence.

DEATH AT THE MANOR

By M. E. CORNE

CHAPTER ONE

I WAS GIVING one of our local belles a shampoo and a finger wave, and had just tied the net beneath her chin and tucked her under the drier when Polly, who is the "Madame Moira" of "Madame Moira's Beauty Shoppe", signaled from the desk that some one wanted to speak with me on the telephone.

I remember feeling excited and sort of wobbly at the knees, because the night before, at the annual beautician's ball I had met my "dream man" in Phil Benson, a reporter on the Lawnville Times, and he had promised to ring me soon. But the voice that came over the wire was a woman's—Kitty Wilson's—my girl friend. I swallowed my disappointment, and told myself not to be a chump. Maybe, after all, Phil had been handing me a line!

"Hello, Elsie!" Kitty said. "I want to ask a favor—"

"Sure," I said, "anything at all." And I am still amused at the casual way I let myself in for a most terrifying and exciting experience. Of course I never thought Kitty was going to ask for more than the loan of my new gold evening slippers, or my bunny jacket at the most, and even when she finally told me what she wanted I was only mildly surprised.

"Emma's having another baby," Kitty went on—Emma is her married sister in Columbus—"and I have to go right over there and stay for awhile."

"Well?" I said, wondering what Emma and her baby had to do with me.

"I want you to come out to the Manor and take my place for a week."

"The Manor?" I repeated, though I had heard well enough what she had said. "But I have a Job—"

"I know," she interrupted impatiently. "I talked to Polly and she's willing to let you off for a week. I'll pay you double salary and you'll get your room and board besides. Will you come?

"Well—" I hesitated ,but a week at the Manor did sound alluring. I had always wanted to see inside Lawnvill's showplace. "Well, yes!"

"Good! Kitty sounded relieved. "Tim, the chauffeur, will call for you. You won't need to bring a thing but your aprons. Everything else is here."

"All right." I made up my mind to go. "You can send Tim to my place at six."

"He'll be there," she promised. "Do your best, and I'll be back as soon as I can. Mrs. Greely, the housekeeper, will show you the rones."

"O. K., Kitty. I'll do my darnedest."

"So you're going to break into society," kidded Polly. "Be careful, my girl, that it doesn't go to your head!"

"I will."

The Manor is the name of a huge, wooded estate some three miles from the edge of this town, which is a few miles outside of Columbus, Ohio. It was the family home of the financially and socially prominent Witherspoons, whose fortunes during the lifetime of Horace T. Witherspoon, Sr., father to the then present family, leaped from comfortable thousands to uncomfortable and unbelievable millions. This seeming wizardy on the part of the elder Horace was nothing more magical than what is now known (although at the time it had been called "doing one's bit") as war profiteering. He had sold rope and leather goods to the United States government at enormous profit.

The Witherspoons were, naturally enough, the leaders of Lawnville society. Scarcely a week passed that they did not entertain guests from New York and other points east. They were always having important personages—actors, athletes, aviators and other celebrities—stopping off at the Manor to plant a tree in the arboretum they had somewhere on the place.

They did not mingle much with the townspeople, being too, too exclusive, except when there was a charity ball to be opened or a civic drive to be inaugurated. Then Horace, Jr., would doll up in his tails and top hat and come forth to do the honors for dear old Lawnville.

Once I had shaken his cold and clammy hand at one of these affairs and had looked into his pale, disinterested eyes that were like those of a man long dead yet living. A shrunken, insignificant little man he was, with a weak, womanish mouth and a receding chin.

Occasionally I had seen Daphne Witherspoon, the little man's daughter, driving like mad through the streets in her long, low roadster, her bright hair flying in the wind, her lips parted in reckless, rippling laughter. Sometimes she would stop in at the corner drug store when I ate my lunch and perched upon the high stool at the counter and joke with Pete, the soda jerker, as she sipped at a Coca-Cola. The town called Daphne wild, but it really did not know. She did not hang around Lawnville much, for she spent most of her time abroad or in the east.

The rest of the family were strangers to me, though I knew along with the rest of the town that Horace, Jr., was merely the figurehead. The real chief was old Mrs. Witherspoon, Horace, Sr.'s widow, a semi-invalid, who never stirred from the house.

And Mrs. Witherspoon was the reason for Kitty's job and the reason for my own invitation to the Manor. Mrs. W., as Kitty always called her, was an extraordinarily vain old lady of seventy-five. She had a mania for permanent waves and henna packs and mud facials and crimson fingernails! Being rich, she was, of course, able to gratify her passion; and to this end she had built and completely equipped a regulation and up-to-the-minute beauty salon on the second floor of the Manor.

Naturally, I had never been inside this private parlor, but Kitty, who was its sole operator, had described it to me often enough. And did it sound like an operator's paradise! Mrs. Witherspoon had sent to New York and had imported the very latest and most expensive permanent waving machine and all that goes with them. She had installed a steam bath and a reducing cabinet and a mechanical horse and Heaven knows what else. And all were maintained for the enjoyment and convenience of herself, her guests and members of the household. More than once I had envied Kitty her Job and wished myself in her shoes.

A year ago, Kitty, like myself, was one of the girls at "Madame Moira's". At that time Mrs. Witherspoon had not built her salon, and twice a week regularly she would call in and have Polly send out an operator to give her treatment.

This had been going on for months, with Macile, our head operator, doing the honors for "Madame Moira's" and coming back to the shop and making our mouths water with tales of the perfectly gorgeous food she had been served for lunch. Artichokes and pate de foie gras and other such trifles that up to then had been mere names on a menu to the lot of us.

Well, Macile, as girls will foolishly do, married her bus-driving boy friend and retired to the suburbs to mess about with boiled beef and cabbage; and Polly, scarcely knowing which way to turn, packed Kitty off to the Manor the next time the old lady's call came through.

To make it short, Kitty made a hit and it was not long until she was spending half her days at the Manor fixing up the old girl and the rest of the family. I never did know just when or how Mrs. Witherspoon got the bright idea to install her own equipment and to hire Kitty for her private and personal attendant; but get it she did, and within six months the idea was a fact. Kitty moved bag and baggage to the Manor.

Of course a job like that is not all honey and molasses. A girl has to take plenty of sass when she works for folks who have more money than they know what to do with—and I had heard tell that Mrs. Witherspoon was no angel at best. However, you get big pay and you work on famous people instead of on shopgirls and local Garbos. So all in all, you connot blame me for being thrilled and for looking forward to a week at such a place.

Looking back, I sometimes wonder why Kitty let me in for what she did without some sort of warning. But maybe that was because she had been there so long she did not notice the queer undercurrents and the tight, oppressed atmosphere, like a storm before it breaks, that formed the background of life at the Manor. But there—I'm getting ahead of my story.

DOROTHY DIX

When Something Comes Along That Upsets The Happiness Or Routine Of The Household, Stop And Do a Little Clear Thinking About It

THE most important factor in making marriage a success is common sense. I put that even above love, because love does not solve the problems of communal life. Love can hurt us terribly, and many a husband and wife who love enough to be willing to die for each other cannot live together in peace.

I know of nothing more tragic than the fact that most of the issues that take the joy out of marriage and wreck it in the end, are born of love. Take nagging, for instance, which is the chief thing that makes husbands regret their lost freedom.

Nagging is the child of love. Ninety-nine women out of a hundred nag because they are so obsessed by love for their husbands that they have no other interest outside of them, no other thought except for them. And so they must know where their husbands are every minute of the day; they must know what they do, whom they see, what they say. They must stand guard over them, as if they were little children, supervising every mouthful of food and seeing that they eat their spinach and keep their feet dry.

They know this drives their husbands frantic, but it is what their love forces them to do. A little common sense would prevent the catastrophe that takes place when the poor prisoner of love breaks away to freedom and some other woman. Common sense would teach them that a man listens to his wife when she says a thing once but he shuts his ears when it becomes her theme song, and that, anyway, by the time a man is old enough to get married he has picked out the patterns of life that he prefers and a wife interferes with it at her peril.

Then there is jealousy, which is the offspring of love. It makes husbands and wives murder each other. It fills the divorce courts. It makes innumerable homes hell on earth, where green-eyed men and women screech their foul suspicions at each other.

The only remedy for jealousy, the only preventive of it, is common sense. Just let a husband and wife face the cold truth that they can't always be spying on their mates and that in the end they've got to trust them, and that they will go straight or crooked, according to the honor that is in them, and they would save themselves a lot of misery. What's the use of bothering over a man who is so poor a creature that he can't be trusted to take his grandmother out to lunch? And why get a headache over a wife whose principles are so loose that she can't be polite to her dinner partner without rousing suspicions in one's mind?

Common sense is also the antidote for what we are pleased to call the disillusion of marriage. That gone feeling, you know, that comes to every married couple when they realize that the ones they have tied up with are neither angels nor little tin gods, but just ordinary, run-of-the-mill human beings; that making a home and rearing a family is going to be a chore instead of a picnic.

In their disappointment lots of young people throw up their hands and quit before they ever even really try marriage out. But they wouldn't if they would only use a little common sense and see that they are asking too much of marriage. They are expecting it to be the only perfect thing in an imperfect world. They are ignoring the fact that the thing to do is just to go along and make the best of their bargains and rejoice that even if Mary isn't glamorous she is a crackerjack housekeeper, and that if Bill couldn't stand in for a Fairy Prince, he is a good provider.

Indeed, in every crisis in marriage the answer to the problem is Common Sense. Give every situation a first-aid treatment of that and you won't need to call in a divorce lawyer. Does something come up over which you must either laugh or cry? Common sense bids you laugh it off. No better cure for a husband's and wife's faults than to make a joke of them. If your husband or wife craves to be petted and flattered, for Heaven's sake have enough common sense to jolly him or her along. It will be money in your pocket and peace in your home.

If at 40 your husband begins to get skittish, takes to wearing college clothes and talk about how young he feels, shut your eyes to his didoes. Nurse him along patiently as you did your little boys through their second Summers and adolescence, and he will come out of this spell of second childhood more devoted to you than ever. And you will have your house intact, as you would not have done if you had acted up.

So it goes. There isn't a problem in marriage that you can't solve by using a pinch of common sense.

Do You Know Fine Points of Etiquette?

Madge is really ashamed of Frank! When she calls out a pleasant "Good evening," Frank just says "H'lo," doesn't even rise from his chair.

You'd think he'd know it's correct for him to rise when a girl enters the room!

John, Madge's beau tonight, always remembers these little courtesies. No wonder girls like him!

When Madge spoke to a friend on the street a few minutes ago, John knew it was correct for him to lift his hat, even though the man was a stranger to him.

At the theatre, if there's no usher in sight, John walks ahead to find a place but he lets Madge precede him into the row of seats.

Madge, too, knows how to be gracious and at ease. She waits for John to open doors for her, help her with wraps. When she's introduced to a new man, she realizes it's her place to start the conversation.

Do you know the small courtesies that make you popular? When to shake hands? What to say at introductions? Our 32-page booklet answers your questions about invitations, dinners, dances, house parties. What to do about petting.

The Stars Say . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, January 14.

Rather treacherous and doubtful conditions prevail on this day, judging by the rather contradictory reign of important planets. In fact, there is a fairly devastating and disintegrating aspect which may cause sudden upheavals, unlooked-for developments and disturbances, with stubborn obstacles arising to thwart cherished plans. It may be necessary to make a complete about-face. But shun quarrels, rash and impetuous behavior. Calm and discreet action may save the day.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare themselves for a precipitance of the unforeseen and unexpected, causing a disturbance, upheaval, rearrangement or even a complete discarding of cherished plans and objectives. Obstacles and setbacks threaten, but these will not be remedied or routed by strife, reckless or turbulent conduct. Try quiet deliberation, discretion, and sound consideration in devastating moments. Change environs cautiously. Be wary with strangers.

A child born on this day may be rash, headstrong, impetuous and quarrelsome, ready to vanquish all factors threatening to oppose or defeat its indomitable urges to do adventurous and unusual things in a big way. Its originality and audacity may seem to justify the drastic opposition to its success and reputation.

GOODNIGHT STORY

By MAX TRELL

Do you know what your shadow likes best of all? It likes to dance.

Shadows don't dance to music. They dance to the light of a candle, or to the low flames of a fireplace. I'm sure you've noticed that before.

If you haven't, I'm sure you would have enjoyed the way Hanid and Knarf danced on the wall of the dining-room last night. Two red candles were burning in their silver candlesticks on the table. All the other lights in the room were out.

Wants Some Fun.

The children sat at the table, and

"It was such wonderful fun!

Hanid and Knarf (like all good shadows) sat under the children's chairs. When the meal started, the candles burned with a straight flame. The shadows hardly moved.

"I wish we could have some fun instead of just sitting here," Knarf whispered to Hanid.

"We'll have some fun in a little while," his sister answered, peering over the edge of the table at the two candles. "Just be patient."

"What kind of fun?"

"You'll see."

And at that very moment the fun began for the two shadows sitting under the children's chairs. The two candles had burned down a bit, and they began to flicker. All at once the shadows looked at each other in surprise. Without knowing exactly why they did it, they sprang upon the dining-room wall. Then they took each other's hands and began to dance!

Imagine dancing on a wall! Oh! it was such wonderful fun! They swayed from side to side, they whirled 'round and 'round each other. They jumped, first on one foot and then on the other. They glided up to the ceiling and down to the floor again. They came close to each other, and bowed, and backed swiftly away again.

"Burn faster!" they called to the candles.

And the candles flickered more and more. All through the dinner the shadows danced on the wall. But finally, when the dinner was over, the candles were blown out and the shadows had to return to the children.

The shadow-dance was over.

Canada's Pension Act Is Lauded As The Finest In The World

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 13.—"We have the finest Pension Act in the world," declared A. A. Robinson in addressing members of the Legion at their monthly meeting here last night. Speaking on the subject of Service and Unity, Mr. Robinson, who is attached to the Legion Service Bureau in Toronto, forecast that within a short time legislation would be passed providing free treatment would be provided for all Canadian ex-service men who saw service in France. This, he suggested, would be dependent upon the income of the individual, of course. After reviewing the growth of the Legion, which he claimed was no "two by four" organization, but rather one that had in Ontario alone 264 branches with 17,500 members, the speaker then began outlining the work being done by the Service Bureau in the matter of pensions and claims. It was also revealed for the first time that the Government had agreed to do away with the Pensions Appeal Court. The Legion, he claimed, had not been responsible for the Federal Appeal Tribunal, which had been in force "for three years too long."

Comrade N. Alex McColl introduced the speaker, and President Charles Holmes presided for the meeting.

Evening Formality Of 1900 Is Back in Fashion

Up to now, when you heard separate blouse and skirt, even if the skirt were long, you usually visualized something informal. But this year because sleeves have been brought so prominently into the realms of formal evening fashions, separate blouses and skirts for evening have also attained an air of elegance. When we say separate blouse, we mean both overblouses and tuck-ins, or at least, a tuck-in effect, and with contrast between skirt and blouse, always in color, and sometimes in fabric. The most advanced styles show jumper and long skirt with such sponsors as Molyneux and Schiaparelli.

Paris made quite an important style of this kind of dress—"important" in the sense that houses like Alix, Lelong, and Lanvin also developed them, and in fabrics that are very impressive like lace and faille and velvet and taffeta broche.

Schiaparelli interprets the two-piece look for the evening, in fuffy long jumpers draped crosswise that look something like sweaters.

All these styles have sleeves, long or short, but real sleeves, and a number of them have high necks. But some are decollete. In any case, the richness of the fabrics is going to do a lot toward bringing this type of "blouse-and-skirt" or "jumper and skirt" dress in company with the more accepted formal, "bare" dress, this year. It's a 1900 statement of evening formality.

Shoes Take On New "High" In Fashion World

Extraordinary things have happened to shoes this season. The outline of the newest shoes follow the curves of the foot, and the cut at the top is designed to enhance instep and ankle. They are pliable and soft; the smartest are glove-fitted—meaning that they lie close and reveal the natural lines. Some shoes mount a bit higher over the instep than they did in the past; this is evident in both sports and dressy types.

Stranger things have happened to soles. The platform that made its fashion entry on the beaches, in stilt-like proportions, has been whittled down to a moderate height that makes it wearable and good-looking for the street. It has now become a half sole, and is of materials so light that it is flexible and has a bit of spring as one walks. It gives little girls a grand air of dignity. But even more, it permits of the introduction of color in shoes. One designer makes his platform soles in a color that contrasts with the shoes, and carries it across to the heels in a narrow band. This is done with both dress and sport shoes.

Glove-fitting has brought soft toes with it and the leather is handled in such a way that it makes the fewest number of seams. Slimness and trimness are often promoted by insets of elastic or gores at the color of the shoe. It has now become a favorite trick of line straps with elastic so that they give as one walks and hug tight when the foot is in repose.

Shiny cords of piping give glamorous touches to dull suede—this is a favorite method of decoration. Perforations are seen aplenty, especially in the more sporty type of shoe. Smart is the glove stitching of a contrasting leather on the stay of a suede oxford, noticed in a local shop, with a collar band that is high and fitted. Another pump is attractively decorated with a pleated ruffle at the instep. Good staple black leads as favorite, but colors, too, bid for attention. There are dark wines and some of the shadowy plums that one hears so much about for dresses. Browns take on a reddish-copper cast ; green, this used for sports, is dark, on the pine tones.

Enquiry Column

Conducted by Mrs. MARY MOORE

Question—Would you please send me a recipe for a cherry cake — a plain cherry cake without any other fruit in it or nuts. MRS. M. M.

Answer—Thank you for your letter.

Cherry Pound Cake.

One cup butter, 1 2-3 cups sugar, 5 eggs, 2 cups flour, 1 cup chopped or sliced candied cherries. Work the butter until creamy, using the hands, and sift in the sugar gradually while beating constantly; then add the eggs one at a time, beating vigorously between the addition of each. Reserve ¼ cup of the flour to flour the sliced cherries, and sift in the remaining 1½ cups as soon as the eggs are thoroughly mixed in. Then add the cherries. Turn into buttered and floured cake pan — preferably a loaf pan—and bake one hour at 325 deg. Fahr. or a little longer if it is not form to the touch at the end of a hour. This cake keeps well.

Question—In the enquiry column of Dec. 10 a reader signs the initials A. T. to a question about recipe for Peach Brandy made from dried peaches. I would be ever so much obliged if you would send me the recipe for Peach Brandy made from dried peaches. A.P.B.

Answer—Thank you for your letter.

Peach Brandy (Using dried peaches)

One pound dried peaches, washed well, 4 quarts boiling water, 4 lbs. brown sugar. Melt the sugar in the boiling water and add the cleaned peaches. Let them cool to blood temperature (about 100 deg. Fahr.) and add one yeast cake dissolved in a little of the mixture in a cup first. Let stand 24 hours, then strain and bottle.

Question—I hope this letter is not too long—first I want to know if chicken fat—that is rendered out fat—can be used for making teabiscuits or dumplings. If so would you be kind enough to give me a recipe for both?

May I have a good recipe for making Oyster Stew? At one time—it seems years ago now—you published a recipe for Devilled Scallops — and I made them and they became a favorite with us. Since then I gave up housekeeping, but now am back at it again having been married in the meantime. Would you be kind enough to repeat this Devilled Scallops recipe for me if you know what I am referring to. Thanking you for your help to struggling cooks and a Happy New Year. TUCKIE.

Answer—Thank you for your pleasant letter.

Baking Powder Biscuits.

(Using chicken fat for shortening)

Two cups flour, 5 tablespoons chicken fat, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, about 2-3 cup milk (or water). Cut the shortening into the sifted dry ingredients. Add enough of the liquid to make a soft dough. Roll out lightly or pat into sheet and cut out about ¾ inch thick with floured cutter. Bake at 500 deg. Fahr. for about 10 minutes.

Dumplings.

(Using chicken fat for shortening)

Use same recipe as above for Baking Powder Biscuits except increase amount of milk to ⅞ cup or nearly 1 cup. Dumplings should be cooked on top of stew, covered tightly, and lid must not be lifted to peek for at least 10 minutes—there should be at least 4 inches of head room between lid and dumplings to give them plenty of room to raise.

Emem's Oyster Stew.

Drain the liquor from 1 pint of oysters. In top of double boiler melt ¼ cup butter and when bubbling but not colored add the drained oysters and saute them gentle for about 1 minute. Then add 1 quart whole milk, oyster liquor, and 2-3 cup of very finely cracker crumbs (so fine they can be sifted), ½ teaspoon white pepper, ½ to 2-3 teaspoon salt, put over bottom of double boiler, cover and let heat through until very hot. It is now ready to serve. If you would like it thicker add more crumbs.

Devilled Scallops.

One pint scallops, ¼ cup butter, ½ teaspoon mustard, ½ teaspoon salt, few grains cayenne, 1-3 cup fine cracker crumbs moistened with melted butter. If the scallops do not yield one-third cup of liquor add enough water to make this up — scallops should be cut in quarters). Cream the butter very well then mix the mustard, salt and cayenne into it, then the liquid, then scallops. Pour into casserole and sprinkle crumbs on top. Bake about 20 minutes at 400 deg. Fahr.

We hope these recipes are what you want and that you will write often.

Wife Preservers

When washing her walls with a mixture of soapy water and cleaning powder, a housewife finds that adding enough flour to make a paste is helpful. The paste clings to the walls long enough, she says, for the powder to dissolve the dirt.

With The Girl Guides

All companies held their regular meetings Thursday night. S. A. G.'s will have a Mother's Night on Friday, and all mothers are cordially invited. At the meeting last week Mildred Drummond was enrolled.

First Pack Brownies will have an enrollment on Saturday. Mothers are invited to attend.

There will be a Guiders' meeting at the home of Mrs. Whalon on Thursday at eight o'clock.

World's Oldest Married Couple

A man aged 135 and his wife aged 140 have celebrated their 110th wedding anniversary in Siird, Eastern Anatolia.

They are believed to be the oldest married couple in the world.

A banquet was given in their honor by their relations and all the people over 80 years old in the village.

More than 120 children, grandchildren, and great-grandchildren, representing four generations, attended.

The old couple—Soufou the husband and Chirin his wife—are very happy. Soufou says he "could not live a single moment without his beloved companion."

Riddle Refuses Million For Man O'War

NEW YORK, Jan. 13—(AP).—In 1939, at the age of 22, 19 years after he quit the turf with the most notable record in United States racing history, Man O'War, continues to make news. Last week his owner, Samuel D. Riddle, turned down an offer of $1,000,000 cash for him.

The offer came from Louis B. Mayer, Hollywood film producer. Riddle revealed yesterday. It was refused, for Riddle had vowed never to part with his famous runner and sire and had just completed arrangements setting up a trust fund for the son of Fair Play-Mahubah.

The trust fund will continue Man O'War in his pleasant regal state if Riddle and Mrs. Riddle die before he does and makes provision for his burial in the same plot with his sire and dam.

Mayer's offer is a surprising one, in one sense. At 22 Man O'War's value as a sire has declined. But there seems little doubt it was sincere. Since entering the racing game, Mayer has bought heavily, purchasing among others William Woodward's Perifox, Ogden Phipps' Magic Hour (for $25,000), and Thomas Hitchcock's Ossabaw. He has entered them in the big California stakes this winter and is training the $79,000 worth of yearlings he purchased at the Saratoga sales last summer.

It was at those same sales that Riddle bought Man O'War in 1918 from the late Augustus Belmont for $5,000. His history is well known. He won 20 of 21 races before being retired at the end of his three-year-old season, losing only to Upset, and won $249,465 in purses.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

Now that our "summer holidays" are over we hope to be able to get right down to this business of curling.

After a week's lay off we are glad to announce that everything is under control and we are again in full swing—All rinks coming out last night with a goodly number making up the "overflow" on No. 8.

And while this may seem an old one to a lot of the boys, still special mention must go to Walter Oke—Imagine Walter down at the rink at exactly 7.28 p.m.—Truly a record.

Our club is represented at Lindsay today in the preliminary round of the District Cup competition. J. H. Sedgewick and V. Currie are the two skips.

The ladies' section commenced playing this morning for the Gibson Trophy.

Archie Gates paid the boys a friendly call last night after a lengthy absence and was kept busy shaking hands.

And don't forget the week-end bonspiel—Saturday 1.45 p.m.

SPORT SPICE

By EDDIE BRIETZ

Associated Press Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP). — Philly Gazettes report that at the Maxwell Trophy dinner down there the other night, the boys were afraid to ask Davey O'Brien, Texas Christian's ace football passer, to pass the milk (or anything else that spills) lest the guy forget himself and really pass it....Max Baer stopped traffic in the new Associated Press building yesterday when he called to visit the film concern with which he has signed a five-year contract.

The combined ages of Len Harvey and Larry Gains, who are to fight for the British heavyweight championship March 16, must total 80 years, at least....Pie Traynor is going to string along with the same players who supplied the ace collapse of 1938, despite the insistence of most baseball men that the club should be broken up.

The Pittsburg football Pirates think they have picked up a winner in Billy Patterson, the 60-minute guy from Baylor....With only one important player due to graduate, Tennesse looks like Dixie's football standout next fall. . . Cleveland is so high on Georgie Pace that Promoter Bobby Evans has guaranteed Sixto Escobar five grand to give Georgie a shot at the bantamweight crown out there.

All last fall Braven Dyer, crack columnist of the Los Angeles Times, waged a one-man campaign to have Coach Howard Jones play Doyle Nave regularly....Dyer wrote until he was horse you might say, but Jones would pay him no mind a-tall and Nave continued to collect splinters from the Southern California bench....Then came the big ouch. . . On the day of the Rose Bowl game, Dyer left the park three minutes before the final whistle to escape the dense traffic back to Los Angeles....And therefore wasn't on hand to see Nave dash out from obscurity and hurl them passes that did for the Dukes.

Bennett Bids Calgary Good-Bye Scene Of His Start In Law

CALGARY, Jan. 13. — (CP).—Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, former prime minister of Canada, who arrived here as a young lawyer from New Brunswick 42 years ago, said good-bye to the citizens of Calgary at a civic banquet in his honor last night.

"I'd like to stay in Canada, but I can't stay on in this country in which I've been." Mr. Bennett said.

(The 68-year-old former Conservative leader and member for Calgary West in parliament for many years, suffers with a heart ailment.)

"So I'm going down to Surrey, England. • • • You can fancy what a happy time I'll be having in an old pair of overalls watching the flowers grow • • • I really do seek rest."

Not Getting Married

Mr. Bennett denied reports current in London yesterday he planned to marry. He said a newspaperman called him from London and said:

"It is reported you are arriving shortly and are about to be married."

He said he replied: "Tell your readers Mr. Bennett expresses great interst and that he wants a photo of the lady at the earliest possible convenience. He has neither heard of her nor seen her."

Mr. Bennett made a plea for confidence in Canada; for unity and for preservation of democracy through individual restraint and sacrifice.

The price of permanent democracy was sacrifice. It was essential to restore confidence in Canada both in money matters and in unity.

Talk of secession or breaking up of confederation, said the former Conservative chieftain, was "idle talk."

In his farewell address, Mr. Bennett warned of evils of repudiating debts and reducing interest. "Remember," he said, "without interest life insurance cannot exist."

One of the main faults of Western Canada was that short range of views had been taken of most things, he believed.

"We're so prone to think everything must be done in our lifetime. If each generation would do its best for mankind, we would all be happier. We've been pure materialists not thinking about life eternal."

An oil painting of mountain scenery by Ronald Gissing of Ghost River, Alta., was presented to Mr. Bennett by Mayor Andrew Davison.

Recalls Old Campaigns.

Mr. Bennett, present member of parilament for West Calgary, recalled political campaigns shortly after his arrival here as a young lawyer from New Brunswick 42 years ago.

In 1899 West Calgary "wasn't much of a constituency." He told of visiting every house in the then old North West Territories riding and of one incident when he got a well digger out of a well to give him campaign talk.

"We had a great human sympathy in those old days. Sometimes we had resentment and opposition, but it did not really lessen our liking for one another.

"I recall names of the old pioneers of Calgary. They have gone to their reward full of honors. They played their part as men—men of initiative, courage and resourcefulness," he said in telling of Calgary's change from muddy roads to paved streets.

"Sometimes they didn't think much of the tenderfoot who had come amongst them," he said.

"They would ask me, 'Have a cigar?'"

"No I don't smoke," Mr. Bennett replied.

"Have a drink?' No, I don't drink."

"'Well, then, what the hell good are you?'" the old-timers would ask, said Mr. Bennett.

Norwood League Hosts To 2 Groups

NORWOOD, Jan. 13—The Norwood United church Y.P. held their weekly meeting on Monday evening and were honored by having as their guests the Young People from George Street church, Peterborough, and also members from the Trent River Young Peoples.

The program was conducted by the Peterborough League. Before the call to worship a short song service was held being lead by Loretta MacDougal of Peterborough.

Bob Spence, president of the Peterborough Y.P.L. then came to the platform and introduced the members taking part in the program. Mr. Kitchen gave a very teresting and delightful mission talk. Mrs. Bonds, Norwood president, offered a vote of thanks to all the members of the Peterborough League, who had helped to make the evening such an enjoyable one. This was seconded by Laura Metcalfe and supported by Rev. Robinson.

Miss Olive Bell, pianist for the evening, told of the debates being held in their league against members from visiting leagues, and promised to help anyone who was interested.

Lloyd Richards, dramatic convener, also promised help for any plays which the young people put on.

Games were played after which lunch was served and a social hour was enjoyed.

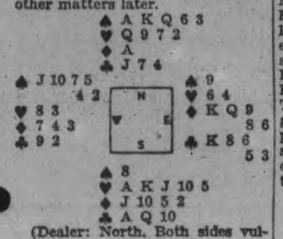
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

REVERSING THE USUAL

MANY PLAYERS USE artificial conventions to locate aces and kings for slam purposes. With the overwhelming majority, the early bidding is on a more or less natural basis, the artificial convention coming into use late on a hand and settling the suit-top situation after everything else is decided. The latest version of the Vanderbilt system, however, reverses that. It locates the top cards first and then settles other matters later.



(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

John Godfrey Saxe, former president of the New York State Bar Association, has just written a brief pamphlet for his friends on the latest "Vanderbilt Club" system evolved by Walter Beinecke, Harold C. Richard, John H. Johnson and himself at the Manhattan Club, which won the 1938 championship of New York's Inter-Club League.

Mr. Richard followed it on the North cards of this deal, bidding 1-Club. This, as employed by them, shows a good hand containing at least three "top tricks", consisting of either three aces or an ace-king and an ace. A negative response of 1-Diamond would deny two top tricks. One of hearts or spades, or two of clubs or diamonds would show the A-K of the suit named. A response of 1-No trump would show two aces. So that was what Mr. Beinecke bid in response to the 1-Club.

With both partners knowing the side held all aces, Mr. Richard now showed his real suit at 2-Spades, Mr. Beinecke his at 3-Hearts, Mr. Richard his splendid fit with 5-Hearts. Mr. Beinecke, in order to encourage a lead to his clubs, made a psychic call at this stage of 6-Diamonds, then Mr. Richards 6-Hearts and Mr. Beinecke 7-Hearts. T. Suffern Tailer, the "Tommy" of golf fame, was not fooled by the psychic, but led a trump. This necessitated Mr. Beinecke trying the club finesse later, but it worked and the contract was made.

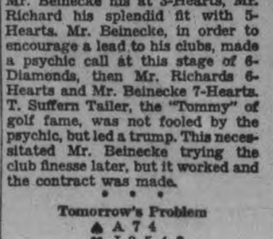
Tomorrow's Problem



(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

Over South's original bid of 1-Diamond, why should North bid his heart suit instead of No trump?

Hitler Reception Features Munich Pact

BERLIN, Jan. 13 — (AP).—Chancellor Hitler and the Berlin diplomatic corps gave their separate thanks for the "peace of Munich" today in the traditional New Year's reception, held this year in the glittering new wing of the Chancellery which the Fuehrer designed for himself.

Monsignor Cesare Orsenigo, Papal Nuncio who headed the foreign diplomats as they entered, acted as spokesman and tendered "public honor" to the "record of the courageous creators of this (Munich) accord."

Hitler replied that the "peace of Munich" was above all due to "the recognition of the fact that necessities were founded upon historical development and natural needs must sooner or later be acknowledged and may not be denied by force."

Monsignor Orsenigo, after tendering the diplomats' felicitations to the Chancellor, said in French:

"This day (September 30) on which the four statesmen met in Germany, so to speak unexpectedly, in order in a difficult hour to sign an accord that was decisive for peace, filled all people with joy. As the representatives of these peoples, who fervently acclaimed the peace, we are happy at the end of this historic year publicly to honor the courageous creators of this accord and at the same time to give expression to the thanks which every friend of peace feels himself under obligation to extend."

Example For The Future.

He closed with an expression of hope that "such a peaceful procedure may become the customary means of settling all international points at issue."

Hitler thanked Monsignor Orsenigo for especially referring to the Munich accord, then continued:

"The German nation remembers with the deepest gratitude that the year 1938 has brought for our people too the realization of its inalienable right to self-determination.

"If this has been achieved without interrupting the peace of Europe for a single day considerable credit is due in fact to the policy of wise insight on the part of the powers as it found expression in the Munich accord....

"The fact that it was possible to arrive at the peaceful solution which we all desired we owe not only to the will to peace and the consciousness of responsibility of the governments concerned, but above all to the recognition of the fact that necessities founded upon historical development and natural needs must sooner or later be acknowledged and may not be denied by force."

Suspect Imredi Out To Become Dictator

BUDAPEST, Jan. 13—(AP). — A Hungarian parliament began a new session today with the Opposition in an increasingly rebellious mood against Premier Bela Imredi on the allegation the Premier was moving toward a "Fascist dictatorship."

The sesison was expected to furnish a new test of Imredi's strength in the midst of the delicate situation created by border incidents with Czecho-Slovakia over territory awarded to Hungary following the Munich agreement.

The Opposition forced Imredi's resignation last November 23, but later grudgingly gave him sufficient support to enable him to resume the Premiership.

Charges against Imredi were that he is planning abolition of parties in favor of a one-party Fascist system.

CBC Network Barred McCullagh

Howe Explains Rules Forbid Anyone Expressing Opinions

TORONTO, Jan. 14. — (CP) — George McCullagh, publisher of the Toronto Globe and Mail, announced last night he has been denied by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation the right to speak over the C.B.C.-All-Canada chain and also over a network of privately owned Ontario stations and one privately owned Montreal station.

Mr. McCullagh, who had planned a series of addresses, beginning Sunday, entitled "marching on — to what?" and dealing with the "serious situation confronting Canada," said the ruling would be circumvented by utilization of electrical transcriptions over the 18 stations on which time had been engaged, and over one Toronto station (CFRB) he will speak directly from the microphone.

In a formal statement Mr. McCullagh said:

"I am quite at a loss to understand why the government has exceeded their authority by such a dictatorial order. I am going ahead with the talks in their original form. My purpose as explained to general manager of the Radio Commission is only that of being helpful and I will leave the public to judge of it after they have heard the talks.

"I trust that the public, because of all this, will not expect any sensational declarations in my talks. I am only attempting to impart my views on the serious situation confronting Canada in the hope that it will awaken a public conscience. The public might well ask, however, what is there to hide which would impel any government to attempt to muzzle a citizen by the use of arbitrary power—power which was not bestowed upon them by the electorate they are supposed to serve."

Howe Explains.

MONTREAL, Jan. 14.—(CP) The Gazette today in an Ottawa dispatch quotes Transport Minister Howe as saying the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has a definite rule that "no man may buy up time on a chain broadcast to express opinions." The minister was commenting on the announcement of George McCullagh, Toronto publisher, that he had been denied the right to speak over a C.B.C. chain and a network of private stations.

Mr. Howe quoted as follows:

"I do not know anything about the case concerning Mr. McCullagh. It is being handled by the corporation and by Mr. Gladstone Murray (C.B.C. general manager).

"It is a definite regulation of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation that no man may buy up time on a chain broadcast to express opinions.

"This is something which has been adopted by every country which has the chain broadcast problem. It is a regulation of the British Broadcasting Corporation, the National Broadcasting Company and the Columbia system.

"The regulation is a matter of common sense. It is impossible to permit everyone to broadcast, and we cannot confine such a privilege to the wealthy. We can't let a man with $10,000 buy up time to attack a man who may have nothing.

"We make an exception at election time when a man is sponsored by a recognized political party."

The Gazette's story continues:

Mr. Howe was asked if this was the first time the regulation had been enforced on the C.B.C. He replied: "No, it has been enforced at least 20 times. One case in point, which became an issue, was a similar request by Sir Edward Beatty. He wished to buy time on a chain and was refused."

The minister said anyone might buy time on a single station.

Chained Baby At Night So He Could Sleep, Father Is Fined $10

Sudbury, Ont., Jan. 14 (CP)

EMILE DAGENAIS, father of four children, admitted in court today he had "chained and handcuffed" his 20-months-old baby to keep her quiet so he could sleep at night.

As a result of his admission Dagenais was convicted of a charge of failing to care properly for his children and was fined $10 and costs or one month in jail.

J. S. Davidson, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society, told of finding the Dagenais' home in a "deplorable" condition. Mrs. Dagenais, he said, would not get up to wash the dishes which were accumulating in the house for weeks.

Mounties Resent Being Used As Tourist Bait

OTTAWA, Jan. 14—(CP).—Task of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police of maintaining an attitude of patience and understanding toward the public is complicated by deliberate propaganda campaigns designed to undermine confidence in the force and in constituted authority generally, Commissioner S. T. Wood says in the R.C.M.P.'s annual report tabled yesterday in the House of Commons by Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe.

"It has now become routine procedure for subversive elements, following any police action, to immediately accuse the police of unnecessary brutality, intoxication and similar offences and demand an investigation in the hope that they will have much to gain by such publicity at no cost," Col. Wood said.

"The public should analyse the situation very carefully before forming any opinion when such charges are made, and bear in mind the causes which have led to any clash between the police and any section of the populace."

Attacks From All Angles

Never had police executives and personnel been so aware of the need of training and exemplary behavior as at present. Maintenance of the proper attitude, however, was made not less difficult "by the numerous agencies, a certain section of the press, and some individuals who should know better, but who, by persistent campaign, open attack and by insidious propoganda, attempt to undermine public confidence in constituted authority, in police forces and in the state itself," he said.

Col. Wood outlined the activities of the R.C.M.P. in the year ended March 31, 1938, when it had a total strength of 2,598 of all ranks—25 more than in the preceding year.

The Commissioner criticized a "tendency to expect the force to be something of a travelling circus" and tourist attraction, in the performance of non-essential duties which seriously interfered with the more important duties of crime detection and prevention.

Doc Barker Dies In Prison Dash

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 14 (AP).—Like his "ma" before him, Arthur (Doc) Barker was dead from police bullets today—the victim of a futile break from the "escape proof" United States penitentiary on Alcatraz Island.

The 40-year-old son of the late "Ma" Barker, who with one of "Doc's" brothers was killed in a Florida battle with Federal agents, died in the Alcatraz prison hospital last night.

The leader of the Barker-Karpis gang, once rated as public enemy No. 1, was the most notorious of five convicts who attempted to escape the island penitentiary early yesterday.

A second was reported near death as James Bennett, United States prison director, flew toward San Francisco to take over the investigation into the fourth escape attempt at Acatraz, the third known to have taken a convict's life.

Dale Stamphill, 27, Oklahoma kidnapper, shot with Barker by guards when they resisted recapture on the island beach, was in a critical condition—an artery severed by a guard's bullet.

Warden James Johnston investigated the break pending Bennett's arrival.

Duce Agrees To Co-operate In World Effort To Solve Jew Problem

Mussolini However Gives Chamberlain No Idea What Lines His Efforts Will Take; Wants Peace For Italy In International Affairs

ROME, Jan. 14 (AP).—Premier Mussolini agreed in his talks with Prime Minister Chamberlain to co-operate in the world effort to solve the Jewish refugee problem, British circles disclosed today.

This was seen as the most important achievement of the visit, which the Fascist press asserted had opened the way to new European and Mediterranean equilibrium.

The British Prime Minister was represented as convinced that Mussolini was willing to help in finding new homes for Jews. He did not get any idea, however, what lines Mussolini's co-operation would take.

Nothing New On Spain.

Spain was the only other subject discussed at length, British sources said. But all that Mr. Chamberlain was able to obtain from his host on this score was Mussolini's "willingness" to abide by the non-intervention committee agreement for withdrawal of foreign troops from the civil war.

This agreement provides for the granting of belligerent rights to Spanish combatants after substantial foreign withdrawals on a proportionate basis from each side.

There was no evidence, however, that Mussolini had promised to cease aiding General Franco before the end of the present insurgent offensive against Barcelona, which both the Italian Premier and Foreign Minister Count Ciano assured their British guests would soon end in victory.

Nothing was decided regarding the French-Italian differences over Tunisia, Djibouti, the Djibouti-Addis Ababa railway and the Suez Canal, it was said.

British circles said Italy's "natural aspirations" were not defined and there was no "discussion" of Fascist claims on France. They said, however, that in many cases Il Duce "expressed his point of view" without asking what the British statesmen thought of it.

Asks Nothing Embarrassing.

Mussolini, they said, impressed Mr. Chamberlain by refraining from saying or asking for anything "embarrassing." He reiterated his intention to stand loyally by the terms of the Anglo-Italian agreement "and made it clear he aims at pursuing a policy of peace in international affairs, a policy required by the circumstances of Italy for the development of her resources and those of her possessions."

(Informed quarters in London said the harmony of the talks was disturbed at one time when the British Foreign Secretary, Viscount Halifax, objected to the "violence" of Count Ciano's language and twice warned Mussolini's son-in-law he would withdraw unless Ciano moderated his tone. Ciano complied, these sources said, and only slight importance was attached to the incident).

A special train carrying the Prime Minister and his party left Rome at 12.05 p.m. Mussolini, Count Ciano and other high officials were at the station. A band played "God Save the King!" and the Fascist Anthem.

Western Ontario Snowed Under After Blizzard

Snow-blocked roads and temperatures well below the freezing point were reported from Western Ontario centres today, aftermath of a blizzard that swept that section of Ontario during the night. One death was registered as an indirect result of the storm.

The blizzard extended from Lake Huron as far east as Oshawa. Light snow fell today at Kingston, in Eastern Ontario, but meteorological service observers in Toronto said no snow "of any consequence" fell east of Oshawa. Reports indicated the blizzard was confined to Western Ontario.

Niagara Peninsula points reported the heaviest snowfall. A middle-aged man, H. D. Jackson, collapsed and died in a street car at Hamilton while en route to work today apparently as a result of over-exertion caused by fighting his way through drifts left by a blizzard that almost paralyzed city traffic here late last night.

Street car and bus services in Hamilton was forced to a stop at times. Motorists found driving difficult and traffic tie-ups occurred in many parts of the city. Hundreds of automobiles were stalled. Snow drifted badly at street intersections.

Roads Are Blocked

Fifteen inches of snow fell at Caledonia, leaving roads blocked. Milk deliveries from rural sections in that district were delayed until sideroads were cleared by snowploughs. Haldimand county farmers welcomed the snow as a protection for winter-sown crops as fields had been bare for several weeks.

A 10-inch fall was reported from Welland where drifts three feet deep impeded traffic. Side streets in the town were rendered impassable. Bus services there were delayed. Strong wind piled up deep drifts in the St. Catharines area but snowploughs kept the main highways open.

Temperatures dropped to 14 above zero at Galt where two inches of snow fell. Six inches of fluffy snow fell upon Brantford, but the white blanket was so easily penetrated motor traffic moved with little difficulty. Three inches covered Woodstock and Kitchener reported a two-inch fall.

One of the heaviest falls of the winter was reported from Chatham. The official record was 6½ inches, leaving county roads drifted in places. Nearly seven inches fell at Windsor.

Netherlands Nazi Heads Guarded After "Sling-Shot" Crisis

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 14 — (AP).—Police guards were posted around homes and offices of German officials in the Netherlands to-day although an attack on a German-occupied building for which Nazi papers angrily blamed Jews gave evidences of being only a "sling-shot crisis."

The police details were ordered following German diplomatic representations and an angry Nazi press clamor over what was said to have been bullets fired into Nazi buildings by "Jews" in refuge here.

But Netherlands detectives, after long investigation, believe that the "mysterious bullets from ambush" were nothing more than pebbles from the sling-shot of a mischievous boy.

A government statement said it was almost certain that a hole in the window of an Amsterdam residence occupied by a German official was made by a stone, possibly shot by a "foolhardy boy." The government made an inquiry after Berlin newspapers accused Jews and warned that Jews in Germany would suffer if such incidents continued.

A second incident in The Hague, the statement said, involved a shot fired through a window of a house next to the German Legation — "a house of which a part was used by the Legation without bearing any outward sign denoting its special character as such."

Detectives said their sling-shot theory was confirmed when a "bullet hole" in a window of the Brazilian Consulate in Amsterdam turned out to have been made by a pebble from a sling-shot.

Greece nearly doubled her purchase from the United States last year.

750 Million Loan To Be Raised To Retire Loans

Ottawa, Jan. 14 (CP)

THE GOVERNMENT will raise $750,000,000 by way of a loan to retire maturing loans and for other purposes, according to a resolution, sponsored by Finance Minister Dunning, appearing in today's House of Commons votes and proceedings.

The formal resolution read: "That the governor in council be authorized to raise by way of loan under the consolidated revenue and audit act, 1931, an amount not to exceed in the whole the sum of $750,000,000 for paying or redeeming the whole or any portion of loans or obligations of Canada, and also for purchasing and withdrawing from circulation unmatured securities of Canada, and for public works and general purposes."

One Family

All members of the one family are these nine silver black foxes—the parents and litter of seven—raised on the Hendren Fox Farm on Highway 28, a short distance west of the city limits. In all the years he has been raising foxes this is the first family he ever saw to number so large, said Mr. Hendren. While litters vary from two to five and sometimes even six pups, it is rare indeed that they total seven. Mr. Hendren is at the LEFT, his son Donald at CENTRE, Kenneth Pinnington at the RIGHT.

4 Ride To Death As Airliner Falls Aflame

MILES CITY, Mont., Jan. 14. — (AP)—The blackened wreckage of a northwest airlines plane still held today the body of one of its four victims when investigators arrived to seek clues to the cause of the machine's flaming crash two miles west of here last night.

Coroner Ralph Bray of Custer County said the body of Mrs. Morgan Morris of Mandan, N.D., was so severely burned it was not removed when the bodies of the other victims, all men, were taken out. One body was buried 100 feet from the wreckage.

Clinton Hester, administrator for the United States civil aeronautics authority, said at Missoula, Ont., he would come here to join the authority's investigation from Minneapolis.

The St. Paul-to-Seattle plane burst into flames and crashed in a coulee in the Sunday Creek bottomlands a mile west of the Miles City airport just after its takeoff at 7:15 p.m. E.S.T.

L. H. Bliven, airport manager, and several Miles City residents reported the explosion flashed a bright, eerie light across an overcast sky. A light rain had been falling in a near-freezing temperature.

2 Passengers Victims.

The three men victims were: Pilot C. B. (Cash) Chamberlain of Minneapolis, a pioneering pilot trained by the late Frank Hawks. He had flown the first ship for Universal Air Lines between Chicago and Cleveland in 1928, and two years later opened the Dallas-Los Angeles run for American Airways. He joined the northwest in 1931.

Co-pilot Raymond Norby of Minneapolis, who had flown for Northwest since 1936.

Richard Zahniser, about 52, connected with the Consolidated Motor Freight Service of Billings, Mont.

Mrs. Morris, wife of a Northern Pacific Railway conductor.

H. V. Hewitt, Northwest Airlines employee left the plane at Miles City to visit his parents at Terry, Mont.

H. B. Anderson Dies

OTTAWA, Jan. 14.—(CP)—Hugh Boulton Anderson, 53, manager of a local branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia and member of an Ottawa family which for many years has been prominent in the military affairs of Canada, died yesterday.

Mr. Anderson was a brother of Major-General T. V. Anderson, chief of the general staff and Brigadier W. B. Anderson, former officer commanding Military District No. 3 at Kingston.

Barrymore's $448,000 Hilltop "Nightmare" With 3 Pools, One For Trout, Awaits Buyer

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Jan. 14 (AP) — "That Chinese tenement," as John Barrymore now scornfully refers to his $448,000 hilltop mansion, will be offered for sale at auction today.

"And no regrets," says the Barrymore. "Frankly, it was kind of a nightmare, but it might appeal to somebody—maybe some actor."

There are two houses on the five-acre estate, connected by—this is John's description—"a sort of Turkish pergola." There are two garden houses, a skeet range, a bowling green, three swimming pools.

"Yep, three pools," John confesses. "Incredible, isn't it? In one of them I used to keep rainbow trout. Kept 'em alive for two years and personally fed 'em. The little guys got to know me."

The main house has a music room, illuminated by an $8,500 chandelier John bought in a weak moment from an Austrian archduke, an old English tavern equipped with a bar he picked up in Alaska, a wine cellar, a nursery, half a dozen large bedrooms and quarters for a dozen servants.

Storm Spreads Havoc Over States; 200 Detroit Smashes In 6 Hours

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 — (CP). — Worst storm of the New Year spread over the United States today, with snow and sub-freezing temperatures general from the Atlantic coast to the Rocky Mountains.

Sleet, rain and snow caused many traffic fatalities. Four persons died when a Northwest Airlines plane crashed in flames in a snow-covered coulee near Miles City, Mont.

A blizzard, sweeping through New England, buffeted New York and Rhode Island with particular fury, although all the North Atlantic states suffered.

A 10-hour snowfall covered New York city's streets to a depth of eight inches and jammed traffic so badly in Manhattan that police asked radio stations to broadcast appeals to out-of-town residents not to attempt to drive their cars into the city.

Transportation was retarded by ice-glazed highways in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Iowa, and Illinois. Most roads remained open but buses were running up to 80 minutes late in Pennsylvania. Low visibility tied up shipping on the Delaware at Philadelphia and grounded commercial planes at the Newark, N.J., airport.

The storm resulted in 200 traffic accidents in a six-hour period in Detroit yesterday.

$200 "Celebration"

CINCINNATI, Jan. 14.—(AP)—It cost Samuel Haerr $200 to celebrate an addition to his family—exclusive of hospital or doctor bills. Haerr returned home and proudly lighted a cigar. Dropping ashes ignited a chair in the seat of which were hidden two $100 bills. They burned.

Bren Report Confirms Mackenzie's Course

OTTAWA, Jan. 14—(CP).—Defence Minister Mackenzie said today that the single recommendation in the Bren gun report concerning establishment of a defence purchasing board confirms a course already decided upon and on which he asked the Government to take action some weeks ago.

"After the delays that have ensued and the improvement in the system that it is hoped will be effected, may it not be too much to hope that we all now continue our effort in getting ahead with the real work of the defence of Canada," he said.

Year '38 Falls But Little Behind 1937

Quebec, Prairies Lead In Improvement; Mining Holds Gain

OTTAWA, Jan. 14.—(CP).— Although showing some slackening from the "unusually" great industrial activity in 1937, employment conditions in Canada in 1938 maintained a higher level than that of 1936 and previous years on record, except 1929 and 1930, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said to-day in a summary of its annual review of employment.

Fluctuations of employment varied last year from those of 1937, when general improvement had been indicated not only throughout a longer period but also on a larger scale. The 1938 index gained little more than three points from the first of the year to its peak at Oct. 1, when at the end of the 12 months it was only fractionally higher than it had been at January.

This situation, the summary continued, compared unfavorably with the increase of some eight points indicated, on the average, from January 1 to December 1 in the years since 1920. Despite this, the average for the 12 months was only exceeded by the average indices for 1937, 1930 and 1929, while the latest index (for Dec. 1.) was higher than in any other December except that of 1937, 1929 and 1928.

10,719 Firms Report

The 1938 index averaged 111.8 compared with 114.1 in 1937 and 103.7 in 1936, the previous maximum since 1930. The 1938 index was calculated on data received from 10,719 firms or branches. Employees of cooperating firms ranged between 1,001,970 at April 1, and 1,119,291 at Oct. 1, averaging 1,069,780 in the 12 months. In 1937, the variation in payrolls was from 975,862 at March 1, to 1,197,647 at Nov. 1, the monthly average being 1,085,831.

The summary's comparison of the employment situation in Canada in 1938 and 1937 showed that the number of payrolls of the cooperating establishments was higher until June, 1938, than in the same period of 1937, but from then on industrial activity was at a lower level.

This deterioration was due rather to the failure in employment in 1938 to show expansion on a scale commensurate with that of 1937, than to any such curtailment from the beginning to the end of the year as had characterized the situation in the years from 1930 to 1932. At Dec. 1, 1938, employment was higher in

Truck Ditched, Driver Hurt

Hurled into the ditch when the brakes seized at the level crossing a few miles east of Omemee last night, a large Smith Transport westward bound was extensively damaged and the driver, Ray Loney Hunter street east, Peterborough is in St. Joseph's Hospital with undetermined injuries.

Loney was enroute to Toronto by way of Lindsay and applied the brakes near the level crossing as the eight o'clock train was crossing the highway. It is believed that one brake seized and the trailer smashed into the cab throwing the heavy vehicle out of control and into the ditch. Loney was taken to the office of Dr. George N. Earle, Omemee by passing motorists and received attention, later being taken to the hospital.

This morning as garage men were removing the transport from the ditch, Jim McGee, Smith Transport agent at Omemee had his left hand fractured. McGee did not jump quickly enough as the tow truck started to haul the heavy transport back on the road and the hand was jammed between both vehicles.

Never Ask Diplomats Trivial Like Dog Tax So Government Pays Shot For Them

OTTAWA, Ont., Jan. 14 (CP)—Among the immunities enjoyed by the diplomatic corps is that of paying the dog-tax, provided the diplomats have dogs. This is disclosed in a statement of unforeseen expenses tabled in the House of Commons.

The taxes are paid, however, and the government does the nice thing of digging down into its pockets to pay them. The return sets forth that last April the external affairs department paid $2.25 to the city of Ottawa for the dog tax of Sir Francis Floud, then British High Commissioner. When he was succeeded by Sir Gerald Campbell, the new High Commissioner brought a dog with him and again the department did the handsome thing by paying Sir Gerald's dog tax.

The government plays no favorites in this matter. D. McK. Key, of the United States legation owned a couple of dogs. He lived in Rockcliffe, where the tax is a spot higher. But external affairs came to bat with $6.50, the impost demanded by Rockcliffe on the pets.

Bennett Tears In Eyes, Bids Calgary Goodbye Uncertain He'll Ever Make Return Trip

CALGARY, Jan. 14 (CP)—Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, former National Conservative leader of Canada; left Calgary last night, entering on the first stage of a journey that will take him to England where he will live in future.

At the station, with hat in hand, he stood on the observation car platform as hundreds of Calgarians sang "Auld Lang Syne." But tears welled into the former prime minister's eyes when the band struck up "Home Sweet Home."

As the train moved from the station, Mr. Bennett waved.

"Goodbye, good luck to you all. I cannot find adequate expression with which to thank you," he said to "very old and very dear friends" who had known him during the 42 years he had made Calgary his home.

"You'll be back again, R.B.?" an elderly lady called out. "Well that is hard to say, I hope so," Mr. Bennett replied.

"Possibly next year?" the woman asked.

"It is difficult to say, there are many uncertainties," he replied.

Manion To Open Debate On Monday

OTTAWA, Jan. 14—(CP). — The new Conservative leader, Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, is expected to make his first major speech of the new parliamentary session Monday when he touches off the debate on the throne speech.

Dr. Manion will have an opportunity to criticize all angles of government policy, the administration's record and the plans it announced in the speech from the throne Thursday.

Debate on the throne speech has been brief in recent years but this session it may be prolonged if members believe there will be a general election this fall. More will take advantage of the opportunity to range over practically every field of political argument if they believe they are to face their electors within a few months.

J. E. Matthews, new Liberal M.P. for Brandon, will move the address in reply to the throne speech and Lionel Chevrier (Lib. Stormont) will second it.

Yesterday the House sat for little more than an hour while Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Dr. Manion and other members paid tribute to S. W. Jacobs (Lib., Montreal-Cartier) and David W. Beaubier (Con. Brandon) who died during the recess.

Reports Pile In

A flood of reports and documents were laid on the table, most of the departments bringing in reports of their various branches for the fiscal year ende dlast March 31, along with a large number of returns ordered last session. The Bren gun contract report was among those tabled.

The Prime Minister, answering a question from Mr. Manion, told the House it was the government's intention to offer the Canada-United States trade agreement for ratification as soon as debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne ended.

The agreement was negotiated last year, signed Nov. 17 and became provisionally operative on Jan. 1 pending parliamentary ratification.

Mr. Mackenzie King said Mr. Jacobs death was one of the greatest losses ever suffered by the House of Commons. He referred particularly to the fact that Mr. Jacobs was a member of the Jewish race and proud of it.

Because of the critical stage of the affairs of the Jewish people in Europe at the present time, Mr. Jacobs death was felt all the more as his counsel and aid would have been devoted to their cause.

Simcoe Election Set February 21

TORONTO, Jan. 14 — (CP). — The Ontario Government has set Tuesday, February 21, for the Simcoe East by-election in which Col. George A. Drew, newly-elected Conservative leader, will seek a seat in the Legislature. The Liberals have given notice they will not oppose him.

Announcement to this effect was made last night by Acting Premier Harry Nixon. An acclamation is believed likely for the Conservative leader, as no third-party nor Independent has appeared on the scene.

William Finlayson, former Conservative minister of lands and forests, resigned his Simcoe East seat to make way for Colonel Drew. He was elected at the 1937 general election after losing in 1934.

Mr. Finlayson sent his resignation to Toronto, and because there now is no Speaker of the House, it was directed to two Conservative members, Leopold Macaulay and Thomas A. Murphy, in acordance with legal procedure. They in turn submitted it to the cabinet council. The Speakership was left vacant by appointment of Hon. N. O. Hipel as Minister of Labor.

Formal nominations in Simcoe East will be held February 14.

Lakefield Wins Over Newmarket

Lakefield Legionnaires licked Newmarket by a 7-3 count on the latter's ice last night in an O.H.A. intermediate "B" contest. On a large sheet of good ice, the speedy Lakefield lads turned it on and earned the decision with fine passing hockey. The whole team clicked well, there being no individual stars, in a speedy, clean and smart exhibition. The homesters battled hard but were outclassed after the first period. Sutton plays in Lakefield on Monday.

Hodgetts and Mays both tallied in the first frame for the Newmarket crew, but Blewett, Whitton and Chittick counted to give the visitors a 3-2 edge. Lakefield made it 6-2 in the second when Jewell, Chittick and Blewett scored without a comeback. In the third, Mays netted one for Newmarket and Deeth counted for the Legros gang. The teams:

Lakefield: Goal, Loyst; defence, Stabler and Whitton; centre, Chittick; wings, Blewett and Jewell; alternates, Burton, O'Leary, Chappell, Deeth and Morin.

Newmarket: Goal, Peters; defence, Hodgetts and Pease; centre, Debner; wings, Crammer and Mays; alternates, Wightman, Townsley, McCabe, Woodcock and Groves.

Hastings Defeats Warsaw Juniors 6-3

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 14.—In an action-packed fray at Warsaw Friday night, Hastings defeated the Warsaw juniors outfit 6 to 3.

The exhibition match was staged before a bumper attendance and was followed by a dance in the town hall in aid of the Warsaw club. Possibly Friday, the thirteenth, had something to do with it but both cars, transporting the Hastings hockeyists had flat tires. A car driven by Earl Emery had two flats on the way north and Arthur Smullins' machine had one on the way out resulting in half its occupants walking three miles home in the wee small hours of the morning.

The game was featured by good hockey on the part of both teams who had little practice. The first period opened with several rushes resulting in a goal for Hastings two minutes after the face-off when Puffer netted a counter assisted by McCarthy and McCoy. Five minutes later Petticrew for Hastings batted the puck into the net from a scramble. Both teams passed up good chances in the next few minutes.

The teams:

Warsaw: Goal, Digweed; defence, Cooper, Bryan; wings, A. Watts, J. Watts; centre, I. Watts; alternates, B. Bell, D. Bell, Sharpe, Payne, Hamblin, Drain.

Hastings: Goal, Montgomery; defence, Boyle, McCoy; wings, Scriver, McCarthy; centre, Puffer; alternates, Edwards, Radford, Petticrew, Phillips.

Referee—Paul Payne.

Canucks Victors

Canucks copped a 2-1 Southend League juvenile nod over the Y's Men's team Friday at the Sacred Heart rink. It was a fine tussle throughout, with all tallies coming early. B. Jones notched two for the winners, and Robinson counting for the other side. The Jones brothers and Robinson, and both goalies were outstanding. The teams:

Canucks. — Goal, Mattucci; defence, Brioux, O'Donnel; centre, J. Jones; wings, Cournyea, Heath; subs., B. Jones, Collins, Evans.

Y's Men.—Goal, Ainsley; defence, Plumpton, Lands; centre, Mortimer; wings, Horton, Robinson; subs, Martin, Jordan, Chimenti, Curtis.

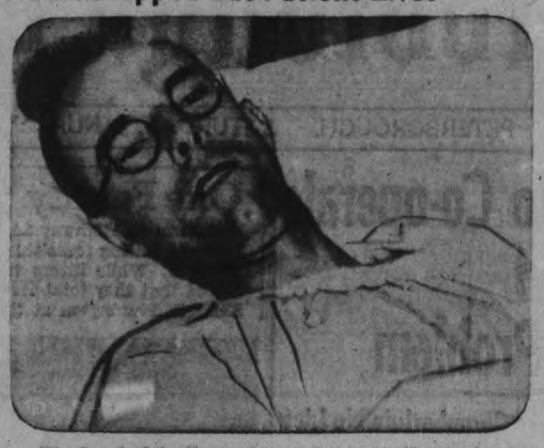
Heart Stopped But Patient Lives



The hand of death was forestalled by the hand of a surgeon in a Winnipeg hospital, when the heart of John T. Dakin, ABOVE, 37-year-old resident of Ogema, Saskatchewan, stopped beating while he was undergoing an operation to amputate part of his lung. When the heart stopped beating the operating surgeon reached into the incision in the patient's back, grasped the heart in his hand, and kept it pumping until adrenalin could be injected. Normal pulsation returned and the lung operation was completed.

Lakefield Drops Game To Norwood

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 14—Lakefield High School hockeyists suffered a 3 to 1 beating at the hands of the Norwood High School pucksters when the local lads made their debut in the Campbellford-Norwood High School League in the Lakefield rink Friday night.

Both teams were fighting their first battle of the season and though they missed some golden opportunities due no doubt to lack of the necessary practice, they gave their fans plenty of excitement. Both teams turned out a much stronger defence than attack, and a common failing, particularly with the Lakefielders, was too much haste in trying for the net.

Puffer, on Norwood's defence, and Baker, in goal for the visitors, played a big part in holding Lakefield to her one point. Morris, playing on Norwood's first line for the first time gave promise of real talent.

Yale, on Lakefield's defence, and Chester Windsor in goal, played a whale of a game for the homesters. Both were right on their toes from start to finish, and to Yale goes the credit for Lakefield's only goal. He pushed it in, in the second period, shortly after a goal by Stewart had been disallowed because of an offside.

Norwood's right wing, W. Buck, scored two of the visitors' three goals in quick succession in the second period. The third counter was pushed in by Norwood's centre, Gill, in the last stanza of the game. There were no scores in the first session, but three penalties were meted out—one each to Yale and Hurl on the local squad and one to Gill of the visitors.

Both of Lakefield's forward lines worked hard, and with a little practice in combination and timing should present a formidable offensive.

The teams:

Norwood: Goal, B. Baker; defence, Puffer, Morris; centre, Gill; wings, L. Sargent, W. Buck; subs, L. Bongard, B. Hefferman, C. Stevenson, W. Lobb.

Lakefield: Goal, C. Windsor, defence, K. Morris, D. Yale; centre, F. Loyst; wings, G. Tanner, D. Hurl; subs, B. McCracken, B. Clark, B. Shearer A. Stewart and B. Brown.

Beavers Win 12-1

Beavers swamped Canucks by a 12-1 score in a midget Southend Loop game Friday at the Sacred Heart rink. Berardi got the only Canuck counter, while Ainsley scored seven for the winners with Willis and O'Brien having two each and Welburn one. Ainsley, O'Brien and Berardi shone in this one-sided fray. The teams:

Canucks.—Goal, Keating; defence, McAuliffe, Bartley; centre, Berardi; wings, Heath, Maloney; subs, Phillips, Peters, Jones, Shaughnessy.

Beavers.—Goal, Cooper; defence, Welburn, Willis; centre, Mesley; wings, O'Brien, Ainsley.

Referee, Sid Henwood.

CURLING

By HERB MARTIN

If all the "double-header" schedule games are run off as smoothly and as promptly as they were last evening then there will be no kicking from anyone. All games were started exactly on the hour, and rinks were practically complete and all were finished well within the time limit. What more could any committee expect? What more is there to expect? And to all those who turned out at the 7 p.m. draw we say "Thank you," and also to those on the 9 p.m. draw. That's the kind of co-operation that counts.

Our boys did not do so well over in Lindsay, both rinks being down for a total of 12 points.

The ladies turned in some nice curling yesterday morning when the first games of the Gibson trophy were played. The new players showed up very well. These games will be continued throughout the season.

WEEKLY GRAIN REVIEW.

WINNIPEG, Jan. 14 — (C.P.). — Wheat futures moved irregularly in a series of dull sessions on the Winnipeg market this week, with trading confined to a narrow price range of about 1½ cents.

Friday's close found quotations ½ cent lower for the week with May at 62¼, July 62⅞-63, and October 63¼ cents. Exporters offered most of the buying while the bulk of light offerings were credited to the Wheat Board.

Export business in Canadian wheat was placed at more than 1,500,000 bushels, most of which was reported to have been sold to the United Kingdom. Sales of flour to domestic and export houses were confirmed.

Two cargoes of Australian flour were sold to China while an Australian wheat cargo afloat was sold by India, presumably to the United Kingdom.

In Europe, where unfavorable weather is causing concern, Russia is experiencing alternate thawing and freezing, which is damaging to crops of that country at this time of the year. The outlook appears to be favorable in the Southern and Western Balkans, but in the northern areas there are complaints of unsatisfactory conditions.

Cricket Notes

The time is now approaching when club executives will be getting busy with the necessary routine spade work in preparation for another season.

One of the great difficulties for local clubs in the past has been arranging a schedule containing a fair quota of home games. Toronto clubs are always ready to arrange matches which call for the Peterborough teams to travel, but are chary of returning the compliment. Last season Whitaker's travelled to Toronto six times and only had one return visit and during the last few seasons the balance has been strongly against the Peterborough Club in that respect. It has been hinted in the past that the state of the wicket at the Oval was at the back of all this. That is merely an excuse, and not a reason, for taking it big and large. The local wicket is as good as the average pitches provided in Toronto. Now, with water laid on and with expert attention, it will be better and equal to anything in the country.

Prior to the general meeting of the Toronto and District Council in November, the local secretary, A. B. Burrows, wrote to W. Paris, who has succeeded R. W. Sharp as secretary to the council, pointing out the facts and asking that the Toronto clubs would endeavor to remedy the formerly-existing state of affairs.

The secretary received a sympathetic letter from Mr. Paris, stating that the local clubs' letter had been placed before the meeting and that the clubs represented would do their best to help the Peterborough clubs in the matter of arranging fixturs.

The Christmas draw proved an encouraging success, and the thanks of the club are due to the sub-committee in charge: Messrs. T. Williams (chairman), B. Boothroyd (secretary-treasurer), J. Chambers, L. Gould and E. Lowden, and an energetic band of ticket salesmen.

A CONSPIRACY.

I think the bus company should locate this fellow who has been terrorizing women in the south-end and pay him a bonus, was the waggish remark heard at the Kinsmen Club dinner on Thursday night. The member said every woman travelling south on Park Street was using the bus, all except one woman who was noticed by a bus driver heading past the C.G.E. on Thursday night carrying a short length of cordwood. It was not known whether this was for her own protection or to use on an erring husband.

NO MORE ATTACKS.

No attacks were reported on Friday evening and the score of the earlier part of the week seemed to be subsiding as the police had few telephone calls.

MORE ABOUT—

Year '38 Falls

relation to the 1937 level than in any other month since July.

Quebec, Prairies Lead

Employment in the Maritime provinces, Ontario and British Columbia was quieter than in 1937, while in Quebec and the Prairie Provinces the indices averaged slightly higher. In Quebec, the gain was due mainly to an increase in unemployment relief works while that in the Prairie area reflected improvement in the agricultural situation.

The summary segregated statistics for the eight leading industrial cities—Montreal, Quebec, Toronto, Ottawa, Hamilton, Windsor, Winnipeg and Vancouver. Of these Montreal and Quebec showed improvement over 1937, due mainly to an increased program of unemployment relief works while activity connected with the eucharistic congress during the summer also helped the situation in Quebec. The remaining six cities reported curtailment, the percentage losses varying from 0.6 in Toronto to 5.5 in Windsor.

A review of the industrial analysis in Canada showed that manufacturing gained only slightly from the beginning to the end of 1938, compared with an average advance of nearly nine per cent from Jan. 1, to Dec. 1 in the period, 1921-1937. The index in this industry, while lower than in 1937, was higher than in 1936, or any other year since 1929. Most branches of factory employment reported activity was reduced from the 1937 level, but the great majority afforded more employment than in 1936.

Mining as a whole showed slight improvement over 1937 and employment in that industry was at its 18-year maximum; most of the advance took place in the metallic ore division. Logging, following the exceptional activity of 1937, was at a low level during 1938. In the service group, consisting mainly of hotels, restaurants, laundries, and dry-cleaning establishments, employment was slightly more active than in 1937, while the volume of employment in trade was practically the same as in the preceding year.

Communications also showed little general change from 1937. There was a slight falling-off in that comparison in transportation, but the index for that industry showed a small fractional gain over 1936. Construction generally was rather brisker than in 1937, mainly due to the higher level of employment reported in the early months of 1938, although improvement over the same period of 1937 was indicated at November 1 and December 1.

Building showed no general change as compared with the preceding year; highway work afforded more employment than in any other year since 1934, partly owing to unemployment relief projects. On the other hand, railway construction and maintenance provided work for a smaller number of men than in any of the four preceding years.

Mountie Mounts Fade Among Famed Ranks But Sleigh Dog Of North Can't Be Replaced

OTTAWA, Jan. 14 (CP) — Horses may become increasingly rare in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police as the force gradually takes to automobiles, motorcycles, speed cruisers and airplanes in its pursuit of crime and criminals but the modern trend has failed to reduce the usefulness of the sleigh dog in the far north.

In the year ended March 31, 1938, the force actually increased its sleigh dogs by 37, bringing the total up to 434, more than half of which are employed in the North-west Territories.

Horses, which have suffered heavy losses in the ranks in recent years, now number 202 for the whole force — and nine of those are team horses and four pack horses. The total is seven less than a year ago.

The force possessed at that date 493 automobiles, 19 motor trucks, and 17 motorcycles. A few bicycles are also kept in good working order at "A" division, Ottawa.

The preventive arm of the service employs 20 patrol boats and nine cruisers, as well as four cabin airplanes which are used exclusively in the Maritimes on coastal patrol.

Biblical Thoughts For the Shut-Ins

By Rev. E. R. James, Toronto

THE LORD'S GIFT OF FRIENDSHIP

JESUS said: YE are MY FRIENDS.—St. John 15:14.

As the Carpenter of Nazareth went up and down the land, meeting all sorts and conditions of men and women, one thing they were agreed on: "He was a very friendly Man." He was most approachable. Very often men absorbed in a particular study or science found that they have lost the gift of friendship. They have paid too great a price for their knowledge. An invisible, but very real gulf has sprung up between them and their fellows. They have lost the gift of fellowship.

This was the striking contrast between Our Lord and the ancient prophets and modern prophets also. He was very human. Men were attracted to Him. A leper, fearfully diseased, "full of leprosy" saw Him. He looked into His face. That was enough. He felt constrained to draw near with the petition: "Lord, if Thou wilt Thou canst make me clean."

The Christ could not live a lonely life, separated from His felows. He is truly man, bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh. He has the social instinct strongly developed. He drew men to Him by His attractive sympathy, courtesy and tenderness. He was a true gentleman. Men felt at ease in His Presence.

Moreover, He needed friends. He had a hunger for fellowship, for human affection and understanding. This may help you to understand something of the Tri-une God, the Father, Son and Holy Ghost. Not a lonely God. There is fellowship within the Godhead. "Let us make man in our own image." So you are not surprised that such a man gathered around Him a small band of men. Apostles, disciples. Men who would drink in His spirit of friendship and fellowship.

More than seventeen hundred years ago Clement of Alexandria drew attention to Our Lord's use of diminutive in addressing his His Apostles. "Children"; "Boys"; "My little sheep." How near such a term brought Him to them and they to Him. No wonder such men, after such a training and example in fellowship and friendliness, went forth to "turn the world upside down." It is Harnack, the famous German scholar, who points out that the pagan world of that day was converted to Christianity not by highly organized missionary societies but by men who went out meeting others "with infinite love in ordinary intercourse." Slaves saw love in the faces and hearts of men they had never seen before. They were mere chattels in the eye of the law. They were accustomed to harshness and cruelty. They met with love, tenderness and courtesy beyond all their imaginations and expectations. They accepted the Christ. They showed His love, tenderness and courtesy in their master's homes, who were astonished by this change in their characters. Consequently many a great lady or gentleman became interested in this new religion. St. Paul tells us how through this agency members of the household of Caesar embraced Christianity.

Does your religion make you loving, attractive, sympathetic? This is the acid test of true religion.

How are you to develop this spirit of fellowship?

The Lord said that after His ascension He would send them the Spirit, the Comforter. An important part of the Spirit's work is to "glorify Him," to reveal Him to men and women in all His sweetness, charm, tenderness and attractiveness. Perhaps this was the reason why St. Paul chose the Greek word for "Grace" to reveal to mankind a new religion of joy, fellowship and friendship Ask the Lord to pour into your heart something of His Spirit. Read these Gospel stories. Steep your mind in them Be saturated with the words of some Gospel, say St John. Ponder upon them and as the years go by slowly, gradually something of His Spirit will be seen in you. He has promised to give you the power to become a Son, a Daughter of God. You will not need to tell people you are being saved Something of His love, tenderness and sympathy will ooze out of you. Men will see that your friendship is so clean, so sincere, so disinterested that they will marvel and want to know the secret. You ranswer will be:

"THE LOVE OF CHRIST CONSTRAINETH ME"

The Human Side of the News

By EDWIN C. HILL

These scientists who go flannel-shirted and booted into the wilds to pry into nature's secrets have a grand time. Father Hubbard, the Glacier Priest, just back from Alaska, sits with me for a couple of hours and tells me all about his 18 months with the Ekimo people of Bering Strait Islands.

A simple people who have found the secret of happiness, says Father Hubard. They haven't had a murder among them in 50 years, nor an important stealing, nor a divorce. The yhave radio but are little interested in the outside world.

A great-hearted explorer and scientist, the Rev. Bernard R. Hubbard, S.J., is professor of geology of Santa Clara University, California, but he hasn't been working actively at the job for six years, because Santa Clara thinks it more important for him to continue his work in the Alaskan valley of Ten Thousand Smokes, and in the glacier fields and among the Ekimos than to teach the story of rocks to Santa Clara boys. For 12 years, now, this remarkable man has been adventuring annually into Alaska and Alaskan waters, seeking the secrets of weather born in the "Cradle of Storms."

In his recent stay in the Arctic he crossed Bering Strait in rough weather in a crude boat made from walrus skins, risked his life to prove that the Eskimos and probably the American Indian came from Asia over the strait a few hundred thousand years ago. Tough as whipcord, there is no adventure this exploring priest won't tackle. He is indeed, of the breed of these hardy Jesuits like Father Joquet and Joliet who risked and gave their lives back in the 17th century.

He is perhaps less known as the Jesuit missionary who supports Eskimo and Indian orphan children of Alaska. He conducts his scientific expeditions to the glaciers and volcanoes of Alaska without financial backing, and the scientific data he has brought back is invaluable. His mission work in the far north must halt until an indebtedness of several thousand dollars incurred by his last expedition can be paid off. And so, to pay off that debt and permit his great humanitarian and scientific work to go on, he has arranged a program of lectures throughout the United States.

Few men alive had had such adventures as this "Priest of the Volcanics and the Glaciers," whose passion for knowledge takes him to the smoking bowels of volcanoes that have blown off their snow-capped heads, and to age-old glaciers creeping forever to the waiting sea.

Powerful in build, with dark lean face, chiselled features, and keen brown eyes, Father Hubbard doffs his cassock, leaves his Santa Clara study, dons a flannel shirt, corduroy breeches and hob-nailed boots and is off for the thrilling and the unknown.

In the interior of Alasaka, in the Valley of Ten Thousand Smokes, he has climbed mountains more awe-inspiring than the Matterhorn, more terrifying than Vesuvius. He may tell the story (as he has told it so well to me) of the day when the volcano of Katmai exploded with a roar that quivered a continent. It blew its head off in a vast cataclysm of ashes which clouded the skies above the Desert Sahara eight thousand miles away. Millions of birds were killed as was all wild life for many miles around.

And Father Hubbard may tell again the story of how he climbed to the smoking summit of Katmai, to stand upon the brink of a disemboweled mountain and gaze fearfully down into the awful depths; stranght down for a mile his gaze travelled to Dante's own inferno,

Rev. Bernard Hubbard, S.J.

the ruin of a mountain which had committed suicide. "It stunned me like a blow," said Father Hubbard to this speaker. 'The breath-taking immensity of it—the circling walls of brilliant colors, dropping down—down—interminably down — to the blue of impossible depths. I gazed speechless, and then I became aware that my little dog had leaped upon me and was quivering in the circle of my arms, for he, too, had looked upon the sight below."

A National Message

By the late Rev. W. Pascoe Goard, LL.D., F.R.G.S., F.R.E.S.

We shall number the clauses, not as they appear in the bill itself, for those clauses which speak of the separation and captivity having been fulfilled need not come into this exposition. The reader will find them most clearly set forth in the first and second chapters of Hosea, from which chapters our quotation is taken. We shall number those provisions which are yet to be fulfilled.

First, the captivity shall not halt nor cut off the increase of the children of Israel in the latter days. This is the provision: "Yet the number of children of Israel shall be as the sands of the sea which cannot be measured nor numbered. . ."

This is not necessarily the case during the long period of separation. But after the nation should hear and respond to the alluring voice of the Lord, the increase should come.

The fact that this should be at the end is made clear by the time indication "Then," which occurs, a we shall see, in the next sentence.

Now, as a matter of fact, our branch of the race came to a low ebb in numbers late in history. At the time of the reformation, the deadly oppressions of continental influence in church and state had reduced the Celto-Saxon people—the Israel of prophecy, then dwelling wholly in the British Isles—to not more than five or six millions of people.

Then came the alluring voice of the Lord in the reformation. Israel heeded both in Britain, and on the Continent. This was followed by an amazing increase, so that by the beginning of the 19th century, A.D. 1800, the number had increased from six millions to some sixteen millions, and by 1936, one hundred and thirty six years later, the number was multiplied tenfold, to one hundred and sixty millions. Add to this all those of the continental remnant of Israel, and who shall say how many there may be.

Cathedral Musings

Today, in the disturbed condition of the world, we see the inevitable results of the materialism which has fastened itself like a cancerous growth upon almost every department of human activity, including the religious. Nazism, Fascism, racial antagonisms, the widespread social unrest, etc., are not self-created, neither are they the primary causes one of another, as some would have us believe. We must look deeper, for the real cause is the lack of spiritual values in our lives. It is this lack which makes man a ravening beast preying upon his fellow men. It is this lack which makes the modern doctrine of right is might a perfectly logical conclusion to arrive at. In short, it is the exaltation of self carried to the nth degree on a national basis. We cherish our individual freedom, but are we any less materialists?

Do we put the Kingdom of God first and our own interests last, or are not our very being tainted by motives of self It is obviously true that there is no religion higher than the truth, but how does our religious practice measure up to the Eternal Truths, the truths that Jesus, and others before Him, enunciated? There is not, nor can there be, any half-way position in spiritual things, we either do, or we do not, carry the Christian ethics into our lives both individually and nationally. Our civilization is either Christian or it is not. No man, no religious institution, no nation, can serve itself and God at the same time And this is the basis of the evil of today, for the fabric of society is not founded upon the, spiritual world, but upon the material world, not upon the love of God and man, but upon the deviltry of self and self-interest. We need a new reformation, a new stirring of the dry bones of custom and creed.

There is no need of new religion, there are to many as it is, but there is a real need to get back, not so much to the commentators, saints though they were, but to the fountain head, the Christ. As it is, we are on the horns of a dilemma, if Jesus was Truth, why in our practice, ignore His teachings and yet call ourselves Christian? For, as we have said, there is no half-way position, for if we do not love our fellow men, we can have no sincerity in our love of God and if we love ourselves we cannot, by any means, even have an idea, whatever, of God.

Peter Sees Christ's Glory

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Jan. 15 is Matthew 17: 1-18; 2 Peter 1:16-18, the Golden Text being John 1: 14. "We beheld His glory, as the glory of the Only Begotten of the Father.")

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

With multitudes of people following Christ about and listening to His preachings, it probably was felt by Him that He must get away from the world sometimes and commune with His God. So, on this night of which we are told He took his three best friends, Peter, James and John, his brother, and went up into a high mountain to pray. The record says it must have been Mount Hermon, which rises 9,000 feet.

At any rate, while Jesus prayed apart from his companions, the three disciples went to sleep. They were awakened by a bright light, and they saw Jesus transfigured so that "His face did shine as the sun, and His raiment was white as the light." With Him the disciples saw two great Jewish leaders, Moses and Elias, the prophet. They were talking to Jesus about His coming death in Jerusalem. Then a cloud appeared, and out of the cloud a voice spake and said: "This is my Beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear thou Him."

You can imagine that the disciples were frightened at first, but Jesus came and touched them and told them not to fear. All their lives these men, especially Peter, remembered and pondered on this vision.

Have you ever seen a familiar face become transfigured with joy or inspired thought? It is something to remember. Plain human faces can reflect such a wonderous light that are transformed and plain features are made beautiful.

On the next day a certain man came to Jesus and brought his only son with him. The son was an epileptic. The people of that day thought a devil was in him, tearing and bruising him and making him foam at the mouth and cry out. The father said the disciples had tried to cure him, but they had not been able. Jesus cured the son when His disciples asked Him why they could not do it, He told them it was because they did not have enough faith.

Another interesting story which comes in today's lesson also illustrates how lack of faith may literally let one down. It is the story of Jesus walking on the water. The disciples were in a ship which was tossed about in the rough sea. Jesus was on the shore, and He went toward the ship, walking on the water. The disciples were frightened at seeing this miracle. They thought He was a spirit. But Jesus comforted them by saying, "Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid."

Then Peter said: "Lord, if it be Thou, bid me come unto Thee on the water." And He said "Come."

So Peter started walking toward Jesus on the water, but he became afraid, and when he was afraid he started to sink, crying out "Lord, save me!"

Jesus stretched out His hand and caught him and said, "Oh, thou of little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt"?

This is one of the many lessons we can remember all our lives. We must have faith. We may not be able to walk on the water. We do not live in the time of Jesus and we do not have the physical presence of the Savior. But if we believe that He can do all things, and if we trust the work hard toward a solution of our problems, we, too, can carry on, even though our paths seem dark.

Christianity Has Never Been Tried

The Hon. R. B. Bennett, in one of his farewell addresses, has made the statement that Christianity has failed. He is repeating a statement which has been made on other occasions. He would have been near the truth, if he had said Christianity has never been tried. That Christianity has not failed in the main idea running through a series of sermons to be preached on Sunday evenings at St. Paul's church, beginning next Sunday. These sermons are based on books that may be bought and studied by the average man. The series is as follows: 1, Among London dockers, based on the book, "Finding Men For Christ"; 2, on Tower Hill, based on the book "Christ on Tower Hill"; 3, Behind prison bars, based on the autobiography by Steward Wood, "Shades of the Prison House"; 4, On English highways, based on the book, "The Crowd for Christ"; and 5, Where do we fail? based on the book by Dr. Weatherhead, "How Can I Find God?" The answer to Mr. Bennett is clearly given; where real Christianity exists, its proves that Christ can meet every human problem and solve it. Come and see.

Peter Sees Christ's Glory — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 17:1-18; II Peter 1:16-18.

Peter, James and John go up in the mountain top with Jesus, and He is transfigured before them, and they are afraid.

"I saw seven golden candlesticks; and in the midst One like unto the Son of Man, clothed with a garment down to the foot.

A certain man comes to Jesus and asks Him to cure his son, sick with epilepsy, and Jesus makes him well again.

Jesus walks on the water, but when Peter tries to do likewise he becomes afraid and started to sink.

Not a Political Matter

The report of Mr. Justice H. H. Davis dealing with the Bren gun contract appears to have unearthed no scandal. The hearing itself lasted for 36 days; there were 388 documentary exhibits received and numbered; likewise there were 4,122 pages of stenographic notes taken in the hearing of evidence and argument. All of which is impressively large.

Mr. Justice Davis passes along to parliament the task of saying whether the manufacture of Bren guns or other equipment of war should be undertaken by the government or assigned to private manufacturers. In the Speech from the Throne delivered one day in advance of the release of the Bren report there was reference to the same thing and the suggestion made that it would be government policy to have purchasing of munitions done by a commission apart from the Department of Defence in which business men with a technical knowledge of such matters might be drafted. Whether the Speech from the Throne was made to coincide with the Bren report on that point we do not know, but it is at least a coincidence.

What the public was interested in was whether or not there had been anything done by Major Hahn and his associates which ought not to have been done, and whether any members of parliament had entered the plan in the hope of receiving financial returns. The finding is clear enough on that point because it is definitely stated that no member of the government or of the Department of Defence had anything to do with the financial arrangements.

The one point was whether other manufacturers apart from the Inglis Co. should have been asked to confer to see if they desired to submit competitive tenders for the doing of the work. The finding of Mr. Justice Davis is that such a matter would be one of government policy and it would have to be decided in parliament.

If such a thing were possible it would be well to have the debate on such a question confined to facts. That may be hoping for too much but it ought not to be. A question which concerns the defence of our country is one from which political consideration or an attempt at political advantage should be banished at the inception. It should be outlawed and shunned. The defence of our country is not a matter which we approach as Liberals or Conservatives, as C.C.F. or any other thing, but as a united people facing a common problem and looking for the best possible solution. The debate in parliament should be on that basis.

The Cost Will Be Greater

The serious business of financing old age pensions was brought to the attention of a deputation from the Ontario Municipal Association when it appeared before Hon. Eric Cross, Minister of Public Welfare. Peterborough was represented on the deputation.

Pensions based on 70 years as the limit of being eligible for acceptance, are now costing our province $13,000,000 a year, but that figure will increase. It is estimated it will reach $39,000,000 per year in 1971. Information of that sort is difficult for the average individual to understand or perhaps credit, but we are certain the government has expert opinion on it, and the figures are probably secured by actuaries on the same basis that such computations are made for insurance companies.

If it is desired to have a contributory basis for pensions in this province then the problem is going to be difficult for those who can contribute little. Ald. Dutton had opportunity to discuss this with Hon. Mr. Cross. The alderman's contention was that the tendency today in industry makes it difficult for many men of 45 or 50 years to find employment, and if they have no employment they have no income from which they can make contributions to a pension fund, and if that is the case then such individuals are going to face a hard passage until they reach the age at which they can claim the right to be in receipt of old-age pensions.

It is well that people should realize what is ahead of them and what a government has to face and plan for in financing pensions. Admittedly the increase of from 13 to 39 millions will take some years to become fully active, but it will also call for increased financial strength in order to shoulder the load which is an annual charge. The more that people know of the problems of government the better able they should be to appreciate the task which our public men have to face.

Putting a Man In Jail

Three hundred people filed through court at Toronto and paid a fine of $5. The charge against them was that they had neglected to secure a radio license. Six inspectors were on hand to conduct the prosecution.

A week was given to raise the fine of 5, and if not paid then the unlucky individual goes to jail for five days.

And that looks about as poor and miserable as can be. It is just about the same as putting a man on jail for debt.

It is no use trying to bring forward an excuse. One man said there had been sickness in his home and the radio had not been in use for seven months. No difference. Five dollar fine plus $2.50 for the license.

The best way of course is to have the license whether one approves of it or not, but putting a man in jail because he cannot pay a fine of $5 inside of a week is certainly not the best method of collection for this country and it should never be sanctioned or tolerated.

By Way Of Suggestion

January is a long way off from the annual lawn and gardens competition of the Peterborough Horticultural Society, but even with the snow on the ground it may not be untimely to pass along a little suggestion that might be of some help in promoting the objects of the society. Silver and other trophies are given to the winners of this competition, and then the whole affair is forgotten for another year. The shiny cups and shields receive a day's publicity, and then they are forgotten. Few people take notice of the winning lawns and gardens, and nearly all the potential effect of emulation is lost. If the society had some way of marking these lawns with attractive and desirable signs, costing perhaps as much as the silver cups, the fact that they had been declared prize-winners would be suitably indicated until the frost came. Other homeowners would be frequently reminded of the society's competition, and they would have some definite standard to which they might direct their own plans and work about their lawns and flower beds. Perhaps, also, they would have to be securely anchored in the ground for safe keeping; but in any case they would exert a far greater influence than the cups and shields that see the outdoors only in moving annually from one home to another.

Too Much Talking

Toronto and provincial police conducted a raid on an apartment over a drug store in Swansea and there found plenty of evidence showing that betting on horse races was being carried on extensively. Twenty telephones in the room gives some idea of the equipment.

It is considered possible that there may be some connection between this betting ring and the circumstances which led to the shooting of James Windsor in Toronto. In the announcement in the press it is stated the police acted on an untraced telephone message which said "If you want to find out something about Jimmy Windsor's murder you had better get busy on that betting place in Swansea village."

That may look like helpful information coming from the outside, but there are at least two things wrong with it. Perhaps more. First—it indicates that the police talk too much. It will not help matters to have it known that some person has been telephoning to the police. Much better for them to go ahead with their raid and say as little as possible.

Second—it will cause the public to do some asking of questions, and the first one will be as to why there was a place in Swansea with an equipment of 20 telephones, adding machines, a couple of rooms with a dozen or more people working there—and yet the police knew nothing about it?

No matter how one looks at the case, it seems the police would have been well advised not to have talked so much about what they were doing—and what they did.

They Also Lose

Often enough it has been urged that the real profit is made on farm produce after it leaves the farm, and there may be a degree of truth in that. A good many men who never handled a fork have made more money out of wheat than the men who produce it. And others have lost in the same attempt.

There has been a demonstration of what can happen in the buying and selling of eggs. Wholesale dealers in a city the size of New York operate on a wide basis. Many times their stock on hand in storage will be numbered in the thousands of dozens.

Weather has been rather unseasonable in much of the district from which they draw their supplies and as a result egg production started going up, and they had not expected it would. There was a drop of ten cents per dozen in the price of eggs over the weekend. The result was that the wholesalers depending on the extent of their holdings were credited with having lost from $1,000 to $10,000 because hens started laying in the off season.

Trade Should Be Brisk

It is announced that the proper attire for a man attending a day-time reception to Their Majesties will be: Morning coat, single or double-breasted waistcoat dark grey trousers, grey tie, top hat, grey gloves and spats, dress shoes or patent leather or black kid.

Upon reading that it appears members of Toronto Board of Control were given to something which looked like a bit of boasting, for they all of one accord began to say "I have all that."

Some of them made certain to have the remark published that they would not have to rent a morning coat or a top hat, and it was noticed that one Controller mentioned he bought his topper for an opening of parliament several years ago. He was not going to have the impression go abroad that he had been like the foolish virgin with no oil in the lamp at the last moment.

Winnipeg appears to be less prepared for no member of the council there owns a plug hat, and that goes for Mayor Queen as well. The price of wheat may be down in Winnipeg but the price of top hats is not; latest quotation from the gateway to the West is $13.50 f.o.b., and the man in Winnipeg considers that rather high for a hat which he will probably have to hold in his hands most of the time.

There will be fifty places in the Dominion where the men will be thinking today in terms of top hats and morning coats and spats and grey neckties. It is not sufficient to wear a button with the king's picture on the coat lapel. Being a man of affairs in the year 1939 is going to mean something. It should result in good business for the tailors and clothing stores. And when added to that is the amount of preparation which the ladies will make—well there ought to be a fair amount of trade in the next few months.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Make what you like out of it, but there was bright sunshine when our parliament opened.

John Gunther's book, "Inside Europe," has been banned in Germany. The reason probably is that the writer speaks plainly of Hitler and his methods.

They are having trouble with an ice carnival in Pontiac, Mich. They need a good-looking girl as queen, one who can skate, and they also need some ice.

Specialists in Chicago say that if one desires to have a good voice and keep it then the best way is not to talk too much. Berlin papers please copy.

One expert says a cheap tank is needed for military operations, and there are countless people hoping for the day when no tanks will be needed.

At a New Year reception in Berlin thanks was given for the Munich peace, and it might be remarked that said peace can be made permanent whenever Germany is ready for it.

LAMENT

His head is bald today,
Not like it was before.
Yet twenty years ago it was
He brushed it pompadour.

Officials of the British Railwaymen's Union have been using a station on the continent to broadcast to the workers in Germany to tell them what is going on the world. Sort of entering the foreign missionary field.

When Premier Daladier of France visited Corsica three of the most beautiful young ladies appeared and greeted him with a resounding kiss. In such a land it would be difficult to keep a premier travelling right up to schedule.

Some U.S. industrial stocks dropped a few points when President Roosevelt announced the amount to be spent on armaments. It was not as many millions high as had been anticipated and therefore there would not be as much profit for the firms interested. Some people want peace and they also want to make money out of war preparations and it's pretty hard for them to have it both ways.

PREDICTION

(By A.R.K.)

¶ Antarctic man who flies around, sends word about new land he's found,
and he is wrethed in smiles; admits there's much of ice and snow, but all the land he found would go, some thousands of square miles.

¶ And so this dauntless flying man, has claimed the land for Uncle Sam, and he's sent word to him; of course there's nothing growing there, and everything is rather bare, and daytime sort of dim.

¶ It isn't on the maps today, I judge from what he's had to say, of lands it is the worst; he claimed it all, the low and high, and stated too the reason why, because he saw it first.

¶ Perhaps they'll have an office there, to measure up the land to spare, a governor likewise; so he could keep eyes on the thing, and see that in the coming spring, no foe comes by surprise.

¶ A diplomat should be sent there, a staff to greet the winter air, they must protect the spot; and they can mount some guns I know, and foes who come will have to go, or else they would get shot.

¶ Of course this land is waste I know, and covered with deep ice and snow, and life up there has died; but as things go along today, I have no doubt the folk will say—it must be fortified.

S.O.S. DOES NOT WORK.

THE TRANSIENTS still retain a certain resourcefulness, according to The Walkerton Herald-Times:

By putting an S. O. S. (Saw or Starve) sign on the municipal woodpile behind their town hall, Wingham aims at discouraging the visitation of tramps to that town.

But the highway hoofers have a ruse to beat that signal by knocking at the civic door so late after nightfall that the caretaker isn't in the mood for handing them a saw and sticking around until they do their stuff, as Constable Jack Ferguson, who keeps the home fires burning at Walkerton's municipal mansion, can testify.

Coming with an empty stomach, the benighted wayfarer craves, and invariably receives, indulgence and if the argument grows too hot at breakfast time he leaves and begs at homes. So the S. O. S. sign is no solution to the problem.

It Was Both Good and Bad

NOTICE has been received by all members of the legal profession that no new applications under the Farmers Creditors' Arrangement Act will be received after December 31st, 1938, although the Act is still in force in Manitoba and British Columbia. Appeals however on all judgments already given may still be instituted.

The Act was passed in 1934 by the R. B. Bennett Government, and its object was praiseworthy. The farmer did not come within the ordinary bankruptcy law and the Act aimed at preventing the farmer and his family being turned off the land. Foreclosing and putting the farmer on the road would not help the creditor because farm lands would be for sale and a glutted market would follow, depressing the value of farm properties, and also increasing the burden of relief, because the families would be stranded with no capital.

Many mortgagees were acting harshly towards farmers whose farms were mortgaged, and were demanding their "pound of flesh". In many cases it was found the farm had been sold at inflated values, and that the cash the purchaser had put into the investment had disappeared with the change in farm values.

For instance one farmer sold a farm in 1929 for $8,000 whereby he received $3,000 cash and a mortgage for $5,000. That farm today would not sell for more than $4,000. The purchaser has lost his $3,000 invested and it was felt by the Government, it was only fair that the seller should bear a portion of the loss rather than have the purchaser not only lose his original investment of $3,000 but be liable for $1,000 more than the present value of the property.

In a case like this the purchaser could make application under the Farm Creditors' Arrangement Act and usually the Board of Review would reduce the principal of the mortgage by at least $1,000; that is, not price the farm above its actual value, would throw off the arrears of interest, give an extension of ten years for payment of the principal and reduce the interest to four per cent. It was usual too to state that no payment need be made on the principal for the next four years.

ON THE OTHER HAND the Act worked a hardship on many people, and it was criticised as class legislation because there was no similar act to take care of the city worker who was making an effort to pay off a mortgage and often lost his home through adversity.

There have been instances when the mortgage on a place had been there for twenty-years and the owner on making application to the Board was granted a further extension of ten years.

There were cases too where a man made his will and apportioned his estate among his children at the same time regarding any farm mortgage he might hold at its face value. After his death the beneficiary might lose half the bequest if the farmer had an adjustment made under the Act.

The Board in many cases interfered with the priority of debt and the unsecured creditor was given preference over the secured creditor. The Act injured any farmer who wished to purchase a farm for his son. The farmer might have $1,000 to pay down and would want a mortgage to take care of the balance but would be unable to get anyone to lend him the required sum.

At one time farm mortgages were rated as the best type of security but the Farm Creditors' Arrangement Act which actually was a modified form of contract repudiation frightened investors and now no loan companies are keen about lending on farm property.

The worst feature of all is that the effect of the Act will not die with it. Capital is notoriously nervous and the result is that farm mortgages will not regain their old standard as an investment for many years, for the simple reason that the lender fears to loan on farm properties lest a demand be made sufficiently strong to restore the Act once more.

THERE were cases where the Act interfered with the credit of the farmer. We mention one only, and this farmer had been in the custom of bringing in shipments of feed wheat from the West. He sold plenty of it to farmers in his own Ontario district who had stock that needed more feed than was produced on the premises. He always went to the bank in a village near him and was financed until he secured the returns from the farmers to whom he sold.

In recent years he found he could not get much credit from the bank, and what he could get was so restricted that it was no use to him. The banker did not exactly inform him that he feared he might make application under the Farmers' Creditors Arrangement Act, but intimated that other farmers on whom he was depending for his money might do so. This particular farmer did not enjoy the situation at all, and had the feeling that he was brought under suspicion which should not have been directed against him at all, and he also found that his ability to get credit at the bank and go ahead with his grain buying operations had been brought to a standstill.

• The Canadian "Emma Gees"

By CAPT. W. W. MURRAY, M.C.
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ALTHOUGH 20 years have elapsed since the close of the war, the appearance of a new unit history is still an event. Records of this character have been few, and decidedly far between. Fetherstonhaugh, Urquhart, Hedder-Williams, Kim Beatty, Corrigall and Topp—to name a few regimental historians—have done excellent jobs in this line. Jobs demanding the utmost in perseverance and industry; but the unit histories that remain to be written still greatly outnumber those that have already been published.

That being so, it is with more than ordinary interest that one welcomes the latest comer to this library. "The Canadian 'Emma Gees'" is the colloquial title of a little book, published by The Canadian Machine Gun Corps Association and acceptably written by Lt.-Col. C. S. Grafton, managing editor of the Timmins Daily Press. Of primary interest to machine gunners, the book has, however, many points that make it attractive to men who served in other branches during the war.

Colonel Grafton took on an ambitious task when he set himself to write this history for, in the nature of things, it could not be easy. Unlike other units the Machine Gun Corps did not operate as a standard arm from the outset of Canada's participation in the war to demobilization. Like Topsy it "just growed" and it underwent many metamorphoses in the process.

Infantrymen will remember how, in the old days, each battalion had its two-gun section, commanded usually by an enthusiastic subaltern who as a rule was regarded as a bit of an eccentric and was tolerated with kindly sympathy. The same spirit of toleration extended to the squad under him, the battalion "suicide section." They were a group entirely aloof from ordinary regimental work, who spoke a strange language and lived a sequestered life. No one knew much about machine guns then, and, knowing little, the average infantryman cared less.

Kitchener's Idea

Colonel Grafton has no words of reproach for this attitude of mind, for it merely reflected the abysmal indifference to the value of this weapon on the part of those in the highest places. The historian draws upon Lloyd George's memoirs to show that even as late as July, 1915, Kitchener failed utterly to appreciate the machine gun. Sir Eric Geddes is quoted as authority for the following:

"Eventually he (Kitchener) said that the proportion was to be two machine guns per battalion, four as a maximum, and anything above four was a luxury."

Possibly by reason of their remoteness from the munitions controversies Canadians were better able to distinguish the wood from the trees, for they instituted the policy of despatching to England whole machine gun batteries—new army formations so far as the war was concerned at that time.

Appreciating the need of informing the general reader on the evolution of the machine gun, Colonel Grafton introduces his book with a chapter that spans the history of projectiles from the days when the first wielder of the sling put two stones in his catapult instead of one, for better effect. It is an interesting review, filled with manifold lessons, if one is disposed to derive instruction from the errors of the past. The changing strategy of machine gun employment during the war is pictured and exemplified, for, like everyone else, the "Emma Gees" had to learn their trade and adapt themselves to the conditions as these developed.

"No single arm, with the exception of the Air Force, had earned greater recognition than the machine guns and, while always tipping a deferential salute to the infantry for their stark heroism, machine gunners had reason to feel that they belonged to a Corps d'Elite."

EXIT GLAMOR GIRL.

According to a poll of theater owners conducted by the Motion Picture Herald, Shirley Temple continues to be the public's favorite film star, with Clark Gable, Sonja Henie, Mickey Rooney, Spencer Tracy, Robert Taylor, Myrna Loy, Jane Withers, Alice Faye and Tyrone Power ranking in order after her. The feminine contingent, we observe, contains two child actresses, a champion ice skater and two expert comedians. What has happened to the glamour girl this year? If it were not for one or two names among the men we should almost suspect that ability to wear clothes and a good profile were no longer sufficient in themselves to produce box-office appeal.—(Kansas City Times).

A Bible Message For Today . . . .

The Lord is not slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness; but is longsuffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance. But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night; in the which the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the earth also and the works that are therein shall be burned up.

Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness, looking for and hasting unto the coming of the day of God, wherein the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat? Nevertheless we, according to his promise, look for new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness.—II Peter iii, 9-13.

To The Editor

GOING ON THE ROAD

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I wish to try and explain here how in my opinion most of the young men who are "on the road" got started. I admit that I cannot offer a solution to the transient's "problem," but then I can't be very smart or I would not be thinking of taking to the road myself would I? However, I am now very near to the end of my resources.

I came to Canada ten years ago from England (I was fifteen then) with the promise that "If you are not afraid of work there is no reason why you should not make a success of your life." Well after looking over some of my references, and reviewing the past ten years to myself, I found that at least I am not very lazy, so I guess I shall have to blame the government, or somebody.

First let me say that I don't drink, and smoking, which is a habit that I find I can't stop, costs me about one dollar a month. I've never wasted much money, and in short, have up to now lived like most human beings. (Or do they live like that?)

I haven't been working for some time now, and my board bill is reaching the point where most landladies expect one to "do something about it." If you think I should have some money saved, remember that when you only work periodically there is nearly always a back board bill to pay while you are working, and generally when you get caught up you're laid off.

So when this letter reaches you I expect to be many miles away. I don't think I have the nerve to beg, but I will steal when I get hungry enough.

At the moment I cannot think of anything else to do. True, I might spend a week or so at some of my friends but I expect that if I did that I would soon find that I had no friends left, and anyway they are all hard up enough as it is.

Yes, I feel quite all right thanks. I know that there are, at this moment, many other young men in exactly the same position as I, and if you can think of anything else for them to do, will you tell them? You will find some of them on Canada's highways, more on the freight trains, and still more in Canada's jails.

"PUZZLED."

Peterborough, Jan. 13.

A Bit of Nonsense

Strained Relations

When nine-year-old Willy encountered his father, just home from work, he was obviously just recovering from a crying spell.

"What's the trouble, Willy?" his father inquired.

"I've just had a terrible scene with your wife," sniffed Willy.

Bale Of Clothing Reaches Alberta From Springville

(Examiner Correspondence.)

SPRINGVILLE, Jan. 14. — Mrs. Harry Clarke was hostess to the W. M.S. of Springville on Wednesday, when thirty-two ladies were present for the opening meeting of the year The opening hymn was "Standing at the portal of the opening year," after which the business was discussed. The members decided to adopt the envelope plan for systematic giving, this to be augmented by the use of sunshine boxes. An invitation to the Springville ladies was extended by the Fairmount W. M.S. to attend an afternoon with Miss Luella Rorke, erturned missionary, on Thursday, January 19.

Miss Esme Johnston was appointed delegate to the Presbyterial. Mrs. S. Fairbairn invited the society to her home for the February meeting. "Guide me, O Thou Great Jehovah" was then sung. A poem, "The New Year," was read. Mrs. O. Murray read the Scripture lesson. The president suggested "that each of us take stock of ourselves at beginning of this New Year, and that we plan the twenty-four hours of each day in such a way that we may have time for the enriching of our mind and for prayer and meditation."

This was followed by prayer led by Mrs. A. Hunter.

Mrs. Vincent Whitington of Peterborough was present and rendered a much appreciated solo, "We've a story to tell to the Nations.

Mrs. (Rev.) Brown brought a splendid message on Stewardship, stressing the fact that stewardship meant not only the giving of money, but it meant the use of our time, gifts, and possessions in a way that complies with the Christian way of living. She contrasted the pagan gods, who demand the offering of sacrifices and gave nothing in return with our God, Who gives everything and asks such a small portion in return.

Miss J. Schaeffer and Mrs. Shaw were in charge of the remainder of the program. They chose hymn-writers as the subject, and the biographies given were very interesting. The circumstances which led to the writing of such familiar hymns as "Nearer, My God, to Thee," "Stand Up, Stand Up for Jesus," etc., were given. The following biographies were given: Newman, Whittier, S. F. Adams, Charlotte Elliott, George Duffield, and Gould. The meeting closed with the singing of "Work for the night is coming" and the Mizpah benediction.

W. A. Meets.

Mrs. H. Rowan then presided for a meeting of the Women's Association. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. L. Whittington, showing that $190 had been raised during the year, with a present bank balance of $59.50. Letters of appreciation for flowers or cards sent were read from Mrs. Sweeting and Mrs Douglas of Attwood, Ont.

The following letter in answer to the bale which was sent to Western relief was also read:

Lac La Bicke, Alta., Jan. 6, 1939.

Dear Mrs. Whitfield,—Your bales of clothing and other articles were received fith great pleasure as the people in this far away north country surely are in need of all these things. I am sure many little children, also older ones, would have been cold if they had not got this wonderful clothing. We received around 700 pounds from different points, and it is going out fast, too. It would do these sewing circles' hearts good to see the smiles on these children's faces as they receive their share. I wish to thank you one and all for this much-needed aid. Some of these articles go out as far as forty miles around Lac Le Bicke. I wish to thank you once again on behalf of this community.—Your friend.

Mrs. Iva Cramer, President Ladies' Aid, Superintendent of Sunday School.

Mrs. Rowan had received a letter from Mr. Trew of Trewdale, Sask., telling of the need in that area, and it was decided to make arrangements to send an extra bale to that area. Mrs. M. Johnston offered her home for a pot luck dinner at which the sewing will be done.

Rev. C. L. Brown then presided for the election of officers which was as follows:

President, Mrs. H. Rowan; vice-president, Mrs. S. S. Staples; secretary, Mrs. H. Brown; treasurer, Mrs. O. Murray; decorating committee, Miss M. Brown, Miss E. Johnston, Miss H. Staples; group leaders, (1) Mrs. Hunter, Mrs. Keek, (2) Mrs. Murray, Mrs. Dunsford, (3) Mrs. Cathcart, Mrs. R. Wood, Mrs. Tully.

"NERVES" SHE CALLED IT

Losing interest—losing friends—she never went out any more—always too tired. "Nerves," she thought — but it was her kidneys, the filters of her blood, that needed attention. Delay meant danger. She took Dodd's Kidney Pills at once. The improved action of her kidneys helped to clear away blood impurities and excess acids. Fatigue, headache, backache, lack of energy, disappeared. 117

Why Do You Dream Those Odd Dreams?

Dream Symbols Give Clue

Did you dream last night that you bought candy—sat down and ate it all by yourself? Probably someone you love has been neglecting you a tiny bit.

Was there a cat haunting your dreams? If it was spitting and pouncing, beware of a woman who dislikes you. A gentle, purring cat may mean your best girl friend.

Dreaming often that you are abandoned, lonely suggests that you expect more from others than you are inclined to give. It is a warning from your unconscious mind to go out of your way to be friendly.

Is there magic in dreams? Not as the ancients believed. But there is magic in the interpretation of your unconscious mind.

Learn from our 32-page booklet how modern psychology analyzes your dreams as wish-fulfilments and solutions of everyday problems. Use dreams as clues and symbols.

Send 15c in coins or stamps for your copy of THE MEANING OF DREAMS to Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS and the NAME of booklet.

Goodnight Story

By MAX TRELL

Children should always stand and walk and sit as straight as they can. I hope you do that. It's not at all good for you if you don't (for no one wants to grow up all stooped over like an old fence), and it's very, very uncomfortable for your shadow.

Just look at what happened to our friend, Knarf.

The little boy Knarf belonged to didn't pay much attention to the way he stood and walked and sat. Instead of walking straight, with his head up and his shoulders back, he slumped. Instead of standing upright, he stooped. And when he sat in a chair, he looked like an accordian, all folded in together.

And, of course, his shadow, Knarf, had to do exactly as he did, for that is the rule with shadows. Poor Knarf! He'd go through the day getting more and more bent over until finally, at the end of the day, when his master got ready for bed, he felt as though he had been laid across the inside of a book with the covers closed.

He Envied Sister.

How he envied his sister, Hanid! Hanid's mistress always walked straight. He would have given anything in the world to have been her shadow instead of the shadow of the little boy.

Well, the other morning Knarf woke up just as the sun came stealing into the room. He had been sleeping on the carpet under the edge of his master's bed. Instantly he sprang to his feet. I mean he tried to spring to his feet. But instead of getting to his feet, he started rolling around the room. Just imagine! he was as round as a ball.

It was dreadful the way he rolled.

It slid over him.

And he couldn't straighten himself out. And I don't have to tell you whose fault it was that he found himself like that.

How He Did It.

Do you know how he straightened himself out again? It was Hanid's idea. Perhaps you'll think it was a funny way of doing it, but it worked.

Hanid rolled him down the stairs and rolled him into the kitchen where Katybelle was ironing the clothes. Then she bounced him on the floor (like a rubber ball!) and he landed right on the ironing board.

Whiz-zz-zz went the iron as it slid right over him. He didn't mind that it felt a little hot. No, indeed! He was very grateful that it slid over him. And when it reached the tip of his toes, he sprang lightly to the floor again.

And he was as straight as a poker! I hope he and his master stay that way, don't you?

Freighter Brings Bridge Down

When a boat wrecks a bridge—that's news. This boat, the Waukegan, did just that and here is the scene of the crash. Its rudder fouled as it slipped slowly up-river at St. Georges, Delaware, the freighter crashed into one of the bridge towers, tumbling both tower and centre span of the bridge into the water. One seaman was reported dead in the accident.

Testify At Quiz Into "Hell Ship" Cruise

With a grand jury investigating all phases of the bizarre story, Captain Richard Hoffman, LEFT, and Seaman Marion Bonelli, RIGHT, both will be called to tell their respective stories of the cruise of the ship Metha Nelson, which left Los Angeles loaded with Hollywood celebrities on a treasure-hunting expedition and was rescued in distress at sea after radioing reports of a mutiny on board. Hoffman was skipper of the vessel, described as a "hell ship" by crew members who told of beatings and imprisonment at sea and complained of racial discrimination by the captain. Marino Bello stepfather of the late Jean Harlow, Countess Di Frasso, and Richard Gulley, a cousin of Anthony Eden, were aboard the schooner when she sailed to hunt hidden treasure on Cocos Island.

DEATH AT THE MANOR

By M. E. CORNE

READ THIS FIRST:

Elsie Ritter, a beauty shop operator, is on her way to the Manor, the luxurious home of the wealthy Witherspoon family. She has agreed to take the place of her friend, Kitty, for a week, running the private salon of old Mrs. Witherspoon, an eccentric semi-invalid.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER TWO

NO FOREBODINGS assailed me on that afternoon of my last day at "Madame Moira's", and when six o'clock came I was packed and ready and waiting for the chauffeur to arrive for my trip to the Manor. I did take the precaution to leave my address with Mrs. Ranking, my landlady, but that only was because I thought Phi might call, and I was still expecting results from that young man.

It was six o'clock on the dot when the horn sounded in the street and I dashed from the house without waiting for Tim to come in after me. Mrs. Ranking was burning with curiosity as it was, and a little burning, I thought, would do her good. She was such a nosey old soul!

The car parked at the curb was a honey! Long and low, with the back end closed in—a town car. I think you call them—and I felt pretty ritzy riding in such a limousine even though I did have to sit up front with Tim. The first few blocks I did not say a word, but sat straight and tall, watching the sidewalk and hoping some of the girls from the shop would see me. But when we left the town and came out into the open country I turned to Tim to see if I could not get the low down on this job I had taken.

Tim was young, handsome in a muscle-bound sort of way. He was the big, brutish type, if you get what I mean! Right away we hit it off fine. Tim, it seemed, admired girls with red, curling hair and big blue eyes and a complexion that never saw the inside of a paint box.

"You're aces, Kid!" he said, and if I had been so minded I could have enjoyed the ride snuggled in his strong right arm.

"What's it like at the Manor?" I queried, making it plain that necking was not one of my vices.

"Well," and I thought he sounded a bit unwilling, "well, it's damned funny!"

"Funny" Right away I commenced to get curious. "How?"

"Oh, Just funny. The old lady is a heller!"

"Hard to get along with, eh?"

"She ain't any love bird." Tim speeded up. "Leads Horace and his frau a merry chase."

"Is Mrs. Horace nice?"

He gave me a peculiar look. "Sure, she's nice. She's like a kid what's found out there ain't no Santy Claus." And he shut up like a clam.

"How many people are staying there?" I can take a hint when I want to, but I did not want to then.

"Plenty! House is filled up. Company from N' York."

"Oh!" I frowned. My job did not sound like any cinch. "Many women in the crowd?"

"Della Craig is there."

"Della Craig!" I began to get excited all over again. I never had been closer to an actress than the tenth row at the Alhambra in the old days before the talkies, when second-rate road shows played one-night stands in Lawnville. And Della Craig was an honest-to-goodness Broadway actress! I had seen her picture lots of times in the Cosmetic World, which is my profession's Bible, posing for ads—you know the type—"hairdress by Charles of the Ritz."

"Sure, she's there." Tim did not sound overly enthused. "An' a blonde dame they call 'Toots' and a dark one they call 'Glad.'"

"Any men?" I had visions of a tall, tanned millionaire who would take one look at my maidenly charms and fall like a ton of bricks.

"Men!" He snorted. "There's one guy that's a Pansy or I eat my shirt! A nickel to a quarter he gets you to give him a marcel wave. He wears pink shirts and lavender neckties!"

"Yeah?" Pansies are not in my line. "What's he doing at the Manor?"

"Friend of Della's." Tim said, and turned right and into a winding drive that had a stone archway and a wrought-iron gate at the entrance.

"Oh!" I exclaimed and merely clapped my hands. The Manor was lighted from top to bottom like a Christmas tree! The house reminded me of pictures of old English castles that decorated the pages of my high school history books. It was four stories and built of stone. The roof sloped downward and was spiked with tall turrets. Along the entire left side, next the driveway, ran a great porch that was glassed in above and open below. This, as I soon learned, housed Mrs. Witherspoon's modernistic beauty salon.

Behind the house, which is where Tim took me, there was a stone garage the size of an ordinary mortal's dwelling and behind that, stretching for unseen miles, was the arboretum. Then and there I made up my mind that my first free moment would be spent in exploration of the arboretum. I was consumed with a healthy curiosity to discover whether or not MY movie star really had planted a tree there.

Tim let me out at the rear door, and if I had not been so thrilled at the sight of such splendors I might have been pretty mad. I am not used to back doors—not even when they resemble the entrance to a railway depot or a mausoleum.

"Here you are, baby!" he said and led the way inside. I stepped into the largest kitchen I had ever seen in my life.

'Good evening," said a heavy-set, middle-aged woman dressed in flowing black silk, who arose from a long table and came forward to greet me. "You are Miss Wilson's friend?" Her close-set eyes bored into mine.

"This is Elsie Ritter," said Tim. "And an additio nto our domicile, if I do say so myself!" He pinched my arm hardly. I smiled up at him. I could not help myself; he was so friendly. I did not pay any attention to the hot, resentful glance that was flashed my way from the smoldering eyes of a girl in maid's uniform, but I heard about it later. In five minutes I had made an enemy at the Manor! Luckily for me, however, I was unaware of this as I was introduced to the men and women who formed a group about the long table.

"This is Miss Ritter." Stiffly Mrs. Greely performed the introductions. "She is to take Miss Wilson's place in the salon for a few days. Miss Ritter, we are the household staff of the Manor." Graciously she included herself. "I shall not name us individually, as that is unnecessary and apt to create confusion. In the course of your duties should you deserve the services of one or many of us we shall be happy to serve you."

"Er—thanks!" I was overcome with the dignity of her speech. Plainly Mrs. Greely was not a girl to let her hair down!

"You are quite welcome, Minnie, our second parlor maid, will show you to your quarters."

"Thanks," I repeated, wondering whether it would be polite to mention supper.

"I will send Hawkins later with a tray," said Mrs. Greely, correctly interpreting the wistful expression that must have been evident on my face as I eyed the platter of cold chicken upon the table.

"This way, miss," directed Minnie, who was a tall, gangling girl with pop eyes and a tendency to giggle hysterically for no apparent reason.

I followed her through a series of complicated pantries and up a narrow, winding stair. The house was quiet, abnormally so. I shivered. Our footsteps on the soft, padded floors made no sound at all. We glided, two silent, ghosts, on and on.

"Here we are!" Minnie's voice sounded unnaturally loud and harsh. It echoed eerily through the deserted corridor. I started in spite of myself. Minnie unlocked a door upon the right.

"This here is Miss Wilson's suit," she said, motioning me forward. "She's on this floor with the family so as she can be close to the salon. She said you was to use her things while she was gone."

"I see." I stepped across the threshold. Suddenly laughter like the peal of a cracked, warped bell split the silence. I dropped my bag and whirled around.

Lindsay Worried On Jack Menace

LINDSAY, Jan. 14.—The jack rabbit menace is becoming quite serious in this district. Reports come drifting in, some of which seem incredible regarding the size of the bunnies. One farmer reports that he shot one weighing eighteen pounds, while another hunter reports that he bagged one which weighed fifteen pounds dressed. Frank Collison, who resides near Fenelon Falls, shot one weighing twelve pounds. It gave the hunter a real run, lasting about two hours. A hunting authority states that foxes are holding down the increase in jacks. Two or three foxes, he states, will corner a rabbit in twenty minutes and kill him. Reports from Ops township are to the effect that the jack rabbits are burrowing their way under the snow and feeding on the tender tops of the growing grain, and are causing some damage. One farmer has suffered the loss of twelve fruit trees by the depredations of these pests.

Tindal is the only eye witness to the crash except Ray, the driver of the truck.

We Noticed

. . . Isn't it always around this time of year that you look into your clothes and groan—that you take melancholy inventory of a drab-looking wardrobe and wonder what happened to those exciting clothes you had such fun shopping for last fall?

. . . Don't let despair get you, however, because its a situation, fortunately, which can be quickly remedied. Begin by completely reconstructing your wardrobe with an eye toward spring, or rehabilitate gradually.

. . . If you are to begin gradually—concentrate on your face — a new hat to frame it, white ruche to set it off, or a white flower to enhance it. Get one of the new dresses with a little girl look about it—this little girl look to everything —necklines, skirts, bodice, hats, is very important, and you'll scarcely be able to refrain from putting a bow in your hair!

. . . Now that you have a new hat and a fresh neckline and a 1939 silhouette, concentrate on a spring suit. Get this early, for remember you never have enough time to wear it, if you don't start it off with your fur coat.

Pooley—Delorme

Describes Iceland From Artist's Point of View

A meeting of the Lyceum Club Women's Art Association Friday afternoon was addressed by Jerrine Wells Kinton of Toronto, who with her husband sailed in 1930 on a ship chartered by Canadians of Icelandic birth, returning for the thousandth anniversary of the first parliament.

The celebration, which was attended by many celebrities, including the King of Denmark and the Prince of Norway, was held in the valley where the first Parliament met and the first laws were read from a height of rock.

Mrs. Kinton described Iceland from the point of view of an artist, and showed many very fine sketches of interesting places she had visited, probably the most notable being one painted at one-thirty in the morning, when the glow of the sunrise mingled with the setting of the midnight sun. Another, painted from near the farm where she stayed, showed a lovely fertile valley with a green river winding through it, and in the distance glacial mountains that seemed to shine like a jewel against the sky.

Because there are no trees in Iceland, Mrs. Kinton said, most of the older homes are covered with sheet metal painted in varied colors that give the streets an interesting appearance. The many fine modern buildings are of reinforced concrete.

The speaker described some of the works of Einar Jonsson, the "Poet Sculptor" of Iceland. She said that all his work belongs to Iceland, the government having built for him a museum with living quarters and studio overlooking the city.

Iceland is an interesting little island country where people live simple and unhurried lives, where there is no illiteracy, no crime, and no divorce, and is an oasis of peace and refreshment in the rather complicated world of today.

Mrs. Kinton was introduced by Mrs. J. E. R. Munro, who presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Fred Hooper. Tea was later poured by Mrs. W. A. Connor and Mrs. E. G. Hiland, and the tea table was attractively arranged with a lace cloth and spring flowers. Assistant tea hostesses included Mrs. J. G. Wharry, Mrs. J. E. R. Munro, Mrs. C. Saunders, Mrs. B. Moore, Mrs. V. S. Foster, Mrs. C. S. Thompson.

All-Women Crews On Soviet Train

MOSCOW, Jan. 14—(CP).—When the Soviet equivalent of that old ballad "I've Been Working on the Railroad" is written there will be a woman in it—lots of women.

The tourist entering the Soviet Republic is immediately struck by the presence of women workers along the right-of way. What the traveller does not always notice at first is that women also are running locomotives.

It took a while, of course, for the first woman locomotive engineer to get a chance to show what she could do. But now there are many locomotive crews composed entirely of women. On the Southeastern Railway, a special school is training 52 women for such jobs.

The move to femininize the railroads is encouraged on the theory that in case of war it would be a big help if women could take over the whole railway system behind the lines, releasing men for front-line duty. According to the newspaper "Gudok," the neatest and sweetest-running engine on the Southwestern is operated by an all-woman crew.

Mixed crews also are coming into vogue. On the Lenin Railway the veteran engineer G. P. Yezhoff got permission to teach his wife and son to drive a locomotive.

When a Man Enters "Fool's Paradise" He Loses The Love That His Wife Once Had For Him And He Never Can Regain It, No Matter What He Does

DEAR MISS DIX—We are a middle-aged couple, with children grown up and married. My husband has always been the kindest and most considerate person in the world and has never failed in all the little attentions so dear to a wife's heart, and I have always adored him. We had been married many years when I learned that my married life that seemed so beautiful to me was only a fool's paradise in which I was living, and that from the very beginning of it he had been unfaithful to me. When I learned that, something within me died. Now my husband tells me, as he has always done, that I am the only woman he ever loved and he asks me, after all the hurt I have been through, if I can't feel toward him as I used to do. Do you know of any way to call back to life that which is dead?

A MOST UNHAPPY WOMAN.

ANSWER:

Alas, no. You can no more bring back the beauty and the glamour, the faith and trust of love once they have been destroyed than you could breathe the breath of life into a corpse. Once a wife knows that her husband has betrayed her, that he has lied to her and deceived her and put other women in her place, she may still go on having an affection for him, but she never believes in him again. She never sees him again as the hero of her girlish dreams. She never loves him wholly again. And he can no more rouse in her heart the passion of love she once gave him than he could summon a dead woman from her tomb.

Your husband is following the common pattern of the philanderer. He has got old and tired of playing around with other women. The love chase has lost its allure. He is satiated with painted lips and bought kisses. Perhaps he realizes that he is growing pauchy and bald and is not such a devil among the girls as he used to be. Perhaps a seat by a warm and steady fire begins to look better to his rheumatic knees than galavanting around night clubs. Anyway, he is coming back to home and Mother.

The irony of it and the tragedy of it is that he expects to take up the old love where he laid it down and for his wife to be able to love him with the same flame of passion and trust him with the same blind faith she gave him before he had deceived her. He has flouted her and insulted her and insulted her with his affairs.

He has neglected her and humiliated her and tortured her with jealousy. He has hurt her in a thousand ways, but he expects her to be able to forget it all and run into his arms rejoicing, as a bride to her bridegroom.

It can't be done. And that is the bitterness for the woman as well as the man. The wife would gladly go back to the old love if she could, but that is impossible. The fire has burned out on the altar and there is no kindling dead ashes. By the time many a wandering husband comes home to his wife she has waited so long that her interest in him is gone and she doesn't care whether he ever returns or not.

When a woman has an incorrigibly philandering husband, there are only two courses open to her. One is to rid herself of a man so weak and disloyal that he cannot be true to her. The other is to comfort herself with the philosophy that "fifty years of Europe is better than a cycle of Cathay." For often the philanderer does have every other good quality of a husband except loyalty, and he lavishes on his wife the charms, the graces, the attentions that he does upon his lady loves.

The philanderer is incapable of any deep or lasting love, but often he does give to his wife the best that is in him. And despite his flittings from flower to flower, there is in his shallow little heart a drop of real love for her.

• • • • • •

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a man of 50 who married a very good woman twenty-five years ago, but I find I no longer love her. We have three children, the youngest 19. Fifteen years ago I fell in love with a married woman whose husband left her because of me and whom I established in a fine apartment. Now my wife has found out about this woman. She is humiliated and heartbroken, but she says nothing, works hard and sheds no tears over me. She wants a divorce and since she can get no alimony in this State she has asked me to settle enough on her so that she can live comfortably. Naturally I refused to do this as I do not want a divorce. She has a comfortable home now, so why can't she let things go on as they are? I cannot help my change of heart, can I?

J. H.

ANSWER:

Well, Mr. J. H., as your heart doesn't seem to be very stable, why don't you change it once more and have a heart and give this faithful old wife of yours some of the money she has helped earn in her twenty-five years of service to you? She helped you build your fortune so that you could afford to set glamorous ladies up in love nests. She bore your children and went through long years of labor and anxiety in rearing them. She has made you a comfortable home and if any man ever owed an honest debt, you owe one to her, and if you have one iota of decency in your system you will pay it.

Nothing you could give your wife would repay her for the heartbreak and humiliation you have inflicted upon her by flaunting your mistress in her face, and the least you can do is to give her the little money she asks so that she can go away and live by herself.

You don't want a divorce because you don't want to have to marry your lady love and because of the contempt that the public feels for a middle-aged man who forsakes his faithful old wife and the mother of his children. You don't want to face that and I don't blame you, especially if it became known that you threw your old wife out to starve like an old work horse of which you were tired.

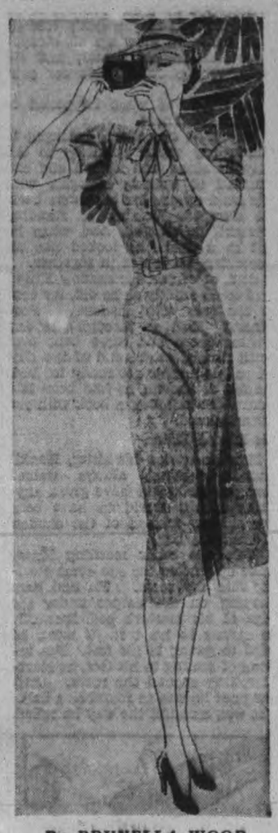
TROPICAL COMFORT



By PRUNELLA WOOD

Those cool fabrics of rayon and silk, and rayon and linen, are again favorites at Palm Springs, Miami Beach and other warm spots. Colors are delightful: chartreuse and gray; green with summer rust; cloud blue with burnt sugar tan; also brilliant, plain shades.

New this season is the knitted dress matching a swim suit.

For the races, polo, shopping or strolling, Grace Ashley presents another of her superbly tailored shirtwaisters in foliage print. It packs well, whether in aqua, blue, rose or gray. Wear a snood, if you prefer, and carry your own binoculars.

Herbs Used By Our Ancestors

Without ranking the virtues of certain herbs quite so highly as our ancestors did, we should probably find it beneficial to our health to make more use of them than we do.

Most of them formed their opinion of the usefulness of a plant from its form and color rather than from its chemical qualities. Thus, they held that all yellow flowers were good for biliousness and jaundice.

Because a walnut resembles a head, therefore the outskin would, they believed, cure wounds in the heads, while for diseases of the brain, the kernel was administered.

Spotted herbs were distilled for curing freckles and a variety of other skin blemishes. Lichen, hanging from trees, resembles human hair, therefore it was made into a wash to cure baldness.

The old herbalists did not limit the usefulness of herbs to physical ailments. We are told that a wife who believed her husband was unfaithful to her gave him periwinkle leaves, boiled in water, "and his love came back to her."

Because of al lthe queckery that grew up, the use of herbs as remedies fell into disrepute in our country. But it should be remembered that many of our most useful drugs, such as belladonna, strychnine, and prussic acid come from plants, though it is not for the amateur to meddle with these.

Many people, when they speak of herbs, think of the pot herbs of the kitchen garden—sage, mint, thyme, balm, borage and rosemary. These are valuable, and might be much more widely used than they are.

Asks That Girl Be Given a Chance

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—(CP).—A letter to the press brings up the point that about 2,000,000 American boys and girls will be turned out in 1939 to struggle for existence. "The boys, of course, will have a better chance than the girls," the writer says. "They can join the army or Navy and then there are the camps and other government projects that might offer them temporary or permanent employment. But when will the government give its girls a break?

"Why can't girls have camps, or some sort of concentration that they, too, can join to make a living People still assume that 'girls just marry.' But times have changed. Most girls can't marry young, because the boys can't afford it. In fact, few can afford to marry unless the girl works, too.

And many girls do not want to marry until they have had a job for a while, and know what the world is like, so they can be better wives and mothers, or in case they have to make their own way in life. But what are they going to do when jobs are so scarce?"

A delicious accompaniment to serve hot with broiled chops, creamed chicken or fish can be made by broiling peach halves until they are brown, stuffing the centres with brown sugar, cinnamon, crushed pineapple and lemon juice and broiling two minutes to blend the flavors?

NEVER SLEEP ON AN UPSET STOMACH

Often neutralising excess stomach acids can make the whole world smile in the morning

To relieve the effects of over-indulgence—escape "acid indigestion" that can ruin the whole next day—simply do this:

Take 2 tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water —AT BEDTIME.

While you sleep, this wonderful alkalizer will be sweetening your stomach . . . easing the upset-feeling and nausea . . . helping to bring back a "normal" feeling. By morning you feel like a million.

Then—when you wake—take two more tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia with the juice of a whole orange.

That is the quickest, simplest, easiest way to overcome the bad effects of too much eating, smoking or drinking. Thousands use it.

But—when you buy, make sure you get the Real Article. Never ask for "milk of magnesia" alone—always ask for "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia"—the kind many doctors endorse.

76 VOTES FOR McINTYRE.

In the report of the voting on January 2, poll 35 in Ashburnham was shown to have given Alderman McIntyre 26 votes, whereas the correct return from that poll was 76. "I didn't" want to say anything about it," he commented to the Examiner, "but I wouldn't want the people over there to think that was all the support they gave me. As a matter of fact I think I headed that poll. Anyway if I got only 26 votes from that section I would feel that I had slipped badly.

GET 30 P.C. OF RELIEF COST.

From their interview with Hon. Eric Cross this week Mayor Hamilton and Ald. Dutton are hopeful of obtaining the readjustment of the relief grants for 1938 that has been expected during the latter part of the year. For 1939 the city's estimates will likely be based on 30 per cent. of the total for the year. Nothing has been decided yet as to what will be the extent of the government's assistance, but apparently that is to be the basis for the relief committee's budgeting this year.

STORY TRAVELS FAR.

Harold Baptie, tax collector for North Monaghan township, told the Examiner to-day that the little story about the man who paid his 1938 taxes with coppers saved from day to day had re-echoed to him from as far as Regina. It seems Canadian Press passed it along, and Mr. Baptie has been hearing about it quite often. "There's a real moral in that story," he remarked this morning. "It emphasizes the fact we all know that pennies make the pound, and that a consistent policy of saving will surprise every person who adopts it."

Threshing Machine Piles Up In Ditch

EAST EMILY, Jan. 14. — What might have been a serious accident occurred on Thursday morning, when Charles Mills was moving his threshing machine from Isaac Guthrie's to Stanley Magee's.

They had just left the Guthrie farm and started up the hill just south of the gate, when about half way up the hill the mill unfastened from the engine and ran back down the hill and turned over into a deep ditch on the west side of the road. About twenty-five men gathered in a short time and pulled it on to the road in a few hours' time. No serious damage was done.

Houghton; 1st Vice Pres., Mrs. Porter; 2nd Vice Pres. Mrs. R. Lynch; treasurer, Mrs. Paterson; Secretary, Mrs. Bugg.

The members of the entertainment and recreation committee are requested to attend a meeting of the committee on Tuesday evening next January 17 at 8 p.m. in the secretary's office.

The Legions Minstrel troupe are coming along in great style and at a rehearsal we were privileged to attend we were struck by the harmony and smoothness of the proceedings. Directors Morley Plunkett and Walter Farr certainly have something that will surprise the members when they have the privilege of seeing the troupe at work. It is hoped to make the first public appearance the latter part of February. Will the members of the troupe please take notice that the rehearsals in the coming week will be held on Wednesday at the Armouries and on Friday at the Legion Hall.

People Are Failing To Realize Christian Duties In World

Many people fail to realize they have no opportunity to save their souls after deat hand neglect their Christian duties in this world, Rev. C. C. Boyter, youthful minister of Park Street Baptist church told 200 people who attended the annual business meeting of the church Friday night. He challenged the people to start a crusade of evangelism and not only attend church services and prayer meetings themselves but assume the responsibility of bringing other members of the congregation who may be lax in this regard.

"I have always felt that a church can never go forward unless the members of the congregation take an active part in the Sunday services, and in 1939 I intend to spare neither time or energy in bringing people to a realization of their duties," he said.

110 Registered Families

He said in reviewing the year's work that upwards of 200 families were associated with the church if not as members of the congregation, then through the Sunday School. The registered families in the congregation numbered 110.

Encouraging reports were given by the various departments, with Roy McCabe, clerk reporting a net gain in membership of 12. The report of the finance board revealed that $4,032.00 had been raised by all departments, and $525 had been given to the Missions. Under the leadership of the finance and trustee boards substantial repairs had been made to the parsonage and the church auditorum had been completely redecorated. The budget for 1939 was presented by Byers Smith, chairman of the finance board and was exactly the same as in 1938.

R. N. Hamilton, secretary of the Board of Deacons reported at the meeting that no organization within the church had authority to say for what purpose the church building might be used, and the responsibility in every case rested with the committee or group using the building.

Golden Jubilee

Rev. Boyter reported that 1939 was the golden jubilee of the Ontario and Quebec Baptist Conference and he explained the plans which had been made for the holding of a monster convention and celebration in Toronto from June 8 to 14th. The Automotive Building in the Exhibition Grounds would be used by the delegates and the committee in charge were making provision for 7500 members. Rev. C. C. Boyter, Mrs. Boyter and Roy McCabe were named a committee of three to seek registrations from the congregation to attend the jubilee convention.

Officers elected for the year were as follows: Roy McCabe, clerk; Gordon Young, treasurer; Fred Edward, financial secretary; Newt Hamilton and Samuel Sands, deacons; the finance board will consist of Roy Tranter, J. H. Pilling, Joseph Barry, George Batley, Newt Hamilton and Frank Barry; ushers are Corrie Rillingbeck, Herb Campbell, Harold Campbell, Fred Edwards, Cliff Deck Jim Weaver and C. Deyman; flower committee, Mrs. Booth, Mrs. Young, Iva Pilling and Eddie Hodson; Bible Society, Mrs. J. Tranter and Mrs. N. Hamilton; choir committee, Mrs. J. Pilling; auditors, Roy Tranter and Stewart Young; Anson House, Mrs. Glass; hospital board, Rev. C. C. Boyter; hospital auxiliary, Mrs. J. Halcrow.

Fox When He Bites, He Bites So Animals Are Handled With Great Care

Donald Hendren is thanking his lucky stars to-day that a fox he was holding Friday afternoon was in good humor, had at the time no cannibalistic instincts.

His father, George Hendren, was tying nine foxes at his fox farm so that an Examiner reporter could take a picture of them. As they were tied, they were handed to Donald to hold. Both men explained with what great care the animals had to behandled; for when a fox bites, they said, he clamps his teeth until they meet through the flesh of the one bitten. Their teeth have to be pried apart with a screwdriver in such event, they told. Each fox was handled with great respect, its mouth tied shut, and the job was coming along in fine shape when the reporter threw a bombshell into proceedings by inquiring: "Well, if they are so vicious and their bite is so bad, why isn't the mouth of that one tied?" pointing to one of the animals being held by Donald.

The startled men looked quickly at the animal, its head within a few inches of Donald's leg, found they had forgotten to tie its mouth. It had been there about ten minutes, had not been tempted.

Serviette Custom Of Egypt Has Lost Its Old Meaning But Still Carried On

If you believe in the value of preserving old customs, and if you believe old-fashioned table etiquette has charm, then the next time you rise from dinner, be careful to take all the crumbs in your serviette and put them in your pocket, take them away with you.

For, according to G. A. Phare of the R. C. Smith and Son Company, and prominent Canadian advertiser, that was a custom that was followed in the very best homes in ancient Egypt. There it was that serviettes were first used by top-notch Egyptian hostesses, who in this way robbed enemies of any opportunity to work an evil charm on their guests.

Those were the days of evil and potent charms but any charmworker had to have some property belonging to an enemy, with which to work. A lock of hair, a fingernail, even a few crumbs from food a person had been eating, was enough for him to go to work on. So, lest hard feeling exist amongst any of her guests, one of whom might pick up a few of another's crumbs, careful hostesses gave to each diner a square of linen in which to catch all crumbs, drop all bones and unfinished portions. Each guests wrapped up his left-overs in his serviette, took both with him, and so simplified servants' tasks.

The serviette custom has lost its old meaning but is still carried on, Mr. Phare said. "Even the best hostesses today will tell you that many the guest still takes one or two serviettes home with him, though not the crumbs." Mr. Phare was speaking at the Friday Night Supper Club.

Much Is Learned From Mistakes Club Informed

The mistakes of great men and small as handed down by history or romance were exposed in all their glory and triviality to members of the Friday Night Supper club and their fathers at the Y.M.C.A., by G. Alex Phare of Toronto, radio speaker and prominent Canadian advertising executive. One slogan of modern times, "Nothing succeeds like success," he hinted might be one of them, for the subject of his address was "Nothing succeeds like mistakes."

From ancient times to modern mistakes have been made and they will continue to be made, he said, and men will learn much from some, will continue to believe others to be true. As a fairly modern mistake with an ancient background he pointed to Cleopatra's Needle, huge red granite obelisk erected by Tholmes III in Egypt and now standing in London. The obelisk has no connection with Cleopatra, he pointed out, was erected a full two centuries before her birth. "Cleopatra's Needle" is a misnomer thrust from the relic by Englishmen who associate everything Egyptian with the name Cleopatra. But "Cleopatra's Needle" is was named and shall remain because nothing succeeds like mistakes," he said.

Nero's Fiddling

Another and more ancient tale he spiked was that of Nero fiddling while Rome burned. Nero was not in Rome at the time, fiddles had not been invented, he pointed out. The Lachine rapids are a misnomer because Indians told LaSalle that China (La Chine) lay directly beyond them. Sir John Moore, contrary to literature, was not buried by candle in moonlight, but in the morning. Not only that, but at the time of the month he was buried there was no moon at nights, he said a checkup revealed.

Did Not Lose His Head

Pleasant though it would be to believe it, Dr. Guillotine (who did not invent the legal execution weapon of France but merely introduced it from Italy and Germany) did not die by the guillotine as has long been reported, but in bed at a ripe old age and a highly respected man.

The idea of the Salvation Army sprang from a mistake by a sign painter who was preparing a bulletin that GENERAL SUPT. BOOTH would address a meeting. He took up so much space printing GENERAL that he had little left for SUPT. and so printed the word in small letters, followed by BOOTH. The impression left was that GENERAL BOOTH would speak. From that beginning sprang the idea of the Salvation Army, with its staff of officers of military title.

The "man in the iron mask" really wore a mask of velvet; Arabic numerals have no connection with Arabia, but owe thei rexistence to Indian scholars; salt is not a "salt" as defined by chemists; rice paper is not made from rice; Turkish delight does not delight the Turks; turkeys are native of this continent and not to Turkey, were given their name when introduced to England, where the belief was held that such a strange bird must come from a mysterious, oriental place like Turkey; coppers, or pennies, contain no copper; German silver is neither German nor silver; cat gut is not levied from the domestic animal of that name. These were some of the mistakes he exposed.

Why We "Touch Wood"

From his vast fund of information he brought to light the reason that stands behind many of the apparently meaningless superstitions that have been passed down from age to age. To "touch wood" in the early days of Christianity in the Roman Empire was no meaningless gesture, he said, but one which might cost a man his life were it made at the wrong moment. When a Christian entered the home of another Christian in ancient Rome he touched the wood, symbolic of the cross, to show he was a friend. In similar fashion, and with the same meaning, crossing of fingers became a sign.

Man's superstition about passing under a ladder was born in the middle ages in England when men were hanged in public places and on trivial excuse, he said. A ladder was leaned against the nearest building, the prisoner mounted with his goaler, who fastened a rope about his neck and then left him alone, atop his simple scaffold. Crowds gathered, threw stones at the condemned man until he either jumped or fell from exhaustion. "Then the show was over but not for the condemned man; he was still left in suspense," he cracked. Obviously, with that use being made of ladders, people would not walk beneath one in those days, he said.

The speaker was introduced to the club by Bill Wright of Toronto and Allan Park moved a vote of thanks.

Last night was father and son night at the club and one of the largest attendances in the club's history was on hand. Boorman's provided Pepsi-Cola for each one present. H. L. Garner was chairman.

PET IS LOST.

The police department has been asked to help find a lost dog, the pet of some small children who are grieving over the loss of their favorite. The animal is described as a small dark female dog with white breast and paws and brown nose and eyes, and anybody knowing anything about it is asked to notify the police department.

The Rambling REPORTERS

HORSE DREW APPLAUSE

Some idea of how little personality a person can have, yet complete an existence of a kind, was given in a story by G. A. Phare of Toronto in the course of a witty address at the Friday Night Supper club.

Telling of a girl whose lack of personality distressed her parents no end, he recounted that once she had appeared, in a pageant, in the role of Lady Godiva, that lovely creature for whom all Coventry but for Peeping Tom once drew its blinds. "It's difficult for me to tell you just how little personality this girl had, but when I tell you that the horse drew more applause than she did, then you'll know." —P.

John E. Hayes' Estate Worth $71,173

Estates totalling $105,303 in value were left by two Peterborough residents, John E. Hayes, local contractor, and Miss Mary Collins, member of an old pioneer family here, who died recently.

Mr. Hayes left an estate of $71,173, of which $37,950 was in real estate. Under the terms of the will, an amount of $5,000 left to his daughter, Alice, who predeceased him, will revert to his wife, Mrs. Ellen Hayes, along with sums set aside for the girl's education and maintenance. The will left Mrs. Hayes two dwelling houses on Park street, together with the residue of the estate not otherwise disposed of. A son, Vincent Carl Hayes, named as co-executor with Mrs. Ellen Hayes, was left a partly erected factory premises known as the Red Arow Tire plant, and $5,000 in mortgages.

Other sons benefit as follows: Cecil Francis Hayes, 14 acres of land in North Monaghan Township, in the vicinity of his residence; William Norbert Hayes, $1,000, and also the house he has occupied since his marriage, together with arrears of rent. A daughter, Mrs. Marion Hattrick, receives a bequest of $5,000.

Miss Mary Collins' personal estate was listed at $20,930.33, plus a real estate of $13,200, a total of $34,130.

Twenty-seven cousins share a bequeath of $28,550, the division being as follows: $2,000 each to Florence G. Brown, F. Isabel Mathias, Charles D. Collins, Mabel Collins, Alexander J. Collins, Frederick H. Collins, J. Durham Collins, Annette Greening, Eleanor Hatton, Robert D. Collins; $700 to Flora Denston; $500 each to Helen Brown, Ethel Brown, Harriett Edwards, Walter F. Stewart, Anna Williams, Harriett Read, Francis Edwards, Grace Forbes, Lewis B. Stewart, G. Dunbar Stewart, D'arcy Lewis Stewart, Effie Richie, Ruth Stewart; $475 each to Helen Denison, Bertha Brown; $400 to Joan Stewart.

In addition, many of Miss Collins' cousins receive silverware and various items of household furniture.

Four public institutions share a bequest of $225, South African Missions; the Christian Sunday School Association of Winnipeg; Peterboro' Y.W.C.A., and the National Sanatorium Association, Toronto, receive $50 each, and Peterborough Health Association, $25.

Mrs. Mary Hunter, the late Miss Collins' housekeeper, was willed $25, together with a small table with drawer and fern. The residue of the estate goes to F. Isabel Mathias, Flora Denston and Florence G. Brown.

FURTHER ACTION SOUGHT.

It is understood that James Monaghan, father of the late James Victor Monaghan, will take up with the Attorney-General's Department the question of a further inquiry into the cause of the death of his son.

CAR DAMAGED.

Cars owned by Dr. A. W. McPherson and William Stevens, Gladstone Avenue, collided at the intersection of George and Princess Streets, and the McPherson machine, driven by Don. McPherson, son of the owner, had its fender damaged.

440 Home Loans Been Issued In Peterborough

Peterboro's Home Improvement Loan record had moved up at the end of November to 440 loans, involving $132,027.35.

The latest report issued by the Federal Department of Finance shows that mining centres have taken a generous helping of this accommodation afforded by the government. Timmins has taken out 909 loans for $738,010.54, placing it third to Toronto, Montreal and Winnipeg. In Sudbury there were 835 loans for $495,138.29. Flin Flon, a new mining settlement in Manitoba, reports 377 loans for $188,-551.72. Trail, another mining town in British Columbia, 462 loans for $165,697.38 Kirkland Lake 868 loans for $682,273.70, and so on it goes from Nova Scotia to British Columbia. The mining towns evidently accepted the H. I. P. as something that was of special help to them, and their credit evidently rates high at the banks.

Reckless Driver Is Assessed $5.00

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 14—"One seldom has to do with a case in which there are so many mistakes in direction," Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., said before a crowded court room here Friday. In summing up the case in which he found Harold Cooney of Trenton guilty of reckless driving.

The magistrate said that "practically every witness for the prosecution gave a different direction in which the car was going." Harry Deyman of Cobourg, acting for the Crown, called three witnesses and the accused who pleaded his own case, called two. County Constable John Mallory of Workworth, who was chief witness for the crown laid the information. Cooney, who was assessed $5.00 or ten days elected to take the jail term.

Arthur Brown of Hastings pleaded guilty to failing to observe a through street paid $2.00 and costs.

Ratepayer Questions Status Of Auditor

A ratepayer of the county directed this question at Smith township council to-day.

"Is Milton Clark one of the auditors of Smith?" Then the next question: "Is he the same Milton Clark who was a member of the Smith township council in 1938?"

"These are just a couple of friendly questions I'd like to ask through the Examiner, because as I understand the Municipal Act on that point an auditor of a municipality must not have been a member of the preceding year's council."

P.C.I. CAGE TEAMS COP TWO VICTORIES OVER LINDSAY RIVALS

Port Colborne Edges Out Oshawa Outfit

TORONTO, Jan. 14—Along about this time of year hockey managers figure on their veteran campaigners reaching peak form. Port Colborne Sailors, mostly a hard-bitten crew of veteran campaigners, appear to have hit their stride in the Senior "A" division of the Ontario Hockey Association.

Last night at Port Colborne, they took on Oshawa, a club that hasn't lost a game during the past month, and, in their best display of the season, edged through to a 3-2 win. It was Oshawa's first loss since Peg Hurst, formerly of Whitby intermediates, took over the goal-tending duties Dec. 14.

It was a night of home-town victories. At Toronto, the undefeated Toronto Goodyears coasted to a 9-4 win over the tail-end Brantford Red Birds. Over at Niagara Falls, the hometown Brights shut out St. Catharines Chiefs 3-0 in a rugged, hard-checking struggle.

Toronto Far Ahead

The results left Toronto far ahead of the field with 25 points against 18 for the second-place Oshawans. The third-place Sailors show 14 points, Niagara Falls 13 and St. Kitts 10, Brantford, with one victory in 13 starts, have two points.

The Sailors and Oshawa scored all the goals in the first period. It was the first victory of the season for the Ports over the eastern Ontario club and they were decidedly the better team on the play.

Midway through the first period, Oshawa led 2-1, but two Sailor goals by Gal Gallinger and Art Thompson in the final three minutes of the opening session made the victory margin. Lloyd Fitzgerald previously scored for the winners.

Winkie Smith and Lex Chisholm, the league's leading scorer, counted the Oshawa tallies. Smith, hit hard by the Ports defence throughout, was cut on the face when checked by Thompson in the last few minutes of play and was led to the dressing room for repairs when he attempted to battle with Thompson.

Enlivened by a Fight

The Niagara-St. Kitts struggle was enlivened by a fist fight between Ossie Carnegie, Negro forward of losers, and Jack Dyte, Falls rearguard. The battle, Carnegie's first of the season, also brought him his first penalty of the season.

The game also served to give goaler Johnny Mowers of the Falls his third shutout in the last four games. Scorers were Chet Steele, Whip Shortt and Steak Morrison. Ossie Greenwood earned two assists and Mason, former Guelph flash, one.

Toronto Goodyears didn't appear to have the drive that has featured most of their games this winter, although they led 3-1 at the end of the first period and 7-2 at the completion of the second. Only two minor penalties were issued throughout the tilt, one to each team.

Five Regulars Missing

Brants made a game showing. Five regulars missing from their lineup through injuries and sickness, they scored more goals against the apparently-invincible Goodyears than any other team this season and made the Toronto team appear to lack cohesion.

Left wingers Hank Goldup and Eddie King scored three times each for Toronto. Peanuts O'Flaherty, Don Metz and George Imlach accounted for the other three.

Jack Webster and Ebby Edmison scored two each for the Birds, beating Herbie Mortimer in the Toronto nets on clever tries. Goalie Ed Beatty toiled valiantly in a losing cause.

Something To Shoot At

Best individual scoring feat of N.H.L. season was turned in by Syl Apps, ABOVE, smooth-skating centre star with Toronto Maple Leafs, when he registered four goals as his team beat the hapless Canadiens, 9-4. He also picked up an assist for five points on the night, all in the first two periods, going out after that with a slight injury.

Lindsay Midgets Here On Monday

Lindsay Midgets meet the Peterborough Colts here Monday night at 8.30 o'clock in the Brock St. rink in a junior O.H.A. contest, a scheduled affair. It will be the first clash of these teams this year, and the second time the Midgets have shown on local ice—going to a 4-4 tie here early in the season with the local Monarchs. It promises to be a rousing struggle between these classy junior outfits and should draw a big crowd of spectators, many Lindsay fans coming down. Both teams will be at full strength for the struggle and a typical slam-bang junior joust is likely.

The Colts have a grudge to pay off from last year when as a junior "B" team they went to Lindsay and lost out to that "C" squad—but the Midgets went on in playdowns to reach the Ontario semi-finals in a grand showing. They have bolstered this year, pointing for a title, and the husky Colts will have to hustle to take them. Bill Jackson's locals haven't lost a game to date and they think they can knock off Lindsay, but it will be a real game, the Midgets being husky ant experienced, too. Fans can bank on plenty of action and a pretty tight score in this puck number.

Canucks, Maroons Win In Southend

Two intermediate Southend Loop games were ru noff at the Sacred Heart rink on Thursday Maroons taking a 3-1 win over Brintons and Canucks triming the Clippers by a 7-1 score. This game was rather one-sided with Fleming, Collins, Conroy, Brown, Ridley and Giardino the main scoring threats. Fleming, Collins and Mowry shone. Teams:

Clippers — Goal, Short; defence, Hopkins, Mowry; centre, Hele; wings, Collins, Ridley; subs, Callan, Sharpe, Todd, Jamison, E. Collins.

Canucks—Gaol, B. Fleming; defence, Flack, Giardino; centre, Gilbert; wings, Jones, Conroy; subs, Colins, Brown, K. Fleming.

Referee—Ed. Jobe.

Maroons Win.

In the other game, Prete scored in the first and third for the winners while Johnston bulged the hemp in the middle spasm, as Deadey counted the lone losers' goal in the third. These three scorers turned in a good effort throughout, along with Leggitt and Henwood. The teams:

Maroons— Goal, McNabb; defence, Spencely, Curtin; centre, Padgett; wings, Watkins, Leggitt; subs, Johnston, Adamson, Rennie, Prete, Hobbins, Hawks.

Brintons—Goal, Byres; defence, Watson, Adams; centre, Deadey; wings, Burns, Henwood; subs, Wells, B. Buyers, Lackey.

Referee, Norm Jobe.

Digging Up the Local Dirt With the Odd Chuckle or Two

By CEC. PERDUE

An ice carnival is planned by the Lions Club in the Brock St. rink next month, possibly in conjunction with the big ski meet here on Feb. 11th and 12th. At the Argos' grid banquet in Toronto the other night, Jim Dutton, Fred Cripps and Bill Morrison of the local club were guests of Harry (Red) Foster, and they were there primarily to discuss carnival plans with Foster. He may do his regular evening broadcast that night from Peterborough, we hear. Included in the plans of the club for the big affair is a broom-ball game betwixt the Fire Dept. and the Police, fancy figure and speed skating, clowns, music—including the Lions Club Boys' Band—and so on. It sounds like a right good evening's entertainment to us.

Though the Baltimore Orioles aren't starting their second puck series as strongly as they finished the first—being now in third place in a five-team loop — they hope to bust loose again soon on a winning streak. Bill Calladine and Ned Vitarelli, ex-Petes' players, are turning in a good scoring chore for Coach Pick Hines but we see by the U.S. papers that Bobby Forster, temperamental goalie from Oshawa, is up and down. He's aces when he is going right, but is not too dependable—and was suspended for a short time by Hines. The latter is coming over to Toronto again to try to pick up another player or two for his Birdmen.

Outta The Frying Pan

Quite a few of our senior gridders are doing their stuff now in hockey, guys like Don Crowe and Joe McNulty with the Petes, Mick Magee with a Florida team, and such gees as Curtin, Spencely, Deadey, Flack and maybe others in the intermediate Southend League. Possibly one or two also in the Church Circuit. On the other hand, there are a number of the good players with the Orfuns thepast fall who don't play any game except rugby. All of which proves nothing at all—some being tops in several sports and some gents shining in just one branch.

* * * * * *

Bill Morrison, working for the Peterborough Hockey Club, dug up a good puck program—given fans at last night's game here. Similar programs will be given at all the Petes' and Colts' contests, with lineups and numbers, some important hockey rules, thumb-nail sketches of the players, ads and whatnot. There are messages, too, from Mayor Jas. Hamilton and Prexy R. M. Glover of the club. It is a fine 14-page booklet.

It Was Friday 13th

Friday 13th was just another day to the Petes as they hit their stride on fast home ice and hung a 5-3 shiner on the Belleville Redmen. As 1200 rooters yodelled loudly at the action. A streamlined scrap, with the boys turning on the heat most of the route, and a swell hockey game for this early date. These teams will be hostile rivals ere the season ends and last p.m. saw one fight between Goyer and Tompkins, and a near one betwixt Kingdon and St. Louis. And Bentley had to retire with a broken nose, when a high stick accidentally clipped him across the schnozz. Our defence looked pretty fair and the forwards fairly flew—though they muffed quite a few chances, too. Should have won by a bigger score as the Petes clearly outplayed a Quinte crew that fought back all the time and wouldn't admit they were licked.

* * * * * *

A 2-1 edge in the first chukker was the best the Buckland boys could rack up, though Wattaman Watt in the Thomas' tepee had to do a jitterbug to kick the rubber aside. He starred all eve. Both sides counted in the second, and the Petes again had a 2-1 margin in the third—but it was tied up tighter than an injunction halfway through the canto. Fans seemed to enjoy this number, with two rugged rival squads playing fast, hard hockey throughout. They'll see another nifty number next Wednesday when Trenton Fliers are here for the first time this winter.

They All Went Oke

Tompkins is a honey this season with the locals, and was hitting only the high spots on some of his sorties last gloaming. With two speedsters on the same line with him, too. Coughlin is clicking well so far, also, and appears in for a good winter. And Shrimp McDougall turned in a swell effort for so early—Shrimp usually requiring some time to get into high. Gratton got a nice goal and nearly had another. Doc Nicholls, in his local debut, tickled a lotta customers with the promise shown—this gee looking like a natural. He notched two nifties. McNabb went oke between the gas pipes, and had a trio of steady defenders in front of him. Gray is the blocking type, Crowe the bumper and McNulty the rusher. The team will do. And the Redmen at home will be harder to down than a plate of oysters on a rough voyage!

* * * * * *

Lindsay Midgets come here Monday—instead of Tuesday—to tackle our Colts in a junior O.H.A. jamboree, a swing session. It will be a rousing fray as both these outfits are classy and clicking. It may be recalled how our Colts lost a tough one to Lindsay last year, and they were most put out about it indeed. Swore it wouldn't happen again—but Lindsay tied Monarchs this season and claim to have improved since then. Their 7-1 smirk last night over Port Hope indicates this. However, we'll lay any loose dough we can locate on the Colts to cop the nod. It will be a battle, though—and should draw well.

Burman Is Given Decision Over Tommy Farr

By Gayle Talbot
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 —(AP)—Heavyweight prizefighters in the United States fast are becoming divided into two groups—those who have whipped Tommy Farr and those who haven't had the opportunity of fighting the hard-luck Welshman.

Latest to join the former lodge and without much doubt the most surprised member of the circle, is Red Burman of Baltimore, who won a disputed decision over Tommy in 10 rounds last night at the Garden. A crowd of 9,756 didn't think the red-head had any business getting the duke, and neither did a majority of the critics at ringside.

This made the fifth time Farr had seen an opponent's mitt raised since he came to these shores summer before last, and the Welshman was so indignant he was practically speechles. Not so his manager, Joe Gold, who swore he would go before the state athletic commission and have the decision reversed. Joe, of course, was just talking.

Cruel Blow To Farr

It was a cruel blow to Farr, because he had every prospect of fighting Joe Louis for the championship again next June if he had disposed of Burman. His next opponent was to have been Tony Galento, and, winning that, he would have gone against the champion. Now Promoter Mike Jacobs has to start in and figure things out all over again. Burman is more than willing to take Farr's place in the plan, but Promoter Mike is not likely to forget the anvil chorus that sped Burman from the ring last night.

It was a hard fight and a fairly close one. The Associated Press balance sheet gave Farr five rounds, Burman four and one even. That was about the consensus of the ringside tabulators. Some figured Farr had a wider margin.

Tommy had his opponent in a bad way toward the last and should have stopped him in the final round if he hadn't been dog-tired.

Up to date 11 teams have pleaced their entries for the President's Cup play down, and it was decided at the executive meeting held on Wednesday, that all entries must be in the hands of the secretary, January 21. This is the dead line.

The first round of the cup will be played on the Trinity Church grounds if same can be arranged. All the games being played in one evening.

All men participating in the teams entered for the president's cup must be men registered with the league at the present time, and no man can play on more than one team.

Teams can be formed by men from various organizations, provided that the present membership clause is adhered to.

A change in the league prize list was made. Prizes will be awarded to the first six teams by order of standing at the end of the season.

Preparations will be made also for the annual banquet and any suggestions along this line will be appreciated.

Eighty per cent of the schedule fees have been paid to date. Are you among the 20 per cent who haven't paid up? If so, why not get out of the red and into the line with the majority by the end of January.

Very few games have been postponed, but No. 3 and No. 8 sure love to dodge each other. We may see a grand battle when they really get together (if they do). Next Tuesday night over the Liftlock way; we sure hope the skating is good.

The following games will be scheduled for the week of January 23, plus any back games we may dig up. If any skip wants to name dates, the phone is 3067:

3 v 11; 4 v 16; 5 v 7; 6 v 2; 9 v 10; 12 v 9; 13 v 8; 14 v 1; 15 v 2; 17 v 11.

HOW TO SKI

By FRITZ LOOSLI
Instructor Toronto Ski Club

Illustrating perfect control during down-hill run. One turn is hardly finished before the skier prepares for next. Dick Dorrance demonstrates.

CONTROLLED DOWNHILL SKIING

Ten or fifteen years ago it was the general belief that one must ski for a whole season before attempting to learn to make a turn. This erroneous theory was a serious drawback to the downhill running technique. Complete running control at any time and any speed is the basic principle of modern ski instruction. Before a pupil is allowed more than half a dozen straight runs, he is taught the snow plow turn.

The pupil should never be allowed to go into the habit of having a definite set position when running down hill; he should believe that skiing is impossible if turning is not learned with straight running. When a person is taught to drive a car, the teaching is not confined to knowing how to run the engine. The student driver must also know how to control the car. The same principle applies to skiing, especially in eastern Canada, where a great deal of the skiing is done in narrow wooded trails.

Downhill racing should not eliminate science and downhill technique by favoring stamina and extreme daring to the point of overstepping the margin of safety. Of course, good judgment should be used in placing control flags, not to make the course ridiculously easy.

Finesse That Counts, Not Daring.

The ability of a skier does not consist of how closely he is able to cut corners, or how daringly he will run straight between trees. His ability should be judged on how little speed is lost on long radius turns, what turns he will use to his best advantage, and how well he will adapt his style to new terrain.

Rhythm should be maintained in downhill as well as in slalom; bumps, gullies and other natural difficulties should be used to create interest. These have been, in Ontario, too many slaloms laid out that were unpleasantly jerky, and laid out without taking the shape of the terrain into consideration.

Inside Sportin' Dope

by A. WISE CRACKER

Mister Sporting Editor: Well, Mac, this ain't been much of a week from the sporting standpoint, about the chief thing of note since my last epistle being the fact that your Petes has took a trip down to Belleville to open the O.H.A. season and has took a 3 to 1 trimming from Mister E. Thomas' lads. That don't mean a heck of a lot seeing the ice was very bad and in spite of being outscored the Petes had the big bulk of the play.

They Couldn't Score

It was 1 of them games with Mister Buckland's Buckaroos storming around the Belleville nets most of the time and yet not having no luck popping the old bootheel into the mesh. Even when the starting goalie what had stood them off most of the journey got hurt and had to be taken off for repairs the Petes could not beat the substitute net custodian either and so after doing most of the pressing they found themselves when it was all over holding the small end of the score. Hockey can be like that sometimes and thats what makes the experts look so bad when they try to pick winners.

However, I for 1 am satisfied that the Buckaroos will have class enough once they hit their stride to polish off both the Indians and the Flyers and cop the group honors.

He'll Be Missed

The sudden death of Shiner Johnston this week has been a blow to everybody. Shiner was a star ball player in the golden days of the Central loop, a fighting scrappy player what could rouse the ire of hostile fans and jockey opposing ball players and with a turn of wit that enabled him to hold his own in the hottest verbal combat. Never a flash in the field he was at one time one of the best second sackers in the loop, studying the batters and generally being in the proper place to handle a ground ball and he was a smart pivot man in double plays. There has never been a second baseman in the Central League who could put a ball on a baserunner any smarter than the same Shiner and in another respect he was tops. There has never been a smarter sacrifice hitter than he was and for years he led the Central loop in dumping them down to advance base runners. A real Peterborough fan in every respect, Shiner will be missed in every sporting crowd.

Quite A Change

Well Mac, in the pro loop the feature to my mind was the big scores the Leaves and Rangers piled up Thurs. nite. It has been a battle of goalies so often this season it was kinda treat to see the attackers go to town for once and nearly blow a fuse in the red lights by scoring so often. The half way mark is near here Mac, and they aint nothing to show that the other teams in the loop is on the same level as the Bruins and the Rangers—although at that any of the field might pop either of them off in the playoffs and probably will.

Well old timer, it's time to get up there and see the Petes and Belleville tangle so I'll sign off now.

Sportfully yours,
A. Wise Cracker.

Aces Cop 8-4 Win Over The Tigers

An exhibition hockey game between the Tigers and Aces was run off Thursday night in the Brock St. rink with the Williams' outfit of the Omemee loop copping an 8-4 decision. If was a rugged but not overly fast tussle. Heal got three goals, Hill and Mowry two each and Connelly one for the Aces; while the Zakos scorers were Basciano with two and Hogue and Rochetta one apiece. The teams:

Tigers—Goal, Spencer; defence, Zakos, Calrk; centre, Rochetta; wings, Primeau, Conroy; subs, Jordan, Sullivan, Basciano, Hogue, Roche.

Aces— Goal, Currie; defence, O'Leary, Vitarell; centre, Mowry; wings, Hill, Connelly; subs, Wright, Williams, Cournyea.

Local Boys Win By Big Score As Girls Close

An overwhelming 68-17 victory for the Senior Boys and a hard fought 24-17 win for the Senior Girls gave P.C.I. a pair of victories over Lindsay C.I. in the Lakeshore Basketball League openers last night in the school gym. The Senior Boys started slowly but turned a good game into a rout as the battle went on. The Girls' squad had more trouble, battling on almost even terms through the hard-fought first half but then turning it on and gradually pulling ahead in the last two quarters to win. Both games were played before a crowded gallery.

In the Senior Girls' game both squads started slowly and there was no scoring until five minutes had gone by when E. Saunders started the scoring. From there to the half it was hard and fast with the score zig-zagging until at the half P.C.I. had an 11-9 margin. They stayed ahead until the final whistle but L.C.I. were never out of the running, making a strong bid towards the start of the last quarter. P.C.I. were taking more advantage of the shots they had and checked much better than the losers. Their passing was much more effective but Lindsay had an edge on foul shots. For the Garnet and Grey, E. Saunders was the star on the offensive side and in the scoring column putting away 16 of her team's 24 points. J. Ottewell and D. Glover were also outstanding for the winners while J. Corley and E. Hughes were the best for the losers. The teams:

Lindsay C. I. (19)—L. Green, G. McNiva, H. Carley (6), E. Betts, E. Hughes (6), J. Corley (7), M. Warrian, H. Algar, R. Massales, O. James, G. Milburn.

Peterborough C. I. (24)—E. Saunders (16), J. Ottewell, J. Coleman (4), E. Craig, M. Juby (4), D. Glover, H. Beatty, L. Reed

Referee—Miss Marjorie Walsh, Lindsay.

Boys Win Out

The Senior Boys' Garnet and Grey squad started very slowly and didn't get going until well into the second quarter, the score at the half being only 29-8. But from there on P.C.I. went to town and piled it up. It was a smooth working P.C.I. squad that run wild in the last half and their only apparent fault was a slight slackness under the L.C.I. basket when in scoring position.

The winners' scoring was split up but Gillespie was perhaps the individual star, putting away 18 points and leading P.C.I. on the attack and on defense. Johnston, Cutting, Taylor and Moorhead also stood out. For Lindsay Reeds and Bryant were outstanding. The teams:

Peterborough C. I. (68).—Centre, Moorhead (12); forwards, Taylor (9), Cutting (10); guards, Johnston (10), Gillespie (18); subs, R. Ferguson (1), B. Ferguson (5), W. Harle (2), J. Craig.

Linsay C. I. (17)—Centre, Reeds (2); forwards, Joyce (5), Ranson (5); guards, Bryant (3), Bate (2); subs, Owen, Richards, Williams.

Denies Making Offer Of Million Dollars For Horse Man o' War

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 14.

AN ITEM which appeared in the local press here today, in which Samuel D. Riddle was quoted as stating Louis B. Mayer had offered a million dollars for Man o' War, was declared by Mayer's spokesman, Nell S. McCarthy, to be entirely without foundation. "Mr. Mayer authorizes me to state that a desire to own or obtain Man o' War has never been so much as indicated by any one on his behalf," Mr. McCarthy stated. "Mr. Mayer feels that Mr. Riddle has either been misquoted or misunderstood."

PETES PULL OUT 5-3 PUCK VICTORY OVER BELLEVILLE REDMEN

Big Crowd Of Hockey Fans See Exciting Contest With Locals Copping Nod

Belleville Redmen bowed to the Petes by a 5-3 score last night here in an O.H.A. senior "B" schedule contest. A crowd of about 1200 fans witnessed a speedy, exciting scrap with the Petes clearly having an edge but having to hustle plenty to keep the decision. They had lost previously by a 3-1 score in Belleville.

It was Friday the 13th for Skipper Thomas' gang—who arrived nearly half an hour late—as they found a battling horde of fast-skating Petes on hard ice, who kept tearing in throughout. The score was not a good indication of the play as the Petes should have won by half a dozen goals on their muffed chances in close. The game was quite clean, aside from one fight, with plenty of bumping at times.

The score was 2-1 for the Petes in the first period and 3-2 for them going into the third.

The Redmen tied it up halfway through the third but the locals came back fast with two nice counters. Both sides kept up a surprisingly fast all through for so early in the season and dished up a lot of nice passing hockey.

All Go Good

It was hard to pick puck stars in this encounter, except for Watt in the Quinte cage. He played a whale of a game, being both extra good and having considerable luck as the locals ganged up and peppered him. The visitors' defence of Bentley and St. Louis looked good, too, with the former finally retiring with a broken nose in a collision. The two Jacksons up front and Goyer looked good. For the Petes, McNabb, Crowe, Nicholls and Tompkins were probably best but there was little choice as the whole gang swarmed in dangerously and checked well.

A minute of silence was observed for the late Shiner Johnston and then play was hot and fairly even for a time on good ice. The Petes later had a good edge as the fans got yelling, with a rush by Nicholls and Gratton coming close. Gray was gated for charging and four Redmen ganged up dangerously for a time. Later, at full strength, the Petes pressed and Nicholls scored in close with a snap shot on a nice pass from Gray. Shrimp McDougall almost tallied and then Gratton counted on Coughlin's assist inside defence. McNulty and Crowe combined for a close one and play slowed up a bit near the close. Just before the bell, C. Jackson notched one for the Thomasites on assists from W. Jackson and McElrath.

Petes Pressing

Kingdon was robbed by Watt early in the second as the Petes kept crowding their rivals on nice passing work. Tompkins finally dented the twine on Kingdon's assist, but a minute later Tompkins and McCreary were chased for roughing it. Bentley left with a bent beak, and McElrath was thumbed off for slashing. The Petes pressed hard but Watt was unbeatable, despite one local score after the bell. McNulty was waved aside for holding and the Quinte crew pressed till all were back. McNabb blocked a couple of nice ones and then St. Louis backhanded a hot one from a sharp angle that trickled off the pads into the hemp. A fight broke out near the finish with Tompkins and Goyer gated on major penalties.

McDougall and Nicholls almost tallied to open the third, the Petes having an edge the first half of this frame. It was hard, hot hockey, and Kingdon and St. Louis almost tangled. Gray and Kingdon made a nice stab but Watt was sparkling. Goyer's snap shot beat McNabb as he rounded defence to sew it up. Nicholls came right back to score on neat assists inside from Gratton and Coughlin. Tompkins stickhandled his way from centre for another fast one. Belleville had four and five up from then on and pressed but couldn't tally, and Kingdon nearly scored late on a breakaway.

The teams:

Belleville: Goal, Watt; defence, Bentley and St. Louis; centre, C. Jackson; wings, W. Jackson and McElrath; alternates, Storms, Goyer, McCreary and Prevost.

Petes: Goal, McNabb; defence, Gray and Crowe; centre, Kingdon; wings, Tompkins and Starr; alternates, Nicholls, McDougall, Gratton, Coughlin and McNulty.

Referee, Army Armstrong of Oshawa.

Federal And State Taxes Going To Take $57,980,000 Of Col. Ruppert's Fortune

NEW YORK, Jan. 14—(AP).—If Colonel Jacob Ruppert's taxable net estate totals $70,000,000—sources close to him estimate his gross worth at between $70,000,000 and $100,000,000—the Federal and New York State Government will take all but approximately $12,000,000 of it in taxes.

An employee of the Federal Treasuray Department said last night the United States would collect about $32,000,000 of the first $50,000,000, net, and 70 per cent of all over that amount—a total of approximately $46,000,000.

The State inheritance tax laws provide, after comparatively small exemptions, for a tax of 20 per cent of the amount by which the net estate exceeds $10,100,000, which would mean a tax of $11,980,000.

This would make a total Federal State tax of about $57,980,000—and leave a balance of about $12,020,000.

Mic-Macs Take Fourth Straight Win Edging Norwood In 5-4 Fracas

MADOC, Jan. 14— By defeating Norwood 5-4 in Madoc Friday night the Madoc-Marmora Mic-Macs retained their lead in the Trent Valley hockey league, having won four games without a loss.

The Mic-Macs broke the tension midway through the period when N. O'Neill drove in a shot from the blue line. McMaster, in the Norwood net, dropped to take it on the chest, but the rubber glanced into the net for the first count. Hailstone was chased for giving the hip and Norwood pressed in to take advantage. Only the stellar work of C. O'Neill and Hall on the Madoc defence kept the invaders from counting. These two players did a bang-up job throughout the game and deserve most of the credit for the win.

Ibey got the thumb for carrying his stick in the faces of the Mic-Mac forwards and no sooner was he on the ice again when he got another for using his knee with good results. Feeling in an arguing mood he started a heated debate which ended in a five-minute penalty for him.

The Mic-Macs pressed in but lack of organization and hurried shots failed to bolster the score. Period ended 1-0 for the MicMacs.

Trip Spoils One

In the second period Akey drew a penalty for tripping in what looked like a sure one for Norwood. At the eight-minute mark Norwood counted on Webb's score, which was sunk on a passout from the corner.

One minute later C. O'Niell put Madoc up again on a pass from Leonard. Immediately after the O'Niell brothers combined on the nicest play of the game, N. O'Niell falling at centre ice, flipped a pass from his horizontal position to C. O'Niell, who split the defence, drew out the goalie and slid the puck home for the third count.

Just before the close of the period Akey, taking a pass from Heyward, coasted in to sink a low hard shot that ended the period 4-1 for the Mic-Macs.

Going into the last frame, three goals down, Norwood turned on the pressure and play centred for a time around the Madoc net. Rogers and Puffer combined on a nice play, Rogers getting the count. Leonard came right back to sink C. O'Niell's pass.

The teams:

Mic-Macs — Goal, Hollingsworth; defence, C. O'Niell, N. O'Niell; centre, Leonard; wings, Loveless, Reynolds; alternates, Akey, Hall, Heyworth.

Norwood — Goal, McMaster, defence, Ibey, Webb; centre, G. Puffer; wings, C. Puffer, N. Rogers; alternates, Hagerman, McMullen, W. Rogers, Rathwell.

The game was handled by Watson of Madoc and Innis of Norwood.

MARCHING ON— TO WHAT ?

Listen in to this series of five radio addresses broadcast by

GEORGE McCULLAGH

Publisher of The Globe and Mail

HARD-HITTING, straight-thinking talks on national problems—talks that are both timely and vital—talks that challenge us to a more serious consideration of the problems that face us as individuals and as a nation.

Hear the publisher of The Globe and Mail discuss these questions straight from the shoulder.

An Explanation

Regrettably, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation has declined to permit Mr. McCullagh to hook up the 19 stations which he had engaged into a "five" network. Consequently he has been compelled to broadcast his talk by electrical transcription over all stations excepting CFRB, on which he will give it personally.

IN MEMORIAM

DETCHER.—In loving memory off Father and Mother, who departed this life (Father, December 16, 1922; Mother, January 15, 1937).
Farewell, for the present, farewell,
At most, for a few fleeting years;
For soon with our God we shall dwell,
And know neither sorrow nor tears.
—Daughters, Ella and Camilla.

HILLS.—In loving memory of my dear husband, Charles Hills, who passed away January 14, 1937.
He is gone but not forgotten
And, as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.
Days of sadness will come o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed.
—Ever remembered by Wife and Family.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

"The Authority on Authorities"

LOCATE THE LENGTH

WHEN YOU SHOW your strength with a jump to 2-No trump over your partner's suit bid, you tell him about the power of your high cards, but that is only one of the things he would like to know. He would appreciate learning if you have appreciable length in any one suit, especially if it is a major. By bidding such a suit, and then making a jump rebid if it contains at least five cards, you can tell him about both your strength and your suit length.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

At both tables of a team of four game, South opened the bidding of this deal with 1-Diamond. But there the resemblance ceased. One North player answered with 2-No trump, South bid 3-Clubs, North 3-No trump, and there it rested. East led the spade 5, and the contract was doomed. The declarer could not fail to lose five tricks, no matter how he played.

At the other table North responded to South's 1-Diamond with 1-Heart. After South bid 2-Clubs, he rebid at 3-Hearts, which South lifted to game. This contract was made, plus two overtricks.

Against the heart game, East led his spade 5, North winning. He then ruffed a spade with the heart 6, took in the club A, ruffed another spade with the heart Q, cashed the heart K, re-entered his hand with the diamond K, then led the heart J. When the heart A took that, it was the only trick the defenders got. East's spade return was ruffed, another trump laid down, and club tricks completed an unbid small slam.

UAW Heads Nab Whip Hand From Martin

DETROIT, Jan. 14—(AP).—The executive board of the United Automobile Workers held the upper hand to-day in its clash with President Homer Martin.

The only recourse left for Martin, beaten by the Board three times in two days, apparently was to adhere to his announced intention of carrying his case diectly to the Union's nearly 400,000 claimed members.

As the Board reconvened for the fourth day it had taken no action on Martin's demand that a special convention be called to let the rank and file render a final decision on the strife between Martin forces in the U.A.W. and the opposition.

The Board has taken three steps contrary to the wishes of the Union president this week. Wednesday it removed him as editor of the U.A.W.'s weekly newspaper, the United Automobile Worker. Last night it ordered reinstatement of the officers of Detroit Plymouth Local 51, suspended by Martin last Saturday.

Calls For Counsel.

Then it "urgently invited" the two representatives of Industrial Organization on the C.I.O.-U.A.W. co-ordinating committee to participate in the Board's sessions and "offer counsel in the interests of our union and the entire labor movement."

Martin has demanded that the co-ordinating committee be abolished, arguing that it infringes upon the union's autonomy. Martin and R. J. Thomas, U.A.W. vice-president, are the union's representatives on the committee. The other members are Sidney Hillman and Philip Murray, C.I.O. vice-presidents.

The U.A.W. board said Martin had no authority to take charge of a local and characterized his suspension of the Plymouth local officers as having "every indication of irresponsibility."

In ordering the officers reinstated the board called for an audit of the books. However, Pat McCartney, a pro-Martin leader in the local, said the records would not be surrendered without a court order. Martin charged the local was Communist dominated in suspending its officers.

Concentrated Effort Is Urged Means To Solve Unemployment

A suggestion that the Peterborough Kiwanis club take active steps toward solving the unemployment problem in this city, was advanced at the club's luncheon at the Empress hotel Friday by P. C. McLaren, president of the Belleville Kiwanis club, guest speaker.

Mr. McLaren believed the club should make itself thoroughly familiar with the unemployed in Peterborough, learn why men are out of work and what they are fitted to do. With such information, he thought members could secure employment for several. While such steps would relieve the condition to some degree, by far the most important result would be that such an effort would be sure to encourage other organizations to attempt to alleviate distress in similar fashion. A concentrated effort by a number of organizations, all working to the same end, would result in a great many hopeless persons being restored to positions where they would be of value to the community, he believed. He said his advice followed information received by Secretary John McKone that Toronto headquarters favored such action.

New Fields of Service.

In the course of his address Mr. McLaren stressed the importance of the Kiwanis club looking ever to new fields in which to be of service. No matter what accomplishments members could point to in the past, a successful club must He believed that four or five major fields of endeavour were not enough for any club to concern themselves with, that members must always be on the watch for additional means of service. Unless a community says to itself that it cannot be without a group of men who are united in service, then a club such as Kiwanis has failed in its object, he said. He believed that by attempting to relieve unemployment the club would be doing a great service, not only to the individuals concerned, but to the entire city.

He urged members to retain their confidence in fellow workers in the club, said that without such confidence the club must fail. Each member must work individually for the success of his club as well as collectively, he said. He stresed importance of following the dictates of Kiwanis International, paid tribute to the men there who are striving to inform member clubs all across the continent in ways of becoming of greater worth to their communities.

"We lead in the community, not follow," were his closing words.

The speaker was introduced by Carl S. Browne, who said he was a former lieutenant-governor of his district in Kiwanis "and a future governor." Mr. McLaren is president of the Belleville Kiwanis club, and principal of the Collegiate and Vocational school in that city. J. C. McKone moved the vote of thanks.

Havelock, Elgin Trim Donegal And Westwood

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HAVELOCK, Jan. 14.—There was a double-header on the hockey bill at Norwood Arena on Friday night with four teams in the East Peterborough Rural League putting up some stiff competition. Donegal went down fighting to the Havelock squad by a 4-1 score, while Elgin handed Westwood a 4-2 trimming. Trent River were the only idle team in this group last evening, with Indian River playing at Hastings, where they won over the latter by a 4-2 count.

The first encounter was between Havelock and Donegal, the former stepping out early in the first period to take a commanding lead, and in fact scored all four goals in this stanza. H. Gordon opened the scoring three minutes after the session began on a pass from F. Ellis. Pollock notched a pair and Hagerman one to round out Havelock's scoring.

Westwood, scoreless in the first, came out fighting hard in the second, and finally got their only tally of the night when C. Lochhead scored in a scramble in front of the Havelock net. The second period was livened up considerably when Bedore and Griffith drew penalties for fighting. These were the only penalties of the entire game. There was no scoring in the third and the game ended 4-1.

Doug. Hill starred in goal for Havelock, with Hagerman, Pollock, and H. Gordon also standing out for their team. C. Lochhead, Vanvolkenburg, Starke, and Pearce seemed most effective for the Donegal squad.

Westwood-Elgin Tilt.

The second game of the night was much faster than the first, Westwood and Elgin both displaying plenty of speed and back-checking ability. Play was decidedly clean, only one penalty being handed out to an Elgin player and that on a slight infraction of the rules.

There was no scoring in the first period, good work by the opposing goalies keeping several threatening players off the score sheet. Elgin tallied first on a goal by O'Grady soon after the start of the second, but Rylott evened the count for Westwood before the period ended. Elgin forged ahead in the third, three successive goals by Murphy, O'Grady, and Richardson placing them well on top. Westwood, three goals behind, still kept trying, A. Mortlock finally getting a break near the end of the session to slip one past Preston, making the final count 4-2.

Every member of the Elgin team turned in a good game, with perhaps Goalie Preston, O'Grady, and Metcalfe giving the best account of themselves. Westwood's first line, composed of A. Mortlock, B. Graham, and Warr, were best for the losers.

Next in line on the E.P. Rural schedule will be Havelock at Westwood and Elgin at Donegal on Monday night.

The teams:

Havelock — Goal, Hill; defence, Lade, Hamilton; centre, H. Gordon; wings, F. Ellis, E. Ellis; alternates, Griffith, Williams, Pollock, E. Gordon, Varty, Green, Wrightly, and Hagerman.

Donegal. — Goal, Lockhead; defence, Baker, McGee; centre, Starke; wings, R. Stevenson, W. Buck; alternates, C. Lochhead, Bedore, A. Stevenson, Vanvolkenburg, and Pearce.

Slain Girl Makes Last Trip Home To Mother Clad In Wedding Gown Fiance Gave Her

SUDBURY, Ont., Jan. 14 (CP). —Bullet-torn body of 18-year-old Alice Kroiter, clad in a pale blue evening gown and a bridal coronet upon the head, was sent to Winnipeg today for burial.

The dress, a gay frock of the latest mode with hoop skirts, set off by a pair of silver dancing slippers, was the sort of gown the young woman frequently had said she wanted to be married in. It was the last gift of Eddie Seehegan, her fiance.

Miss Kroiter was shot to death in a rooming house here Tuesday night. John Ungurian, 38-year-old restaurateur, her former employer, is held in custody on a charge of murder. The girl died with two revolver bullets in her heart.

The body was shipped to Miss Kroiter's mother, a former Yorkton, Sask., school teacher now living in Winnipeg.

Mrs. Helen Anaka said the bridal coronet was the custom with Ukrainians.

Madoc Trounces Tweed By 6-5

(Examiner Correspondence.)

TWEED, Jan. 14.— Playing their first interscholastic game of the season the Tweed High school went down to defeat in overtime to Madoc High school by a count of 6-5.

Tweed went into a one goal lead in the first period with G. Wager tallying twice and McCaw once for the home formes with Kellar counting for Madoc, and Stewart once.

Both teams played well, with Hawthorne in the Madoc nets turning in a stellar game, as the Tweel players were in on hm time and again but were unable to dent the twine. In the second period Courneyea tallied for Tweed, while the visitors were held scoreless. Hawthorne went to the boy for tripping.

Tiring under the heavy playing of the first two periods the Tweed players were victims to the heavier team in the las period, with Madoc tying the score, with Naylor, J. Thompson and J. Keller tallying for the visitors and F. Doyle for the home forces. A penalty shot was awarded to Madoc on the last frame, but they were unable to realize a counter on the attempt.

Going into the overtime, the Orange and Blacks from Madoc soon went into the lead with F. Stewart getting the winning goal.

For the home forces, Wager with two goals, and the heavy defence work of Doyle, clever checking and passing of McCaw and Courneyea were the standouts, with Hawthorne in goal, and Stewart with his two counters the best for the visitors.

Madoc—Goal, J. Hawthorne; defence, Hawthorne, Moon; r. wing, Naylor; centre, Keler; l. wing, McAvoy; subs, J. Thompson, McCaw, Thompson, F. Stewart.

Missionary Work Among Indians

The picture sermon Sunday night in St. Andrew's church, entitled "A Chinese Missionary Visits the Indians of Canada." The story is told by Rev. Kenneth Beaton, a missionary secretary in Toronto.

Some years ago Mr. Beaton made a journey through Northern Manitoba to visit the scattered Indians of that section. He carried his camera and took some very interesting pictures of the beautiful Island Lake with its surrounding hills and trees, the little churches and schools of the district, and especially the Indians themselves.

Though these Indians have reservations on which to live, their old instincts for hunting and fishing carry them far afield. We see the sleds, the typical tepee, birch bark cane, the portage burdens, the numerous family and the scattered congregations of this aboriginal people.

Missions to the Indians have been carried on in Canada for over 100 years. Amongst the earliest efforts were those in the Rice Lake district, in which good work was done. Egerton Ryerson was sent to the Credit mission in 1826 where the Mississaugas from the Grand River were establishing a Christian village. The mesage of the Gospel was carried from Rice Lake to Lake Simcoe. Grape Island was sold to the government in 1836-37, and 4,000 acres of land secured at Rice Lake. This new settlement was named Alderville, in honor of Dr. Alder, the British Methodist representative who led the Methodist conference at that time. William Case, James Evans, Peter Jones stand out as heroes of these early missions to the Indians. Evans invented the Cree syllabic dialect which is now in universal use where English is not spoken.

Whilst there is not the same romance in the early Methodist missions as there was in the Jesuit efforts of an earlier date, yet the Methodists have more to show for their labour in real converts to the faith.

Youth's Sobs 'Like Tormented Soul' Stilled By Father's Chloroform

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP).—The sobs of a 17-year-old imbecile boy, "like some tormented soul," were stilled today, as police guarded the father, who they said, admitted administering chloroform to his son because "he's better off dead."

Years of indecision were ended, Louis Greenfield, 42-year-old milliner, told Detective Captain F. J. McVeigh, as the boy, Jerome, inhaled the lethal fumes from saturated handkerchiefs yesterday.

Two months ago, the father told McVeigh, he purchased the chloroform and hid it in a coat pocket.

Samuel Foley, Bronx county district attorney, said Greenfield told him the boy, with the mental age of a two-year-old, had frequent spells, burying his hands in his face and sobbing "like some tormented soul," then collapsing.

Yesterday the boy suffered another spell.

"I got two of my handkerchiefs and saturated them with chloroform," Greenfield was quoted by McVeigh. "Then I held them to his nose for about 15 minutes. He didn't put up any struggle. He just went to sleep.

"I'd been thinking about it for many years. We loved him so much. Many doctors told us he was incurable. It was the benevolent thing to do."

Police inhalator squadsmen, who attempted to revive the boy, said the father watched them, then said, "Don't attempt to revive him. He's better off dead."

"It's a very sad case," Foley commented, as Greenfield was charged with homicide.

Paris Insults Brew War Says Rome

Sets Rebel Victory As Price To End Quarrel With France

ROME, Jan. 16 — (AP).—Italy's anti-French campaign gained new impetus to-day with newspaper threats that Italians might avenge French "insults" with guns.

The press attacks came as Italy made an insurgent victory in the Spanish Civil War the price for settling her quarrel with France over colonial influence in the Mediterranean.

Newspapers unanimously published defiant protests against a statement attributed by the Paris newspaper L'Ordre to an anonymous French officer that 10 Italian soldiers were hardly enough to fight one retired Frenchman.

Virginio Gayda, one of Italy's most responsible editors, wrote that French hatred of Italy was breeding Italian hatred of France until "finally the rifles will go off by themselves."

Although the article in L'Ordre was published last Thursday, indignation in Italy reached full cry only after Prime Minister Chamberlain's departure from his visits to Premier Mussolini.

Newspapers published telegrams from heads of Italian organizations of war veterans to Edouard Guyot, who signed the article, calling him and the unnamed officer he quoted "Low persons" and "Liars."

Heaping Up the Fire.

Gayda, asking whether a "suicidal mania" is moving the French against Italy, declared Italy is "always in the line to defend" her national honor ,"even by arms."

Italy's determination not to settle her quarel with France until the Spanish War ended successfully became apparent with publication by the Foreign Office of an Informazione Diplomatica bulletin. The bulletin outlined what Musolini told Mr. Chamberlain in their conversations last week.

Some diplomatic circles thought the stiffening Italian attitude was a consequence of encouraging insurgent advances in the Barcelona offensive. They also saw again a danger that the Spanish conflict could become a general European war.

Mussolini told the British Prime Minister, said the foreign office bulletin quoting "responsible Roman circles," that specifically the Italian quarrel with France could not be settled until after the Spanish war because "the Spanish question has divided and still divides profoundly the two countries".

Italy is prepared furthermore to send even more Italian fighters to the Spanish insurgent army, if France or other democracies suddenly embark upon a program of large scale aid to the Barcelona government.

Fire Destroyed Old Church At Mt. Pleasant

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MOUNT PLEASANT, Jan. 16. — Fire of unknown origin swept through the old Methidst church, a landmark in this village, and completely destroyed it last night.

Complete lack of fire-fighting equipment made any attempt to save the building impossible, and large numbers of volunteer workers drawn to the scene by a general telephone alarm, confined their efforts to saving furnishings from the building. Not even water was available at the north end where the church is situated on a hill-top overlooking the rest of the village. All furnishings, even the pews, were saved, but the church itself was completely destroyed.

Has Not Been in Use.

The church has been in disuse for several years. It was used as a place of worship for about three years following church union, but has been idle since that time. Close to 100 years old, it was entirely of brick, was one of the oldest buildings in the village. It carried no insurance.

The fire broke out in a long shed adjoining the church, in which had been stored a quantity of hay, shortly after nine o'clock in the evening. When first observed by residents of the north end of the village, the fire was sweeping through the entire length of the shed. Sparks flew to the roof of the church, and it was soon ablaze in several places. Most inhabitants of Mount Pleasant were in bed and by the time they, and residents of the surrounding country who had been drawn to scene by telephone alarm, had arrived at the church it was burning strongly. No attempt could be made to extinguish the fire. Fortunately wind was in a direction away from the village or possibly many other homes would have been destroyed.

Britain Backs U.S., France Against Recognizing Japan's Changes In China

Warns Tokyo In Note U.K. Is Standing By Nine-Power Pact Principles; Deplores Results Of Nipponese Invasion

(By Witt Hancock, Associated Press Staff Writer.)

LONDON, Jan. 16 (AP).—Great Britain, the United States and France were believed firmly allied today in a mutual stand against recognizing Jap's "changes by force" in China.

Just as Prime Minister Chamberlain returned from his conversations in Rome with Premier Mussolini, the British Foreign Office yesterday released the text of its strongest note to Tokyo since the Chinese - Japanese conflict broke out.

The communication was similar in tone to one sent by the United States on October 6 asking the Japanese government to "implement its assurances already given with regard to the maintenance of the open door and non-interference with American rights."

France, informed persons said, was expected to follow in the footsteps of the other two democracies with a similar note, as a signatory of the 1922 pact in which China, Japan, Great Britain, France, the United States, Italy, Belgium, Portugal and the Netherlands pledged respect for Chinese territorial integrity and maintenance of the open door for trade.

The British Note.

The British note, handed to the Tokyo government Saturday by Sir Robert Craigie, British Ambassador, said in part:

"His Majesty's government are at a loss to understand how (former Japanese Premier) Prince Konoy's assurance that Japan seeks no territory and respects the sovereignty of China can be reconciled with the declared intention of the Japanese government to compel the Chinese people by force of arms to accept conditions involving surrender of their political, economic and cultural life to Japanese control, indefinite maintenance in China of considerable Japanese garrisons and virtual detachment from China of territory in Inner Mongolia.

"For their part, His Majesty's government desires to make it clear that they are not prepared to accept or to recognize changes of the nature indicated which are brought about by force.

"They intend to adhere to the principles of the nine-power treaty and cannot agree to unilateral modification of its terms."

Mr. Chamebrlain conferred today with his close advisers prior to a full cabinet meeting Wednesday when he is to report on his Rome talks.

He also was drafting a statement of his foreign policy in preparation for the reassembling of parliament Jan. 31.

The Spanish Threat

The Spanish civil war headed the many problems facing the prime minister. Some British quarters, especially worried about the position of Gibraltar, felt concern over a warning to democracies by Premier Mussolini to "keep hands off" Spain. Should Insurgent General Franco win in Spain Fascist guns would command the vital Gibraltar gateway to the Mediterranean.

Mr. Chamberlain and Premier Mussolini exchanged telegrams of appreciation. The Briton wired Mussolini:—

England, Ireland Rocked By 8 Explosions

LONDON, Jan. 16—(AP).—Scotland Yard officers today worked on a theory that the illegal Irish republican army organization might be responsible for a series of eight explosions in England and Northern Ireland.

One blast, attributed to a bomb, rocked the central control room of the electricity board in Southwark which serves southeastern England. It shattered hundreds of windows in the neighborhood and startled residents in a two-mile radius, but did not disrupt services.

Another occurred in a cable bridge over the Grand Junction canal at Harlesden in Northwestern London. Three blasts shook Manchested. One workman was killed and two others injured in fighting flames in gas mains in Manchester after one explosion. The man killed was Albert Ross.

The sixth explosion occurred at Crosby, near Liverpool. There were two others in Belfast late this afternoon. The London and Manchester blasts occurred all within a few minutes of each other, making police believe organized saboteurs were responsible.

Blasts Near Prison

The Belfast explosions came in quick succession near Belfast prison, where the Northern Ireland government has interned 34 men charged with responsibility for explosions on the Northern Ireland-Eire border. There were no casualties. The men are held without trial under the Northern Ireland special powers act.

Belfast police linked the explosions with those in England and authorities in both countries believed yesterday's placards in Dublin and Belfast demanding the removal of British officials and troops from all Ireland were significant in view of today's outrages.

The police did not connect today's blasts with one yesterday in the laboratory of a British government scientist.

Power Charges Reduced $429,000 In Eastern Ontario System In Past Two Years, Rotarians Told

Reductions in power charges of the eastern Ontario system of the Hydro-Electric Commission amounted to nearly $500,000 for the years 1936 and 1937, with the general trend continuing to the advantage of consumers. J. Albert Smith, member of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission who was appointed a little more than a year ago, told Peterborough Rotary Club and its guests at the weekly luncheon in the Empress Hotel today.

The municipalities of eastern Ontario were charged in 1937 some $253,000 less than they would have paid under the rates of 1936, and $429,000 less than they would paid under the rates of 1935, Mr. Smith said as a most significant improvement in the decreased cost of power as a basic factor to efficient and successful industry.

Within the municipalities comprising the Eastern Ontario system the local utilities distributed in 1937 among their customers a total of $134,442 in reductions of rates and in refunds, and a further amount of $104,000 in 1938.

Picnic Chaser Shivers From 2.30-7 a.m. To Book First Park

Toronto, Jan. 16 (CP)

JOHN REID, his thoughts on summer holidays and sunny skies, shivered in front of Toronto City Hall today from 2.30 a.m. until shortly after 7 in order to be the first in 1939 to book a picnic at one of the city's parks for next summer.

On the first day for receiving applications for picnic areas 75 men and women stood in the chilly street when the doors opened at 7.10 a.m.

Second in line was R. F. Hunter who came at 4 a.m. and third was T. W. Parsons, who arrived 10 minutes later. By noon almost 200 areas were reserved.

Gun Road Full With Refugees

BARCELONA, Jan. 16. —(AP)— Insurgent planes smashed at a 15-mile circle around this besieged government capital today. They dropped half-ton bombs and were reported to have strafed the refugee-packed road from Tarragona with machine-gun bullets. The number of dead was unestimated.

Six towns wre bombed and machine-gunned in the path of the insurgent advance toward Barcelona. Twelve miles south of Barcelona a bomb hit a civil hospital and destroyed the operating room. Five attendants were hurt.

With General Franco's troops little more than 30 miles away, five insurgent bombers roared over Barcelona in the early afternoon as refugees stood in long queues at food distribution centres.

The planes dropped 20 large bombs 10 of which fell into the sea. Five persons were wounded as the refugees scattered in panic. Anti-aircraft guns pounded out the city's reply.

Five government pursuit planes followed the bombers as they disappeared in a northwesterly direction after the raid, which was aimed at vessels bringing food supplies to Barcelona.

The city was fully alive to the dangers from Franco's armies. The government made no attempt to conceal the retreat from Tarragona, on the main coastal road from the south. The streets were filled with refugees from the fast-encroaching zone of war and recruits headed for the front.

Six Toronto Shops Robbed Inside 77 Minutes; Police Lose Every Chase

Raids On Same Chain Follow 3 Other Breakins All By 4 Men In Stolen Grey Sedan; Pursuers Led 80 M.P.H. Past Stop Lights

TORONTO, Jan. 16 (CP).—Within one hour and 17 minutes four men in a stolen car broke into six Langley's, Ltd., shops in the north and east ends of the city early today and obtained a total loot of $326.26.

Earlier, the same car had participated in three other store robberies, in two cases accompanied by another auto containing five men. It is believed they got nothing in these raids.

Several times police chased the big grey "phantom car" which was spotted at different points, but each time the police cars proved too slow and, travelling over icy roadways at speeds ranging to 90 M.P.H., the robbers made good their escape.

In each of the break-ins the same technique was used. A crow-bar was used to smash open the front door and within a few moments the thieves had entered the store, smashed open the till and were on their way to commit other crimes.

All Police Cars Out.

The police radio dispatcher directed the hunt for the four men, who were believed to be armed. Every radio car in the city was pressed into the search.

In addition to the break-ins at the six Langley stores, it is believed that the same men broke into a cleaniteria shop on Dundas Street West about 1.15 a.m. and, with five other men in another car, broke into a grocery store at 3.30 a.m.

The car was stolen last night from in front of Brooker's Barbecue on the Lakeshire Road in Etobicoke Township. The plate were removed and another set—648N2—which were stolen in Brampton substituted.

At 1.21 a.m. the grey car used in the robberies was noticed acting suspiciously near an apartment house on Avenue Road. It had disappeared when a police radio car arrived on the spot.

Shortly after the same car, was seen at St. Clair and Lansdowne Avenue. It was chased by a Keele Street police cruiser, It outdistanced the police car.

An 80 M.P.H. Chase.

At 5.45 a.m. Police Sergeant Smuck and Constables Head and Glover sighted the "phantom car" and a smaller but powerful auto outside a wine shop on Bathurst Street. Two men were standing in the doorway of the store and jumped into the grey car at the approach of police.

The smaller auto wheeled about and turned south, while the grey car headed north, with the police in pursuit. Both the bandit car and the police cruiser went through all red lights on Bathurst Street from

Old Lumber Boss Giles Stone Is Fatally Hurt

Pioneer resident of Burleigh township and prominent in the lumbering industry in this district for more than a half a century, Giles Stone, 88, of 420 Sheridan street was fatally injured in a traffic accident on Park Street on Saturday afternoon. Despite an emergency operation performed Sunday morning by Dr. R. K. Magee the veteran lumberman died shortly after 9 o'clock this morning in Nicholls Hospital, from a fracture of the skull.

Stone was hit by a car driven by Gordon C. Tollington, 525 Weller street as he was crossing Park street just south of King street at 4.20 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Tollington told police that as he approached the intersection he saw the aged man about to cross the street from the east side to the west, south of the corner. He blew his horn and Stone apparently became confused for he started toward the west, then went back toward the east curb and then just as the automobile was about to pass him he suddenly ran toward the west again and was struck by the right front fender of the car and hurled to the ground, his head striking the road heavily.

Skull Fractured.

The injured man was taken to Nicholls Hospital where it was found he was suffering from a fracture of the right side of the skull and paralysis of the left side of the face. An operation was performed Sunday morning but little hope was held out for recovery from the beginning.

The late Giles Stone was widely-known in the city and district. For many years he was woods superintendent with the old Dickson Company and afterward with the Peterborough Lumber Company and he also hired many lumbermen in this district for the camps on the north shore. Not big in stature he was a successful "shanty boss" in the old days when the man in charge of the camps had to be the best man in the outfit.

The Stone family was the first to take up land in Burleigh township when that township was opened.

The late Giles Stone had lived all his life in this district. His parents coming here from the United States. He was a member of St. John's Anglican Church and the Canadian Order of Foresters.

Surviving relatives are a daughter Mrs. George Chadwick of Richmond Hill and a son D'Eyncourt Stone, Toronto.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock from the funeral home of A. Comstock and Sons, Water street to Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. Canon W. P. Robertson of St. John's Church will officiate.

Bucket Brigade Fails At Haliburton Fire

LINDSAY, Jan. 16— (CP). — The home of Mrs. Hutchings, of Haliburton, opposite the Community Hall was destroyed by fire early today. Hundreds of villagers formed a bucket brigade and toiled for hours passing pails of water back and forth in an effort to halt the blaze. In spite of their efforts the frame building was finally destroyed. Cause of the fire was unknown.

Quick work by residents called to the scene by the ringing of the curfew bell and shots from a gun carried by Emerson Austin, saved the Austin home and the nearby house and garage owned by C. Haggan.

Tucker, of Cochrane, who investigated the death of the infant daughter of John Heikkala, Finnish settler in the dense bush of Eilber township.

Heikkala told his story to the coroner Saturday.

His wife, now in hospital at Hearst, became suddenly ill in the lonely cabin, miles from the nearest railway station. He made her as comfortable as he could on the sleight and started the long trek to Hearst.

As the sleigh moved slowly along the rough rode, used by settlers to haul pulpwood, Mrs. Heikkala gave birth to a child. Heikkala first became aware of the birth when he heard the infant's cries.

With only coarse blankets, straw and the feverish warmth of its mother's body to keep it warm, the child soon perished in the sub-zero cold.

Only Mother Reaches Hospital.

The settler's team plodded on to the flag station at Parthia and there the mother and the body of her child were placed on the train for Hearst.

Dr. Tucker decided no inquest was necessary. He deplored what he said was the high infant mortality rate in the sparsely-settled north.

"In many cases deaths are caused by the fact the settler is unable to pay the cost of having the doctor come to his out-of-the-way home to attend the sick,'" he said. "Transportation difficulties prevent the sick going to the doctor.

"The high mortality rate among infants in the unsettled sections of Northern Ontario is a problem which will have to be met by the authorities sooner or later."

Not 10,000 Transients Wandering Canada Says Howe

Ottawa, Jan. 16 (CP)

THERE are less than 10,000 transients in Canada, Labor Minister Rogers said in a statement last night denying published reports that there are 80,000 wandering homeless.

"Less than 10,000" is a "very liberal estimate of the situation at the present time," the minister said. It was based on material obtained from all provinces and the two national railway systems.

"Moreover," the minister added, "while these men are without homes where they are now located, in many cases they have homes to go to in other parts of Canada.

Snow In North Aids Roads

Milder weather, accompanied by snowfall, was general in most of Southern and Eastern Ontario today. In Northern Ontario, where nearly two inches of snow fell during the weekend, roads were in better shape for motor traffic than they have been for some time.

From a low of 16 during the night, the temperature at Galt had risen 10 degrees by 10 o'clock. The light snow did not hamper traffic.

Belleville reported heaviest snowfall of the year had started. Kingston reported the mercury just a few degrees below freezing point. Roads around the city were bare.

In Sudbury gangs were busy clearing snow from drains and curbs. The Sudbury-North Bay highway was reported in good shape, the snow having covered stretches of ice and filled in rough surfaces. The Sudbury-Sault Ste. Marie stretch was reported easy navigating.

Brantford, Kitchener and Stratford reported snowfalls but they were not heavy enough to interfere with traffic.

Traffic on Niagara boulevard, Fort Erie to Niagara Falls, was going slowly because of the icy pavement. The same condition prevailed on No. 3 highway between Port Colborne and Fort Erie. Snow was falling in the Niagara Peninsula today.

Lakeview Strikers Win Over Conant In His Appeal To Supreme Court

OTTAWA, Jan. 16 — (C.P.). — The Supreme Court of Canada today quashed an appeal by the Ontario Attorney-General against allowance of an appeal by seven Lakeview, Ont., relief strikers on grounds there was no dissent in the Ontario Court of Appeal.

The motion to quash the appeal was made by Arthur Roebuck, on behalf of the seven persons, originalilly convicted of unlawful assembly.

He based his motion on the contention there had been no dissent in the Ontario Court of Appeal, so there could be no appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

The Ontario Court of Appeal for that hearing had consisted of Mr. Justice W. R. Riddell, Mr. Justice R. G. Fisher, and Mr. Justice C. A. Masten.

Justice Masten said when judgment was pronounced, that the decision was "doubtful." After a first court order had been made, sealed and signed by the Court Registrar, and was on its way to the Brampton Jail to release the prisoners, Justice Masten had altered his judgment to dissent from the majority of the court.

Argument before the court to-day centered on what constituted an effective dissent and whether one judge could amend an appeal court-judgment pronounced in open court. C. A. Magone of the Ontario Attorney-General's Department opposed the motion.

Nazis To Exploit Turkish Oil, Gold In New 60 Million Trade Deal

BERLIN, Jan. 16 (AP). — Germany and Turkey today signed a credit agreement by which 150,000,000 marks ($60,000,000) was made available to the Turkish government for purchase of German industrial products.

At the same time Germany appointed her first Minister plenipotentiary to the kingdom of Saudi Arabia. The Hanover newspaper Hanniverscher Kurier said Germany intended to help exploit oil wells and gold mines of that country.

The credit to Turkey was negotiated during a visit to Walther Funk, German Economics Minister to Ankara last October. (A short time before Great Britain had granted Turkey credits of £16,000,000, equal to about $74,720,000).

A Turkish delegation came here to complete details of the agreement. The official German news agency said the negotiations were quickly concluded "in a friendly spirit." The agency predicted that the agreement "will contribute toward the expanding and deepening close economic relationship already existing between two friendly states."

Dr. Fritz Grobba is the new Minister to Saudi Arabia. He also will retain his present post as Minister to Iraq.

Pas Robberies Shake Unwritten Law Of 'Open Cabin Door'

The Pas, Man., Jan. 16 (CP)

THE "OPEN DOOR" in the north country where it has always been the unwritten law to leave cabin doors unlocked soon may be but a memory.

"The north is getting civilized," is the cry of old-timers after scanning police reports which show three robberies in The Pas in a week.

Many residents here never locked their house doors. "I guess they'll have to change this attitude," said a pioneer.

Many lives have been saved by the "open door" in the north where lost trappers or prospectors were always free to enter a cabin, finding shelter and food,

Loyalists Pin Hopes On Secret Line

Tarragona's Fall Puts Rebels 37 Miles Away From Barcelona

HENDAYE, France, Jan. 16—(AP)—Jubilant insurgent army columns installed themselves in positions east of strategic Tarragona today for a new attack against a secret defence line barring their way to Barcelona and the possible end of the Spanish civil war.

The capture yesterday of Tarragona, second city of Catalonia, put insurgent advance guards within 56 miles along the Mediterranean coast from the government capital and within 37 miles of Barcelona along the interior front.

Report reaching the frontier said insurgent field commanders know there is a second government defence line between Tarragona and Barcelona, although they lack exact information about its precise location and strength.

The Barcelona administration indicated its confidence in the defences by announcing its militiamen had withdrawn from Tarragona to "prepared positions situated east of the Valls-Tarragona line." Military observers calculated that the line probably would be located in mountainous areas between Vendrell and Igualada.

The almost unhindered advance of insurgent General Franco's columns into ancient Tarragona followed three days of consistent gains in the Catalonian campaign that started Dec. 23.

Insurgent reports said the main attacking corps of Navarrese soldiers fought its way through the government's rear guard to the gates of the provincial capital. After reaching that position, the column swung eastward to the Gaya river about three and a half miles distant and then began a slow march back west.

No Resistance

The shock troops were astonished these reports said, when they did not encounter any resistance and were forced to concern themselves principally in turning back a long stream of refugees fleeing the supposed battle zone.

Insurgent headquarters announced that revised figures of the Catalonian campaign showed they had taken control of 2,789.5 square miles of territory since the drive toward Barcelona began.

Insurgent statisticians said 82 villages were captured yesterday while the Tarragona advance was going on. Many of the occupations came in the central sector directly east of Perida where the insurgent front line was inside Barcelona province near Bellpratt about 37 miles from Barcelona.

The principal objective in the central front is the village of Cervera on the Lerida-Barcelona highway Cervera was reported under siege late yesterday.

Military observers saw little immediate danger to the government capital itself and said the withdrawal from Tarragona indicated that it might be part of a plan to make the most determined stand along the natural line of mountain defences near the provincial border.

Barcelona ordered the people of Seo De Urgel, just south of the French frontier, to leave the town within 24 hours.

Public Library Is In New Quarters

(Examiner Correspondence.)

MILLBROOK, Jan. 16.—The Public Library moved this week into its new quarters, on the north side of King street, formerly occupied by the local telephone exchange, a free gift of the deed of the building having been made to the Library Board through the generosity of the former owner, Dr. H. A. Turner.

Patrons appreciate the change, since it means that entrance to the present library is made directly from the street, doing away with the climb up the somewhat long stairs.

The new room is generaus in size, well lighted, with oiled, hardwood floor, sufficient space for the table used by the librarian, Miss Margaret Armstrong, and for the reading tables, and enough wall space to readily accommodate the book cases, and shelves.

Power Charges

thews, chairman of the Peterborough Utilities Commission, who said Mr. Smith was regarded as the representative of the municipalities on the Commission, Mr. Smith emphasized the fact which he believed was being lost sight of by the people of Ontario, namely that great Hydro-Electric enterprise of this province belong entirely to themselves. In the Eastern Ontario system alone the people's investment has amounted to more than $30,000,000, with a future that can be visualized with optimism. Power is available in sufficient quantity for the developments that are likely to take place for some years. Power charges have reached the lowest levels in history, and manufacturers looking for attractive places in which to locate will find a strong economic inducement in Peterborough and elsewhere in Eastern Ontario, Mr. Smith said.

Increased Power Demand.

During the period from December 1929 to December 1937, Mr. Smith continued, the primary peak demand for power in Eastern Ontario increased by nearly 40 per cent, from 90,255 horse power to 124,718, and this expansion took place during a time of extreme economic depression.

"So far as the power load is concerned, the operations in this part of the province have been more spectacular and impressive than of any other area. In November of last year the Eastern Ontario system's peak reached 131,066 h.p., an amount greatly exceeding previous records. An dthat trend is apparently continuing."

At the same time, Mr. Smith said, the net debt of the municipalities has declined. "In 1929 the percentage of net debt to total assets in the Hydro municipalities of Ontario averaged 47.8. By the end of 1937 this had dropped to 25.2. During that same period the percentage of net debt in Eastern Ontario to its total assets declined from 43.1 to 14. "This is a record in which municipal and provincial Hydro may well take pride."

Within the period from 1929 to 1937 the Commission returned to the municipalities of Eastern Ontario $870,000. In each year there was a net return to the communities comprising the system. During the year of the depression, Mr. Smith stated, some municipalities in Ontario unfortunately sank into bankruptcy, and their administration had to be assumed by the provincial government. On the other hand, during that same time and its conditions not one municipal Hydro utility in the province defaulted on its obligations. Not one of them failed to pay its way, a record. Mr. Smith declared to be amazing.

Low Cost Important.

The fact that the people of Ontario paid $49,500,000 for Hydro service in 1937 suggested the possibly tremendous effect from even a slight change in power charges, even to the extent of a fraction of a cent per kilowatt-hour would reflect millions of dollar in the purchasing power of the public.

"I am happy to be able to say that power charges in Ontario compare very favorably with those in less favored communities. The average charge to domestic consumers in the United States is more than three times as high as that collected in Ontario. In the last twenty-five years our Ontario rates were divided in three, and across the border they reduced by only a little more than 40 p.m." Mr. Smith said that fact was more significant because of the greater concentration of population in United States centres compared with Ontario. And as demand naturally increased with population, so should the rates show a corresponding decrease, because there should be a tendency towards a reduction in cost where the supply and the business was in greater proportion.

Mr. Smith stated that if the difference in industrial rates were the same as those mentioned for domestic consumers the total would add $99,000,000 to Ontario power costs, that if the rates were similar to those in the United States. And at that rate industry in this province would perish.

Rotary's Guests.

Mr. Smith's manner of address accentuated the interest of his factual review and presentation. His style is crisp and smooth, and brightened by frequent use of pointed stories and anecdotes. He spoke at some length of the changes electricity had brought into the lives of the people of this country, and this extending to small hamlets and to farms in many sections.

Alderman Dutton, presided, and among Rotary's guests for this occasion were Judge S. L. Smoke, Mayor Hamilton, Alex Elliott, M.L.A., Gordon Matthews, Roland Denne, E. R. Shirley, the three members of Peterboro's Utilities Commission; J. R. Marshall, chairman of the Board of Education; H. Gainey, chairman of the Separate School Board; Reeve James Milby, North Monaghan; Reeve A. B. Mann of Smith; G. Hewitt, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Reeve W. A. Anderson, Otonabee; Reeve M. P. Coughlin, Douro, and most of the members of the city council.

The Eagle Loses

DENVER, Jan. 16 — (AP).—The mighty eagle no longer rules the air above the Colorado Rockies. One monarch of the crags went out to battle three fearsome-looking invaders on Saturday and crashed to death against the wing of an army attack plane near Pueblo, Colo. The three planes were doing about 275 miles an hour when the eagle tackled one piloted by Lieut. C. E. Putnam. "He drove straight at me, like an attacking plane," Lieut Putnam said.

500,000 Pennies Reach Newfoundland, Stop Banks Giving Matches For Odd Cents

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Jan. 16 (CP Cable)—A shortage of pennies in Newfoundland ended today after the arrival of 500,000 one-cent pieces. Struck in England, the new issue was brought here Saturday aboard the steamship Newfoundland.

The shortage, resulting from old coins not being replaced, was first recognized about a year ago when the commissioner of finance made arrangements for a new issue.

Since then the scarcity became more noticeable in the outports where people had difficulty in getting odd cents when they cashed cheques. At one outport a bank substituted boxes of matches for odd cents if the presenter of the cheque cared to accept.

The new pieces are smaller than older coins and are about the size of Canadian and United States pennies. The new issue bears the design of the pitcher plant, a common Newfoundland herb.

JOHN BEAMISH.

(Examiner Correspondence.)

HASTINGS, Jan. 16.—The funeral of the late John Beamish, prominent Percy resident, was held on Friday from his late residence, to St. George's Anglican church, Hastings, when his pastor, Rev. Wm. Stocks, conducted the service.

The church was crowded with friends from Norwood, Roseneath, Castleton, Harwood, Peterborough, Woodville, Dartford and Warkworth.

Rev. Stocks chose his text from 1 Thessalonians, 4-13, and also spoke of the noble qualities of the deceased and of his faithfulness to his Master, even until the end when he was ready for the call and passed peacefully away. The hymns were 'Abide With Me,' 'Forever With the Lord, and 'Paradise, Oh Paradise,' the latter requested by the family.

Deceased, had he lived until the Monday, would have celebrated his 88th birthday. During this long period of time he resided on the farm where he was born and died. He was remarkably alert for his age and never once had a doctor until his last illness. Fifty-six years ago Mr. Beamish was united in marriage to Frances Smith, a school teacher from near Belleville, who came as a young bride to the farm, where they toiled and sacrificed to make a home for their children. Dukelow of Woodville and Mrs. Wm. Puffer of the Cobourg Road, and one son, John, at home.

Interment was in the Trent Valley cemetery.

22-Year-Old Flint Statute Never Carried Out May See 16,000 Escape Paying Rent

FLINT, Mich., Jan. 16 — (CP). —City officials of Flint were appalled to-day to learn 16,000 residents here had been breaking a civic ordinance for 22 years and that wholesale refusals to pay rent might follow discovery of an old and forgotten civic statute.

Someone dug up a Housing Act which made obtaining a Health Department certificate mandatory upon construction or re-modelling of a house here. The law, adopted in 1917, has never been enforced but never repealed.

Officials said fines ranging from $20 to $250 could be levied and any person renting a house built or remodelled since 1917, the owner of which had not received an approval certificate, could refuse legally to pay rent and any action for rent would fail.

Queen to Bloor at an 80-mile-an-hour speed.

One police officer said: "They just walked away from us. Our car wasn't fast enough."

The grey car was seen and chased on several other occasions between then and 7.35 a.m., but always the pursuers were eluded. Later it was recovered in a ditch in North York.

Several sets of licence plates were stolen in Brampton some time ago and police believed that one of these sets was used on the stolen car during the robberies. They believe that the robbers may have substituted another set of markers after they shook off the police.

Leaside Attempt Foiled.

Police later linked an attempted robbery at the Loblaw Groceteria in Leaside, just outside the city limits, with the same gang. The gang attempted to move an 800-pound safe from the store, but were frightened off when a citizen noticed them and called police who arrived just in time to see the men drive off.

A 60-mile-an-hour chase followed but the burglars outdistanced the police car.

The safe had been dragged almost to the sidewalk. It contained all Saturday's receipts of the store.

The Windsor Killers?

TORONTO, Jan. 16—(CP).—The Evening Telegram said today in a front page story:

"A gang of thugs desperate for money is the same mob responsible for the murder of Jimmy Windsor, police are convinced after a series of robberies last night.

"Only a desperate bunch of men needing money perhaps to get out of the city would take such chances with an intense police investigation going on," a detective told the Telegram.

When they find the gang that led them a frenzied chase last night they will find the slayers of Jimmy Windsor, he was sure.

(Jimmy Windsor, Toronto bookmaker, was slain in his home by a gang of four men a week ago Saturday night.)

Note Bandit Back

TORONTO, Jan. 16—(CP).—A Toronto "note bandit" today presented his written demand for all cash in the till of a hosiery shop and walked off with $20.

One of a series of such robberies, the bandit displayed no gun, but his note said: "Hand over the money or I'll shoot."

Madeline Benson, store attendant, said he held out an envelope for her to put the cash into. The bandit then told her to go to the rear of the shop and walked out.

This is the fourth "note" robbery to occur in Toronto hosiery shops in the past week. Police are working on the theory they were all staged by one bandit.

Win For Rebels May Cost France Tunisia

GENEVA, Jan. 16 (AP) — The fiery Spanish government foreign minister, Julio Alvarez Del Vayo, seized upon the French-Italian quarrel over Africa today to warn France that an Insurgent victory in Spain might cost her Tunisia.

The official Italian Informazione Diplomatica in Rome said Premier Mussolini would talk with France only after the Spanish war ended, and that gave Del Vayo his fuel.

The Spanish foreign minister came to Geneva for the League of Nations council session and arrived just as Viscount Halifax and Georges Bonnet, the British and French foreign ministers, finished a long conference.

Their spokesmen said both were pleased with Mussolini's assurances that he had no territorial designs on Spain. Del Vayo, however, with his government mobilizing all its resources trying to halt General Franco's fast and powerful drive toward Barcelona, argued that if the Insurgents won in Spain, Mussolini's bottom price for a settlement with France would rise far higher and might go as high as a demand for Tunisia, the French African protectorate.

Mussolini, he warned the French delegation, likely would leave his troops in Spain under the pretense of keeping military order in conquered areas. Then Mussolini could wave a potent diplomatic-military club over France.

Put Italy On Atlantic.

Spain, he said, would give Italy not only sea and air bases to cut French empire lines in the Mediterranean but would place Italy on the Atlantic side of Gibraltar.

Spanish sources said Del Vayo planned to incorporate this argument in his speech at the opening public session of the League council.

There were reports in League circles that Great Britain and France were talking over the prospects of trying to end the Italian colonial clamor with an offer of free port privileges in Djibouti, French Somaliland, and Zella, British Somaliland, a share in Suez canal management and reduced rates in the canal, and rights for Italians in Tunisia equal to those of French residents.

A possible British loan to Italy, either directly or through Insurgent Spain, to pay part of the insurgent debt in Rome for war materials, was said to be considered.

It was not apparent, however, how this scheme would be regarded now that Rome has made public her determination to see an end to the war before taking up the French quarrel. (Diplomatic circles in Rome believed the plan would be received with coolness, if it every were offered formally.)

3 Cobourg District Homes Are Entered

COBOURG, Ont., Jan. 14 — (C. P.). — Three district farm homes were broken into during the weekend.

Provincial Constable A. L. Mennie of Cobourg reported to-day $13 and some food were stolen on Sunday from the home of Aaron Gifford, Hope Township, north of Port Hope. The residence of William Jibb, Camborne, a few miles north of Cobourg, was entered the same day and $4 stolen. Another break-in took place at the home of James Clark, north-west of Port Hope, where some clothing was stolen. A mitt which had been taken from Clark's house was found in Jibb's house.
